MTN. LAUREL GARDEN CLUB READIES FOR ANNUAL TOUR – The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will host its fifth annual garden tour on Saturday, June 26, featuring the grounds of four area residences. Plans are being finalized for the annual event by the club's tour committee, pictured above. The featured properties in this year's Secret Country Gardens will be those of Dave and Judy Bertsch, George and Madeleine Collins, Marlene and Randall Glass, and Hopwood and Karen Wooddell. Tickets, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, may be purchased in advance at three locations: Gregg's Pharmacy and Green Acres Garden Center, both in Oakland, and Nature's Own in McHenry, along Sang Run Road. On the day of the tour, members of the Garrett County Historical Society will sell tickets at the gazebo in Oakland. The tickets are $7 each. Proceeds from the tour will be used by the garden club for continued beautification of local communities, as well as for the encouragement of gardening and sound conservation practices through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the historical society. For more information about the tour, persons may contact Barbara Chesley at 301-334-4519 or Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. Pictured seated are Jackie Johnson (left) and Barbara Sanders. Standing, from left, are Carole Steele, Norma Hesen, Betsy Whittelsey, Joanne Durst, Carol Speranzella, Barbara Chesley (chairperson), and Maureen Mielenz. Not present for the photo were Judy Finkel, Kathleen Glass, and Judy McLeod.

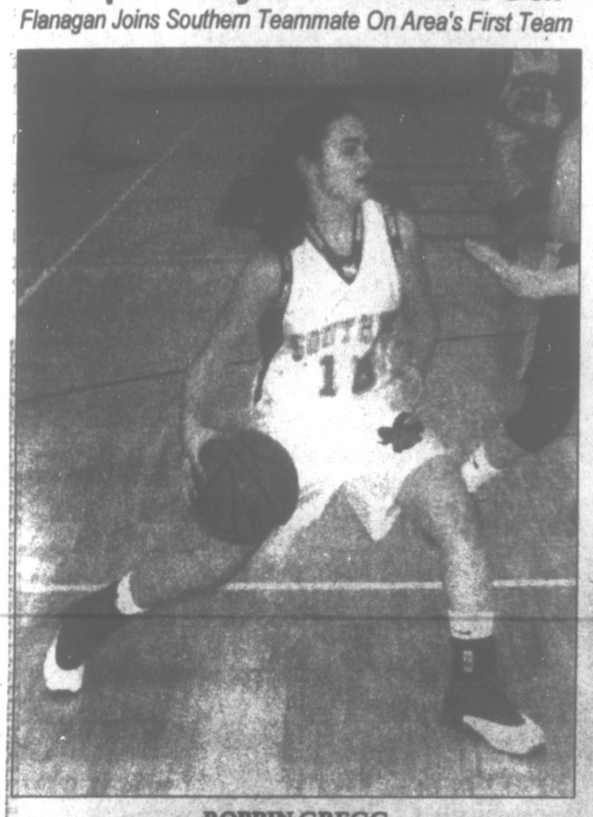
Gregg Named Area, WMIL Hoops' Player Of The Year

Flanagan Joins Southern Teammate On Area's First Team



ROBBIN GREGG

BECCA FLANAGAN

JUSTINE PAGENHARDT

Four-year Southern High School girls' basketball starting guard Robbin Gregg has earned All-Area and Western Maryland Interscholastic League Player of the Year honors. The announcements mark the senior's second straight season of All-Area First Team recognition, and the second consecutive campaign that led to the WMIL's top player award.

Joining Gregg on the All-Area First Team was Ram teammate Becca Flanagan, who narrowly missed garnering the top individual honor for herself. SHS's Justine Pagenhardt earned All-Area Second Team recognition.

Flanagan and Pagenhardt were included on the WMIL First Team along with Gregg.

The trio of senior SHS starters helped lead the Rams to a 23-4 mark this season, and presented longtime coach Don Stemple with a retirement gift of his first-ever state championship.

In addition to Gregg, Flanagan, and Pagenhardt, the All-Area First Team featured Frankfort's Julie Cessna, Pendleton's Liz Bowers, and Petersburg's Kate Lambert.

Rounding out the league's First Team were WMIL scoring champion Kacey Kahl of Beall, Erin Wilson of Allegany, and Tamisa Page of Fort Hill.

Several other Garrett County basketball players earned post-season accolades, as Second Team league honors went to Northern High's Lyndsi Butler, who averaged 11.4 points per game on the circuit, good for eighth place. NHS Husky Jeseca Gibson and SHS's Sabrina Scheffel were noted on the WMIL's Honorable Mention list.

Noted for her cool head on the court, and a fast and fluid style of play, Gregg was fourth on the Area scoring list at 16.3 points per game, and was runner-up in the WMIL tally at 17.3 ppg. Her 75 and 79 free-throw shooting percentages in Area and league play, respectively, paced one of the best team marks in the state.

"Robbin created so many problems with her speed and good shooting," Stemple commented. "Opponents used their best defensive player on her, and no teams could press us effectively because of her ballhandling. She was a very unselfish player, and a student of the game who consistently made good decisions."

Gregg was one of the most productive players in Southern history on both ends of the court, as she holds career marks of 445 assists and 212 steals, both good for second place in career ranks, a third-place tally of 1,292 points, and fourth place in steals with 212.

"Robbin led by example and I don't remember her having a bad practice," said Stemple. "She is a fighter and gutsy type of kid. I would be surprised if any other player in the area has spent more time on basketball than Robbin has since the fourth grade. She worked on other things, too, like spending time in the weight room to make herself a better athlete.

"Southern High School is very fortunate to have had a student/athlete of Robbin's caliber for four years," stated Stemple. "There will be a definite void when she graduates. Her kind do not pass through our doors very often."

Gregg will continue her basketball career and education at McDaniel College in Westminster, which awarded her an academic scholarship. She has a 4.0 grade point average and is a member of the National Honor Society.

Flanagan, who battled injuries her senior year, was also one of the Rams' best two-way players over the past several campaigns. She almost single-handedly carried SHS through the 32 minutes of its region championship victory over Poolesville with a dominating 30-point, 15-rebound performance. Her season high was a 31-point tally against Beall.

"Becca was the best inside player in the area this year," observed Stemple. "She worked as hard as anyone and loved to compete. She is a great kid to coach - always willing, always hustling, always wanting to improve, always very unselfish and she makes whatever sacrifices that are necessary to make the team better."

The forward, who missed the first six games of the campaign with a serious ankle injury, sacrificed her body time and time again as she crashed the boards for timely rebounds. Opposing defenders were whistled for 35 charge fouls when going up against Flanagan, which marks the school career record for charges taken.

Flanagan's career tally on the boards puts her atop the Southern rankings with 673 rebounds, and she is third in steals with 213. Her 1,139 points from her forward slot, which came in a program long-noted for high-scoring guards, are good for, fifth place in Rams' history.

Proof that the extremely balanced Rams always had a selection of players ready to step up under pressure, Pagenhardt lofted a half-court shot at the buzzer against Poolesville which launched Southern into the state tourney.

Stemple credited that miraculous shot, and the courage it took to take it, with capping the squad's sense of destiny and paving the way to the 2003-04 state title.

Pagenhardt closed out her SHS career third in the assists column with 325, and sixth in scoring with 904 points.

BILLY REAMS

CHRIS SMITH

Two Southern High School varsity baseball players, Billy Reams and Chris Smith, will be closing out their prep school careers by taking part in the Maryland State Baseball Classic, which begins Sunday in Waldorf. The seniors were among 20 members chosen from high schools in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Fredrick, and Carroll counties for the all-star tourney's West Region team.

Reams was the Rams' top producer at the plate this season, recording a .509 average, five home runs, and 31 RBI. The catcher also turned in a fine performance at backstop, with fielding prowess, a strong arm, and skill in working with the SHS pitching staff.

Smith, a transfer student who wore a Southern uniform for the past two seasons, compiled a 6-2 record over the 2004 campaign. He whiffed 75 batters in 44 innings, and posted a 2.30 ERA.

A total of 80 all-star players will be on hand for Sunday's four-team tourney at Thomas Stone High. The West Region squad will take on the North team at 11:30 a.m., and at 2 p.m. the West unit will square off against the East representative, after that team battles the North squad.

Forty players will be culled after Sunday to form two teams of 20 that will appear in the Brooks Robinson All-Star Game at Camden Yards on Sunday, June 13. That contest is slated to immediately follow that day's major league outing for the homefield Baltimore Orioles.

Twenty players from the Camden Yards contest will be selected to represent the state as members of Team Maryland, which will compete in a subsequent all-star tourney that will feature teams representing 10 states. That event will take place Monday through Saturday, June 21-26, in Norman, Okla.

Hunter Safety Course Set In Mtn. Lake Park

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources is sponsoring a two-day hunter safety course at the Bethel United Methodist Church in Mtn. Lake Park next month. The course will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday and 2 to 8 p.m. Sunday, June 5-6.

The course will cover all aspects of safe hunting, including firearm safety, wildlife identification, conservation, and hunting and game laws. Students under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

A $5 nonrefundable registration fee is required, and registration will be accepted through Wednesday, June 2, at DNR's Mt. Nebo Office north of Oakland. For further information, persons may call the office at 301-334-4255.

SHS Spring Sports Assembly Slated

The Southern Garrett Athletic Association has slated its annual Spring Sports Assembly for 7 p.m. Monday, May 31, in the Southern High School cafeteria.

Awards for spring sports as well as senior awards and major awards for the year. All athletes are invited to attend.

Beth Sauder Is FSU Co-Female Athlete Of Year

Southern High School graduate Beth Sauder, now a senior at Frostburg State University, was recently named Co-Female Athlete of the Year at FSU, having completed her fourth year as a standout member of the Bobcats' cross country team.

She is sharing the honor with junior basketball player Tracy Little, a graduate of Allegany High School.

Sauder capped an outstanding athletic career at FSU by winning the individual title at the Allegheny Mountain Collegiate Conference Championships and earning All-AMCC honors for the fourth straight year. She led the Bobcat women to the AMCC title for the second straight year and the sixth time in the league's seven-year history.

She also finished 58th among 264 runners at the NCAA Division III Mid-East Regional Championships. As a team, the FSU women finished 24th among 38 squads.

Sauder, a 2000 honors graduate of Southern, is the daughter of Steve and Anna Sauder, Mtn. Lake Park.

Another honoree at the FSU Athletics Awards Banquet was Southern graduate Justin Stephens, who was named the Most Valuable Player for the FSU men's tennis team.

Stephens, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stephens, Oakland, holds the FSU record for career victories in singles competition.

Rams, Huskies To Be Among Athletes In State Track Meet

A number of Garrett County student athletes will be among those competing in the Maryland State 1A Track and Field Championships, being held today through Saturday at Morgan State University in Baltimore. Athletes who placed among the top four at the regional level qualified for the state meet.

The Southern High School boys' and girls' teams both finished eighth, with the boys amassing 28 points and the girls recording 16. The Northern boys finished 10th with 13 points.

Leading the Southern High contingent are senior throwers, Dan Goulart and Chris Bennett, who captured first places in the shot put and discus events, respectively, both setting new Southern High records in the process.

Goulart won the regional title with a heave of 46 feet, 6 inches, in the shot, while Bennett became the Region 1A champion with a discus throw of 147 feet, 5 inches.

Goulart will also compete in the discus at the state event, as he placed second only to Bennett with a distance of 132'4".

The Southern girls' will be represented in two relay events. The 800-yard team of Sarah Cosner, Natalie Domenick, Kendra McLaughlin, and Robbin Gregg placed third at the regional meet, recording a time of 1:50.7, while the 400-relay squad consisting of the same four girls finished fourth with a time of 53 seconds flat.

Senior Nina Stoner also qualified for the state meet by finishing fourth in the shot put. Her best throw was 29'9".

Other credible finishes for the Southern girls were sixth places by Robbin Gregg in the 100 dash (13.2 seconds) and Megan Swartzentruber in the discus (90').

Representing Northern High will be Nick Maxim, who placed third in both the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 15.8 seconds, and the 300-meter intermediate hurdles with a time of 41.6 seconds.

Northern's Matt Clise was sixth in the 400 dash, finishing in 54.4 seconds.

Williamsport won the boys' team title with 97.5 points, edging out Poolesville with 97 points. Smithsburg and Beall were tied for third with 65 points each.

The Smithsburg girls' won the team trophy with 134 points, while Poolesville finished second with 108 and Boonsboro was third with 102.5.

Players May Now Register For MSA Fall '04 Season

Registration for the Mountaintop Soccer Association (MSA) fall soccer season is now under way. All previous players will soon receive registration applications by mail. Forms will also be available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library and Reel Video stores.

MSA is a fall recreational co-ed league and is affiliated with the Maryland State Youth Soccer Association. Children from age 4 to 14 are eligible to play. (Those who will be 15 or older by Dec. 31, 2004, or those playing fall high school sports are not eligible to play in the MSA league.)

This is MSA's 15th year of play. Over 450 youngsters in Garrett County participated in last year's season, a spokesperson reported.

Sponsorships from local businesses have allowed the league organizers to keep the same fees of $20 for children in the U-6 and U-8 divisions and $25 for the U-10, U-12, and U-15 divisions. MSA provides shirts, shorts, and socks for all registered players. Players must provide approved soccer shoes (optional for U-6 and U-8 players) and shin guards. All players keep their uniforms at the end of the season.

Registration forms must be received by the MSA registrar by June 12. After that date, applicants will be placed on a waiting list and assigned to teams if there are openings.

For more information, persons may contact Bill Stuck at 301-334-6280 or Bruce Steele at 301-387-7082.

Wisp, Salisbury Off To Roaring Hot Stove Starts

The Wisp and the Salisbury Orioles are both off to 3-0 starts in opening action of the Hot Stove Youth Baseball League. This week the Wisp defeated Keyser, First United, and Hartley's Pizza, while Salisbury (which has several Northern High School players on its roster) downed Markwood Ford-Chevy, Medicine Shoppe, and the Cumberland Lions/Papa Johns squad.

The Wisp got off to an exciting start, as the local squad mounted a two-run rally in the bottom of the final inning to edge the visiting Keyser Braves 9-8 last Thursday, May 20, at Northern High School.

After exploding for five runs in the first inning, the Wisp gave up seven runs over the next 4⅔ stanzas to give the Braves a 7-5 advantage. Wisp knotted the score with a pair of runs in the bottom of the sixth, then fell behind 8-7 in the top of the seventh. In the bottom half of that final stanza, with its back to the wall, Wisp scored a pair of runs on Keyser errors to rally and take the contest.

Corey Carr hit three singles and drove in three runs to lead the Wisp. Dom Dirienzo had a run-scoring double. Wisp had only six hits to Keyser's 10, but made the most of the Braves' five errors.

Carr tossed the first five innings before Matt Sisler came to the mound to claim the win for the Wisp.

Wisp cashed in on 12 hits Sunday to notch a 13-3 victory over Frostburg First United.

Wisp scored four runs in the first and three in the second to jump out to an early 7-0 lead, and never looked back.

For the contest, Carr blasted a two-run home run and added a double and a single. Dirienzo and Patrick Brady punched out three singles each.

Carr also whiffed seven batters over the first five innings to earn the win, and Sisler got the save.

Wisp topped Hartley's Pizza with ease Tuesday, rolling to a 15-5 win at Northern.

Dirienzo paced Wisp's 16-hit attack by cranking out a pair of doubles and a single for four RBIs. Brady sent home a pair of runs on two singles, and Jared Lapp singled twice, doubled, and tallied one RBI. Carr doubled and singled to net one RBI, and Tyler Southerly and Sisler each recorded RBI singles.

Sisler took the complete-game, five-inning win on the mound.

The Wisp takes on Hobo's this afternoon at Holler Field.

Salisbury kicked off its Hot Stove campaign by taking a classic pitchers' duel with a 5-3 win over Markwood Ford-Chevy on Monday, May 17, in Cumberland. The Orioles' Brock Glotfelty and Brandon Beachy combined to hold Markwood to just three hits, while the opposing pitcher, Jamie Simone, tossed a complete-game four hitter.

Glotfelty whiffed 10 batters in five innings of work, and helped his own cause with two singles and two RBI in leading the Orioles at the plate.

Salisbury went on to pulverize Medicine Shoppe 11-4 last Thursday, May 20, in Frostburg.

Mike Podlesnik drove in four O's runs by cranking out three singles, and Glotfelty smacked a double and a single and had three RBIs. Jake Hay contributed a doubled and single with one RBI, and Aaron Beiler doubled.

Four Salisbury pitchers combined to hold Medicine Shoppe's batting line-up to just four hits. Beachy, who worked the second through sixth innings, garnered the win on the mound. The Orioles recorded 11 hits of their own.

Salisbury crushed Cumberland Lions/Papa Johns Tuesday by a 12-1 margin. The O's scored four runs in the first, one in the second, and four in the fourth to roll up a 9-0 lead on their way to the 11-run triumph.

Salisbury was paced at the plate by Aaron Beiler's double and two singles, and Glotfelty chipped in three singles for two RBI. The Orioles had 12 hits overall.

Beiler also tossed the complete-game, seven-inning win, limiting the hosts to five hits. He struck out seven batters along the way, while not issuing a single walk.

Salisbury hosts Rotary tomorrow evening.

THE GOLF COURSES ARE GREEN AGAIN, so it's time for Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies' Play 6 For Fun, an annual fundraiser. The Garrett County branch is selling a limited number of golf coupons from its office, located in the Professional Building in Oakland, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy in McHenry. The booklets are good for a cart and two rounds of 18 holes at the following courses: Alpine Lake Resort, Canaan Valley Resort, Oakland Golf Club, Preston Country Club, Rocky Gap Resort, and Wisp Resort. Reservations are required. The coupon booklets, valued at more than $260, are selling for $60 each, on a first-come, first-served basis. Availability is very limited. All proceeds benefit the Garrett County branch of BBBS, a mentoring agency matching at-risk children from single-parent homes with adult volunteers. "BBBS operates as a non-profit organization, receiving no government assistance, helping ease the transition to adulthood for many area children," said Shannon Brode, county coordinator. Individuals interested in BBBS programming and/or purchasing golf coupons may call her at 301-334-3591 or 800-400-0735. Pictured are Big Brother Maury Feinstein and Little Brother Zachary Merrill. HS Marching Bands To Benefit From Golf Tourn.

The second annual Northern/Southern Bands Golf Tournament, a fund-raiser for the marching bands at both schools, is slated for Friday, July 23, at the Oakland Golf Club. The event will be followed immediately by a catered awards banquet provided by the Oakland Golf Club.

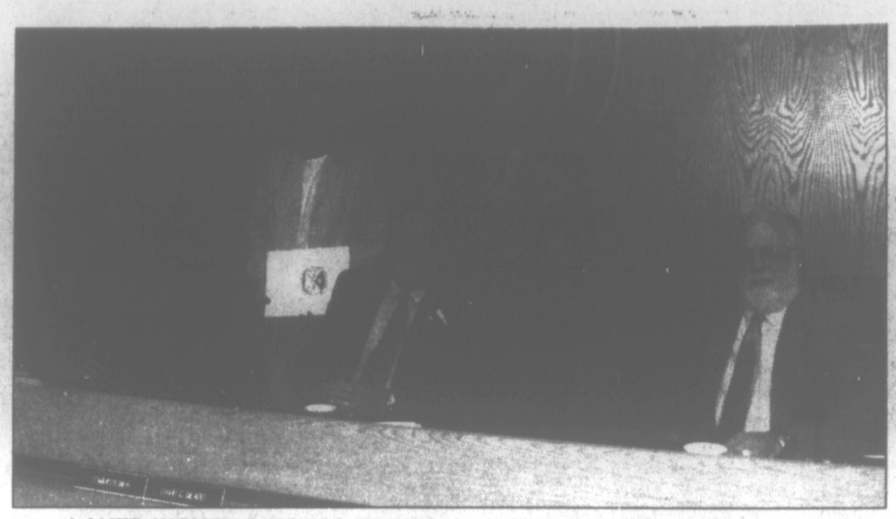
"The success of both bands is dependent upon support from businesses and individuals," tourney co-organizer Vernon Wampler explained. "Each year Band Boosters raise thousands of dollars to support the participation of both bands in community parades, Memorial Day services, and Tournament of the Bands competitions. The programs at both schools are typically among the top 25 marching band programs of their size out of the hundreds eligible to compete in our 13-state ACC region."

Golfers may register in pairs as a two-person team, or as individuals. Registration is being taken on a first-come, first-served basis, with a Saturday, July 10, deadline to register at a discount rate. Players will be eligible to enter up to the day of the benefit if space permits.

There will be three flite categories of men's high handicap, men's low handicap, and women's overall. Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third place in each flite, and several hole door prizes will also be awarded.

The cost to enter or fund an entry sponsorship is $150 for two-player team entry or sponsorship, and $75 for single-player entry or sponsorship. Hole sponsorships are available at $100 per hole. Donations of funding or prizes are also being accepted, and businesses wishing to donate prizes are asked to submit their proposal to the tournament committee as soon as possible.

Further information and application forms are available at the Oakland and Wisp golf courses, or from any NHS or SHS Band Booster member or band parent. For additional information, persons may call Vernon Wampler at 301-746-5087, or Roger Kitzmiller at 301-387-9258.



LAKER WOMEN'S HOOPS PROGRAM EARNS COUNTY KUDOS — The 2003-04 Garrett College women's basketball team was honored by the Garrett County board of commissioners this week. The speedy Lakers made a national name for the college by blazing through a 28-6 campaign on their way to Maryland JUCO and Region XX crowns and a three-game stint in the NJCAA Division II Women's National Tournament in Kansas. Seated from the left are commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday as they congratulate Garrett College athletic director Ann Wellham and college president Steve Herman. The squad was coached by Steve Willison (not pictured).

Women Golfers Convene Season, Note Play Results

Approximately 26 members of the Oakland Women's Golf Association attended the organization's season-opening meeting recently at the club house of the Oakland Golf Club. Association president Marianna Naylor introduced new members Janice LaRue, Mary Ann Moran, Pam Trydahl, Judi Upperman, Rosie Versteegan, and Helga Williamson.

The Women's Golf Association hosted its first competition on April 29. Each player was allowed to throw out one hole on each nine, and handicaps applied. Winning first place with a score of 54 was Joanne Cole. Tying for second were Sandy Bello, Pat Filsinger, and Margaret Moran, scoring 59. Betsy Polce scored 60 to take third Low putts was won by Angie Bosley, with 32. Jessie Stowell and Joanna Cole tied for second, each with 33 putts.

Flight play was took place on May 6. June Bray took First Flight low gross with an 83, while Naylor took Second Flight low gross with a 97, and Angie Bosley recorded a low net of 79. Diane Winter took Third Flight low gross by carding a 103, and Debbie Weissgerber's 119 was low gross in Fourth Flight. Low putts were won by Bray, who scored 28, while Mary Ann Moran took second with 31.

The golfers met on May 13 for a game in which each player had an unknown partner with full handicaps applying. The winners were Pat Filsinger and Cheryl Wotherspoon, who tallied a score of 63. Becky Glotfelty and Kathi Refosco combined for a 65 to finish second, and Bobbie Stewart and Fran Bell placed third with a 66.

Oakland Youth Football Adds Pee Wee Teams

The Oakland Youth Football League has announced the addition of two Pee Wee football teams to southern Garrett County. The division was developed to give children ages 6-11 an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of tackle football.

According to a spokesperson for the league, it is the goal of the league's executive board, coaches, and advisors to encourage leadership, sportsmanship, and teamwork in the children involved.

The two new teams — the Oakland Vikings and the Oakland Renegades — are part of the Tri-State Area Pee Wee Football League and will play in Cumberland and the surrounding area.

The Vikings, coached by C.J. Getson, and the Renegades, coached by Jay Stewart, will each have three

Seminar Held In Oakland For Small Business Owners

The town of Oakland recently hosted a "Sunrise Seminar" offered by the Maryland Department of Housing & Community Development's Catalyst Training Academy. Present were Tara Clifford and Glenda Odam representing the Department of Housing and Community Development and Casey Willson from the Small Business Development Center.

The focus of the training was to help small businesses improve and discover ways to make each and every small business a destination for customers. Willson spoke of basic principles of small business such as defining the customer.

"It is important," he said, "to know how old your customers are, what gender are they, are they families or individuals, their income, where they live, do they rent or own, how do they get here, how often and when and how many actually pass your place of business, what the family composition is, what they do and where they work, what do they read, watch or listen to. These key things define your customer which will then help define your business operation."

The merchandising aspects of a business are crucial, and the key things to consider are whether or not the store is full, he added.

Some of his tips were to have a well-stocked clean store.

"First impressions are important and a store that presents itself as clean is much more appealing," he said. "Consider the lighting and whether there is not only adequate lighting for a bright interior but also highlighting to focus on certain areas and take away dark spots."

Willson also suggested that businesses examine their signage and determine whether or not it is effective, look at the traffic flow patterns in the store, and be creative in the displays using complementary goods.

Policy and procedures for training personnel must be consistent and then maintained stringently to encourage repeat business.

"A friendly and welcoming atmosphere is important and staff should be in the front one-third of the store at all times and make eye contact with customers and remember to smile and greet them.

"The most important thing to remember is that the business is for your customers, not for you," Willson said.

Willson is available for other small business trainings and seminars and personal one-on-one consultations with small businesses.

Interested persons may call Cherie Ross at 301-616-3026 for more information.

Deputy, Canine Place First In Competition

Garrett County sheriff's deputy David McLaughlin and his canine Tara took first place in a canine drug detection competition, according to Sheriff Dick Sanders.

This yearly event was held by the United States Police Canine Association (USPCA), Region 3, in Cumberland, and was host to federal, state, and local canine teams from Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Detective McLaughlin finished with an overall score of 199.22, which was the top score of the 38 teams that competed in the event.

In addition, McLaughlin and Tara, Cpl. Randy Cutter of the Allegany County Sheriff's Office and canine Ladd, and Sergeant Rocky Reed of the Cumberland City Police Department and canine Oris were part of a three-person team that finished in indoor and outdoor buildings and automobiles competition. The scores are determined by judges and are based on both the handlers and canines performance.

McLaughlin and Tara are currently assigned to the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. Tara was purchased in April 2001 form Southern Hills Kennels, Daytona Beach, Fla., with monies donated by Railey Realty.

Since being assigned to the task force, Tara has been involved in more than 100 arrests, the recovery of more than 10 pounds of marijuana, cocaine, and heroin, and the seizure of more than $117,000 cash all in Garrett County.

McLaughlin and Tara have also assisted in drug investigations in surrounding jurisdictions including West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

GET INTO THE SWING OF RECYCLING – Oakland residents are encouraged to get into the habit of setting aside recyclable items for pick-up every other Friday. Scott Cosner of Sunrise Sanitation is pictured as he lobs cans into the truck. The company comes along the Oakland garbage route on the first and third Fridays of every month. Residents are urged to set out mixed metal cans and newspapers (with no slicks). The cans and paper should be separated and placed into clear or light blue bags, 30-pound capacity, available for purchase at the Oakland City Hall or in grocery stores. Recycling these items will help extend the life of the landfill, among other many positive aspects of reusing and renewing. Get in the swing!

HONORED IN MAY AT SHS – Students of the Month for May were recently honored at Southern High School. In the front, from the left, are Matia Hinebaugh, Ashley Rohrbaugh, and Eileen Mouyard. In the back are vice principal Ed Wildesen, Samantha Cavalier, Amanda Beeman, Robert Stemple, Eric Blamble, and Harry Biggs, representing Rob Michaels at State Farm Insurance (the Business of the Month). See story.

SHS Honors Students Of The Month

The Students of the Month winners for May at Southern High School were recently recognized. They are Eileen Mouyard, English; Ashley Rohrbaugh, math; Matia Hinebaugh, science; Samantha Cavalier, social studies; Amanda Beeman, CTE; Robby Stemple, business education; and Eric Blamble, driver's education.

Mouyard, a senior, is the daughter of Colleen Mouyard. She has received the distinguished honor roll and honor roll. She was a 4x1-relay state champion in 2002, and was selected for Who's Who Among American High School Students. She is employed at Garrett Eight Cinemas, and will attend the College of Notre Dame of Maryland this fall.

Rohrbaugh, a freshman, is the daughter of William and Sandy Rohrbaugh. She has received Minds in Motion and honor roll distinction. She is a member of the girls' varsity soccer team, sixth man club, and the yearbook staff. She volunteers at the Garrett County Fair and is the statistician for the Service Club Basketball Girls' League. She plans to attend a four-year college and major in nursing.

Hinebaugh, a freshman, is the daughter of Dawn Hinebaugh. She has received awards for attendance, art, and reading. She would like to attend college and become an author of abnormal psychology.

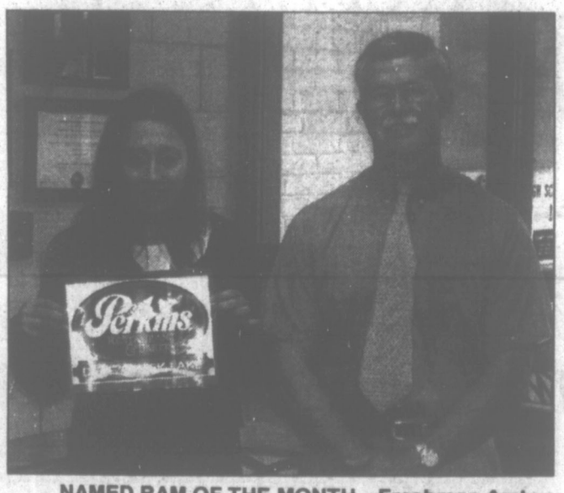
Cavalier, a senior, is the daughter of Jack and Theresa Cavalier. She was a member of the volleyball team her freshman and sophomore years. She has also participated in Best Buddies. She has received honor roll, Student of the Month, and Minds in Motion. She is a member of the Garrett Youth Council and the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad Auxiliary. She received the Garrett County Health Department 75 volunteer hour award her freshman and sophomore years. She will attend Shepherd University this fall and major in elementary education.

Beeman, a sophomore, is the daughter of Tom and Betty Beeman. She has been named to the honor roll. She is a member of the church group at Hiway Assembly of God. She would like to attend Frostburg State University and major in English.

Stemple, a senior, is the son of Bobby and Wilma Stemple. He was a member of the varsity basketball team. He has received distinguished honor roll and has had perfect attendance for 11 consecutive years. He attends Pine Grove Church of the Brethren. He plans to attend Garrett College or Frostburg State University this fall.

Blamble, a sophomore, is the son of Terry and Nancy Blamble. He is a member of the varsity soccer, junior varsity basketball, and track teams. He has received Minds in Motion and honor roll. He attends St. John's Lutheran Church. He would like to attend a four-year college and major in aeronautical/aerospace engineering.

The Business Partner of the Month is Rob Michael, an agent for State Farm Insurance.



NAMED RAM OF THE MONTH – Freshman Amber Stalnaker has been named the June Perkins Student of the Month for Southern Garrett High School. Stalnaker has shown improvement in academics and discipline during the 2003-04 school year. Her maturity and willingness to work with others has endeared her to staff and students alike, said a school spokesperson. Principal Tom Woods (right) congratulates Stalnaker (left) for being the RAM (Random Acts of Maturity) Student of the Month.

Poker Run Slated To Benefit Garrett Relay For Life

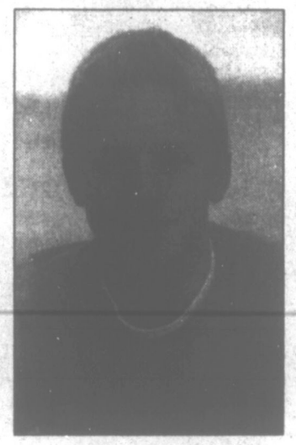
The third annual Mt. Top Poker Run, a fundraiser for the Garrett County Relay for Life, is slated for Saturday, June 5, over a course that passes through both West Virginia and Maryland. (The rain date is Sunday, June 6.) Proceeds from the event will go to the relay effort, which benefits the Garrett County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Riders will travel a course that should take approximately 4 to 4½ hours, beginning at the Gormania Gas 'N Go and concluding at the carnival grounds in Bayard. Concluding festivities at the carnival grounds, which will be open to the public, will feature a bike show, the presentation of trophies, live entertainment, and food and beverages.

A $5 donation is requested, and all bikers are welcome to participate in the benefit event. Registration will be accepted from 11 a.m. to noon at the Gormania Gas and Go, located along Route 50 in Gormania, Grant County.

For further information, persons may call 301-334-4012 or 304-693-7454 between 5 and 8 p.m.

Oakland Resident Graduates From University Of Md.



Nathaniel Edward Panther received a bachelor of science degree in civil and environmental engineering during spring 2004 commencement ceremonies last week at the University of Maryland, College Park.

A magnum cum laude graduate with a 3.93 grade-point average, Panther was on the dean's list every semester while at the university. He was also a member of Chi Epsilon – the National Civil Engineering Honor Society – and was awarded academic scholarships from the A. James Clark School of Engineering.

Prior to the graduation ceremonies, Panther received the Outstanding Senior in Academics in Civil Engineering Award and was invited to be a possible student speaker for the main commencement ceremony last Thursday, as well as the school of engineering's ceremony on Friday.

Chosen by the more than 6,200 graduates themselves, Secretary of Homeland Security Tom Ridge was the guest speaker for the main commencement.

Panther has received a full scholarship to continue his education at the University of Maryland, where he has been admitted into the Master of Science Program in Civil Engineering.

He is a 2000 graduate of Southern High School and the son of Ed and Dawn Panther of Oakland.

Friendsville Area Church Donates To Blanket Drive

The Asher Glade Church of the Brethren recently donated 57 blankets for the 2003-04 "Bundle Up Blanket Drive," a project of the Community and Emergency Programs Department of the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

"We like to express our sincere thanks to the Asher Glade Church of the Brethren for this donation," project coordinator and AmeriCorps volunteer Ben Bernard commented. "We distributed 115 blankets last year to those households that were experiencing a heating crisis or families who were relocating due to home fires or domestic violence. All blankets are distributed and remain in Garrett County."

The blankets were collected by Reverend Edwin Moore and the Asher Glade congregation for distribution at Garrett County Community Action's C&E department.

Frostburg Elks Set WWII Mem'l. Dedication Event

The Frostburg Elks Lodge 470 has planned a special day to honor all veterans for Saturday, May 29, beginning at noon.

"We want to thank those men and women who have served in our military," a spokesperson for the lodge said. "We want to especially honor those who served in World War II, and we would like to have as many World War II veterans attend as possible."

The World War II Monument will be dedicated in Washington, D.C., on that date, and the proceedings will be broadcast on the large-screen televisions at the lodge. Lunch will be available, including barbecue sandwiches, hot dogs, and baked beans.

The Elks Lodge is located on Main Street in Frostburg. For further information, persons may call 301-895-3455 or 301-689-6470.

Rated PG - Running Time: 1:33 - Released 5/19/04

When the hysterically funny, digitally animated, fairy-tale-smashing cartoon comedy Shrek appeared in 2001, starring Mike Meyers, Eddie Murphy, and Cameron Diaz in what would become some of their most famous and well-liked characterizations to date, it helped to cement Dreamworks SKG's growing reputation as a force to be reckoned with in the genre of cartoon animation. Its pioneering computer techniques, coupled with the superior, adult-oriented scriptwriting for which the company's cartoons have become known, made it a film which appealed to all ages, offering a level of visual and textual entertainment which easily stood up against any and all of the best comedic films out there, animated or not. It was inevitable, therefore, that sooner or later everybody's favorite big green ogre would score a second chapter.

Shrek 2 is at least as enjoyable as its predecessor, if not more so, maintaining the high standard for sophisticated humor, sparkling animation, and impeccable casting set by the previous film. This movie, which reunites not only the actors but virtually the same entire creative team from the first, also features a host of hilarious new characters, and will again have little trouble finding an audience among all ages and tastes. Although it is certainly preferable to have seen the first installment, it stands quite well on its own, boasting another vast collection of hilarious in-jokes and movie references which probably cannot all be taken in on one viewing.

The story starts where the first film left off, with Shrek (voice of Myers) and his new wife, Princess Fiona (Diaz), trying to score a little alone time away from their well-meaning but meddlesome friend Donkey (Murphy), when they receive an official invitation from Fiona's parents, the king and queen of her appropriately named homeland of Far, Far Away, to come and visit so they may meet their new son-in-law. After a long trek in their onion-shaped carriage, the three of them arrive in the glitzy, Hollywood-esque city to a jubilant throng of well wishers and a great fanfare—which is abruptly cut short when the King (John Cleese) and Queen (Julie Andrews) get their first look at the large, bulbous green ogre and, more upsettingly, their daughter, who has assumed a similar look thanks to the events which occurred in the final moments of the previous film. Although the queen tries to put on a brave face and accept the obviously happy couple as they are, the king is unimpressed, and he and Shrek begin butting heads pretty much from the start.

While Shrek and Fiona argue over his unwillingness to cozy up to her father, the king enlists the help of a confident but diminutive tabby feline assassin named Puss In Boots (Antonio Banderas), who, soon after being bested in combat by Shrek, decides to join forces with him. Meanwhile, a devious plan is hatched by the wicked and enterprising Fairy Godmother (Absolutely Fabulous vet Jennifer Saunders), who wants Fiona to marry her own son, the vain and vapid Prince Charming (Rupert Everett).

This movie is so packed full of virtual winks and nods to other movies, especially those famous fairy tale flicks of its rival company, Disney, it is a rewarding experience just to play "spot the hilarious movie reference" even if you don't care about the exploits of Shrek, Fiona, Donkey, Puss, et al. But you do care, because the characterizations are so funny and endearing, you can't help it. Many of the less central fairy tale and nursery rhyme characters who had bit parts in the previous movie, like Pinocchio and the three pigs (all voiced by Cody Cameron), the gingerbread man (co-director Conrad Vernon), and the big bad wolf (Aron Warner), have been given more to do in this segment, and there's even a cameo vocal appearance by Larry King as the Ugly Stepsister. Visually the film is as stunning as the first, as the colorful beauty of Far Far Away's landscapes offset by its humorous references to famous business establishments, like "Farbuck's Coffee," "Burger Prince," and "Tower Of London Records."

Anyone who liked Shrek will love this movie. Anyone who didn't see Shrek will love this movie. In fact, I'd have to say to anyone who sees this movie and doesn't like it, well...frankly, you'd have to be an ogre. ★★★★½

Mitchell Tells GC Grads To Push Beyond Limits

"Never limit yourself or your goals," spoke Dr. Lillian Mitchell to the 2004 graduates at Garrett College's commencement last Saturday. "Always keep an open mind to new challenges."

Mitchell then gave an example of a high school under-achiever who served in the army for three years then got a job as a bus driver, before being urged by his mother-in-law to go to college. She told how he enrolled at a community college as a part-time student while holding a job and being a parent, then continued his education for a bachelor's degree, became a fourth- and fifth-grade teacher, and persevered in his own studies to earn a master's degree.

"When this man was sitting where you are today," she told the graduates. "He had no idea what the future would hold, but he kept on learning." She said that she knew that this was a true story because the young man was her late husband Don Mitchell.

"You have lived up to your potential," she said. "We at Garrett College are very proud of you. We hope we have taught you to think reflectively, solve problems, express your ideas and convictions, and always, always appreciate the other important people in your lives."

A gift of appreciation, which is always given to the commencement speaker, Dr. Steve Herman presented Mitchell with a ceramic bowl by art professor Ron Skidmore.

New Paths

Mitchell then announced names of students who were nominated to Who's Who Among American Junior College Students. They are Stacy Holler, Tammy Holler, Cynthia Jordan, Ashley Liller, Jonathon Mann, Jennifer Messerly, Jessica Nixon, Nicholas Piotrowski, Raili Raud, Kathryn Reall, Lyndsie Rush, Julie Ryan, Miranda Savage, Sarah Sparks, and Marcie Wampler.

As in past years, the Garrett College Pipes and Drums led by pipe major Jerry McGee opened the ceremony with "Crags of the Mountain" for the academic procession and closed it with their rendition of the alma mater and "Auld Lang Syne."

Dr. Michael Swiderski, associate professor of Adventure sports, gave the invocation and benediction.

Following the commencement ceremony, graduates and their families attended a reception in the Laker's Café.

GC Employees Saluted During Annual Luncheon

Nineteen administrators, faculty and staff members of Garrett College were honored recently at the annual employees recognition luncheon in the Laker's Café. Recognition was given for years of service, tenure, and attainment of degrees.

Topping the list with 30 years of service was Lowell Bender, dean of Continuing Education and Training. Bonnie Broadwater and Mike Logsdon were recognized for 25 years of service and Patricia Helmick-Baer for 20 years. Fifteen-year awards were given to Judy Sconyers and Doug Sides, and 10-year awards to Nancy Garlitz, Carrie Hackett, Clyde Hetrick, Herb Lambert, and Willie Lantz. Five-year awards were presented to Linda Gordon, Don Lipscomb, Steve Putlovis, and Vaughn Vitez. Randy Murphy and Michael Sweitzer received recognition for achieving tenure. Denise Friend was recognized for attaining an MBA from Frostburg State University and Linda May Gerard for attaining a Master of Science degree from West Virginia University.

All honorees received gift certificates presented by Dean Lillian Mitchell, Linda Fine, and Dr. Steve Herman. Ann Wellham gave the invocation, and Terry Kasecamp welcomed the guests.

The luncheon was planned with a luau theme, complete with paper palm trees, pineapples, and grass skirts. Guests enjoyed a buffet of Hawaiian foods and fruit drinks. The committee who planned the event were Bonnie Broadwater, Chris Walters, Dana Shimrock, Darlene Preston, Ellen Sheaffer, Judy Sconyers, Linda Fike, Margi Perfetti, and Sharon Elsey.

Swallow Falls Church Slates Missionary Svc.

The Rocky Drean Assembly of God Church will host a special missionary service at 7 p.m. Sunday, June 6, as a send-off for missionary Lesley Masters, who is preparing to depart for the Ukraine. The church is located along Bray School Road in the Swallow Falls area.

Masters, 31, will teach biblical studies at the Bible College of the Ukraine, located in the capital city of Kiev. She will also assist national churches in developing children's ministries, plans to be involved with several orphanages, and intends to pursue one-on-one outreach through friendship evangelism. She will also work at summer camps for children and youth.

Masters has participated in short-term missions trips to Belarus, Croatia, and Romania. She was a children's pastor in Virginia for four years, has been a youth leader in several churches, and served for four years as a professor in Old Testament studies at Tidewater Bible College, Norfolk, Va. She earned a bachelor's degree in pastoral ministry from Valley Forge Christian College in Phoenixville, Pa., and a master's degree in Old Testament studies from the Gordon Conwell Seminary in South Hamilton, Mass.

For further information, persons may contact Rocky Drean pastor William C. Skipper at 301-387-8292. Bray School Road can be accessed from either Mayhew Inn Road or Oakland Sang Run Road.

GRANTSVILLE

GRANTSVILLE VFD

The fire department will hold a chicken and rib barbecue Saturday, June 5, from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. The chicken and rib dinners are $6 and include ½ chicken or ribs, baked beans, cole slaw, and roll. Persons may also order ½ chicken or ribs for $4.50.

RED RUN MENNONITE CHURCH

A special hymn sing will be held at the church Sunday, June 13, at 6 p.m. The guests for the program will be I Touch. The church is located 5 miles east of Grantsville on the Meyersdale Road.

AMERICAN RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville Fire Hall on Monday, June 7, from 12:30 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Donors must be at least 17 years of age, weigh no less than 105 pounds, and not have donated blood within the past 56 days. Residents of all the surrounding communities are urged to participate.

GRANTSVILLE 4-H CLUB

The next meeting of the Grantsville 4-H club will be held Monday, June 7, at 7 p.m., at the Casselman Valley Sportsmen Club.

Named To USAA Nat'l Honor Roll

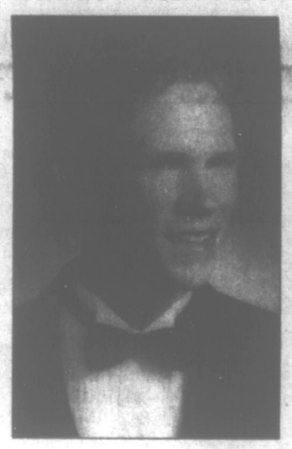
Jessica N. Sines, Friendsville, has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner, according to a release from the U.S. Achievement Academy (USAA).

She is a student at Northern Middle School. Her name will appear in the USAA Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history," said Dr. George Stevens, USAA executive director. "USAA winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence."

Jessica is the daughter of Marvin R. Jr. and Kimberly S. Sines. Her grandparents are Earl and Lou Boyce, Oakland, and Marvin and Bonnie Sines, Friendsville.

Graduates Cum Laude From NW



Casey Brian Broadwater recently graduated cum laude from Northwest College in Kirkland, Wash., with a bachelor's degree in English. Broadwater is grandson of Carroll Broadwater, formerly of Deer Park, and the nephew of Ralph and Joyce Fitzwater of Oakland and cousin of U.S. Air Force Airman Nathan Fitzwater, who is presently serving in Guam.

Among those attending the commencement were Broadwater's parents, Rev. Terry and JoAnn Broadwater of Hagerstown. Carroll Broadwater was also on hand for the ceremony.

In Loving Memory of Harold (Lee) Bennett

We thought of you with love today, but that was nothing new,
We thought about you yesterday and days before that too.
We think of you in silence, we often speak your name.
Now all we have are memories and your pictures in a frame.
Your memories are our keepsake with which we'll never part,
God has you in his keeping, we have you in our hearts.
Thinking of you is easy, we do it every day.
Missing you is heartache that never goes away.
Our dearest wish would be today to hear you laugh and see you smile, to sit and talk to you awhile.
We smile with others but weep alone,
How much we miss you will never be known.
What would we give to clasp your hand, your handsome face to see,
To hear your voice and see your smile that meant so much to us.
No one knows the silent heartache, only those who have such can tell,
Of the grief that is born in silence for the one we love so well.
Time does not heal the heartache, nor does it stop the tears,
Or take away the memory of the one we love so dear.
You touched so many lives on this earth. You truly were special!!!
From your wife forever and always, Pat.

Teachers, Nurses Receive Help To Pay Back Loans

The state of Maryland will repay the college loans of nurses and teachers working in certain areas and fields in Maryland, thanks to $1 million in funding through the Janet L. Hoffman Loan Assistance Repayment Program. Qualified applicants may receive as much as $7,500 annually to repay college expense loans.

To be eligible, teachers or nurses must have graduated from a Maryland college and be employed full time in state or local government, a public school, or with a non-profit organization, providing service to low-income, underserved residents or in underserved areas of the state.

The salary for a nurse or teacher cannot exceed $50,000, or if married, the combined salaries cannot exceed $110,000.

"Working in underserved areas is not always glamorous, but often is most rewarding," said Calvin W. Burnett, acting secretary. "The repayment program serves as a way to thank teachers and nurses for choosing to work in areas where their services are needed most."

The Janet L. Hoffman Loan Assistance Repayment Program, named in honor of the lobbyist and longtime supporter of Baltimore City in the state legislature, is designed to attract qualified individuals to government and the non-profit sector. The program particularly targets areas in which there are critical manpower shortages in the state and lower salaries than in the private sector.

In addition to nurses and teachers, the program currently extends to attorneys, physical and occupational therapists, social workers, and speech pathologists who agree to work in a field of employment in which there is a shortage of qualified practitioners for low-income or underserved residents or areas of the state.

For more information about the Janet L. Hoffman Loan Assistance Repayment Program, persons may visit www.mhec.state.md.us or call the Maryland Higher Education Commission at 410-260-4565 or 800-974-1024.

Garrett Sets One-Course Computer Program Surveys

Garrett College has slated a pair of one-session "crash" computer courses to provide information on the advanced functions of the Microsoft Excel program and an introduction to Quickbooks. Both sessions will meet next month on the McHenry campus.

Advanced Excel is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, June 4. Topics to be covered include printing titles, interactive web reports, advanced formulas, name ranges, extracting data, 3-D formulas, and office links. A basic understanding of Excel is required. All materials will be provided.

Quickbooks will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday, June 18. This overview course will provide the user with a basic understanding of the QuickBooks financial management software. The topics will inclue setting up the company, working with lists, working with bank accounts, working with special accounts, entering sales and invoices, receiving payments and making deposits, and entering and paying bills.

For more information on either course, or to register, persons may call Sue Smith of the Small Business Development Center at Garrett College at 301-387-3080.

The Highland Thrift Shop: 17 Years Of Giving Back To The Community

by Brenda Ruggiero

Over the last 17 years, the Highland Thrift Shop has been working to meet the needs of people in the community. In that time, countless items of clothing have been made available to those who need them. In addition, over $150,000 has been donated to various local groups.

Located in the Casselman Ventures Building on Main Street in Grantsville, the Highland Thrift Shop opened its doors in June of 1987 as a non-profit group.

"Our shop is a way that customers can shop for bargains and give back to the community at the same time, said Mary Ellen Beitzel, store manager and board president. "The purpose when we opened was to meet the needs of the needy and to make things available to them. We have clothed many people since we opened."

The shop originated with Everett and Roberta Miller, who worked with the Highland Association. The pair, who had begun by taking donations of clothes for free distribution, soon realized they had too many to give away. That's when they developed the idea of a community thrift shop.

THRIFT SHOP BOARD HERE TO SERVE – The board of directors of Grantsville's Highland Thrift Shop carries out the facility's 17-year mission of service to the community by donating its profits to other worthy organizations. Pictured from the left are board president Mary Ellen Beitzel, Elsie Green, Arthur Green, treasurer Debbie Atkins, Beulah Moon, and Glenda Maust. Not present for the photo were secretary Janet Brenneman and Leona Maust. The Highland Thrift Shop is open six days a week, and for further information persons may call 301-895-3156. See feature story.

Currently, board members meet once a month to decide where to donate the profits from the thrift shop. Donations have been made to Habitat for Humanity, the Northern After-Prom Party, Grantsville Ministerial, Special Olympics, Crime Solvers, Grantsville Library, Union Rescue Mission, Hospice, Grantsville Fire Department, Bittinger Fire Department, Eastern Garrett Fire Department, Crisis Pregnancy Center, House of Hope, Warm the Children, and the Dove Center.

"We also help people who have lost their things in a fire or who are recommended to us from another source," explained Beitzel.

Clothing that does not sell at the shop is sorted and either sent to other countries or to the Amish community to use for rug rags.

"Our shop is stocked mainly with clothing," said Beitzel, "But we also sell small kitchen appliances, lamps, fabric baskets, puzzles, books, magazines, dishes, shoes, purses, toys, and other small miscellaneous items." All donations are taken to a separate room, where they are sorted and priced by Beitzel or the assistant manager, Janet Brenneman.

"Our shop depends on donations from the area people," Beitzel noted. "If you would like to bring clean, useable things, we would appreciate it."

Beitzel explained that there are about 30 volunteers from area churches who donate their time to work at the Highland Thrift Shop. "Volunteers look forward to the many customers who come in regularly or the tourist who is just passing through," she said.

Zella Bittinger, Swanton, has volunteered at the shop once a month for about 14 years. Her favorite part of the job is meeting the people who come to shop, and she feels that the store is very good for the community. "If somebody is in need and can't afford to buy clothing, we give it to them," she said.

Other current volunteers include Debbie Atkins, Loretta Opel, Mabel Butler, Judy Stanton, Julia Bender, Mary Catherine Wiley, Beulah Moon, Leona Maust, Diane Miller, Nellie Yommer, Judith Ramer, Glenda Maust, Laura Turner, Mary Alice Skidmore, Genny Miller, Ruthie Rosenberger, Shirley Yommer, Pat Ruckert, Mary Simpson, Elsie and Arthur Green, Mary McKenzie, Shirley Bittinger, Janet Brenneman, Evelyn Yoder, Mary Ellen Beitzel, Pauline Bittinger, Miriam Brenneman, and Waunita Wilt.

Persons with questions about the shop, or who may be interested in volunteering, may call 301-895-3156 and ask to speak to the manager or assistant manager. The Highland Thrift Shop is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Other shops in the building include The Print Shop, Four Seasons Stitchery, and Global Expressions and Antique Shop.

Oakland Civic Club Honored By Western District

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland was noted with a number of honors for its accomplishments over the past year during the recent Western District meeting of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs. The local club hosted the gathering in Pleasant Valley.

Oakland Civic Club co-presidents Ellen Fritz and Betty Ellington accepted the district's first place awards for the club's participation in the Warm the Children campaign, the Garden Show, Safety Awareness, and the Women's History and Resource Center. The club also received five second place awards and two honorable mentions.

The meeting also featured the installation of Oakland Civic Club member Anne Forrester as second vice president of the MFWC Western District.

Dr. Gail Herman delivered a presentation titled "Stories of Strong Women," and Helen Earles, accompanied by Doris Gaskill, closed the program with a singing of the Collect. The meeting was attended by 44 women from as far away as Frederick.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

JUNE SUN – The sun spends the early part of June in Taurus, moving into Gemini on the 21st. The amount of daily sunlight scarcely changes in June. In early June the sun rises about 5:52 a.m., setting around 8:41 p.m. In late June sunrises are about 5:53 a.m. while sunsets are about 8:50 p.m. The sun's midday height during June stays about 72 degrees (4/5ths of the way from the southern horizon to the top of the sky). In June, the length of twilight is about 75 minutes. This means that the fainter stars fade from view about an hour and a quarter before sunrise and the fainter stars reappear an hour and a quarter after sunset. In mid June, we have 6.5 hours each night for star gazing.

JUNE MOON – June opens with a nearly full moon in the star group Libra. The moon grows to full on the evening of June 2; this full moon is known as the Rose Moon, the Flower Moon, or the Strawberry Moon. After June 5 the moon shifts into the morning sky, then most easily viewed at dawn. Around June 17 the moon hides in the sun's glare for a few days. On June 20 the crescent moon appears above the planet Mars low in the western dusk. On June 23 the moon appears close to the bright planet Jupiter. On June 25 the evening moon has grown to half full. This is the best moon shape (looks like a letter "D") to view the moon's craters and mountains with binoculars or telescopes. Along the lighted moon's left edge, the sun is rising, catching the raised crater rims and mountain peaks. June ends with a nearly full moon above the star group Scorpius.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM IN JUNE 2004 – Our five nearest planetary neighbors appear as points of light that shine steady, unlike the bright night stars that twinkle. In the first hour of sunlight on June 8 our neighbor planet Venus will be seen passing directly between the Earth and the sun. This passage across the sun's disk is called a transit. Only with special equipment can this event be safely viewed. The safest view will be on the evening television news that evening. If you have Internet access, try the astronomy web site www.SkyandTelescope.com that afternoon. The transit will be best observed in Europe where the sun will be higher and Venus will take 6 hours to cross the sun's disk. In late June, Venus will have moved to the west of the sun, appearing as a blazing point in the eastern dawn, an hour before sunrise. Jupiter remains the only bright planet in the evening sky, appearing in the West below the star group Leo.

THE STARS IN JUNE – The Big Dipper begins to descend as summer begins. Nearly overhead in the evening hours is the bright orange star Arcturus, which lies off the Dipper's handle. The white-blue star Vega dominates the eastern sky. Late in the evening, Vega with two other bright stars forms the Summer Triangle in the East. Low in the Southeast is the pinkish star Antares, which marks the heart of the Scorpion.

ASTRONOMY ACTIVITIES IN JUNE – The Frostburg State Planetarium will have a number of 7 p.m. programs during June. Call 301-687-4270 and press 2 for dates and road directions. The planetarium is in Room 302 of Tawes Hall, across the street from the new Compton Science Center.

The Cumberland Astronomy Club will meet Friday, June 18, at the LaVale Public Library at 7:30 p.m. All sky gazers are welcome.

Introduction: Doyle writes this column for those who would like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards. To ask questions or get a free brochure or free summer sky charts, call the FSU Planetarium at 301-687-4270 and press 4. Doyle hosts "Sky Watch," a brief program on days of the week and sky sights that airs on weekday evenings just before 9 p.m. on WFWM on 91.9 FM in western Garrett County and at 96.3 FM around Oakland. Doyle's e-mail address is rdoyle@frostburg.edu.

Frostburg Honor Society Inducts Local Students

Frostburg State University's Phi Eta Sigma National Freshman Honor Society chapter recently inducted four Garrett County residents. Brandi Broadwater, Emily Cosner, Jodi Durst, and Stephen Knepp were among the 83 inductees who each earned a required grade point average of 3.5 or better during their freshman year.

Broadwater is an early childhood/elementary education major and a graduate of Northern High School. Her parents are Tracey and Lowell Broadwater of the Lonaconing area.

Cosner, an elementary education major, is a Southern High School graduate and the daughter of Steve and Janet Cosner of Oakland.

Durst, who is majoring in chemistry, is a Northern graduate. Her parents are Randy and Jenny Durst of Grantsville.

Knepp is an elementary education major and SHS graduate. He is the son of Steve and Amy Knepp of Oakland.

SWANTON

CHURCH NEWS

Otterbein United Methodist Church will have a roast beef dinner at the Swanton Community Center on Friday, June 4, beginning at 4 p.m. Dinners are $6 each. Everyone is welcome. All proceeds benefit the church.

Otterbein U.M. Church will hold Vacation Bible School June 28 through July 2 from 9 a.m. to noon each day. All children are welcome.

There were approximately 60 people attending the outdoor sing at the Swanton Community Center on Sunday where seven different individuals or groups performed. After a break for refreshments, there was more singing. The next sing is planned for July 11 and is open to anyone who would like to take part by singing or playing gospel music.

Sunday morning worship service at Otterbein U.M. Church feature singing by Gene Kidwell of Virginia.

4-H FUNDRAISER

Everyone is welcome to attend or may place orders by calling Mary at 301-387-5671 or 301-387-5650. Starting time is 6:30 p.m.

PERSONALS

Gerald Friend visited Melvin, Dotty, and Andrew Beckman Monday evening, May 17.

Saturday dinner guests of Mary June Harvey were Gene Adkins, Bosye, Va., Roland Adkins, Falls Church, Va., Diana Harver, Midlothia, Va., Thelma Skipper, Oakland, and Sandy Schofield, Bittinger.

St. John's Youth Slate Dinner; To Attend Gathering

The youth of St. John's Lutheran Church, Accident, will be going "Beyond Imagination" at the LCMS National Youth Gathering in Orlando, Fla., July 24-28.

In preparation for the event, they have conducted several fundraisers. The final one will be a chicken barbecue on Saturday, June 5, from 5 until 7 p.m. at the church pavilion, located along Cove Road, one mile from Northern High School.

The cost of the meal will be $6, which includes ½ chicken, cole slaw, baked beans, roll, and a drink. Desserts will be available for an additional charge. Take-out orders are also available.

The National Youth Gathering is one of the major projects of the Youth Ministry Office of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

"The gathering provides the opportunity for young people and adults to boldly come together in the name of Jesus Christ," said a church spokesperson. More than 30,000 are expected to attend the event.

E-RECYCLING EVENT WINNER ANNOUNCED – Theresa Walters, Grantsville, recently won a Panasonic Lumix digital camera. She and about 150 other local residents participated in last month's electronics recycling event conducted by the Garrett County Department of General Services, Solid Waste & Recycling Division. This is the second year that the event has been held. Nearly 23,000 pounds, or 11.46 tons, of old TVs, computers, stereos, printers, and other items were collected this year, compared to 6.16 tons last year. The participants' names were entered into a drawing for the camera, which was donated by Panasonic. Commissioner Fred Holliday drew the winning name. Residents also exchanged their environmentally hazardous mercury thermometers for safe digital ones during the event. The Solid Waste & Recycling office, located at 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road, still has digital thermometers available for exchange during regular business hours: Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. For more information about the county's free recycling program, persons may call 301-387-0322 or e-mail solidwaste@garrettcounty.org. Pictured is Holliday presenting Walters with the camera during this week's county commissioners' meeting.

LOCAL SCOUTS ATTEND "SPRING CAMPOREE" – Boy Scout Troop 95 recently attended the "Spring Camporee" in Fort Ashby, W.Va. The Scouts worked on their Fire Safety merit badges and the Emergency Preparedness Award. The troop is currently working on fundraisers for summer camp. A yard sale will be held during the Memorial Day weekend at 106 Roanoke Ave. in Loch Lynn. A car wash will also be conducted at Gregg's Pharmacy, Oakland, on June 5. Pictured, left to right, in the first row are Emily Rolf and Zachary Pritts, who were visiting the Scouts at the Spring Camporee. In the second row are Kenneth Hardesty, Cody Upole, James Rolf, and Gary Pritts. In the third row are Scoutmaster Stella Rolf, Elric Weeks, Shawn Hardesty, Christopher Linton, Tory Weeks, John Rolf, and Jonathan Cummings.

Local Car Club Donates To Oakland VFD

The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club made a $500 donation to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department in March. Glenna Miller, the club's treasurer, presented the check to Fred Callis, president of the OFVD.

The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club selects several organizations each year to receive donations from money earned at club events.

"The majority of the money was raised this past year at the Autumn Glory Car Show at Broadford Park," said a club spokesperson. "Nearly 100 vehicles were on display at the 2003 show. Chinese auctions, raffles, and 50/50 drawings, along with vehicle registration fees help raise money at club events."

The organization was founded in 1997 and is beginning its seventh year of car shows on the mountaintop. Members are from Garrett County and Preston and Tucker counties in West Virginia. Anyone interested in the antique and classic vehicle hobby is invited to join the car club. Ownership of a vehicle is not required to be a member.

Meetings are held on the second Thursday of each month at the Farmers' Wildlife Club in Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., during the summer months. For more information, persons may call Gene or Francie Evans at 304-735-5526 or Ron Heginbotham at 301-334-2838.

On Dean's List At Virginia Tech

Two Oakland area residents have been named to the dean's list for the spring 2004 semester at Virginia Tech.

Chris Remley is a senior majoring in civil and engineering in the College of Engineering.

Andrew Sisler is a senior majoring in management in the R.B. Pamplin College of Business.

To qualify for the dean's list, students must attempt at least 12 credit hours and earn at least a 3.4 grade-point average during the semester.

RYAN'S GLADE
by Katelyn Gnegy

The monthly meeting was held Tuesday, May 18, at the Ryan's Glade Community Center. Our program consisted of a guest speaker from Herrington Manor State Park, Chad Messerly. Mr. Messerly brought snakes and lizards for us to view. He told us about the kinds of snakes and lizards. We were able to actually see a snake eat a mouse, which he brought along with him.

After the program, we had our meeting. Aaron and Levi Lantz gave a report on the Garden Show at the Lighthouse on May 1. The Livestock Association meeting report was given by Willie Lantz, which was held at the Accident fire hall on May 17. We will have our annual hay ride and farm tour on June 8. We will be going to the farms to see the members' market animals, at which time they will give their demonstrations. We also need to bring food for the House of Hope food drive at that time.

We are selling Coke and Pepsi products as a fundraiser. Orders are due June 8, with a delivery set for June 22.

June 18 is weigh-in and livestock meeting at the fairgrounds. June 19 is also weigh-in and District Show for all livestock.

Our next meeting will be held June 8 at 6:30 p.m. Everyone is to meet at Arlene's.

Democratic Club Sets Deep Creek Supper Meeting

The upcoming monthly meeting of the Garrett County Democratic Club is slated for Wednesday, June 2, at the Tamarack Pavilion at Deep Creek Lake State Park. The event will get under way at 6 p.m. with a potluck supper, which will be followed by a speaker's program presented by Pat Unger, state president of the Democratic Women's Clubs.

In case of bad weather, the supper will still be at the park but the meeting and speaker's presentation will take place at 7 p.m. in the Continuing Education Building at Garrett College.

The Garrett County Democratic Club meets the first Wednesday of each month.

MAKING RECYCLING MAGICAL – Dennett Road, Kitzmiller, and Grantsville elementary schools were entertained this week by Timothy Wenk's show "The Magic of Recycling." Wenk gives a 45-minute live presentation for elementary school students that combines education and entertainment. "The children do not merely hear about recycling, but rather they actually see recycling magically taking place on stage," said a spokesperson. The Garrett County Landfill sponsored the day of magic. Since 1992, this presentation has been given to more than 2 million students in 38 states. Pictured above, from the left, are Wenk, Vivian Plain, Jaxon Schwab, Ben Riechard, Tess Watson, Anthony Cervi, and Jordyn Livengood.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

A co-worker in New York once remarked to me that he would never raise his children in any place but New York City because of all the cultural advantages, etc. I think he lived in a dream world thinking that he could afford Broadway shows or concerts for his children.

Anyway, I know our little rural community has as many cultural advantages. Very few non-parents would choose to go to a high school band concert for pure entertainment; however, I was entertained by the performance of the Northern High School chorus concert, dance team performance, and band concert as I was many times in New York City. As a parent and having the normal parental pride I felt in seeing my dancers, my clarinet player, and so many of my nieces and nephews, in addition to lots of kids belonging to my friends, it was great entertainment. One song featured trombone players consisting of three of my nephews, and I am pretty sure that their Uncle Scott was proudly smiling in Heaven because his instrument was also the trombone.

A fellow member of Accident Elementary School and Northern High School clarinet section, Charee Reckner, and I were amused how much better the musicals were for our daughters. Her daughter Michelle and my Claire were very good in the number featuring the clarinet section. I never dreamed that someday my daughter would be first-chair clarinet.

Our band parents and our children are feeling deep regret at the loss of our outstanding band director, Bill Robinson. He will move to Northern Middle School as the band teacher, but will still lend a hand with the Northern High School Marching Band.

When he received a bouquet of flowers from the band, Bill remarked he wished he had 13 outstanding senior awards to present, but he only had the John Phillip Sousa Award, and it was not a surprise that it went to his drum major, Jackie Brenneman. When the band performed the music for this year's field show, Jackie showed everyone what an excellent drum major and conductor she is. Although Jackie does not belong to the Bittinger Brennemans, I believe she lives fairly close. In any case, she is another lovely fruit from that big old family tree. I noticed with surprise a resemblance to my grandmother, Emma Brenneman Glotfelty, at least to the old picture of her when she was a young woman or girl.

But I have to give full credit to the chorus performance. Besides their high energy, their material was sure to please the parents, with a program of top popular songs since the 1950s. Only a few students in the Big Apple get a chance to be nurtured from such fine music teachers or get a chance to perform in such a fine show. Anyway, we Garrett Countains do not lack for semi-pro or professional performance.

Jane Avery developed a great local theatre, Our Town Theatre in Oakland. Of course, we can get our dose of classical music from the Garrett Lakes Art Festival performances during the summer. Garrett College has a fine drama department with a real pro at its head, Ben Sincell, who directed and designed the set for our production of The Elephant Man. I did the costumes for the performance and it was as fine of a college production as I have ever seen. We are no way just dumb hicks nor are our children deprived of cultural advantages.

I forgot to mention a few weeks ago when I wrote about the Teets girls performing at our Mother-Daughter Banquet that one of the songs brought tears to my eyes, which was an old number by Keith Roberts and Rob Smith, "Living on Garrett County Time." That song and their "Garrett Grapevine" say everything about our life here in "the sticks."

I sent two new paintings for the Art Gallery's new summer exhibit, which show some of the best aspects of our lives. One that will appeal to the rural life enthusiast is a soft, impersonal view of an old apple tree nestled in a spring field and woods. The other one is titled "Going, Going, Gone," which is a view of Deep Creek Lake in an earlier, more peaceful, era, before its landscape got

The following letter was written during WWII by our father, Robert Wendell Lohr to our grandfather Lawrence M. Fraley who was the mayor of Oakland at that time. This letter represents the sacrifices made by those who have served our country to preserve our freedom. During these turbulent and uncertain times we want to express our appreciation to those who have served and are now serving and will serve in the future. With fond memories and loving gratitude – Ann Lee Colaw, Robert F. Lohr and families.

Oakland, Maryland
March 1st, 1943

At the regular meeting held on above date the following action was taken on letter received from Mr. Robert W. Lohr. Asst Water and Street Supt.

Oakland, Maryland. March 1, 1943.

To the Honorable,
The Mayor and Town Council,
Oakland, Maryland.

Dear Sirs:

Having served Oakland as assistant Water and Street Superintendent for the past four years, and having worked to the best of my ability for the interest of the town, I have accomplished the job for which I was appointed, which was to study and learn the water and sewer systems in the town of Oakland.

As you know, our Nation is now at was, and I feel it is my patriotic duty to serve my country and help win the victory which I am sure will be ours, so that we and our children will have everlasting peace.

With this in mind, I have enlisted in the Armed Forces of our Country, and by this letter, I am asking for leave of absence, effective April 1, 1943, for the duration of the war.

Very truly yours,

Robert W. Lohr,
Asst Water and Street Supt.

On motion by Mr. Davis, seconded by Mr. Hesen, that request be granted Mr. Lohr, this 1st, day of March 1943.

Motion carried.

L. W. Fraley Mayor.

Clerk.

BITTINGER

overloaded with so many houses, developments, condos, etc.

The Bittinger 4-H Club members did their bit to keep Garrett County beautiful in fulfilling their role in "Adopt A Highway" Saturday morning. Nine club members and three adult leaders cleaned the roadside along Route 495, or as it is now called, Bittinger Road.

My area has not escaped the damage of our recent bout of storms. State Park Road and Rock Lodge Road were littered by not brush, but limbs, etc. Although our domestic rhododendron and azaleas are in blossom, the more beautiful wild rhododendron and mountain laurel along these roads are not yet in blossom.

Speaking of azaleas, I bought a small pink one and today, Rob Vagnetti dropped by and did a few little outside jobs that I can't do for myself, including loading my bird feeder with seeds.

Since the gasoline prices are soaring, I can't take a trip anywhere for just one task or errand, so I took a swing around Bittinger, which included a stop at Brenneman's Store to pick up some ice cream treats and then down the road to get my gas tank filled up at Buckel's Store, which has the lowest gas price in Bittinger. I also picked up a package of fly strips. Already those pests are numerous and so annoying. Then I went home by the back way to take some pictures of the scenery. The best sight was a field at the end of Foxtown Road, a grassy field with lovely white nanny goats and their adorable baby goats beside them.

However, we have not as yet seen anything of the plague of the 17-year-locust, or cicada. The only clear memory of the sound of thousands of them was during a week visit to my Cumberland cousins, Jenny and Kim Adams. Thirty-four years ago (1970) I was a teenager, but I remember that visit very much. If you go back another 17 years, I would be just a baby and I know that it is not possible to remember them then.

I do remember many returns of the ugly tent worms. I believe they are supposed to appear every seven years, and they are around this summer. It is a kind of insect congregation.

We had another yellow jacket hoard about 10 years or so ago. I am not sure when it was, but I do know I had several young children outside on our lawn being threatened constantly by stings. I never, ever had seen so many yellow jackets. I think it was a pretty wet spring like this year.

It looks like we may be in for another thunderstorm today. It would be nice if the rain just stopped by June for the first round of haymaking because the grass is already growing and growing. Ask any homeowner with a big lawn and they are pretty much full-time at lawn mowing.

There is no time the weather becomes more important than in June, at least to farmers, depending on their first crop of hay to provide a year of feed for their livestock. Every farmer who has a field covered with thick grass faces the scary thing of to cut or not. That is the question! Hopefully they can depend on a full four or five dry days in a row. If not rare, it is at least unusual on our tableland, because any water in the air west of us will sure fall once it hits our mountains. Even with the predictions of the weather on the Weather Channel or the Internet, it still sometimes is more reliable by gut feeling or taking the cue from the behavior of the birds and animals. You can speed the drying process by turning over the half-dry hay, but that takes lots of gasoline, and you know what that means these days. Lots of green, not green like grass, but greenbacks. Or you can rely on praying, too.

School is almost out and because of the plans to renovate Northern High School during this summer, NHS students had to take all their final exams two weeks before school is out. But it doesn't mean they do not have to attend the last two weeks – just as long as they are there, whether they are doing work or not, so the school can count it as in session. However, it really does not make sense if they do little school work and watch videos to spend that much gasoline. It is insane in my opinion. I assume Dick Cheney will have a different opinion based on his investments in the oil companies.

Let's look at a bright piece for our farming economy. I saw several reports on the news that you can lose more weight even without dieting by consuming more dairy products like milk, cheese, yogurt, and especially ice cream, and with two daughters working at Lakeside Creamery and with Brenneman's Store serving soft ice cream, go for those dairy products!

The Shimers Celebrate 50 Years

William and Martha Shimer will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary with an open house at the Westernport Church of the Brethren on Saturday, June 19, from 2 to 4 p.m. The event will be hosted by their children, Bill and Melva Shimer and Pam and Jeff Fike.

The couple were married on June 6, 1954, at the South Norfolk Baptist Church, Chesapeake Va., with the Rev. Frank Hughes Jr. officiating.

Following the ceremony and a short trip to Niagara Falls, N.Y., they resided in that area until April 1957, when they returned to take up residence in Westernport, where they still live.

William retired from MeadWestvaco in 1993, after 36 years of service. He also retired as pastor of the Bear Creek Church of the Brethren in Accident in 1994, having served there for 25 years, and he is presently serving as interim pastor at the Westernport Church of the Brethren.

Some invitations have been sent, but all friends and family are invited to attend.

The couple request that no gifts be bought or sent. Greetings may be sent to Pamela Fike, 285 Jasper Riley Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

The church is located at 198 Oakview Drive, Westernport.

Knox-Beachy Nuptials Slated

The children of John T. Beachy and Donna K. Knox announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their parents. The wedding is set for 5 p.m. Saturday, June 12, at the Oak Grove Mennonite Church. A western reception will follow at Bietschehof Farm, located west of Grantsville along Zehner Road.

Although invitations have been sent, all friends and family are invited to attend.

Miss Statler To Wed Mr. Barnard

Catherine Mae Statler and Austin Scott Barnard recently announced their upcoming wedding.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Gary and Janet Statler, Core, W.Va. She is a 1997 graduate of Clay-Battle High School and a 2002 graduate of West Virginia University with a master's degree in elementary education. She will graduate this month with a master's degree in technology education. She is currently a substitute teacher for Monongalia County Schools.

The prospective groom is the son of Kenneth and Debra Barnard of Terra Alta, W.Va. He is a 1998 graduate of Preston High School and a 2002 graduate of West Virginia University with a bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering and mechanical engineering. He currently works for the MH-60 Black Hawk office of the Technology Applications Program Office for the United States Army in support of Special Operations Aviation. He resides in Newport News, Va.

The wedding is planned for June 26 at the Olive United Methodist Church in Pentress, W.Va. Invitations will be sent.

Ms. Ludholtz To Wed Mr. Turney

Katrina Lee Ludholtz, Fulks Run, Va., and Christopher Shawn Turney, Harrisonburg, Va., announce their engagement and forthcoming wedding.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Larry and Kathy Reedy of Fulks Run, and a 1995 graduate of Broadway High School in Broadway, Va. She is a shift supervisor for Rite-Aid Pharmacy in Timberville, Va.

The prospective groom is the son of Merle K. and Donna Turney, Friendsville. He is a 1992 graduate of Northern High School and earned his doctorate of pharmacy degree from Shenandoah University, Bernard J. Dunn School of Pharmacy. He is employed as a pharmacy department manager at Wal-Mart in Harrisonburg.

An October 30, 2004, wedding is planned.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Thirteen couples applied for their marriage licenses during the last two weeks, according to David Martin, clerk of the Garrett County Circuit Court.

Jason Glenn Friend, 27, Oakland, and April Ranae Walsh, 24, Accident.

Robert Glenn Ford Jr., 49, Oakland, and Lynda Jones, 43, Mtn. Lake Park.

Harry Jackson Wallis, 61, and Janet Biser Wallis, 60 both of Accident (former husband and wife).

Andrew Joseph McKenzie, 24, and Krista Rochelle Spiker, 24, both of Frostburg.

Brian Bernard May, 30, North Versailles, Pa., and Jena Lynn DeMore, 26, White Oak, Pa.

A Tribute to America's Heroes
To those who lost their lives serving the country they loved. To those who left behind wives, husbands, children, mothers, fathers and friends. To those who bravely battled with everything they had. To those who understood better than anyone the importance of freedom and justice for all. To our honored dead, we offer our undying gratitude and utmost respect.
As we celebrate Memorial Day and remember yesterday's soldiers, we're also reminded of the heroic efforts and sacrifices being made by the men and women in our Armed Forces today. As they continue to defend liberty, freedom and justice far from home, our prayers are with them.

Custer To Attend Dames Seminar In Washington DC

Shaina Custer, a junior at Northern High School, was one of four Maryland students recently awarded an all-expense scholarship trip to the Washington Workshops Congressional Seminar by the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America.

The Congressional Seminar is a weeklong session with three distinct lines of inquiry: learning and listening to debates about today's issues from government officials, conveying thoughts to men and women who actually run the government, and learning from each other by exchanging different views and opinions.

The topic for this year is "What role should the United States play in keeping peace in other parts of the world."

To be eligible for this scholarship, students in 10th, 11th, or 12th grade submitted a 500-word essay.

The seminar will take place from June 19 through 25, and the approximate value is $950, which pays for all seminar activities, plus college dorm rooms and two meals a day. Funds toward travel and the few miscellaneous expenses are provided by some state societies.

Shaina is the daughter of Sharon and Paul Custer, Accident.

HONORING THE MEMORIES OF THOSE DECEASED – Hospice of Garrett County Inc. recently held its annual memorial service at the Bittinger Fire Department to honor the memories of deceased hospice patients and volunteers. Pastor Alan Birkby of the Baptist Harvest Church gave the pastoral message. Special music was provided by the Quartet of the McHenry United Methodist Church. Jane Sealing, Hospice director of bereavement, served as chairperson, and Karen Otto was the pianist for the evening. Pictured above, in the front from the left, are Sealing; Charee Reckner, director of clinical services and singer; Lillian Reckner, pianist for the quartet; Doug Gaither, singer; Otto; and Brenda Butscher, executive director. In the back are Ida Maust, volunteer coordinator and reader of the names of the deceased; Ed DeWitt, singer; Ed Bittinger, singer; and Birkby. Below are Amy Welch, office manager, and Butscher lighting the candles in memory of the deceased.

Frostburg Elks Set WWII Mem'l. Dedication Event

The Frostburg Elks Lodge 470 has planned a special day to honor all veterans on Saturday, May 29, beginning at noon. A spokesperson said, "We want to thank those men and women who have served in our military. We want to especially honor those who served in World War II, and we would like to have as many World War II veterans attend as possible."

The World War II Monument will be dedicated in Washington, D.C. on that date, and the proceedings will be broadcast on the large-screen televisions at the lodge.

Lunch will be available, including barbecue sandwiches, hot dogs, and baked beans.

The lodge is located on Main Street in Frostburg. Anyone needing more information may call 301-895-3455 or 301-689-6470.

ASK FOR THE MOON!

Property owners often rationalize their asking price when selling their home with comments like: "I've added two rooms and a garage since buying my home, so my asking price will have to be $137,000."

They may also place a certain intangible value based on sentiment, i.e. "My father and mother raised seven children in this home. It's very special, so I must have more for it." They may add up debts for a boat, college educations, perceived equity, and the mortgage balance to arrive at an equally unreasonable asking price.

No matter how sellers arrive at their asking price, buying prospects will only ask themselves one question. "How does this home compare to others I've seen?" That's the way the free market system works – supply and demand.

As long as there is an adequate supply of homes from which to choose, buyers will compare before making a purchase. They will measure features and amenities offered against their own personal value system, then calculate an offering price that makes sense to them. They will then generally offer that price, and not a penny more. The ready supply of other available homes provides an easy switch to home choice "B" or "C".

How, then, can sellers be certain they will attract buyers by asking a fair price? They can ask their representative for detailed, comprehensive facts about other homes which have sold in their area. By comparing prices, terms, features and amenities, just as buyers will, they can easily arrive at the appropriate price for their home.

Once that price is known, sellers should apply that price, without reservation, to their home. To do otherwise is to dispute the concept that buyers are smart enough to compare homes and make informed decisions about price. Spring Cleaning: Don't Forget the Medicine Cabinet

A new study which looked at family medicine cabinets concluded that most of us dispose of outdated medicines. However, a surprising 20% of those surveyed admitted that they do not trash over-the-counter or prescription medications even when they realize that the products are expired. Almost three in four Americans reported having cleaned out their medicine cabinet or shelf in the past year. Almost half of those responding claimed to have checked the expiration date before taking an over-the-counter medicine while just under a third sometimes checked when they remembered to do so. When it came to prescription drugs, 57% of people said they always checked expiration dates while 20% checked only when they remembered. Almost 20% of those surveyed never checked the expiration date on the drugs.

Keeping all medicines in their original containers with clearly readable dates, names, and strengths can make spring-cleaning your medicine cabinet easier. Any drug that has changed in color or smell should be discarded.

Generation Fit Race Benefits Broad Ford

The "Generation Fit Steps to Better Health" 2-mile team race took place at Deep Creek Lake State Park last month, as 42 competitors ranging in age from 3 to 74 took part. The event led to a donation that was presented to Broad Ford Elementary School for nutrition and physical activity supplies, because Broad Ford had the most participating students and employees.

The top three individual finishers, listed from first through third, were Dr. Art Siemann, Suzanne Wilburn, and Dr. William Pope. The top three team finishers were Andrew Siemann, Art Siemann, and Barb Surgent; Ryan Wilburn, Suzanne Wilburn, and Lillian Mitchell; and D. J. Ritchie, David Ritchie, and Judy Richmond.

Dr. Siemann, a Frostburg State University professor, delivered a brief presentation on proper race walking techniques prior to the start of the race.

The event was sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, Frostburg State University, and the Queen City Striders.

NMS STUDENTS ENRICHED – Sixth graders at Northern Middle School recently took part in three days of enrichment activities. Each student picked a category of interest for an afternoon program, with options including container gardening, calligraphy, clogging, scrapbooking, tennis, photography, chocolate making, fractured fairy tales, hand-bell instruction, fishing, golfing, gameboarding, mountain biking, using a Global Positioning Instrument, nature, baseball, and exploring. Potential mountain bikers are pictured above as they learn from instructor Josh Frick, High Mountain Sports/Appalachian Mountain Tours. Below are Allie Shumaker, Laura Schroyer, and Coutney Minnick (with her back to the camera) working on container gardens. That session was taught by Shari DeWitt. Photos by John McEwen.

Reams Receives FSU Academic Excellence Award

Billy Reams of the Oakland area recently received an Academic Excellence Award to study at Frostburg State University this fall.

It was announced earlier that Reams has also been awarded a $10,000 engineering scholarship from Northrup Grumman, making him one of only 23 students in the state of Maryland to receive this award.

Reams is a senior at Southern High School, where he has been a consistent honor roll student, has been named to the National Honor Roll and listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, was named a Student of the Month, and has received several Minds in Motion awards. He is an avid baseball player and was named Best Pitcher in 2001 and Lead Hitter/MVP in 2002 for the junior varsity squad. He has been the starting catcher and one of the varsity team's leading hitters the past two seasons.

Reams, who is the son of Brad and Lenora Reams, will major in engineering at FSU.

by Dr. Thomas P. Sheahen

GASOLINE: REGULAR OR PREMIUM

Q – I've been putting premium gas in my car for several years, and it runs fine; but with the price going way up, I wonder if it's worth it? Could I use regular gas?

A – For the great majority of drivers, buying premium gas is a complete waste of money. Regular gas is just fine for nearly all cars.

Real gasoline is a mixture of several very similar chemicals, most of which have the formula C_8H_{18}, which means 8 carbon atoms and 18 hydrogen atoms. The word "octane" comes from the 8 carbon atoms. The difference between regular and premium gas is given by the octane rating, a number like 87 for regular and 93 for premium. The octane rating is sort of a numerical indicator of the explosive power of the gasoline.

A mixture of gasoline vapor and air goes into each cylinder, and when the spark plug fires, it explodes. The power of the explosion pushes the piston downward, turns the crankshaft, and moves the car. Ideally, that explosion is an orderly event, in which the (very rapid) burning of the fuel releases energy steadily to push the piston away smoothly. This is where the octane rating makes a difference.

For most of the 20th century, that smoothness of the explosion was achieved by putting tetraethyl lead into gasoline. Of course, that caused a certain amount of lead-bearing chemicals to go out the exhaust pipe, and those were very unhealthy for people to breathe. So now we have entirely "unleaded" gasoline, and all modern engines are designed to run on such gasoline.

For maximum power, the mixture of gasoline molecules and air molecules has to be just right. If the air should contain fewer molecules, then the octane rating of the gasoline can be less. Therefore, in some parts of the country at higher altitude, like Denver, regular gasoline has an octane rating of only 85.

Only when a car has a high-compression engine does it actually need the higher octane rating associated with premium gasoline. High compression means that the volume of the mixture that enters the cylinder is squeezed down into a very small volume just before the spark plug fires, which results in a more powerful explosion. To make such an explosion occur smoothly requires higher-octane gasoline.

There are very few cars with high-compression engines, and therefore very few cars require premium gasoline. Meanwhile, manufacturers sometimes figure that they can give the car buyer a feeling of greater prestige if they say "use premium gasoline." However, the only real criterion is the compression-ratio of the engine.

How can you tell? When the explosions are not smooth, you'll hear it: The engine will "ping." That condition can be due to various things, including faulty fuel injectors, incorrect timing, etc. One possible reason for pinging could be that the octane rating is too low for the engine.

It is possible to run a fairly simple test to see if your engine is pinging. Accelerate your car up a long hill and listen carefully to the engine as your speed increases. (In Garrett County, there are plenty of such hills available, including the famous Route 135 coming westbound out of Bloomington, up Backbone Mountain.) If there is no pinging, relax and save money by using regular gasoline.

If you do hear pinging, then run a tankful or two of premium through the engine, and come back several days later to try the test again. With premium gas in the tank, if the pinging still persists, then it's due to some other cause (timing, whatever...) and you may want to consider getting a tune-up.

The world of gasoline-additives is an entirely separate story. Auto parts stores carry a huge selection of brands of various additives, with prices from $1 to $15. Before you spend any money on those, better read what is written about them by reputable testing services, such as Consumer Reports.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Md. Republicans Hold Convention; Elect Delegates

The Maryland Republican Party recently met in Ocean City for the 2004 Republican Spring Convention. Louis M. Pope was elected to fill the unexpired term of Richard Taylor as the Maryland national committeeman. Taylor, who served 20 years in that position, had to resign for health reasons.

The state party also elected Joyce Lyons Terhes to serve a four-year term as Republican national committeewoman. She is from Calvert County and had served as the state party chairman from 1989 to 1998. She was the first woman to serve in that position in Maryland Republican history.

Twelve at-large delegates and 12 at-large alternate delegates were elected to served at the Republican National Convention in New York, beginning on Aug. 30. These newly elected at-large delegates will join the 48 delegates that were elected according to Congressional District during the recent Maryland primary.

Locally, Brenda Butscher was elected an at-large alternate delegate. She will be an alternate for State Senator Donald Munson of Washington County. This will be the seventh Republican National Convention that Butscher has attended as either a delegate or an alternate.

In addition to Butscher, local residents attending the state's spring convention as voting members were DeCorsey Bolden, Sheila O'Neill, David Thomas, and Ruth Umbel, all members of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee.

Volunteers who would like to help elect Republicans, register voters, or work in the local Republican headquarters, may call Butscher at 301-334-4500.

Sisler Named To Nat'l Honor Roll

Andrew Sisler, a sixth grader at Northern Middle School, was recently recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll winner.

His name will appear in the United States Achievement Academy yearbook, which is published nationally.

ATTENTION!

There will be no meeting at the Deer Park VFW for the month of June because of the state convention.

The meeting for July will be July 8, at 7pm.

GC Sets One-Session Middle East Survey

A one-night Survey of U.S. Foreign Policy in the Middle East Since World War I course is scheduled for Thursday, June 24, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Garrett College. The class will be taught by Col. Sam Smith, a former military intelligence officer and a historian of world religions, who will present a timeline of events from the end of the first World War to the present, a review of U.S. foreign policy as it developed with respect to the countries in the Middle East, and the rising antagonism of those countries toward the United States.

Beginning with the ending of World War I when the Ottoman Empire was dissolved and the countries now known as the Middle East were established, the course will focus on U.S. foreign policy as it has developed with respect to those countries. According to Smith, the survey will show how during the first four decades of the 20th century the U.S. had only missionary, philanthropic, educational and commercial interests in the Middle East, and that it wasn't until World War II that the area became essential to American security interests. At that time Iran became a corridor for transporting supplies to the Soviet Union and North Africa, and became a jumping off point for the invasion of Sicily and Italy.

The course will also address the continuing importance of the Middle East to U.S. security, the politics of oil, the rise of nationalism and its consequences, the issues involved with the establishment of Israel as a national entity, and the rising antagonism of the Middle Eastern countries toward the U.S. Students will be given a course outline, time line of major events, and bibliography of supplemental readings by the instructor.

Smith has spent most of his adult life in military intelligence, served in the U.S. Army during World War II, then at the beginning of the Korean War joined the Central Intelligence Agency as a military intelligence officer where he served until 1994 and held senior level positions. His areas of primary concern were with Communist Bloc military forces of the USSR and Eastern Europe and certain Communist Asian countries such as China, North Korea, and North Vietnam.

Following the Arab-Israeli War in 1973, he was asked to develop a military data base and a military analysis capability on the Middle Eastern countries for the CIA's Director of Intelligence. During that assignment Smith became a student of Islam and of political and military developments in the region.

During his years of service with the CIA and his affiliation with the U.S. Marine Corps in an intelligence context, Smith received numerous commendations, citations, awards, and medals for outstanding service. He attended The George Washington University's schools of Government and Law, and the graduate schools of Rutgers University and the University of Virginia.

Students may register for the course by calling the Continuing Education and Training Office of the college at 301-387-3069.

Post 71 To Mark WWII Memorial Dedication Event

This weekend's dedication ceremonies for the National World War II Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., will be marked with a special program and dinner at the American Legion Proctor Kildow Post #71 this Saturday, May 29.

All WWII era veterans are invited to attend the event, which will get under way at 1:30 p.m. with a dedication program and a time for camaraderie with fellow veterans. A large screen TV will be available to watch the memorial's dedication ceremonies on the National Mall.

A dinner will also be served, and each veteran will receive free gifts.

"The Memorial will permanently honor all those who served during this critical time in our history," a Legion spokesperson said. "On this special day of dedication, our community will join the nation to remember these special heroes and to say, 'Thank You.'"

Any veterans who are not currently members of the American Legion may call 301-334-9092, 301-334-3312, or 301-334-2228 for membership details.

Dance Set To Raise Funds For Local Soldiers

A benefit dance for local soldiers is slated for Friday, June 18, from 8 to 11 p.m. at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company fire hall in McHenry. The family-oriented event will raise funds to help assemble personal care packages for local members of the Maryland Army National Guard 253rd, which was recently deployed to southwest Asia.

Music will be provided by disc jockey Jimmie Beitzel, and refreshments will be sold. The cost to attend is $4 per person, and anyone with military identification will be admitted at no cost. For further information, persons may call 301-746-8717.

Oakland Resident Preparing For Life-Changing Honduran Mission

by Renée Shreve

Dorothy Buser is preparing for a life-changing experience. The Oakland resident will depart on June 10 for an 11-day medical/missionary trip to Honduras. She welcomes the new challenge.

"I've always wanted to take a mission like this one, and I really like the idea of the medical part of it," said the mother of two grown children and grandmother of four. Dorothy will be part of the MAMA (Mujeres Amigas Miles Apart) Project: A Network of Health and Wholeness for Children of Honduras.

A clinical at the Garrett Medical Group, Dorothy will accompany her colleague nurse practitioner Cathy Chapman – a veteran of eight Honduran missions. She made her first trip in 1997 and began working with the MAMA Project in 1998. Except for the first two years, Cathy has organized and led missionary teams from Garrett and surrounding counties.

"We hear people talk sometimes about a life changing experience," Cathy said. "Honduras really is a life-changing experience. You don't come back the same person that you were when you left. The things that you see, your experiences, will impact your thinking forever."

Based in Pennsburg, Pa., MAMA Project Inc. began in 1987 as a partnership between Mennonite women's groups in Honduras and North America. Project volunteers travel to rural and urban villages, providing Hondurans with access to medical care, better nutrition, educational opportunities, and "spiritual wholeness."

MAMA also provides educational scholarships; operates 23 preschool centers; helps farm families increase their productivity; holds workshops on nutrition, hygiene, sewing, and gardening; and is involved in numerous other endeavors. The organization focuses on long-term preventative measures rather than temporary fixes, according to its web site.

SAY AHHH – Nurse practitioner Cathy Chapman, Garrett Medical Group, is shown above examining a Honduran child during her medical/missionary trip in 2000. For the last several years, Chapman has led teams of area residents to the Central American country as part of the MAMA (Mujeres Amigas Miles Apart) Project. She and seven other residents will depart again on June 10 for another 11-day mission. See story for details. During their mission, the team members will experience a country of extreme beauty and extreme harshness. In a land where 80 percent of the residents live in poverty, homes like the one pictured below are a common sight. The team will stay in its adopted community, Las Vegas de Santa Barbara, and travel from village to village, giving vitamin A and deparisitizing medicine to children, combating malnutrition, providing general medical care, and conducting Christian missionary work. The photo at the far right is from Chapman's trip last year. Oscar Meijia, a Honduran who attends school in the United States, is shown in the forefront administering medicine to a very young child, while his older sister, far right, supervises. Chapman first met the girl when she was two years old. Though only six years old last year, the girl, like many Honduran children, was responsible for her younger siblings while her parents worked.

Brenneman, Accident; Val Latigis and Page Frantz, Allegany County; and Brenda Liller and Wayne Yoder, Mineral County, W.Va.

Cathy and Megan also went to Honduras last year, along with Faye Bittinger, Carla Cumberworh, Angie Otto, and Andrea Opel, all of Garrett County.

"This year, in addition to Mennonite churches, we have people from Assembly of God and Church of God," said Cathy. "We view ourselves as a Christian team here in the U.S. going to help God's children in Honduras. Denominational beliefs are never an issue."

To help finance their trip, the members met four times during recent months to prepare nearly 2,000 apple dumplings in the well-equipped kitchen of the Pinto Mennonite Church. They made the treats in batches of 450 to 500 and then sold them to friends, family, and other supporters of their work. They are also relying on donations and business sponsors.

Considered a medical team, these local volunteers will be staying in their "adopted" area – Las Vegas de Santa Barbara, a mining community about 5,000 feet up in the mountains.

"The MAMA Project is encouraging teams to 'adopt' a community so that we can establish ongoing relationships with the people there," Cathy said.

She and her crew will work with the Cruz Roja (Red Cross), the Las Vegas mayor, and the mayor's wife. The nurse practitioner explained that the mayor is more like a county commissioner in that he is in charge of a geographic location rather than just a town. The mayor's wife, who is active in the Cruz Roja, will schedule the villages (called aldeas) that the team visits

The Spirit of Unselfish Love

Right from the very first footstep,
Whether at work, or at play,
We've all had a special companion to lovingly show the way.

With a heart of unending compassion,
She always had patience to spare;
When times didn't look very hopeful,
We always knew somebody cared!

We all have this "guardian angel,"
A wonderful gift from above.
Most of us know her as Mother...
The spirit of unselfish love!

We miss you, mom!

GC MATH CLUB PREPS FOR HAWAII CONFERENCE – Seven Garrett College education majors will be in Honolulu next month discussing the use of technology in the classroom with fellow students and educators from at least 10 nations at the second annual Hawaii International Conference on Statistics and Related Fields. They will also actively contribute to a presentation by Drs. Nancy and Stephen Priselac on applications of a statistical program using Fathom software provided by Key Curriculum. "Our students are all very excited about learning new techniques they very well may use as they enter the clinical phase of their education at their chosen four-year college," stated Nancy Priselac. Pictured from the left are Holly Shaffer, Tabitha Beitzel, Megan Sisler, Priselac, Math Club president Philip Gordon, Miranda Savage, Ronald Bray, and Shasta Tasker. "We've planned all year for this presentation, and will continue our fund-raising efforts until a week before we leave," Gordon commented. "We thank Garrett College Student Association and the college community for supporting us."

each day.

Half of the group, which includes Dorothy, will give vitamin A to children and deparisitizing medicine to children and adults. According to the World Health Organization, vitamin A deficiency (VAD) is the leading cause of preventable blindness in children and raises the risk of disease and death from severe infections. In pregnant women, VAD causes night blindness and may increase the risk of maternal mortality.

"In Honduras, children still get night blindness from vitamin A deficiency and all the water is contaminated, even city water," Cathy said. "People who can afford it buy bottled water, but the poor people drink the water and have parasites. Eighty percent of Hondurans live at the poverty level."

The team will also help alleviate malnutrition. "We try to keep our eyes open for malnourished children when we are out in the villages," she said. "In Honduras, malnutrition is considered a social problem, not a medical problem, and these kids are denied medical treatment and admission to hospitals."

The missionaries will encourage mothers to take their malnourished children to the MAMA's nutritional center in San Francisco de Yajoa, where families can stay free of charge for one month.

"The child's malnutrition is corrected while mom gets education on nutrition, child care, parenting skills, and gardening," said the team leader. "The center has extensive gardens. Moms leave with seeds to start their own gardens as well as a pregnant rabbit and a laying hen so they will have an ongoing source of protein when they get home."

The other half of Cathy's team will treat sick patients. A nurse will triage the patients. For example, if they want just vitamins or Tylenol for a headache, she will give that to them. "If they are sick or need a prescription med," said Cathy, "she sends them to me. I get donations of meds from drug companies, as well as buy meds with cash donations."

The team will also do missionary work – witnessing and singing Christian songs to the children. Though she doesn't speak that language, Dorothy is learning several songs in Spanish, such as "Jesus Loves Me."

This year's mission will also include something new. Megan is part of the Puppet Team at Glade Mennonite Church and is arranging a show for the Honduran children.

"We are also hoping to do a show with a health care topic such as the importance of handwashing, boiling the water before drinking it, etc.," Cathy said. "This is something we have wanted to do for several years, but just didn't have the expertise to do it. Meagan has a lot of experience with puppets and is bringing this dream to fruition."

With their departure date just a few days away, the team members will be busy getting their final series of hepatitis, typhoid, and malaria shots, checking on their passports, and packing. Because there is a baggage-weight limitation, they will take very few personal items and changes of clothing. That way, there will be more room for essentials, such as medical supplies and peanut butter.

"We have a woman cook breakfast and lunch for us each day – wonderful Honduran food!" said Cathy. "Then we pack peanut butter and jelly sandwiches and fruit for lunch each day. Peanut butter in Honduras is very expensive and, therefore, hard to find. We have to take our own peanut butter down."

Through e-mails and at the apple-dumpling-making meetings, Cathy has oriented her team members on what to expect in Honduras.

HIGH SCHOOLS RECEIVE COMPUTERS – Southern and Northern high schools each recently received a Gateway computer, donated by Wal-Mart. Area Residents Earn Advanced Degrees At VPI

Garrett County natives Heidi Heller and Eric Tressler were awarded advanced degrees during Virginia Polytechnic Institute's 132nd commencement in Blacksburg recently.

Heller, a Deer Park resident, earned a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree from the Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine.

Tressler, an Oakland resident, was awarded a master of science degree in mathematics from the College of Science. He also achieved summa cum laude status.

Virginia Tech is the largest university in the Commonwealth of Virginia, and approximately 5,200 bachelor's, master's, and Ph.D. degrees were awarded by Virginia Tech President Charles W. Steger. ABC News Justice Department correspondent and Virginia Tech alumnus Pierre Thomas delivered the commencement address.

Fike Named Class VP At Bridgewater

Jared Fike has been elected senior class vice president for the 2004-2005 academic year at Bridgewater College, Va.

A 2001 graduate of Southern High School, Fike is an economics and business administration major at Bridgewater College. He is the son of Carl and Suzie Fike of Oakland.

Graduates Cum Laude From William & Mary

Garrett County resident Daniel Rounds has graduated from the College of William & Mary in Williamsburg, Va., where he earned cum laude honors and an overall 3.57 grade point average. He double majored in history and government.

Rounds was a member of the Golden Key International Honor Society and the National Honor Society for both history and government. He was named to the William & Mary dean's list four times during his studies, and achieved a 4.0 GPA his senior year.

The 2000 graduate of Northern High School is the son of David and Sharon Rounds of Grantsville. He will attend the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College of William & Mary in the fall.

Cove Christian Camp Spaces Still Available

Spaces are still available at Cove Christian Camp for each of the four weeks that the day camps will be held this year. Located along Cove Road just north of Northern High School, Cove Christian Camp is sponsored by St. John's Lutheran Church (LCMS), Accident.

The day camps are as follows: pre-kindergarten through first grade students, July 6-9 and July 12-16; and second through fourth grade students, July 19-23 and July 26-30.

The theme for the first week of each age group will be "Adventure Trails that Lead to Jesus."

"If you want your children to have a truly Christian adventure this summer that will impact their hearts as well as their lives," stated Pastor Kabell, "then you will want to send your child to this particular week of camp."

During this week of camp the children will be making tool boxes, sheep ornaments, and garden stones, as well as decorating ships. Each day the children will make their own afternoon snack that coordinates with the story of the day, such as bird nests, man on a mat, and sand cake.

The second week, the age groups will be part of "God's Team in Action"; this is an Olympic theme.

"Your child can feel like an Olympic athlete without the expense and training of going to Athens, Greece, this summer when you send your child to this week of camp," emphasized Pastor Kabell. "But it's not all about sports. It's about being a spiritual champion for Jesus Christ."

Each day of this week of camp, the children will hear about an athlete who has put God as his or her "team leader." The children will be making crafts, playing games, and participating in a decathlon.

Each week of camp will also be filled with puppets, songs, stories, crafts, activities, games, and much more. There will even be a water day each week, noted Kabell.

"Specifically designed for children in pre-kindergarten through fourth grade, Cove Christian Camp will provide a safe, loving place for children to interact," he said. "The purpose of this summer day camp program is mainly to share the Gospel of Jesus with the children in our community and beyond. The day camps are an alternative to traditional day care."

Persons interested in registering a child, or several children, or wanting more information about the camps may e-mail Kabell at covechristjancamp@hotmail.com or call the camp at 301-746-8466 to receive a brochure and registration form.

TV PIPELINE

Poppy from Down Under has rosy career

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Poppy Montgomery

Q: A brief bio, please, of Poppy Montgomery ("Without a Trace"). Is she related to Elizabeth or Robert Montgomery? –R.E.E., El Paso, Texas.

A: No, but she isn't lacking for relatives. The fifth of 10 children, all named for flowers, Montgomery was born Poppy Petal Ema Elizabeth Deveraux Donahue in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia, but took her mother's maiden name professionally.

At 18, she moved to Los Angeles, reportedly toting a copy of the book "How to Make It in Hollywood." Since then, she has appeared in such films as "Devil in a Blue Dress," "Dead Man on Campus," "The Other Sister" and "Life," but is perhaps best known for her acclaimed turn as Marilyn Monroe in the 2001 miniseries "Blonde." Previous series roles include "Relativity," "The Beat" and "Glory Days."

The actress, who turns 32 on June 19, co-stars with Paul Schneider ("All the Real Girls") in "50 Ways to Leave Your Lover," a romantic comedy.

Q: Are any of the actors on Showtime's "Queer as Folk" really gay? And is the British miniseries on which the Showtime series is based available on DVD? –Peter Russ, Sacramento, Calif.

A: Among the primary cast members, three are openly gay: Robert Gant (Ben), Randy Harrison (Justin) and Peter Paige (Emmett). The UK "QAF" is available from Amazon.com and other major retailers.

Q: I heard that Earl Hindman (Wilson on "Home Improvement") died recently. What happened, and can you tell us of other work he did? –J. Elwell via e-mail.

A: Hindman, who died of lung cancer at 61 last December, may be best known to millions for hiding half his face on "Home Improvement." (This was a running gag that a surprising number of the show's fans never understood, judging by my mailbag.) But his mug was certainly familiar to those of us who remember him as an original cast member of the ABC soap "Ryan's Hope" back in the 1970s, as well as feature films and TV movies such as "The Parallax View," "The Taking of Pelham One Two Three," "Silverado," "Three Men and a Baby" and the miniseries "War and Remembrance."

Hindman also made guest appearances in series including "Spenser: For Hire," "The Equalizer," "L.A. Law" and "Law & Order: Criminal Intent." An accomplished stage actor, Hindman also took the title role in a New York production of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" just months before his death.

The fondly remembered actor is survived by Molly, his wife of 27 years, and their two children.

Local Retrievers Find New Home, Thanks To Volunteers' Team Effort

by Lisa Baker, Garrett County Humane Society member, as told to Renée Shreve

Paddington and Ollie, two yellow Labrador/golden retriever mixes, were recently brought into Countryside Animal Hospital near Oakland by their owner, who requested that a new home be found for them. There had been an incident involving neighboring dogs, and the retrievers' master felt it would be best if Paddington and Ollie had new homes.

Normally, owners would be instructed to take their pets to the Garrett County Animal Shelter in a case like this, but because the retrievers had been his patients for many years, Dr. Paul Deal said he would try to find new owners for them. He asked me to help, and a complicated, but interesting team effort began.

The dogs' pictures and descriptions were immediately listed on the Petfinder web site by Paula Bentley, one of our Humane Society volunteers. Their information sheets were also posted on the Wal-Mart adoption board in Oakland.

Petfinder.com is a free nationwide searchable directory of adoptable pets. According to the organization, more than 150,000 homeless pets in more than 6,400 shelters and rescue groups across the United States and Canada have their own home pages on the site.

Pet seekers can enter search criteria such as size, gender, breed, and age and receive a list of adoptable pets ranked in proximity to the searchers' ZIP codes. Updated continuously by volunteers and staff members, the site provides searchers with photographs, descriptions, and contact information about the pets they are interested in adopting.

Because Paddington and Ollie were friendly, neutered, and vaccinated, they were more likely to get adopted. But for two weeks no inquiries were made about them, so the retrievers remained at Countryside.

Finally, during the third week an e-mail came from Dr. Quincey Simmons, a veterinarian at Tufts University in Boston, Mass., who saw Paddington and Ollie on the Petfinder site. She could find them new homes.

Quincey and fellow "Yankee" Cyndi Berkowitz, are part of a large network of volunteers who do rescues and transports along the East Coast. They also arrange private pet adoptions, screening applicants to place the right pet with the right person.

Cyndi explained that because spay/neuter programs have been so successful in the North, there is actually a puppy shortage and a "huge" demand for dogs there, while here in the South, we have an overpopulation problem.

"So we Yankees go down, bring them up, and supply the demand [here] and help out with the problem [there]," Cyndi said. "All dogs that I bring up go to private homes. They generally do not go to other shelters. If they do, they will be no-kill shelters."

That was good news, but how would we get the dogs to Boston? The teamwork then began, as numerous e-mail messages and calls were exchanged during the next three weeks between Paula, Dr. Deal, Dr. Simmons, Cyndi, myself, and many others.

Finally, we learned that a small convoy of dogs from shelters and rescue organizations in the South was headed North. The volunteers driving the vehicles would make a stop in Hagerstown soon and could pick up Paddington and Ollie there. The transport network would get them to Boston.

Now we only had to get the retrievers to Hagerstown. I started asking around to find someone who could take them. I asked dozens of people, including other Humane Society members, but, unfortunately, either they had other commitments or were not able to drive that far. Finally, just a few days before the Hagerstown rendezvous, Mr. and Mrs. Uppole, local Humane Society members, graciously offered to do it.

They picked Paddington and Ollie up at Countryside Animal Hospital early on a recent Friday morning and met the transport team near the Hagerstown mall that afternoon. When the Uppoles arrived, there were three vans full of dogs waiting for the retrievers. The dogs were walked, given water, and off they went.

Cyndi soon e-mailed me that they were adopted even before they got to Massachusetts. Both retrievers were taken by a lawyer living in Boston.

"He had lost his female golden retriever last year to pneumonia after a very long ordeal, and it took him a long time to think about another dog. So getting two was great," Cyndi said. "They (Paddington and Ollie) are very happy and are walked every day."

What a great feeling to know they finally have a new home! This is the first rescue that the local Humane Society actually helped to coordinate and complete. It took many people working together to make this happen. "Thank you" to everyone who helped make this a happy ending!

But, as you can see, setting up and actually transporting these animals takes a lot of time and effort. Our local rescue, HART (Homeless Animal Rescue & Transport), also does this type of rescue transport almost on a weekly basis year round.

Though the rescue currently consists of only two people, more than 400 animals, mostly dogs but some cats, have been taken from the local shelter to rescue organizations in the tri-state area. Surely, many of those animals would have been euthanized, as the shelter is limited in the number of pets it can house.

If you have a pet that needs a new home, you have several options. One is to take it to the animal shelter. The other is to log onto Petfinder.com and find a rescue group that will take it.

Additionally, if you love animals and have some free time, please consider being a part of "the team." Sometimes we have animals that need a ride east to meet a transport in Hagerstown. A roundtrip would only take half of a day, but some transports may be to Cumberland or Pittsburgh, Pa. It would be great to have several more volunteers, then each would only have to do a transport once a month. The Humane Society would pay for the gas.

Without help with the transports, the rescues will not happen, leaving more homeless animals at our shelter in danger of being euthanized. For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Humane Society at 301-387-4425.

ON THE ROAD TO NEW LIVES IN BOSTON – Two local yellow Labrador/golden retriever mixes, Paddington and Ollie, were recently given up by their owner and needed new homes. During the next several weeks a team effort involving a local veterinarian and Humane Society members, a Massachusetts veterinarian and her associate, and a network of volunteers that stretches along the entire East Coast worked to find the retrievers new homes. The duo were eventually adopted by a lawyer in Boston, Mass. See story for details. Pictured are Paddington and Ollie on their way to Hagerstown to catch a ride, which will take them on to Boston.

Eastern Star Meeting Held

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday, May 18, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple at 7:30 p.m. Worthy Patron Theodore Raynovich called the meeting to order.

Worthy Matron Joyce Anderson's opening thought was "Do No Protect Yourself with a Fence." She then greeted Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer; Juanita Bosley, Grand Representative to Georgia; and Past Matrons and Past Patrons, officers, members, and Masonic Brothers.

A Mother's Day poem was read in honor of all the mothers. Signs and passes were reviewed under the direction of the Worthy Patron and Conductress.

The next stated meeting will be Tuesday, June 1, which will be the official visit of Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer assigned to the Oakland Chapter; initiation of four candidates, and signs and passes will be reviewed under the direction of Ted Raynovich and the Conductress Debbie Raynovich.

The Worthy Matron closed with a reading, "Friendship is a Sweet Responsibility."

Refreshments were served by Pauline Faucett and Eleanor Teets.

How do dreams become reality? How did such qualities as freedom, individualism, justice and opportunity advance from conception to completion? What was the catalyst here?

The answer to these questions is also the reason we celebrate Memorial Day each year. These dreams did not become reality without the sacrifice of thousands of lives in battle for well over two hundred years. We live in freedom today, thanks to the heroes who gave up their fledgling futures for us. They gave us a personal definition of patriotism.

Though these courageous men and women were afforded little goodness in battle...there was one item many insisted upon keeping close to their heart. That was the Bible, the comfort of God's Holy Word that saved souls even when life could not be preserved. Perhaps the poet, Rudyard Kipling, echoed the sentiments of those dying heroes in these stirring words from the conclusion of his patriotic poem, "The Choice",

"Then praise the Lord most High
Whose strength hath saved us whole,
Who bade us choose that the Flesh should die
And not the living Soul!"

May you have a most meaningful Memorial Day!

Learn a Second Language

Because there is a large Hispanic community in my city, and since I occasionally run into Spanish-speaking people who don't speak English, I have recently been brushing up on my Spanish. Three years of high school Spanish didn't exactly make me fluent, but the benefit of being able to speak to people, even with rudimentary phrases of fractured grammar, more than makes up for the minor difficulty. Recently, while at a mall, I asked a man for directions to a particular store. He responded, "No English," so I turned and began to walk away, but then I decided to turn back and ask him if he spoke Spanish. "Habla espanol?" I asked. "Si," he responded, and so I asked him – in Spanish – if he knew where the store was located. He smiled as he pointed the way, explaining that it was on the right – "a la derecha." I thanked him – "muchas gracias" – and as I walked away, I wondered how much of this good man's day was spent in silence because he doesn't speak English. This simple interaction made me feel that the many hours of listening to Spanish while driving in my car was indeed, time well spent, and I believe this man was happy to know that he had helped me. I'll keep working on my Spanish, and perhaps my less-than-perfect Spanish convinced him that he might learn my language too.

Therefore its name was called Babel, because there the Lord confused the language of all the earth; and from there the Lord scatter them abroad over the face of all the earth.

R.S.V. Genesis 11:9

Nutrients Provide Many Useful Functions

One of the best ways to live a healthier and longer life is to meet or exceed your body's needs for nourishing nutrients. Antioxidants help neutralize the effects of free radicals or other chemicals that tend to injure cells, and age the body's organs. Vitamin E protects the entire body from free radicals, but especially the immune system. Supplementing the diet with vitamin E can reduce the risk of developing hardening of the arteries, diabetes, and cancer. Selenium is a trace mineral that has been shown to protect against prostate cancer.

Fish oils containing Omega-3 fatty acids to help regulate the blood pressure, promote the immune, cardiovascular, and nervous systems. Ginkgo supports the brain by improving the delivery of oxygen and increasing the brain's blood circulation. Hawthorn is an herb that regulates blood pressure, relieves angina, and helps blood circulation to the extremities. Siberian ginseng can help the body respond better to stress. Lastly, bilberry contains antioxidants that can neutralize free radicals thereby benefiting the blood vessels.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Paris was the home of the first moving sidewalk — way back in 1900.

• When working with animals in show business, it isn't always easy to make them do what the director wants them to do, so trainers have come up with various ways to trick the animals. For instance, if you ever see in a movie or on television a dog looking at a picture in a book, you can be sure that it's not the image that holds its attention; in all likelihood, there's a fair amount of cheese smeared on the page.

• Before he became a famous painter, Peter Paul Rubens was an ambassador for Belgium.

• According to The New York Times, the most popular bra size in the United States is 36C. Ten years ago, however, the most popular size was 34B. Is the change attributable to the increasing popularity of cosmetic surgery? Or is there some other explanation?

• It's been reported that Scottish actor Sean Connery, of early James Bond fame, believes in reincarnation. It seems that he thinks that in a past life he was a railroad builder in Africa, and that the cause of his death was heavy drinking.

• William Shakespeare holds an almost hallowed place in the canon of English literature today, but he was not always universally revered. Lord Byron said in 1814, "Shakespeare's name, you may depend on it, stands absurdly too high and will go down. He had no invention as to stories, none whatever. He took all his plots from old novels, and threw their stories into a dramatic shape, at as little expense of thought as you or I could turn his plays back again into prose tales." Byron may have been an accomplished poet himself, but he was certainly a failure as a prognosticator.

Obedience Training

Q. I'd like to take my dog to obedience classes, and I am wondering which will benefit him more: group or private lessons. Can you tell me which is better? — Gayle S., Wichita, Kan.

A. It's hard to say which learning environment will provide the most benefit to your dog. Private lessons will certainly give him more one-on-one time with a professional trainer, but the cost could be prohibitive. Group lessons cost much less, but the trainer's time and attention must be split between all the students, resulting in less individual contact.

However, some dogs do well in a group class; the structured environment typically allows them some social time with other canines. Others can't pay attention to commands when surrounded by so many new friends (or competitors, depending on your dog's outlook).

The best way to find out which method will be most effective is to try both settings: group and private. Sign up for a couple of group lessons first to observe how well your dog learns commands and how he deals with the extra company. Then, schedule a meeting with a private instructor to see if one-on-one attention is worth the cost.

No matter which class you pick, make sure the instructor is knowledgeable and well-prepared for the lessons, is confident with the dogs and makes each session challenging but enjoyable for both you and your pet.

Collecting

Vintage Tools

Q. I love older tools and have managed to acquire quite an impressive collection. I found most of my better ones at farm sales in both Kansas and Oklahoma before I moved to Arizona about 10 years ago. I recently saw an article in a magazine that suggested the value of vintage tools has exploded, and some of the earlier ones are selling for hundreds of dollars each. Is this true? — Marv, via e-mail

A. Tools moved from the workroom to American living rooms during the 1950s, when blacksmith-made items were discovered and utilized as accent pieces by interior decorators. During the 1960s, coopers' tools became the rage, and they were followed by braces the following decade. As with most collectibles, prices for vintage tools are usually determined by three factors: rarity, desirability and condition.

One of the better reference books for collectors is the Antique Trader Tools Price Guide, edited by Kyle Husfloen (Krause Publications, $19.99). This intriguing guide documents tools from the 18th through the 20th century and contains more than 2,000 price listings, hundreds of illustrations and special advice for collectors. According to Husfloen, a collection should be focused. For example, stick to one category, such as craft, trade, company or brand.

Yankee ingenuity exploded during the 19th century, and thousands of tool patents were issued. Since the 1980s, patented tools has become the latest trend in tool collecting, and prices have soared dramatically because of the increased interest. Some typical prices listed in the Tools Price Guide include a jointer plane, beech, marked M.B. Tidley, Dundee, N.Y., $450; a wrought-iron hand drill with cast brass gears and wooden tee handle from the 18th century, $715; cast iron vice, 70-pound size, $303; tri-square with whalebone handle, dated 1937 but probably much older, $330; and stair saw with applewood handle and marked Geo. H. Bishop, $250.

"Just a minute, sir—after all, I ONLY have two pairs of hands ...!"

"Oh, thank goodness! I was worried how I was going to get it down!"

ALL-STAR CHALLENGE REVIEW

A cool MILLION

Fresh tires help Kenseth claim All-Star Challenge

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

Matt Kenseth seized the lead from Ryan Newman with three laps to go and cruised home to win the Nextel All-Star Challenge at Lowe's Motor Speedway Saturday and collect a $1 million paycheck.

Newman dominated much of the third and final segment of NASCAR's all-star race after staying on the track while his competitors, including Kenseth, stopped for new tires with 20 laps to go.

Kenseth's fresh rubber eventually proved to be too much for Newman.

"We just ran out of tires at the end," said Newman, who finished second ahead of Tony Stewart, Michael Waltrip and Dale Earnhardt Jr.

Kenseth, the defending Nextel Cup Series champion, said he simply seized the opportunity when Newman began to slip near the finish.

"[Newman] just slipped up a little in Turn 4, so I was able to clear him," Kenseth said. "I can't believe how hard he ran on old tires."

Several contenders were eliminated in a spectacular 13-car crash on Lap 11 that was triggered when Kurt Busch spun his Roush Racing teammate Greg Biffle as the pack raced down the frontstretch.

Busch, Biffle, Kevin Harvick, Robby Gordon, Joe Nemechek and Sterling Marlin were done for the night, while Jeff Gordon, Jimmie Johnson, Waltrip, Elliott Sadler, Kasey Kahne, Bobby Labonte and Ken Schrader continued with patched-up cars.

"It's early in the race, and a teammate wrecks you and just drives in the back of you," Biffle said. "It's crazy."

Busch said he was trying to push his teammate Biffle down the straightaway.

"I didn't mean to wreck him," Busch said. "I apologize for all the wrecked cars out there."

Marlin said he'd like to scrap the non-points all-star race.

"I know I might make somebody mad, but I'd rather go run a points race where it would mean something," he said. "It's like this every year. Everybody tears up their cars, and somebody is mad."

Tony Stewart won the opening 40-lap segment, while Newman, who led a race-high 49 laps, took the middle 30-lap run.

Mears' car troubles cause wreck in Open

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

The Nextel Open opened with a Talladega-style "Big Wreck" just yards beyond the start-finish line and ended with a paint-swappin' short-track finish.

Outside pole-sitter Casey Mears had transmission problems just after the drop of the green flag, slowed dramatically and was rammed from behind by Jeremy Mayfield, triggering an 11-car smash-up.

MEARS

Then with two laps to go, Mayfield and Jamie McMurray bumped and slid into each other while racing for the lead. A lap later, Mayfield cut behind McMurray off Turn 4, taking the air off McMurray's rear spoiler and sending him on a slide. That let Sterling Marlin speed from third to first and get the victory.

The first-lap crash ruined the night for Kerry Earnhardt, Scott Riggs, Ricky Rudd, Jimmy Spencer, Brendan Gaughan and Jeff Burton. Others continued, but with damaged cars.

"The transmission blew up," Mears said. "I went from second [gear] to third, got third for a split second and then it just blew apart.

"I feel bad for everybody. We had a mechanical failure, and it took out half the field."

But unlike other NASCAR races that count toward the points standings, there were no hard feelings in the aftermath of the crash.

Rudd, Burton and Mears were clowning and grabbing each other in fun as they climbed from the ambulance for the mandatory visit to the track's care center.

"You might as well [have some fun]," Burton said of his off-track antics. "It's been one of those years."

The Open, a 30-lap race for those who haven't won recently on the Nextel circuit offers the victor a chance to advance to the $1 million-to-win Nextel All-Star Challenge, which is run immediately after the Open.

Ken Schrader also took a starting spot in the all-star race after being voted in by fans participating in an online poll.

Track executives shuffle

International Speedway Corp.'s sale of North Carolina Speedway in Rockingham to Speedway Motorsports Inc. has brought a shuffling of executives within ISC.

Former Rockingham GM Chris Browning is now president of Darlington Raceway, replacing Andrew Gurtis, who becomes the lead assistant to ISC's Chief Operating Officer John Saunders.

Kristi King, public relations manager at Rockingham, moves to a similar position at Talladega Superspeedway, taking the job previously held by the late Ken Patterson.

TALK THE TALK

"Bite"

Adhesion of a tire to the track's surface. Round of bite describes the turning or adjusting of a car's jacking screw found at each wheel.

"Compound"

Truex Jr. claims fourth Busch win in '04

Cox News Service

Martin Truex Jr. saved the best for last Sunday in the Goulds Pumps ITT Industries 200 at Nazareth Speedway.

Truex raced underneath Bobby Hamilton Jr. on the final lap to claim victory in the final Busch race at the Pennsylvania track.

Hamilton dominated the race after taking the lead on Lap 75 and seemed poised to earn his first win of the season. But Truex, driving the No. 8 Chevrolet for owner Dale Earnhardt Jr., was able to take advantage of lapped traffic to chip away at Hamilton's lead.

Truex won by only 0.140 seconds with an average speed of 110.616 mph.

Setzer wins truck event

Dennis Setzer claimed his 11th career victory Friday night to win the Infineon 200 truck race at Lowe's Motor Speedway.

Setzer took the lead when Carl Edwards inexplicably slowed for what he thought was a caution with four laps left.

David Starr was third, followed by Nextel Cup drivers Kevin Harvick and Michael Waltrip.

Magic Johnson, NASCAR team up for diversity

Former basketball player joins in diversity effort

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

In an effort to diversify a sport that has been predominantly white, NASCAR has reached out to a former Los Angeles Lakers basketball player for help.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson has agreed to co-chair the new Executive Steering Committee for Diversity and will volunteer his time to convince minorities to participate.

His goal, and NASCAR's, is to have minority participation at every level, including drivers, mechanics, team owners, track workers and fans.

"I'm giving my time because I want to see more minorities in this sport," Johnson said last week at NASCAR's Research and Development Center. "I want to touch more minorities to let them know [NASCAR] is great."

Johnson, who became a successful businessman after retiring from the NBA in 1991, said he's exploring the possibility of purchasing a race team, but he needs more time for research. He said he will be a hands-on diversity leader.

"Whether I'm an owner or not, if I can touch lives and make sure minorities can come up in this sport somehow, then I've done what I wanted to do," he said. "Do I know it's going to take a lot of hard work? Yes. Do I know it's going to take some time? Yes. But I'm patient. I'm here for the long haul."

For most of its 55-year history, NASCAR has been dominated by whites.

The only African-American to regularly compete in the elite Nextel Cup division was the late Wendell Scott, who ran 495 races from 1961 to 1973. He won one race and one pole.

In recent years, Bill Lester has raced in the Craftsman Truck Series as part of diversity programs sponsored by Dodge and Toyota. This year several black drivers, including Morty Buckles, are running short-track races with support from NASCAR's Drive for Diversity program.

A 2002 ESPN/Chilton poll found that 25 percent of NASCAR fans are non-white. Statistics compiled by NASCAR show that it has been the fastest growing sport among African-Americans and Hispanics during the past seven years. African-American fans have increased 18 percent — approximately two million people — since 1995. Hispanic fans have increased 38 percent — approximately three million people — since 1996.

Johnson said he's aware NASCAR has some fans, including those who fly Confederate battle flags at races, who might not be open to an influx of minorities. But he doesn't see a major problem.

"I can't control what happens with flags," he said. "I can't control what people want to put in their cars. The only thing I can control is making sure these programs are run in the correct manner and make sure minorities are touched in the right way.

"There are some things that have been going on in NASCAR for years. I can't change that. I'm not here to change NASCAR. I'm just here to try to involve more minorities in the sport of NASCAR."

AURORA/EGLON

MT. OLIVET FESTIVAL SET

The Lantz Ridge Sunshine Club and the Mt. Olivet Cemetery Association are jointly sponsoring a Memorial Day Festival to be held in the Lantz Ridge Community Building this Saturday, May 29, at 5 p.m. There will be food, homemade pie and ice cream, music, and fellowship. All are invited.

CEMETERY MEETINGS

The Mt. Olivet Cemetery Association will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday, June 1, at 7 p.m., in the Lantz Ridge Community Building. All members are invited to the annual election of officers, and anyone interested is also welcome.

ACCIDENT CEMETERY MEETING

The annual meeting of the Accident Cemetery Association (W.Va.) will be at 7 p.m., June 8, at the cemetery or, in the event of rain, at the Maple Grove Church.

LEADMINE HOMECOMING MAY 30

The Leadmine Homecoming is Sunday, May 30, at the YMCA Camp, Horse Shoe Run, in the lodge. Those who have roots in Shaffertown, Pleasantville, or Sugarlands are asked to join this annual homecoming. Sunday School at the Leadmine Church is at 10 a.m. The covered dish dinner at the YMCA Camp begins at 1 p.m., and those attending are asked to not only bring dinner, but to also bring a photo to share, and a gift suitable for a door prize.

SHAFFER-ABERNATHY REUNION SET

This Saturday, May 29, the families of the late Carl and Ruth Abernathy Shaffer will hold their annual reunion at the Maple Spring Church, Eglon. A covered dish dinner will be shared at 1 p.m. They invite friends and relatives to join them for dinner or to drop by for a visit.

ARNOLD-ZAVOLTA COUPLE WEDS

Chad Arnold and Tare Zavolta were married at the Maple Spring Church on Saturday, May 22. The Rev. J. Rogers Fike officiated at the 4:30 p.m. Aurora ceremony.

The groom is the son of Deanna Arnold of Aurora and the late Clifton "Buck" Arnold. The couple will reside in Concord, N.C.

CEOS MEET

The Aurora CEOs (Community Educational Outreach Service) met May 18 at the Union ambulance squad hall. Opal Myers was discussion leader for the topic, "Character Counts – Are You a Caring Person?" Assisting her were Virginia Martin, Kathy Hardesty, Wilda Harsh, Dorothy Spaid, Mary Jane Hanline, and Dean Sisler. The emphasis was on the attributes of being a caring person: empathy, demonstrating kindness and charity, loving in word and deed. Mrs. Myers quizzed the members on "Are You A Caring Person?" and gave each a caring gift.

President Ressie Conrad called the meeting to order and read the devotions from The Upper Room.

The Family Committee will donate books, work on "boo-boo" bears in July, also on Linus blankets for children. The Continuing Education Committee continues to recycle, to feed birds, and to work with the cancer society. The Relay for Life garage sale will be June 5-6 at the Union Ambulance squad hall and will be open 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day. Proceeds from the sale will go to Relay for Life in Preston County. Wilda Harsh, Ressie Conrad; and Keith and Dee Douglas cleaned a portion of the butterfly garden at Aurora School, re-set plants, and applied mulch.

The Area Meeting was held May 21 in Morgantown, and was attended by Opal Myers, Ressie Conrad, and Dee Douglas. Plans are made to serve the Mtn. Lions Club on June 3 at the St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

CEOS Week is being celebrated by items from the various clubs being published in the news media. Ressie Conrad also read from the yearbook "the Purpose of the CEOS," in way of celebration.

As a special feature, Virginia Martin displayed her mother's picture, taken at her 1919 high school graduation. The picture was in a frame made by her father. She also showed an early 1940s picture of the Aurora Homemakers (Farm Women's Club) taken at a work and fellowship day. Opal Myers was winner of the pig-in-the-poke.

Those who attended were Ressie Conrad, Delores Douglas, Opal Myers, Mary Jane Hanline, Dean Sisler, Dorothy Spaid, Wilda Harsh, Mildred Teets, Virginia Martin, and Kathy Hardesty.

GEORKE BIRTH

The first child of Andy and Chris Forman Georke of Jacksonville, N.C., was born May 16. The little girl has been named Lillian Adelle and will be called "Lil." She weighed 7 pounds, 1 ounce at birth.

Her West Virginia grandparents are Roger Forman of Aurora and Carol Goff Shears of Keyser. Jim and Delores Shears of Keyser and Donna Goff of Aurora are great-grandparents.

AVFD DONATIONS

Recent gifts to the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department have been made by Sgt. Steven Shay, Rex and Beverly Nice, Willard Feather, and Barbara and Jeff Coberly.

PLANTING A WILDFLOWER GARDEN – Five Garrett County elementary schools and the Hickory Environmental Education Center are involved in a program titled Partners in Ecology and Restoration of Schoolyards (PIERS), and each has planted a wildflower garden this spring and will plant a larger native wildflower meadow next fall. The schools involved are Kitzmiller, Yough Glades, Route 40, Dennett Road, and Accident. These new gardens will provide a natural laboratory for all students to learn more about the concepts in the science curriculum. It will also help improve and restore schoolyard and watershed ecology by decreasing mowing areas which create pollution, decreasing storm water run-off into the wetland areas, attracting and providing habitat for natural wildlife, collecting rain water, and encouraging the growth of native plant species. Yough Glades received a grant, which was written by fourth grade teacher Robyn Nazelrod to the Chesapeake Bay Trust Foundation, that will allow them to create an even larger garden and create a character education component to the project by making stepping stones that state inspiring words to remind them to have good character in all they do. All five schools received funding from a grant through the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science Appalachian Laboratory. Pictured above are Yough Glades students working in the rain on their new garden. Pictured below are Nazelrod, in the center, and Liz McDowell, on the right, as they give assistance during the planting. Others helping at the school were parent volunteers, Nazelrod and Glenda Newcomb (fourth grade teacher), the Appalachian Laboratory, Elk Ridge Nature Works, and Principal Keith Harvey.

Selected For Md. Summer Cntr. Bay Studies Program

Local resident Morgan Stark has been selected to attend July's Maryland Summer Center program at the Center for Environmental Studies at Horsehead Wetlands in Queen Anne's County.

The Friendsville Elementary School third grader will have the opportunity to study the diverse ecosystems and habitats of the Chesapeake Bay and surrounding wetlands, and learn about the Bay's value to residents throughout Maryland, including Garrett County. The 310-acre Horsehead Wetlands is home to thousands of geese, ducks, herons, egrets, and bald eagles.

Stark is the daughter of April Slagle of Friendsville and Frank Stark of Frostburg.

4-H Club News

FRIENDSVILLE FIREFLIES
by Teresa Friend

The May meeting of the Friendsville Fireflies 4-H Club held at Friendsville Elementary School was called to order by Beth Long. Dusty Sisler led the American pledge and Aaron Calhoun led the 4-H pledge. Ashley Calhoun did roll call and read the previous minutes.

Our guest speaker was Jeannette Wampler, who taught us ways to invest our money. She also taught us some things that we should remember to do and some things not to do while managing money. Jeannette showed us a video so we could see how others managed their money.

We discussed what we would be doing for the Washington, D.C., trip on June 22. Our club decided whether or not we would be doing a Rock-A-Thon this year.

Snack was provided by Dusty Sisler. Anyone interested in joining may call Alice Long at 301-746-8924 or Lu Friend at 301-746-5618.

Farm Program Deadline Nears

The clock is running down for producers who have not yet signed up for the 2004 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Program, USDA's safety net program for farmers. To receive DCP program payments and avoid costly late filing fees, producers must update their contracts before the June 1 deadline, according to Michael R. Kozier, executive director of the Garrett/Allegany Farm Service Agency.

Kozier said that before the agency can make any program payments, "We must have an approved contract, eligibility forms and, in some cases, 2004 rental agreements on file at the producer's local FSA county office."

According to Kozier, updating and signing the contract should not take a lot of time, even if the producer has made changes in the operation.

"The hard work was done last year when producers signed up for the first time," said Kozier. "This year, we want to avoid any last minute rushes and complications that can arise if additional signatures are required."

All producers, including owners and operators, sharing in the contract payments for a farm must sign the new contract before the deadline. Producers waiting until the last minute may have difficulties obtaining all the necessary signatures.

Contracts submitted to in person or postmarked after June 1 and before Sept. 30 will be accepted at Farm Service Agency county offices; however, producers will be assessed a late filing fee of $100 per farm.

The requirement to update and sign a new contract each year is a change from the old Production Flexibility Contracts, which were good for seven-year life of the program, and some producers may not have caught on to that. Another change is that producers can opt out of the DCP program one year and return the next.

Kozier encouraged producers to contact their local USDA Service Center or FSA county offices as soon as possible to schedule appointments with the staff.

High Temps Make Crops Bust Out

Scattered thunderstorms brought some rain and warm temperatures to Maryland farmers last week. Air temperatures averaged in the mid 80s, with some reports close to 90. Precipitation averaged from .04 inches to 2.4 inches. There were 4.8 days suitable for field work for the week ending May 23.

Planting process was made with soybeans, corn, sorghum, and some vegetables. The warm weather allowed soybean planting to increase to 38 percent this week, compared to 13 percent in 2003. About 91 percent of winter wheat is headed, compared to 55 percent the previous year, and there are some reports of wheat turning color. Sorghum planted is at 43 percent, double the five-year average of 16 percent. Warm temperatures along with some rain prompted corn to emerge quickly, from 61 percent last week to 82 percent this week.

Course For Beef Producers Set

A Level I Beef Quality Assurance (BQA) training session will be conducted at Preston High School Vocational Center, Room 149, in Kingwood, W.Va., beginning at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, June 2.

Level I BQA training is the first step in becoming BQA certified. Cattle producers who are BQA certified are trained in the latest research-based cattle management techniques.

Those who have questions about this program may contact Preston County Extension Office at 304-329-1392.

Crop Survey Is Under Way

The Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service will be conducting a survey in May and early June to collect data concerning crops planted for the 2004 crop year, as well as livestock and other agricultural-related information. Each enumerator is employed by NASDA, carries a photo identification card, and leaves a green NASDA place card on the dashboard of his vehicle.

Those who have any questions concerning this survey may call Norman W. Bennett, director, at 410-841-5740.

Valuable, Improved Real Estate, located in Garrett County, Maryland, improved by premises known as 309 Seneca Avenue, Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550.

By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from Brian Eric Callis and Toni L. Callis to Sam Marzouk, Trustee dated 4-09-02, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 890, folio 596, and at the request of the party secured thereby, default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the undersigned, as Substitute Trustees for the Trustees named in said Deed of Trust, will sell at public auction in front of the Garrett County Circuit Court, 203 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland on Thursday, June 17, 2004 at 2:00 p.m., all the property in said Deed of Trust described as follows:

ALL THAT PARCEL OF LAND SITUATE IN THE TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, ELECTION DISTRICT NO. 16, GARRETT COIUNTY, MARYLAND, BEING DESCRIBED AS FOLLOWS:

LOTS NOS. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, AND 12, BLOCK NO. 37, AS SHOWN ON THE PLAT OF ALDERSON'S ADDITION TO SAID TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, RECORDED IN LIBER E.Z.T. NO. 1, FOLIO 3, AMONG THE PLAT RECORDS OF GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND.

SUBJECT TO any unpaid water and sewer charges, buildings or housing violations, easements, agreements, restrictions, terms, rights of way, covenants, conditions, if any, affecting subject property, whether or not of record.

The property is improved by a dwelling.

Terms of Sale

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition.

A deposit of Eleven Thousand Dollars ($11,000.00) will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be by Bank Cashier's check, or in such other form as the Trustees may determine, in their sole discretion. The balance in cash, with interest at Twelve per centum (12.00%) per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement payable within ten (10) days after final ratification of sale. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER.

The purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the property and shall assume the risk of loss or damage to the property as of the date of the foreclosure sale. In the event of delay of Court Ratification of the sale for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest payable by the purchaser.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, except water and sewer charges, will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter be assumed by the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, state and county transfer taxes, title insurance and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustees' Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied, unless otherwise required by statute, court rule or the Deed of Trust. In the event the Substitute Trustees are unable for any reason to convey title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be to request and receive a return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made within ten (10) days after the final ratification of sale or deposit shall be forfeited to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Substitute Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaultant purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Substitute Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser.

TOWN OF GRANTSVILLE
MD ROUTE 669 WATER AND SEWER IMPROVEMENT PROJECT
1. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "BID FOR TOWN OF GRANTSVILLE MD ROUTE 669 WATER AND SEWER IMPROVEMENT PROJECT" will be received by the Town of Grantsville (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 171 Hill Street, Grantsville, Maryland 21536, until 1:00 p.m. on June 15, 2004, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

Work to be performed under this Contract includes, but is not limited to, the installation of 260 linear feet of 2" SDR21 pressure water line, 800 linear feet of 6" C900 pressure water line, 2 Fire Hydrants, 1027 linear feet of 8" SDR 35 gravity sewer line and 6 sewer manholes.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on June 4, 2004, at 1:00 p.m. at the Grantsville Town Hall to answer any questions concerning the Contract Documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Contract Documents

Contract Documents are available for inspection during regular working hours at the Office of the Engineer, Mountain View Engineering & Surveying, Inc., 125 North Third Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, and at the Grantsville Town Hall, 171 Hill Street, Grantsville, Maryland 21536.

Contract Documents may be obtained from the Engineer upon written request and remittance of full payment of seventy five dollars ($75.00) for each set with checks made payable to Mountain View Engineering & Surveying, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Engineer to cover the cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Contract Documents shall be submitted to:

Mountain View Engineering & Surveying, Inc.
Oakland, Maryland 21550
Attention: Mr. Kerry S. Shultz, P.E.
Phone 301-533-0040

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in, in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

All questions and requests for clarification regarding the Contract Documents shall be made in writing to Mr. Kerry S. Shultz, P.E., at the above address.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope of work by examination of the site and a review of the Contract Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Contract Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security

An acceptable Bid bond, payable to the Owner, in the amount of five percent of the total bid must accompany each Bid. A certified check in the amount of five percent of the total bid, drawn on a solvent bank chartered in the State of Maryland, and payable to the Owner, may be substituted for the Bid Bond.

PUBLIC NOTICES

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Department of Natural Resources and the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board are proposing to increase the boat launch service charge at Deep Creek Lake State Park as follows:

Non-holiday Mondays through Thursdays, $5.

Fridays, Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays, $7.

The reason for this change is to provide additional revenue for the lake management program to continue to provide services on Deep Creek Lake. Lake buffer strip use permit holders will still be able to use the ramp at no extra charge by presenting their dock permit. The State Forest and Park Service All-Season Pass will continue to be applicable.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETING

The Garrett County Airport Advisory Commission is considering recommending to the Garrett County Planning Commission and Board of County Commissioners the adoption of limited land use regulation on land surrounding the Garrett County Airport. The regulations would deal with safety issues, primarily height of structures around the airport and are being considered as a result of the increased development around the airport and the pending runway extension project. A public Information Meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, June 3, 2004, in room 314 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett College by the Airport Advisory Commission.

Any questions on the meeting can be directed to Lawrence Dawson, Facilities & Equipment Supervisor for Garrett County at 301-334-1928.

Respectfully Submitted,
Lawrence Dawson
Facilities & Equipment Supervisor

REQUEST FOR BIDS
Photography Services
Mountaintop Soccer Association

The Mountaintop Soccer Association ("MSA") is accepting bids for photography services ("Photographer") for the 2004 fall soccer season. The season begins the last week of August and continues for approximately nine weeks.

Services requested: the Photographer will schedule photo sessions with coaches, take team pictures (40-45 teams), take player pictures (450-500 players), schedule re-takes and make-up days as necessary, collect picture orders and fees, deliver pictures to coaches on or before October 24, 2004, and report progress to the MSA Board.

The number of teams and players is based on registration data from prior years and may vary from year to year. MSA will provide the Photographer with a list of teams, coaches, and telephone numbers for scheduling purposes.

Bids should include prices for team and/or player pictures, such as, 8x10s, 5x7s, 3x5s, wallet-size, magnet pictures, memory mates, package deals and all other products offered. References and past customers to be included.

Please mail sealed bids to: "MSA Photo Bid," 350 Oak Breeze Lane, Oakland, Maryland 21550. Bids must be postmarked no later than June 30, 2004 and will be opened at a regularly scheduled board meeting after that date. MSA reserves the right to: 1) reject any bid for any reason, 2) continue with the selected Photographer in subsequent years at the board's discretion, and, 3) request or not request bids in the future. Interested parties may contact MSA at 301-334-6280 with questions.

Man Dies After Collapsing While Skiing On Lake

A Baltimore County man died of cardiac arrest Friday evening after he collapsed while water-skiing with his family on Deep Creek Lake, according to the Maryland Natural Resources Police.

James Caswell Merritt, 51, Parkton, had reportedly been water-skiing for about five minutes behind a 20-foot Bayliner powerboat when he collapsed about 7:45 p.m. He was pronounced dead at Garrett County Memorial Hospital at approximately 9 p.m., and his body was removed to the State Medical Examiner's Office for an autopsy.

Merritt's obituary information will appear in next week's issue.

June 6 Slated As High School Graduation Date

Seniors at Northern and Southern high schools will participate in commencement exercises this Sunday, June 6. The ceremony for Northern will begin at 1 p.m., and at Southern at 4 p.m.

Both schools will hold their ceremonies outside, weather permitting. In case of rain, the ceremonies will be held in the schools' gymnasiums, where limited seating is available.

Valedictorians and salutatorians for each school will be named following the completion of final exams and compilation of grades.

Next week's edition of The Republican will include full coverage of the graduation ceremonies and senior awards.

Summer Events News Sought For Publication

Organizations, churches, and other groups planning summer events are urged to contact The Republican with their information for publication in the paper and its special supplement, Summer Sensations, to be published June 24.

Persons may submit information via e-mail at newsroom@therepublican-news.com; fax, 301-334-5904; or mail it to P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550.

THE GRAVE OF THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER in the Oakland Cemetery was decorated with several Memorial Day wreaths during annual ceremonies on Monday. Among those placing the wreaths was Guy Tuel, former commander of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, pictured above. Participating besides members of various veterans' organizations and auxiliaries were the Garrett College Pipes and Drums (seen in the background above), the Southern Garrett Marching Band, and local Boy Scouts. The guest speaker was U.S. Army veteran Ralph M. Burnett, Judge of Garrett County District Court. Similar ceremonies were held by veterans' organizations in several areas of the county.

Highland Fest Activity Tickets Still Available

There is still time to be part of this weekend's 17th annual McHenry Highland Festival activities and the official opening of Garrett County's summer season.

Concert tickets may be purchased at the door Friday, June 4, at the Lodge at Wisp in McHenry. Featuring Celtic band Coyote Run and Scottish balladeer Carl Peterson, the event gets under way at 9 p.m. Refreshments will be available prior to the concert.

Reservations are also available for the new Gala Celtic Kick-Off Dinner, also at the Wisp on Friday. For more information, persons may call 301-387-3093. Additionally, foursomes may still register for the St. Andrew's at the Wisp Golf Tournament on Sunday, June 6, at 9 a.m., payable that day.

Most of the profits from these events will go to support the McHenry Highland Festival, with a portion go-

Relay For Life Slated For June 11-12 At SHS Track

The sixth annual Garrett County Relay For Life, the signature fundraiser for the local chapter of the American Cancer Society, will take place at the track at Southern High School in Oakland on Friday and Saturday, June 11 and 12.

Activities will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday with the Survivors Dinner. Sponsored by Garrett College, the Survivors Dinner is free-of-charge to a cancer survivor and one guest. Pre-registration is strongly encouraged, so survivors should telephone 301-387-3102. Musical selections will be provided.

Opening ceremonies are scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. when the American Legion Color Guard will present the flags and the Broadford Quartet–composed of Dave Martin, Carl Fike, Jeff Fike, and Tim Miller–will sing the national anthem.

A bagpiper presentation will include a tune in memory of Cindy Kutchman titled "Cindy's Dance (An Angel Among Us)." The tune is in the form of a jig, lament, and jig. Pipers include Paul Browning, Rich Ford, and the Reverend John Grant, and the drummers are Shirley Crush and Rick Kutchman. The pipers and the drummers are a sub-group of the Garrett College Pipes and Drums under the leadership of Jerry McGee, pipe major.

The pipers and drummers will then lead the survivors in the first lap around the track. Caregivers will join the survivors for the second lap, and the relay will begin with the third lap.

The luminaria ceremony, also called the Ceremony of Hope, is scheduled for approximately 9 p.m. During this ceremony there will be no walkers on the track, and silence from the audience is requested. Musical selections will be provided.

Games and contests begin for relay participants at 10 p.m. Activities on the track will include the following:

- 10 p.m. to 5 a.m. – Guess the Bean Contest
- 10 p.m. – Kids' Hula Hoop Contest and Coloring Contest
- 11 p.m. – Scavenger Hunt
- Midnight – Choose to be Tobacco Free Race
- 1 a.m. – Marshmallow Stuff
- 2 a.m. – Match Lap
- 3 a.m. – Bubble Gum Blowing Contest
- 4 a.m. – Twister
- 5 a.m. – Poker Lap
- 6 a.m. – Slip, Slop, Slap, Wrap Relay
- 7 a.m. – Jazzercise with Lisa
- 8 a.m. – Spirit Point Talley ends
- 9 a.m. – Turn Spirit Points in at the games tent by this time.

Providing the music throughout the night will be relay disc jockey Mr. Z (David Zimmerman).

Closing ceremonies will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday. During the closing ceremonies, Relay totals will be announced and trophies will be presented to the winning teams. All survivors, relay teams, and spectators will then join to walk a final lap around the track.

The public is welcome and encouraged to attend any and all portions of the Relay for Life.

Pizza Business Damaged By Fire Saturday

A Deep Creek Lake business that had been open for just two weeks was the victim of an accidental fire Saturday evening.

Brenda's Pizzeria & Restaurante, located in a small strip mall at 21311 Garrett Highway, sustained an estimated $50,000 damages before the fire was contained by local volunteer firefighters. The blaze was discovered in a second-floor kitchen by an employee at about 8:30 p.m.

According to a report filed by Deputy State Fire Marshals Jason Mowbray and Jamie Rodeheaver, the fire was caused by radiant heat from the pizza oven, which ignited nearby combustible materials. It was believed that the fire smoldered for some time in the wall behind the oven.

Responding to the scene were units from the Deep Creek, Oakland, Deer Park, and Accident fire departments, as well as the Northern and Southern rescue squads. Some 45 volunteers

READY TO PLAY HARD AND LIVE CLEAN – The next "Play Hard, Live Clean" event will be a Beach Blast on June 24 at the Deep Creek State Park from 1 to 4 p.m. Garrett County youth between the ages of 11 and 20 are encouraged to attend. Parents are also invited. The event will feature kayaking, swimming, nature lake tours, and picnic-style food. Music will be provided by Jonny Rock and the local youth band, White Noise. A performance by rap singer and educator Sterlen Barr will also be offered. The activities are free to those who pre-register. Registration forms are available at the county middle and high schools, as well as the Garrett County Health Department. The event is being coordinated by the Garrett County Health Department and funded in part by a grant from the Partnership for Children and Families Inc./Local Management Board and the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. Pictured above are members of the Youth Council who are helping to organize the event. From left to right are Samantha Cavalier, Zech McPhail, and Maliciah McPhail. For more information, persons may call the health department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

DNR Euthanizes Nuisance Bear Near Deep Creek

Personnel with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Heritage Service euthanized a repeat nuisance black bear in the Deep Creek Lake area last Thursday, May 27.

The 240-pound female bear had lost its fear of humans and had become dependent upon human food sources, according to DNR spokesperson Heather Lynch. The sow and her three yearling offspring had attempted to enter homes in the DCL area several times in search of food since the summer of 2003. The four bears had attempted to enter a home in that vicinity as recently as the evening of Wednesday, May 26.

"Despite several attempts by DNR personnel to modify the bear's behavior through non-lethal aversive conditioning techniques, the bear continued to show little fear of humans," Lynch explained. "In the past three

White's Guilty Verdict Will Stand, But New Sentencing Hearing Slated

The guilty verdict against former Bloomington resident Donna Lynn White for the murder of her 4-year-old daughter, Brandy White, will stand, announced the Garrett County State's Attorney's Office on Tuesday.

An opinion and an order issued by Washington County Circuit Court Judge Donald E. Beachley denied White's request that the verdict be set aside because of errors made by her attorney during her 1986 trial.

White was arrested, tried, and convicted for the beating death of Brandy, who was believed to have removed White's wallet from a purse which contained $700 in money orders and food stamps. Bruce Sarver, White's boyfriend, was also convicted and is serving a life sentence in the Division of Corrections.

State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch had participated for the state in hearings held last year in Washington County, as the case was originally tried by Hon. Marshals L. Sherbin. Welch said she was pleased with Beachley's decision.

"He had to undergo a lengthy process of reviewing the evidence presented at the trials of both Donna White and Bruce Sarver, as well as at the post-conviction hearing, and researching a myriad of issues raised by Ms. White's counsel," the state's attorney said.

Under Beachley's order, however, White has been granted a new sentencing hearing. She has been serving a life sentence since being found guilty of first-degree murder and child abuse by a jury in Washington County, where the highly publicized case was heard.

Welch noted that a date for White's sentencing has not yet been established, and it is also unknown which judge will conduct the hearing, as the original sentencing judge, Hon. John P. Corderman, has since retired.

GC Officials Approve FY '05 Budget; Property Tax Rate To Remain $1.036

The Garrett County commissioners this week approved the county's FY 2005 operating and capital budget, which is more than $55.9 million. The new budget reflects an increase of more than $2.3 million in total revenue when compared to the amended budget for FY '04.

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt noted, however, that taking into account transfers from the undesignated/unreserved fund balance for FY '04 and '05, the total budget for the coming year is actually about $1.16 million less than last year's.

The county has designated $5 million of those funds for certain capital projects, including the county public works center, exhibit/trade center, adventure sports center access road, and renovations and improvements at Northern High School. Funds will also be escrowed for the Garrett College Athletic and Community Recreation Center.

The county had accumulated the funds over the years for such projects, noted Commissioner Dave Beard. He said now was the time to use them.

The officials also voted unanimously to keep the real property tax at $1.036 per $100 of assessed value for the coming fiscal year. Because of a tax differential agreement, Mountain Lake Park residents will pay $0.977, and Oakland residents will pay $0.961.

Pagenhardt noted that the commissioners had eliminated the personal property tax for businesses earlier this year.

Local and real property taxes make up 45.69 percent of the county's projected total revenue of nearly $55.9 million. Income taxes will contribute 14.55 percent, while other local taxes will make up 12.87 percent of the revenue. Licenses and permits, fines and forfeitures, service charges, intergovernmental funding, and other miscellaneous and financing sources will make up the remainder of the county's income.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said setting the budget was a "somewhat arduous task," given the state's budgetary problems. He added, however, that the county government staff's cooperation made the job easier.

Beard said the county had lost about $500,000 in highway user funds, $76,000 in open space

DCL Women's Sailing Team Brings Home Adams Cup

The Adams Cup, U.S. Sailings Association's National Women's Championship, and a symbol of excellence in women's sailing since 1924, has been won by a team from Deep Creek Lake, led by Captain Joni Palmer of Swanton and Annapolis. Crewing for Captain Palmer were Meredith Dodd of Swanton and Upper Saint Clair, Pa., and Carrie Carpenter of Oakland.

Qualification for the finals of the competition is based on series of regional Flying Scot races, one of which was held at Deep Creek Lake on Sept. 6 and 7, 2003, and reported in Dan Muss' weekly sailing column in The Republican last fall. The final series was held at Lake Norman, N.C. on Oct. 21 through 25, 2003, and received national attention through a cover story in U.S. Sailing magazine and other publications.

The team was honored at the Commodores' Reception on Saturday, May 29, at which time the trophy was displayed in a place of honor at the Deep Creek Yacht Club, Turkey Neck, having been presented to Commodore Ronn Downey by the team of women sailors.

Captain Palmer, who, together with her husband, Ray Gauthier, has been a member of the Turkey Neck club since 2001, serves as a sailing coach to the brigade of midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy. They have been very active in conducting seminars and coaching clinics for novice racing teams at Deep Creek. Mr. Gauthier is a certified international sailing judge.

Meredith Dodd is a graduating senior at Upper Saint Clair (Pa.) High School, and will be attending Washington College in Chestertown, where she is the recipient of an academic scholarship.

She is the daughter of Jeannette Dodd of Swanton and Upper Saint Clair, Pa., and the late C. Swanson (Chip) Dodd III, Commodore of the Turkey Neck club in 1994, and granddaughter of Barbara Meredith of Swanton and Bridge-

Four Injured In Rt. 219 Collision; One Charged

Four people were injured in a two-vehicle collision on Garrett Highway just north of Oakland early Saturday afternoon, according to the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police. The investigating trooper filed charges against one of the drivers involved in the accident.

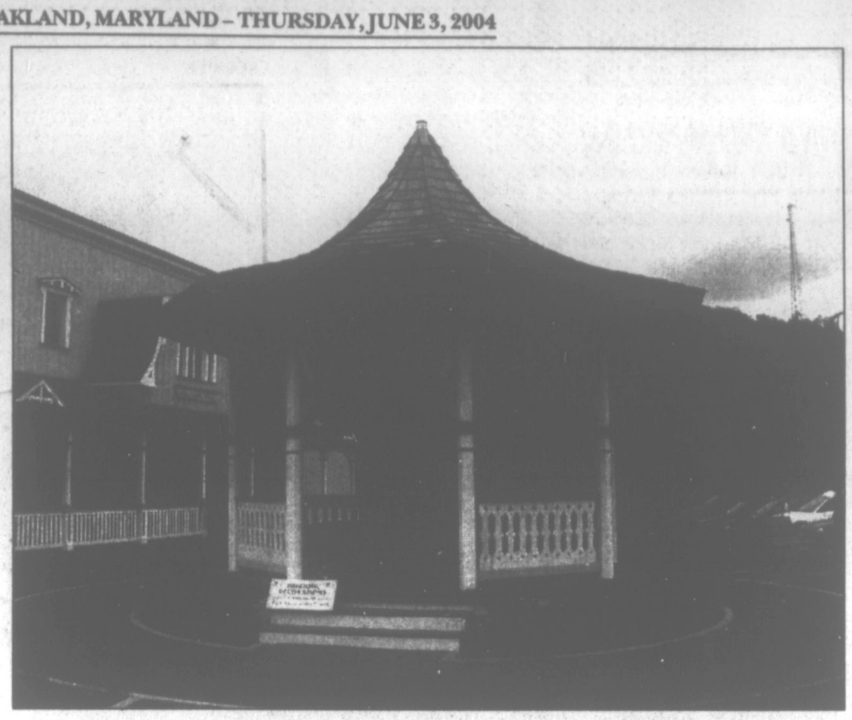
At approximately 12:35 p.m., Douglas Ray Tasker Jr., 22, Levittown, Pa., was pulling his 2002 Chevrolet Cavalier from a private driveway north of Knoll Crest Heights when he reportedly struck a 2000 Saturn that was traveling south on the highway.

Tasker and his passenger, Michael A. Carr, 47, also of Levittown, were both injured in the crash, as were two passengers in the other vehicle, Sarah Elizabeth Harne-Britner, 41, and Eric Vaughn Britner, 5, both of Halifax, Pa. All four patients were transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The Saturn's driver, Lawrence Britner, 35, also of Halifax, escaped injury.

State troopers issued Tasker a citation charging failure to give full time and attention to his driving.

Personnel from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.



HISTORICAL SOCIETY ANNUAL EVENT SLATED – The Garrett County Historical Society will host its annual dinner and meeting on Thursday, June 24, at the Bittinger fire hall. The organization lost a key member this year, Beth Shirer Callis Friend, who died on Jan. 27. The patriotic bunting now displayed on the museum gazebo in Oakland was put up in memory of her, a long-time member, volunteer, and curator of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum for 20 years. Guests will be served a country style baked steak dinner, and then will hear guest speaker Rev. John Grant discuss various historical aspects of Garrett County. Reservations, which are required for attendance, may be made by calling the museum at 301-334-3226 anytime between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Tickets are $12 per person.

Friendsville Man Sentenced For Sexual Offense

A 21-year-old Friendsville man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday for third-degree sexual offense and second-degree assault. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Christopher Edward Diggs to two consecutive 30-day sentences in the Garrett County Jail.

Diggs had pleaded guilty to the charges earlier in the month. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Diggs was charged after officers with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation determined he had an inappropriate relationship with two minors last October and November.

Oakland Man Arrested After Fleeing Scene

An Oakland man was arrested after he fled the scene of a two-vehicle accident on Sand Flat Road Tuesday afternoon, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Denzil Smith, 59, was located at his residence on Pysell Crosscut Road, and was charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), and various other traffic violations.

According to the investigation, Ellen Wetzel, 76, Swanton, was southbound on Sand Flat Road when a 1991 Chevrolet truck operated by Smith crossed the center line and struck her vehicle.

Woman Hit By Vehicle; Driver Flees Scene

Investigation is continuing in a hit and run accident involving a pedestrian Wednesday night on Kitzmiller Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

A northbound vehicle struck a pedestrian, resulting in facial injuries to a 22-year-old Loch Lynn resident. The operator of the vehicle left the scene prior to the police's arrival.

Evidence was collected at the scene, and charges are pending on the outcome of the investigation, police said.

The pedestrian was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

In other police news, Dannie Stemple, 49, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested after police investigated a disturbance complaint at a residence on P Street in Mtn. Lake Park Wednesday evening.

According to police, Stemple was yelling and cursing at some people in an apartment complex, and it was discovered that he had been sniffing glue.

Stemple was charged with disturbing the peace and inhaling a harmful substance.

DOC WILLY ISSUES NEW CHALLENGE: "NO BUCKS . . . NO YUCKS!" – Last week's Republican featured a photo of hair stylist Tammy Kitzmiller getting ready to "whack" off Willy Hughes's ponytail, as a Relay For Life fundraiser. Hughes (a.k.a. Dr. Willy) said if his Orphans R Us team got enough donations, he would allow Kitzmiller to cut the locks during the American Cancer Society event next Friday evening. After seeing the photo, however, a local resident offered to donate $1,000 if Hughes would "take it all off," by shaving his entire head. The Orphans decided to go public with this offer and have raised the stakes even higher. "If the members of the community can contribute $5,000 to the Orphans' fundraiser," said Hughes, "the four fellows pictured above will all undergo the buzz cut – bald heads all around." But here's the "kicker," those who do not make a contribution do not get to laugh when the team members' heads are shaven at Relay For Life. "That's the deal," Hughes said. "No Bucks . . . No Yucks!" Persons wishing to make donations are asked to make checks payable to the American Cancer Society and mail them as soon as possible to The Orphans, P.O. Box 421, Oakland, MD 21550. Donations may also be given in person to the members. "THE MOST SIGNIFICANT CONFLAGRATION and cataclysmic event of a thousand years" is how District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett described World War II in his Memorial Day address, presented at the annual ceremonies held at the grave of the Unknown Soldier in the Oakland Cemetery on Monday. "From the Philippines to the Ardennes Forest, free men and women defeated a colossus which enslaved whole nations and ethnic groups, tortured and murdered the innocent, trampled on the rights of free speech, association, and religion, and slew millions indiscriminately and with joy," he said. "... Evil that had assumed proportions never known or seen... was crushed, but not, unfortunately, exterminated... War has become a continuing calamity for this land of freedom," he said, referring to the present-day acts of terrorism and warfare in Iraq. He said that we are now facing "a world terror directed once again at freedom by new captains of evil who, in the name of religion and God, bring their malevolence and moral corruption to our land to kill innocent Americans. The souls of patriots commemorated here, who endured hardship, pain, suffering, loss, and death, understand the ultimate price of freedom, extracted so that others might live free... As long as freedom is to persevere, as long as this nation is to continue as a shining city on a hill, that ultimate price, the recompense that will be exacted, will continue, just as Memorial Day speeches extolling these same virtues will continue into the distant future, long after we who are here now are gone." The judge is a U.S. Army veteran.

Ohio Man Falls Asleep At Wheel; Truck Overturns

An Ohio man was seriously injured early Wednesday morning when he fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle, which went off Interstate 68 and overturned east of Grantsville, according to the Maryland State Police.

Claron G. Schultz, 72, Sunbury, was traveling east at approximately 1:49 a.m. when he fell asleep between Chestnut Ridge and Lower New Germany roads. Schultz awoke when the wheels of his 2003 Dodge Ram pickup rolled over the rumble strip along the inside shoulder, but he reportedly overcorrected the steering wheel and veered into the median strip, where the truck overturned.

Schultz was transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Cumberland Memorial Hospital. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed.

Cow Euthanized After Crashing Into Car Window

A cow had to be euthanized after it sustained serious injuries from crashing through the windshield of a Plymouth Neon on Route 135 near Turkey Neck Road Saturday night, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

John Michael Rhodes, Swanton, who sustained injuries to his hands, was not charged in the incident. The vehicle sustained substantial damage.

The Sheriff's Office continues to seek the owner of the cow, which was a mature yellow charlais who recently had a calf.

Persons with information regarding the owner of the animal are asked to call 301-334-1911.

In other police news, a juvenile driver, 17, from Gaithersburg, was charged after police found that approximately 50 feet of plastic rail at the Waterfront Greens development has been damaged and destroyed by a vehicle that fled the scene.

The juvenile was charged with leaving the scene of a property accident, reckless driving, and negligent driving.

There were no injuries.

DUI/DWI ARRESTS

Two driving while impaired (DWI) and driving under the influence (DUI) arrests were made by sheriff's deputies this week. Charged were Kenneth McRobie, 23, Oakland, and Michael Matthew Hall, 23, Oakland.

Edgewood Pair Get Five Years For Possession, Intent To Distr. Morphine

An Edgewood man and woman were sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday for possession with intent to distribute morphine. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Patrick Clifford Callahan, 32, and Glenna Ann Musacchio, 26, to five years in the Division of Corrections.

Part of each sentence was suspended, and Callahan will serve 18 months in the Garrett County Jail, while Musacchio will serve one year. They were also fined $1,000 each and will be on probation for two years after they are released from jail.

Callahan and Musacchio had pleaded guilty to the CDS charges in February. Related drug charges were not prosecuted upon their pleas.

The two were stopped last May when officers working traffic enforcement saw that Callahan, the driver, was not wearing a seatbelt. It was later determined that his license was suspended.

During the Hutton Road traffic stop, a drug-detection dog was used to scan the vehicle, and a search was conducted after the dog alerted to the presence of CDS.

According to the state's attorney, officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force found a 500-milliliter bottle of morphine sulfate concealed in a jacket inside a backpack.

A second empty bottle and a cardboard box with 84 empty and 60 small vials of morphine were also found in the vehicle. The contents of the bottle had apparently been transferred to the small vials in preparation for sale.

Quantities of marijuana were also found in a bucket in the trunk.

Callahan and Musacchio were arrested and charged following the search.

Their case was transferred to Circuit Court after the September grand jury reviewed the evidence and determined the felony charges were appropriate for indictment.

Monuments Not Enough...

Another Memorial Day has come and gone, and this one was a particularly poignant one, with the dedication of the new and beautifully designed World War II monument in Washington, D.C., and with the 60th anniversary of D-Day coming up this Sunday.

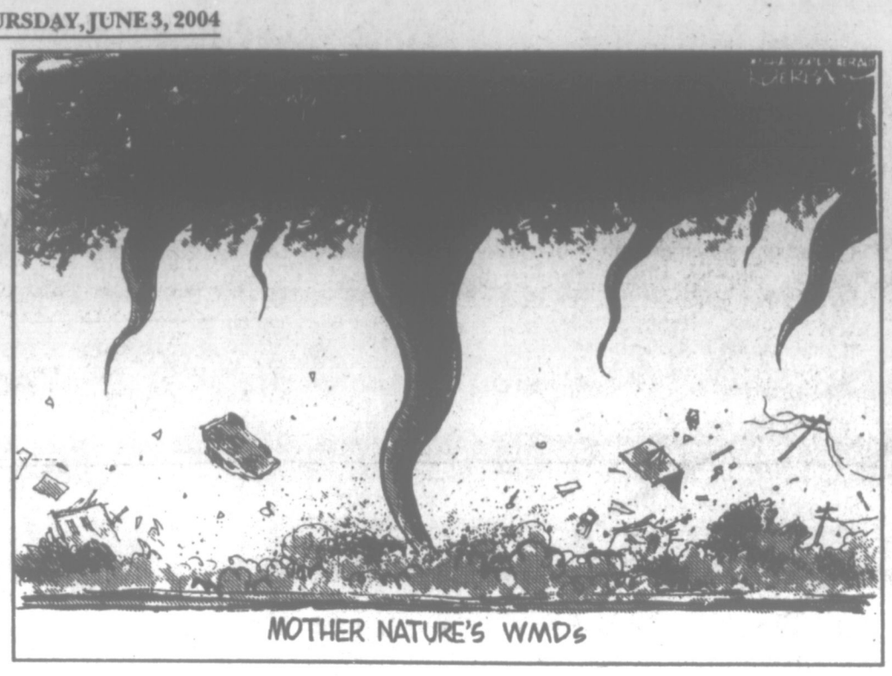
The erection of monuments is important, and is a tangible way for us to be continually reminded of the enormous sacrifices of our military veterans in past wars, particularly those who gave their very lives or were injured, but also those who simply did their duty to protect freedom and were fortunate enough to return home injury-free.

The various ceremonies that are held in communities all across the nation every Memorial Day and Veterans Day are also extremely important, and likewise serve as reminders of those sacrifices.

But monuments and ceremonies held a couple times a year are not nearly enough to adequately honor our veterans who gave so much. Far more important to this task is our behavior as U.S. citizens every single day of the year, whether or not we are exercising those precious rights and freedoms for which so many men and women gave their lives.

Do we vote regularly? Do we keep ourselves informed on important issues, in our communities, our county, our state, and our nation? Do we express our opinions on the issues, speak out against injustice, and always try to help bring about positive change? Are we regularly involved in charitable and worthy community causes? Do we do all we can to protect our environment? Are we tolerant of others' beliefs, others' lifestyles, other races, and other religions, and are we teaching our children to be so? Do we obey the laws of the land? Do we cheat on our taxes? Do we respect the rights of others in all circumstances? Do we always stand for the playing of our national anthem and have respect for our flag? Are we doing our jobs well, whatever they may be?

The responses to such questions, and not whether or not one attends a Memorial Day ceremony or visits a monument, will present a clear picture of just how much an individual is truly honoring our war dead and appreciating their sacrifice.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Thanks, thanks, and thanks to all of the many fire department and rescue squad personnel who responded to the kitchen fire at our neighbor business Brenda's Pizzeria. You gave up your Memorial weekend Saturday night as you give up many evenings with your family to respond to an emergency. You were swift, organized, thorough, and professional in ending the potential disaster.

And a hurrah goes out to the contractors and subcontractors who finished this building two weeks earlier. They were at Brenda's at midnight after the fire planning the reconstruction. At 7 a.m. Sunday morning they were putting the roof back on her building.

Sincerely,
Steve Green

To the Editor:

Last week I took a short trip to Georgia, and on my return I passed an older African-American couple stopped on the side of a busy interstate highway. As I passed I could see that the gentleman, dressed in a white shirt and suit pants, was having some trouble with the jack. Immediately I thought I should stop and offer help. As I drove, I rationalized that I had gone too far past him to stop and would have to go up one exit and come back or walk a considerable distance in the hot muggy weather. I was just starting a 12-hour drive home. I decided to call the state police and report the situation. I was already feeling better about not stopping to help when I realized my phone was reading "no service area." I kept trying until I came to the conclusion that one of three things had probably happened by now:

1. Another concerned person had stopped and helped.

2. The man was younger than I had thought and had changed hundreds of tires, in fact, he probably worked as an auto mechanic

3. He had died of heat exhaustion.

Praying for number one or two, I continued toward home. As I drove I couldn't help but think about my membership in the Oakland Rotary Club and our motto of Service Before Self. I had failed that creed today and couldn't stop thinking about it until I decided that the only way to salvage some part of a failure is to learn from it. My penance is to write this letter and keep that motto in my mind and when I see someone in need. Next time I will stop instead of leaving it to the chance that someone else will. If we are not doing something for someone else, then we are probably not doing what we need to be doing.

Rotary's motto can be yours too. It's free and pays off big.

To the Editor:

The prison abuse scandal has shamed our country and removed any claim we have of representing a moral high ground in Iraq. As the scandal details worsen we read about raped Iraqi women and boys, 70-year-old women ridden like donkeys, genitals being shocked, and other horror stories too disturbing to recount. We now learn that instead of isolated incidents this behavior was par for the course and widespread.

To think that our president led us to war making claims about ending Saddam's reign of torture and terror and then to learn that our own troops are torturing prisoners in Saddam's old prison leaves me with a sense of disgust verging on hopelessness.

Instead of making our country safer from terrorism, these prison torture acts have fueled the anger of millions and increased our chances of a terror attack. When the Red Cross complained months and months ago about the prison conditions and abuse, this administration and the Pentagon did little to address the problem. Secretary Rumsfeld has claimed responsibility and yet the soldiers following orders to "soften up the prisoners" are the ones being court-martialed and imprisoned.

President Bush could be setting things straight and restoring our dignity in the eyes of the world by dismissing Secretary Rumsfeld; instead Bush has praised Rumsfeld for doing a "super job." What message has the president sent?

Our soldiers' failure to live by the Geneva Convention will surely subject American POWs to the same brutal indignities our troops have subjected on Iraqi prisoners. Abuse of Iraqi prisoners in our care is a war crime, and who will be responsible and held accountable? – a few low ranking enlisted men and women or the leaders who set the tone and allowed this to happen?

Can't someone ever lose his job in the Bush administration for screwing up? To hear the president trying to blame the soldiers makes me sick. Bush's campaigning on restoring honor, dignity, and accountability to the office of president now seems like a twisted joke. Say one thing, do another; we are looking and acting like the ultimate hypocrits. No wonder world opinion is continuing to rapidly turn against us more and more everyday.

Sincerely,
Crede Calhoun

To the Editor:

Concerning the upcoming Highland Festival this weekend, I cannot let the opportunity slip by to express my appreciation to the businesses and community members who have been so generous in supporting the entire upcoming weekend of festival activities. For a complete list of all who have helped and the schedule of events, visit our website at www.highlandfest.info.

But in particular, I want to publicly thank the board of directors for their vision, hard work, and good spirit in producing the festival and its related activities. Without their individual and collective work, the event would not have the enthusiasm, organization, public support, and participation which is now so evident.

Fred Thayer, now in his third year in charge of pipe bands, has been the chairman for the past two years, and has been selected by the board as the Honorary Clan Chieftain this year. Gary Lambert is in his second year as secretary to the board, and in charge of tickets. Jeff Nelson is in his third year and serves as assistant to the coordinator, along with organizing the piping and drumming competitions, athletes, and reenactment groups. Jo Donaldson, also in her third year, has been in charge of publicity. Jerry Humberson, who agreed to accept the responsibility of the festival when it was discontinued by the Lions Club, and was the first chairman of the newly formed board in 2002, coordinates all of the signage. Odette Lueck, in her second year, coordinates all of the craft and commercial vendors. Jane Frawley, new to the board, has gathered and organized the food vendors. Rick Kutchman, also in his first year, is in charge of buildings and grounds, and is assisted by former member Rich Ford. Crystal McCann, also new, is coordinating all of the volunteer workers. John MacGowan, now in his second year, has been joined this year by Rosemary Versteegen as coordinators of sponsorships, the Gala Kick-off, Ceilidh, and golf tourna-

For the past year I have been working on a thesis, between 50 and 100 pages, for a degree called "Licentiate in Philosophy." My topic is "A Philosophical Reading of The Iliad and The Odyssey." The other day my son and I went to see the movie Troy.

Evidently I got the story of The Iliad completely wrong. My only consolation is that Homer must have gotten it completely wrong too. It takes a special kind of conceit to rewrite one of the greatest stories ever told, but movie makers do specialize in that kind of conceit, so why should I be surprised?

Here are two obvious examples of that conceit. In the Homeric poems Menelaus not only lives to the end of the story, but he takes Helen home with him, and they live, more or less, happily ever after. Agamemnon makes it home, but is quickly bumped off by the boyfriend his wife had picked up in his absence. Surely that is a tale the movie-making world could do something with.

One of my discoveries (that is: something that I learned which many people knew before I did) is that the story line of two Homeric epics is not straightforward. The story does not begin at the beginning; the middle is not the middle, and it does not end at the end. Those facts are bound to cause certain problems for movie makers.

When one thinks of J.R.R. Tolkien's trilogy, it has a very simple story line, by comparison. The three books move in a linear fashion from beginning to end. The only complication is the telling of events which occur simultaneously. Star Wars provides a slight variation in that episodes four, five, and six came first. Had they not been successful, however, there would probably never have been one, two, and three.

The Iliad ends, "So they performed the funeral rites of Hektor, tamer of horses." There is no wooden horse, no death of Achilles, no end of the war. One gets hints of how all three of those events came about in the The Odyssey, but never in a complete narrative form.

The Greeks did not need to have "the rest of the story" told to them because they all knew the story intimately. They could recite it at will, every one of them. There is no story that 21st century Americans know the way the Greeks knew the story of the Trojan war. Nothing builds community more than sharing the same story. Borders and armies are no replacement for a story that explains "who we are."

To be fair to Troy the movie, if they messed with the story, they got the characters mostly right (assuming, of course, that Homer and I understand those stories at all). Agamemnon is an ineffectual creep. It is difficult to see how he became the first king among the kings of his region. Homer depicts an Agamemnon worthy only of contempt. Troy communicates that well.

The first word of The Iliad is "anger" or perhaps better, "wrath." It is the wrath of the gods, of Zeus in particular, but as manifested in Achilles. That too the movie has gotten right. I am no Brad Pitt fan, but he does a fine job as Achilles. The wrath, potent and repressed, is always dangerously present. It drives him to his glory and his doom which, as his mother (a cameo role by Julie Christie) observes, are one and the same.

Hector is well played and well depicted. He is a good family man, is dedicated to his country, would have made an excellent king, and is an outstanding warrior and general. His virtue is his doom and that of his country. Heroic honor demanded that he meet Achilles on the field alone in hand-to-hand combat. No mortal could match Achilles in arms.

My son had already seen the movie once. He told me in advance that he liked the depiction of Odysseus the best. That pleased me, as did the depiction itself when I saw it. This too the film makers got right: As they would say on the street, "Odysseus is the man." Early in the movie Achilles scolds Odysseus for his tricks. Odysseus replies, "You have your sword; I have my tricks." If you were picking teams, Odysseus is the one of all Homer's characters that you would want to pick first for your team.

Charming and wily, in another sense he is the most straightforward of Homer's characters. In The Odyssey it takes him another decade to get home after the end of the Trojan war, and yet it seems the surest route home if not the quickest. Sean Bean gives a fine performance with all the depth which Odysseus himself possessed.

So, yes, I confess it, I enjoyed this movie. Of course, they get in some sex and near nudity in order to justify the "R" rating, or perhaps to ensure that there is enough romance for women viewers. There is violence enough, but nothing like in Gladiator, let alone in Saving Private Ryan.

I am also pleased whenever popular culture gives a boost to great works of art. To those who might be interested in reading Homer I recommend trying The Odyssey first. Of the two it is the more accessible work for the modern or post-modern reader. The translations of both works by the late Robert Fitzgerald are true to the original text, are eminently readable, and have a high literary quality in their own right. They are also readily available in relatively inexpensive editions.

The world has ended several times since Homer sang his epics, and the stories of Achilles and Odysseus continue to fascinate audiences far removed from their original historical circumstances. There must be something in them.

COLORING THE TRUTH

Girl things. Painted nails, pierced ears, waxed faces. Tanning beds (or sprays), exercise machines, pedicures, permanents, corrective surgery, and Botox. And, oh yes, hair coloring. All these things and more it takes to be a girl. Apparently. And do I dare tamper with it by writing about it? Do I risk upsetting many of my peers by questioning the whole process in which they actively engage? Oh, why not. My main questions are — What compels us to change our appearance so much? What do we have against natural aging? Women are bombarded every day from all sides to be something they really aren't, and I am sort of fascinated by it.

This all comes from a recent kindness granted to me by my hairdresser, who is actually one of my best friends and one of the nicest people I've ever known. But she got me thinking, and I just felt it was worth writing about. We were out together — not in a hair salon setting — and she looked at me. Since we always see each other in her shop or in the evenings for the rare girls' nights out, this was the first time in a long while that she had seen me in the sunlight. "Mary, we've got to do something about your color," she said. "I didn't realize how gray you were getting."

Now, this is a friend, and I was not the least bit offended — we talk very openly with each other. So I said, "My color? This is my color. Brown with gray. That has been 'my color' for several years." She offered up lots of suggestions — temporary color to see how I would like it, a color that was very close to my own brown — all to make me look younger. "But I'm not younger," I said. "I'm 41." After we hashed the subject around a little, we dropped it, certainly with no hard feelings. But I have thought about it a lot.

Why do we do this? Change our natural hair color? Is it because we simply covet the young look? Or is it just for fun, like getting new shoes or rearranging the furniture? Being young has its advantages, I know, but being 40-something is not so bad. I think I have sort of earned my gray hair, having three boys to bring up in this wacky world, doing my part to keep a 15-year marriage going, being a working mom (which of course means working and going on field trips, helping with homework, volunteering at functions, doing laundry, getting gum out of hair, settling wrestling matches, making macaroni and cheese 'til the cows come home, and so on). So every time I look in the mirror and see more of those sort of coarse, springy gray ones amidst the brown, I don't cringe, really. I sort of accept them as part of me and move on. I don't dwell on it much, but I think I'm in the minority among my peers. I would say that at least two-thirds of women my age regularly get their hair colored, tinted, tweaked, pinched, patted, and pruned. They discuss various colors and try different shades routinely. I find, however, that I'm not interested. And then I wonder if maybe I'm just not enough of a girl. I do enjoy getting dressed up and trying to look nice once in a while. It's just that it's not all that important to me every day. And the thought of going to the salon every four weeks or so to keep up with my roots is just an impossible proposition. I'm not wired that way. I'd much rather spend my time and money on other things. But I sure do frustrate the hairdressers in my life. They seem just flat-out confused by my refusal to color. And they all leer at my graying gourd like buzzards circling road-kill.

I think it's just a way of life for a lot of people, especially those in the business. And I know some people just enjoy the change, trying out different hues, going totally blond, or attempting to get that perfect red-rust color that for whatever reason is so popular. Some, especially the teenagers, delight in the shock value of making their heads bright orange or blue, and still others just want the gray covered, no matter what it takes. It's that last group that I don't really get. What's really so bad about graying hair? Who made it the enemy?

In the course of writing this column, I asked both men and women about the process of hair coloring. As for the guys, I think I can pretty much nail it by saying this: They couldn't care less. At least that's what they claim. "I don't look at the hair" was the answer of at least two men. One did say that he noticed advanced graying in a woman's hair if it was a person he had not seen in a long time. He pointed out the double standard, too, that exists in that case: A woman with rather sudden gray may get the behind-the-back comment: "Wow, she's really aged." A man who has grayed up a bit probably doesn't get that so much. But what's so bad about aging? The alternative is not aging, which, I think, is dying. I'll go for the aging.

Women assert that men are completely turned off by females with gray hair. Yet most of the women I talked with who color their locks are already married, or say that they don't do it for men. "Makes me feel better," was an answer, or "it's fun." One co-worker said, "I don't do it to look younger. I just don't want to look any older."

Only one thing seemed to be a common opinion on the whole subject, and that is very wrinkled faces don't go well with jet black hair. Other than that, the responses and opinions were wildly varied. Women who color appeared at first to be confused to even be asked about it. Then they were hard-pressed to explain why they do it. And even with all the denial from the men, I do think it matters to them at least marginally. It's our culture, plainly, that shuns the aging process. Too bad, because we're all getting older. It's just how it works.

At the moment, I think I'm just going to let nature takes its course, much to the angst of my hairdresser friends. But who knows? Maybe someday I'll run screaming to the salon, begging for something to cover the gray. There's always hope, girls.

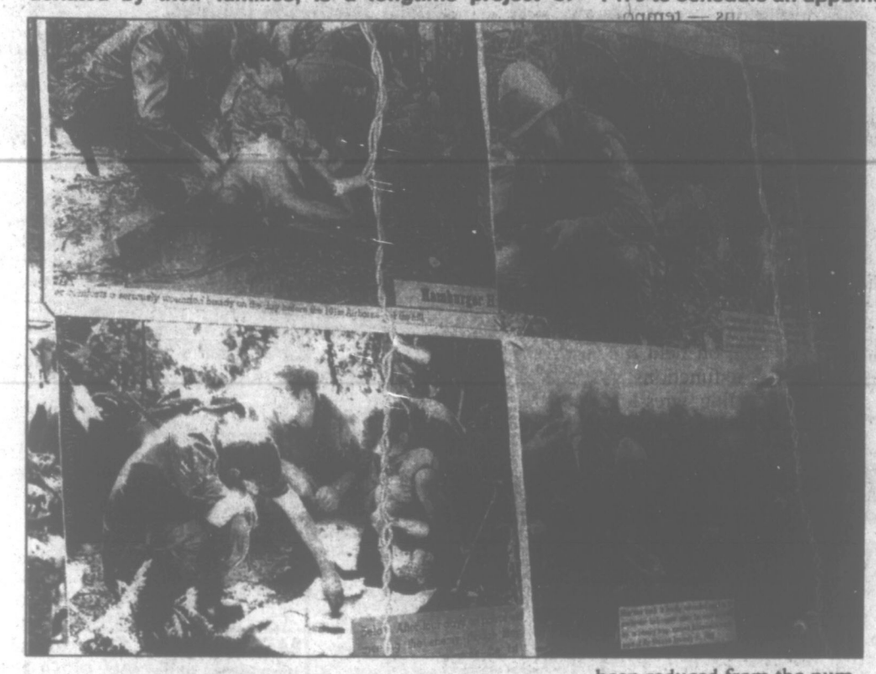
A WALL OF MEMORIES brings together over 450 photographs from the Vietnam War era to commemorate the service of American servicemen and women during that conflict. Housed in The Curve Tavern in Gormania, W.Va., the memorial, which was dedicated over the weekend, is the work of tavern proprietor Mai Bean, a South Vietnam native who left her country as a young woman in 1970. The 10x90-foot wall, covered with images that include a number of area residents donated by their families, is a longtime project of Bean and her own family. "This is 30 years past due, but I wish to remember all the Vietnam War veterans who sacrificed to defend our country and fight for our freedom," Bean said. Sixteen Garrett County soldiers were killed in the war, including six from Friendsville. The wall may be viewed during regular business hours at The Curve, which opens at 7 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays, or persons interested in visiting the memorial at other times may contact Bean at 304-693-7470 to schedule an appointment.



Frostburg Man Charged With Theft By OPD

A Frostburg man who allegedly picked up the wallet of another patron at the Oakland coin Laundromat on Sunday, May 30, was charged with misdemeanor theft by the Oakland Police Department.

John Edward Bell, 50, was apprehended by police around 11:50 a.m. as he attempted to leave the business in possession of the wallet, which contained approximately $55 cash. The victim had told police that he had left the wallet on top of a change machine while getting change, went to start a washing machine, and when he went back to retrieve the wallet it was gone. He told police there were only two other individuals in the business during the course of the incident.

Police arrived to find Bell attempting to leave, and during the course of questioning discovered the wallet in his possession.

To the Editor:

I agreed with a great deal of what correspondent Vagnetti said in his April 29 letter, and I agreed with a great deal of what Mr. Sheahen responded with in his May 6 letter.

While they were diametrically opposed, I suspect the truth lies between the two opposing views, and provide my rationale therefore.

Mr. Vagnetti suggested that if President Bush is re-elected he may well reinstitute the draft for our youth. Correspondent Sheahen suggests that because we put a half a million troops in the battle for Kuwait over a decade ago, we can conveniently handle 150,000 troops in the Middle East today.

Oops, the number of troops in uniform today has been reduced from the number of uniformed troops in 1991. Oops, we don't just have troops in the Middle East today, but also troops in Afghanistan, and Haiti, and in special operations in several African countries where our leaders don't even "officially" confirm their presence. Oops, the Pentagon just announced that some 10% of the troops in South Korea, some 3,500, are being pulled shortly so they can be thrown into the Iraq rotation. Oops, the Pentagon just said they were going to have to add another 15,000 troops in Iraq before the so-called "handover of sovereignty" to some political entity in Iraq which does not even exist. Oops, an analysis was just made which concluded that the number of attacks in Iraq will dramatically increase AFTER the so-called "handover" and the Pentagon is now requesting a minimum of 200,000 troops as the bare minimum for Iraq operations in 2005. Oops, the Washington Post recently reported that there are over 30,000 "security consultants" in Iraq today because we don't have enough troops there to do the job now, and that is why Paul Bremer, for example, is guarded not by American troops but security contractors from VP Cheney's old company, Halliburton. Oops, the Cumberland Times-News just had a story within the past week that Navy ships are so understaffed that many of them are now manned primarily by civilians. If memory serves, the majority of the men on the ship pictured in the article, 153, were civilians and the ship only had about 125 Navy troops on board!

And let's see what the REAL agenda is here. President Bush has already started making noises about Syria as uncooperative in the war on terrorism. He has already started the groundwork for an economic boycott, requests for UN sanctions, and all the other signs which, would lead any rational observer to conclude he is setting the stage to pivot off of Iraq into Syria after his re-election. President Bush doesn't run the verbal assault now without plans for the eventual tank assault some years down the line- his practices and patterns are predictable and the call for 50,000 extra troops in Iraq in 2005 may be the first signs of his troop buildup for going into Syria.

Post Reporter Bob Woodward already revealed that the Pentagon, on President Bush's directive, (mis) used some $700 million dollars funded for the war on Afghanistan into preparing for the war on Iraq. Who truly knows we aren't already seeing the same stealthy process in action again?

And with all due respect to Mr. Sheahen, given all these various facts and indications of more change to come, who is to say Mr. Vagnetti isn't correct in believing that if President Bush is re-elected, he will find it necessary to reinstitute the draft as something to which all patriotic Americans must agree?

Sincerely yours,
Douglas Scott Arey

brought the fire under control in about 45 minutes. There were no injuries reported.

Also responding to the scene were the Maryland State Police.

The business, which has 25 employees, is owned by Brenda McDonnell. It was established several years ago in the same site, but had just recently been completely rebuild. Despite the extensive damages to the kitchen and the roof of the two-story wood-frame structure, McDonnell was able to get the pizza shop back open by Sunday.

GNEGY RECEIVES DIPLOMA PLAQUE – Capt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office recently completed a 30-hour seminar at the Greater Chesapeake Law Enforcement Development School (LEEDS) in Ocean City. The executive training seminar was sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Harford County Sheriff's Office. The training is specially designed to assist officers in developing and disseminating improved administrative and technical practices to meet the needs of law enforcement executives throughout the free world. Topics included in the one-week training were police suicide, federal firearm laws, bomb scene incident command, federal legal issues, police ethics, and media relations. Forty officers, including sheriffs and chief deputies from Maryland and Delaware, participated. Gnegy receives his diploma plaque from Kevin Perkins, special agent in charge of the Baltimore Office of the FBI, on the left, and Harford County Sheriff R. Thomas Golding, on the right.

Expressions of sympathy may be directed to St. John's Lutheran Church (ELCA), Cove.

Alma Delores (Miller) Burns, 64, passed away died Tuesday, May 25, 2004, at the home of her daughter in Mtn. Lake Park.

Born Oct. 12, 1939, in Oakland, she was a daughter of Robert Daniel Miller and stepdaughter of Alice Miller, both of Binghamton, N.Y., and the late Evelyn R. (Lee) Miller Freeman and Ralph Freeman. She was also preceded in death by her husband, John H. Burns Sr.; and one brother, Milton Robert Miller.

Surviving are two sons, John H. Burns Jr., Terra Alta, W.Va., and Steve A. Burns, Oakland; four daughters, Crystal Gardea, Friendsville, and Shirley F. Thayer, Diane R. Beckman, and Rebecca Burns, all of Mtn. Lake Park; one sister, Ella Jean Holland, Oakland; two half sisters, Lorraine Freeman, Ohio, and Linda Cook, Ohio; three half brothers, Donald Freeman, East Lake, Ohio, and Paul Freeman and Daniel Freeman, both also of Ohio; 12 grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

Alma was a loving mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, sister, and aunt who enjoyed spending time with her family, especially her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was held on Saturday, May 30, with the Rev. Alan Birkby officiating.

Interment was in the Maple Spring Cemetery.

SAVANNAHA E. JOSEPH-HAUSER

Savannaha E. Joseph-Hauser, 2, Loch Lynn, died Sunday, May 30, 2004, at her home.

Born March 18, 2002, in Oakland, she was the daughter of Crystal M. (Joseph) Hauser and stepdaughter of John E.E. Hauser Sr., Loch Lynn.

In addition to her mother and stepfather, she is survived by one brother, John E.E. Hauser Jr., at home; maternal grandparents, Guy D. and Janet K. (Lewis) Joseph, Crellin; maternal great-grandparents, Burton M. Joseph, Charlottesville, Va., and Barbara E. (Jarvis) Joseph, Mtn. Lake Park, and Theodore M. Lewis, Grafton, W.Va., and Virginia Beeman, Mtn. Lake Park; paternal stepgrandparents, John L. and Carolyn J. (Friend) Hauser, Oakland; and paternal stepgreat-grandparents, Erma M. (Beeman) Hauser, Oakland, and Eugene R. and Janet Friend, Mtn. Lake Park.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was held on Wednesday, June 2, with the Rev. Robert Travis and Rev. Joseph Robinette officiating.

Interment was in the Sanders Cemetery.

ALICE G. WATKINSON

Alice Geraldine Watkinson, 82, formerly of Westernport, died Wednesday, June 2, 2004, at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, where she had been a resident.

Born April 10, 1922, in Lonaconing, she was the daughter of the late James Andrew and Dolly (Symons) Nicol. She was also preceded in death by three brothers, Calvin, Hubert, and John "Jack" Nicol; and her husband, William Watkinson.

She was a homemaker and former employee of the Silk Mill, Lonaconing, and the Celanese Fiber Corp., Cresaptown. She was also a member of the Westernport United Methodist Church.

Surviving are two daughters, Lurene Barnard, Westernport, and Shirley Davis, Cecelia, Ky.; one brother, Eldon Nicol, Owings; five grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

The family will receive friends at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, on Friday, June 4, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home chapel on Saturday at 11 a.m., with the Rev. John Footen and the Rev. William Shimer officiating.

Interment will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Gardens, LaVale.

Board Of Educ. Slates Monthly June Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, June 8, beginning at 8 p.m. Board members will meet in closed session from 4:05 until 5:20 p.m. The meeting will adjourn at 6:35 p.m.

Beginning at the 5:20 p.m. public session, the board will hear a report on the Crellin Community Corps of Discovery Project and a report on freshmen seminar books. Additionally, the board will consider a date for an additional meeting in June.

Action items include personnel recommendations, educational facilities master plan, comprehensive maintenance plan, paving contracts, electricity procurement proposal, special education staffing, proposed health resource material, and a travel request.

Time is set aside at 4 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The public is invited to attend.

DONATING TO LOCKS OF LOVE – Anna Marie Tressler, a first grader at Crellin Elementary School, recently donated 10 inches of her hair to Locks of Love, which is a not-for-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 with medical hair loss. These custom-fitted hair prosthetics are provided free of charge or on a sliding scale to children whose families meet the Locks of Love board of directors guidelines. The organization, which began in 1997, has helped over 1,000 children since its first year of operation. Anna is the daughter of Sandra and Dave Tressler. Persons interested in donating their hair may call Gwen at Heavenly Bodies Salon at 301-334-0902 to schedule this free haircut.

On Dean's List

Beacon Outreach Announces Raffle Winners' Names

The Beacon Outreach, a newly formed consumer-run walk-in center at the Garrett County Lighthouse in Oakland, recently held a raffle for a 19-inch television and a DVD/CD player.

The drawing was held May 14. Kristy Goff, Rowlesburg, W.Va., won the television, and Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski, Terra Alta, W.Va., won the player.

Monies raised will help keep the "lights shining brightly," and help the Beacon reach its goals of serving the consumer of mental health services better.

Swerbinsky Named To Nat'l Scholars Society

Jadyn R. Swerbinsky, a junior at Southern High School, has recently been selected for membership in the National Society of High School Scholars. The society invites those students who have "superior academic achievement and are among the top scholars in the nation."

"I congratulate Jadyn on this outstanding achievement and applaud the commitment to academic excellence," said Claes Nobel, NSHSS honorary chair. "The hard work and success of these exceptional young people will ensure a future generation dedicated to their communities and world betterment."

Jadyn is the daughter of Joe and Deb Swerbinsky, Mtn. Lake Park.

She is a member of St. Peter's Church, Oakland, and plans to attend a four-year university and major in a science field.

Jadyn is also a member of the National Honor Society, was named president of the student council for 2004-05, and is a member of the track and field, swim, and soccer teams. She was also named to the 1200 Club and received the TAM Award (from Frostburg State University) for science.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Coast Guard Fireman Apprentice David L. Hinton, son of Susan C. and Thomas W. Hinton of Oakland, recently graduated from the U.S. Coast Guard Recruit Training Center in Cape May, N.J., and was promoted to his present rank.

During the eight-week training program, Hinton completed a curriculum consisting of classroom academics and practical instruction on military customs and courtesies, water safety and survival, seamanship skills, first aid, fire fighting, and marksmanship.

Hinton and other recruits also received instruction on the Coast Guard's three core values — honor, respect, and devotion to duty — and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct. To reinforce the team concept, Hinton and other recruits were trained in preventing sexual harassment, drug and alcohol awareness, civil rights training, and the basics of the work-life balance, as well as total quality management.

Hinton is now among 36,000 men and women who compose the Coast Guard's force. He is a 1996 graduate of Meade Senior High School of Fort Meade.

Municipal League Chapter Meets; Edwards Notes Support For Slots

Some 42 members of the Al-Gar chapter of the Maryland Municipal League attended a meeting in Garrett County last week at which a host of this area's political leadership discussed everything from the future of slot machines to the possibility of a new noise ordinance aimed at the numerous trains traveling the area.

The discussions of slots came about when Delegate George Edwards was asked in a press conference format about the subject.

"Slots in the state would be good for western Maryland," Edwards said. "A recent study indicated that Marylanders spend an average of $400 each per year by going to either West Virginia or Delaware. That's all money going right out of our coffers and into the pockets of our neighboring states."

When asked about studies that the ready availability of slots would pose severe hardship for people with addictive tendencies, Edwards retorted that monies from the slots would be allocated to assist those found to be addicted to the machines.

"We're already paying for those addicted to gambling who spend their money out of state. Once we have slots in state at least more of those monies would remain in state. And remember, no one is making anyone play slots," he said.

Earlier in the discussion, Edwards pointed out how important it was to find additional revenues for the state budget. He warned that without extra monies the state could be making even more severe cuts than it is now.

"We're all hoping that things don't get to the point where municipalities are severely hampered in their operating abilities and that the final cuts always made in these situations, health and related issues, wind up in jeopardy," he said.

Already in jeopardy, according to Edwards, is Program Open Space, a source of funding that many of the mayors and councilmen presently depend upon for creating parks.

Edwards also discussed the chance of a special session in Annapolis, saying that if it did happen it may focus on malpractice insurance rather than slots.

"But we'll just have to see," he said. "I keep thinking about the fact that it costs $45,000 a day to hold those sessions."

Garrett County commissioner Ernie Gregg also discussed money, but not from slot machines. He said that in these times of budget deficits, Garrett County is "fiscally healthy."

The issue of a possible sound ordinance came from outgoing Al-Gar president Jay Moyer. Moyer, an Oakland Town Council member, said he had been in contact through Al-Gar with the city of Cumberland to arrive at some type of effective legislation to handle extremely loud noises.

"The train whistles you hear now are all computer-controlled. It just doesn't seem right that incredible sound should rip through town at the whim of some computer," Moyer said, adding that it was his understanding that current municipal legislation in Cumberland prohibits train whistles. The ordinance being considered might also include motorcycles and trucks.

"Oakland has become much too noisy a town. We need to do something about it," he said.

The Maryland Municipal League is an organization that serves cities, towns, and communities throughout the state by providing assistance in research on legal matters, and is also a lobbying representative for municipalities throughout the state. One of the organization's latest claims is the governor's signing of two "priority bills." These include one that extends the deadline and makes changes to the Maryland Heritage Structure Rehabilitation Tax Credit Program followed by another that permits narrowed zoning.

An information sheet about MML activities handed out at the meeting also claims that several more bills backed by the group will be signed into law this month.

New Germany Group to Meet

The Friends of New Germany will meet Tuesday, June 8, at 7:30 p.m. at the lakehouse at New Germany State Park.

Registration Fees For Vehicles To Increase July 1

Fees for Maryland vehicle registration will increase on July 1. Legislation increasing the fees was passed by the General Assembly during the 2004 legislative session.

The annual vehicle registration base fee for passenger cars (shipping weight up to 3,700 pounds) will increase by $23.50 and for passenger cars (shipping weight over 3,700 pounds) by an additional $36 a year.

The increase for the fees is the first in 16 years, noted a Motor Vehicle Administration spokesperson. The last increase to the base fee occurred in 1987.

"In support of Governor Robert L. Ehrlich's commitment to improve Maryland's transportation and transit network, revenue generated from the fee increase is directed to the Maryland Transportation Trust Fund, which pays for building and maintaining Maryland's transportation infrastructure," said the spokesperson.

The increase will generate $153 million annually for the Trust Fund, according to the MVA, which will be used to build highway safety and congestion-relief projects and improvements to support "more effective" transit service.

Also effective July 1, the provision rewarding those who purchase fuel-efficient vehicles by waiving the 5 percent excise tax ends. In 2000, the General Assembly passed the incentive as part of the Maryland Clean Energy Incentive Act.

For additional information, persons can log on to the MVA web site at marylandmva.com or call the Customer Service Center at 1-800-950-1682.

Adorable Adoptables

A DOG WITH MULTI-NATIONAL DISTINCTIONS is available for adoption this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Samson is a 5-month-old male Norwegian elkhound/Chinese shar pei mix. He is an owner give-up, but is housebroken and said to be good with kids. "He would love someone to play with him in a big yard!" said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also available is a female German shepherd mix who was picked up as a stray. "Come and meet her," said the spokesperson. "See how nicely she sat for her photo." The Siamese mix from last week's adoptables is still available, as well as several other adult cats. "Please have your pets spayed or neutered before they get pregnant," spokesperson added. "There are already too many unwanted animals in Garrett County." For more information about these or any other pet, persons may call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553. Pets are also available for adoption at Petfinder.com.

Swanton Man Convicted Of Ex Parte Violations

A Swanton man who pleaded guilty to two counts of violating an ex parte order was handed a six-month sentence, all but two months of which was suspended, during a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding.

Rodney Gene Guthrie, 37, received the penalty from Judge Ralph Burnett, who also imposed a $305 fine and two years of supervised probation for the conviction, and passed down stet rulings on one count of second degree assault and several additional counts of violating an ex parte order. Three additional charges — one count each of violating an ex parte order, harassment, and telephone misuse via repeated calls — were not prosecuted by the State's Attorney's Office.

From September through December of last year, sheriff's deputies arrested Guthrie on four separate occasions for ongoing harassment of his ex-wife.

In other District Court news, a Grant County, W.Va., man was sentenced to jail on drug and driving while impaired (DWI) convictions.

WWII VETERANS HONORED – Members of Grantsville VFW Post 214 were honored recently in conjunction with the dedication of the WWII Memorial in Washington, D.C. A total of 61 veterans are members of Post 214. Certificates of appreciation were presented, and awards included the Purple Heart, Distinguished Flying Cross, Silver Star, and Bronze Star. Attending members are pictured above. In the front row, from left to right, are Ed Bender, Sgt. Paul L. Durst, Staff Sgt. Bob Bender, Staff Sgt. Wayne Durst, Staff Sgt. Melvin R. Schwing, and 1st Sgt. Ellis Martin. In the back row, same order, are Ivan Miller; George O'Brien, T-5; Ralph Humberson; Darius Miller, T-4; Ralph Metheny; Corp. Olen Brenneman; and Pfc. Forrest Railey.

Gerald Eddie Friend Jr., 31, Petersburg, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and DWI and was handed a 110-day sentence of which all but 20 days was suspended, fined $255, and placed on 18 months' supervised probation by visiting Judge Edward Malloy. Additional charges of marijuana possession with intent to distribute and drug paraphernalia possession were not prosecuted.

The charges stemmed from Friend's March arrest by state troopers during a traffic stop on Garrett Highway south of Deep Creek Lake. A search uncovered a large quantity of marijuana hidden in several locations within his SUV, along with scales, a box of plastic baggies, and rolling papers. A smoking device bearing burnt marijuana residue was also found in the defendant's pocket.

Matthew McKay Lloyd, 21, Nottingham, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, and Judge Burnett handed down a four-month sentence, suspending all but seven days, a $600 fine, and one year of supervised probation. Not prosecuted were additional charges of alcohol intoxication to the point of endangerment, public intoxication, malicious destruction of property, and failure to obey a lawful order.

State troopers filed the charges in January after Lloyd caused a public disturbance at the Wisp Ski Resort. After crashing into some trees along a ski slope, he verbally assaulted a Ski Patrol member who attempted to render assistance, and at the bottom of the slope cursed at state troopers in front of a crowd of all ages. He repeatedly struggled with the arresting officers both in the parking lot at the resort and at the McHenry barrack.

Michael Eugene Armstrong, 27, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 60-day sentence of which all but six days was suspended, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation. His November arrest by sheriff's deputies came during a traffic stop on Oakland Drive, when a search found a pill bottle containing marijuana and a pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Matthew Douglas Dority, 21, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to drug paraphernalia possession and was fined $500 and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service. State troopers had jailed Dority following a search that was initiated when the odor of burnt marijuana was detected during a September traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Amish Road. The search uncovered a smoking device bearing burnt marijuana residue.

Ronald Lee Huffine Jr., 27, Leisenring, Pa., pleaded guilty to possession of drug paraphernalia and was fined $300 and ordered to complete 60 hours of community service, while an additional charge of illegally transporting a handgun was placed onto the stet docket with the requirement that the weapon be forfeited. Additional charges of possession of marijuana and possession of a deadly weapon were not prosecuted.

State troopers who had noted a handgun lying in plain view in the center console of Huffine's vehicle during an August traffic stop on I-68 near Amish Road undertook a search that uncovered suspected marijuana, seeds, and scales. The handgun was also found to be loaded with eight rounds of ammunition.

David Allan Everett, 32, Oakland, pleaded guilty to alcohol intoxication to the point of endangerment, and was handed a 60-day sentence, one year of supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. Sheriff's deputies arrested Everett late one February night after finding him lying in a snow-covered ditch along Oakland Drive.

Austin Lee Mendenhall, 21, Ashburn, Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and received a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling from visiting Judge Paul Stakem, along with a $405 fine and 18 months' unsupervised probation. Mendenhall's June arrest came after state troopers discovered a bag of marijuana in his car and a smoking device in his pocket during a traffic stop on I-68 near Friendsville.

Ronald Clifford Blamble, 27, Friendsville, was handed a PBJ by Judge Malloy after pleading guilty to a charge of telephone misuse by making repeated calls. A fine of $205 and 18 months of supervised probation were also imposed, while additional charges of harassment and making obscene phone calls were not prosecuted. Blamble's March arrest by state troopers stemmed from a series of profane calls he made to his estranged wife.

Adam Patrick Vance, 18, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and received a PBJ ruling, a $100 fine, and one day of unsupervised probation. The charge was filed after a small bag of marijuana was discovered hidden in his shoe during a search by correctional officers at the jail.

Stephanie Marie Piotti, 20, and Tiffany Rachel Grant, 22, both of West Chester, Pa., appeared before Judge Burnett on drug-related charges that stemmed from their August arrests by state troopers during a traffic stop on I-68 at Amish Road.

Piotti, who pleaded guilty to paraphernalia possession, was handed a PBJ, a $100 fine, six months' unsupervised probation, and 30 hours of community service, while an additional charge of marijuana possession was not prosecuted. Grant was not prosecuted on charges of possession of

GC HUMANE SOCIETY SELLING T-SHIRTS – Tee Wee's Trading Post at Deep Creek Lake recently closed its doors and emptied the store of its inventory. The management donated about 100 T-shirts from the store's stock to the Garrett County Humane Society to resell. The shirts feature stitched pictures of various breeds of dogs in a variety of sizes. A few cat shirts are also available. At cost of $5 each, they are available at the Reminisce Antique Mall, located near McHenry along Rt. 219. Persons are asked to call 301-387-8275 for the store's hours of operation. Proceeds will benefit the Humane Society's spay/neuter program and help promote pet adoptions in Garrett County. Pictured, left to right, with a few of the shirts are members Sherry Friend, Nancy Helbig, Bernadine Friend, and Lisa Baker.

The Arts

Music At Penn Alps To Host Laurel Trio Concert Program

The Music at Penn Alps concert series will present a performance by the Laurel Trio at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday, June 5, in the Great Hall, Grantsville. This program of piano, horn, and violin is sponsored by Frostburg State University.

Pianist and FSU music professor Joan DeVee Dixon, along with hornist Scott Pappal and violinist Jennifer Pappal, both of Altoona, Pa., will perform works by George Gershwin, Johannes Brahms, Franz Strauss, and Emma Lou Diemer.

Dixon, a four-time recipient of the Maryland State Arts Council's Individual Artist Award, made her professional debut with the Minnesota Orchestra at the invitation of Sir Neville Mariner. She has toured extensively throughout the United States, Europe, and Japan, and has worked with George Rochberg and Stephen Paulus. She has also worked with Emma Lou Diemer, and has presented world premiere performances and recordings of Diemer's work.

A graduate of Drake University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dixon is an alumna of the Aspen Music Festival and the Norfolk Chamber Music program of Yale University.

Scott Pappal is a member of the Altoona and Johnstown symphony orchestras and the Laurel Brass Quintet, and serves as hornist for the Altoona Community Theatre. Currently an instrumental music specialist with the Altoona Area School District, he also maintains a private studio.

Pappal earned undergraduate and graduate degrees from Duquesne University.

Jennifer Pappal performs regularly as first violin with the Altoona and Johnstown symphony orchestras, and is also active as a freelance violinist. She is a string specialist/orchestra director for the Hollidaysburg Area School District, and teaches private students.

She also holds bachelor's and master's degrees earned at Duquesne University.

The Great Hall is located adjacent to the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop in Grantsville. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders are advised to arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating.

For complete information on the series, persons may contact the restaurant and craft shop at 301-895-5985. Information is also available at the series' Web site at www.musicatpenn-alps.org.

The Music at Penn Alps concert series is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors, and also relies on support from individuals. Season sponsors are the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop and the Sincell Publishing Company.

MountainMade Offers Stained Glass Workshops

MountainMade.com will offer two stained-glass workshops for beginners in June at the Thomas Education Center in Thomas, W.Va. Stained-glass artist Lynn Gundry of Labyrinth Art Glass will teach the classes, which are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 12, and Sunday, June 13. Each day will feature a different project, and participants are invited to register for either or both workshops. No experience is necessary.

Students in Saturday's class will learn to make a six-inch window hanging using a quilt pattern. Sunday's project will be a two-inch stained-glass ring box. Gundry will provide students with all tools and materials necessary and will charge a nominal materials fee. There is no additional fee for the workshops, but registration is required. Each class is limited to 10 students.

Gundry has been creating stained-glass art for 22 years. In addition to teaching workshops, she represents her work at art and crafts shows throughout the eastern United States. Her stained glass also is available at MountainMade.com and other retail outlets, and has been showcased at the Library of Congress as part of the Bicentennial Local Legacies Project.

For more information or to register for the stained-glass workshops, persons may call 304-463-3355 or toll free 877-686-6233. MountainMade.com is a program of the MountainMade Foundation, a nonprofit organization funded by a grant from the U.S. Small Business Administration.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:04 - Released 5/28/04

The fact that The Day After Tomorrow, Roland Emmerich's high-budget disaster film about the ironically freezing effects of global warming, makes no logical or scientific sense doesn't take away from the sweeping majesty of its computer-generated special effects, which are, as usual with summer blockbuster movies, the real star of the picture. Dennis Quaid, Jake Gyllenhaal, and Emmy Rossum certainly aren't; they're more like guinea pigs in another Hollywood experiment, a test designed to find how computers can be used to draw the most money into the producers' pockets. They're the bait, you see, and we are the subjects. I am deeply opposed to this sort of animal testing, but I suppose in the interest of science, these things must be done. Written and directed by German-born Emmerich, whose previous exploits include equally dubious but admittedly successful experiments such as Stargate, Independence Day, and the 1998 remake of Godzilla, the film gleefully dispenses with anything of interest to actual scientists or weather enthusiasts (or movie critics) and plunges headlong into the realm of awe-inspiring pixels, that realm with which American moviegoers are becoming increasingly comfortable.

Quaid plays Jack Hall, a paleoclimatologist who has fought tirelessly to persuade the American government to stop relying so heavily on fossil fuels so that we may slow (or ideally, stop) the process of global warming. But no one really listens to him until his predictions begin coming true—large-scale melting of the polar icecaps begin affecting the weather around the world and wreaking havoc among its peoples. After bouts of snow in New Dehli and softball-sized hail in Tokyo cause newscasters to muse about the crazy weather we're having, the big stuff starts happening: multiple tornadoes in Los Angeles, an immense tidal wave that swamps Manhattan, and finally, three gigantic superstorms that form throughout the entire northern hemisphere. These storms, which look like hurricanes the size of continents, draw supercooled stratospheric air down into their centers, so anyone caught in the eye of the storm is quick-frozen, kind of like in the cartoons when Sylvester grows icicles and grinds to a halt in mid-stride, complete with a surprised look frozen onto his face, because Tweety poured liquid nitrogen on him or something. Jack finally starts getting some respect from the White House, and suggests that they evacuate everyone to Mexico. The trouble is, his son Sam (Gyllenhaal) and his hot new girlfriend (Rossum) are trapped in New York where the storm's eye is about to pass over.

You know, I've seen people running from a lot of things in summer action movies, from fireballs to huge monsters, from alien spaceships to Japanese warplanes. This is the first time I've seen people trying desperately to outrun creeping frost. While weather-related disaster movies have never been terribly believable, this one really pushes the envelope. Hey, I'm all for conservation and the phasing out of fossil fuels, but the way this film presents the message, it's no wonder environmentalists are never taken seriously. I guess Emmerich felt that a disaster that takes hundreds or thousands of years is not scary enough, so he'd ratchet it up to a few hours. The effect is fun but not believable. One must not only suspend one's disbelief to accept this movie, but one's entire knowledge of physics, and only those who can do that (or who have no knowledge of physics) can really enjoy it. For the record, a few reasonably good performances by Ian Holm and Sela Ward tend to counterbalance the schlock, but since the schlock is what most people are going to see, the majority of moviegoers will probably think their parts are boring an unnecessary. After all, they really just interrupt the visuals.

Animal testing is wrong, and I resent being used in such an experiment, like a rat forced to make its way through a maze to find the cheese. But you have to admit, that cheese is pretty dang tasty. ★★½

Doll-Making Workshop Set

MountainMade.com will offer a beginning doll-making workshop at the Thomas Education Center in Thomas, W.Va., on Saturday, June 12. Doll-maker Frances Hall, a MountainMade instructor and demonstrator, will teach the class, which is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Students will learn to make a basic muslin doll, complete with face, hair, and clothing. No doll-making experience is necessary; however, participants will need to bring a sewing machine they're comfortable operating. A materials fee will be charged and preregistration is required. The workshop is limited to 10 students.

Hall is known for her "bright, whimsical" dolls, which are available at MountainMade.com, Tamarack: The Best of West Virginia in Beckley, the Elegant Alley Cat in Morgantown, and at galleries and shops in several other states. Hall operates her business, Running Paw Designs, from her home in Thomas.

For more information or to register for the doll-making workshop, persons may call 304-463-3355 or toll free 877-686-6233. MountainMade.com is a program of the MountainMade Foundation, a nonprofit organization funded by a grant from the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Local Students Vie For Talent Scholarships

Five Garrett County high school juniors will sing, dance, play instruments, and illustrate artistic talent all for the chance to win Maryland's prestigious Distinguished Scholar Talent award. More than 800 students throughout the state will compete to win one of 80 $3,000 scholarships. This is the 13th year of competition.

The 2004 Talent-in-the-Arts Competition begins Friday, June 4 and runs through June 12, and will be held in the Humanities Building at the Community College of Baltimore County, Catonsville. Auditions each day begin at 7:30 a.m. and end at 6 p.m.

Visual arts auditions will be held June 4 and June 7 through 12; instrumental auditions will be held June 7 through 12; vocal music auditions will be held June 9 through 12; dance auditions will be held June 4, 7, and 8; and drama auditions will be held from June 10 through 12. Students will audition in front of a panel of experts in the field.

Winners of the Distinguished Scholar Talent award will be announced in August and a recognition ceremony honoring winners in both talent and academic achievement categories will be held Sept. 18. at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Graduates Magna Cum Laude From Bridgewater Coll.

Oakland resident Jennifer Sanders has graduated magna cum laude with a degree in information systems managerment from Bridgewater College, Va. Sanders was among 25 graduates of the 2004 graduating class of 285 students who earned the honor by achieving a 3.8 minimum grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

The Southern High School graduate is the daughter of Linda and Dennis Sanders of Oakland.

marijuana and paraphernalia.

The pair were jailed after the odor of burnt marijuana led to a search of their car, which revealed two smoking devices bearing burnt marijuana residue. Piotti was the driver of the vehicle.

Daniel Curtis Warnick Jr., 24, Cumberland, was handed stet rulings on two counts of second degree assault. His January arrest by state troopers stemmed from a domestic altercation at a Grantsville apartment, when he allegedly grabbed his girlfriend by the hair and threatened to kill her, and ripped a telephone from the wall.

Gary Jay Wilt, 38, Grantsville, was handed a stet ruling on a second degree assault charge filed by state troopers following a February domestic altercation at his home. Wilt was accused of violently pushing his wife to the floor, then hitting her with a potted plant.

Stet rulings were handed to both Robert Louis Elburn Jr., 27, Oakland, and June Carol Sauerwald, 28, Myrtle Beach, S.C., on respective charges of second degree assault. The pair were jailed in February after a domestic altercation at the Oakland residence they were sharing at the time, when a pushing and shoving match led to very slight injuries for each defendant.

Wojciech Maria Kowalski, 23, Annapolis, received a stet ruling from Judge Malloy on a second degree assault charge filed by state police in the wake of a February domestic altercation at a McHenry residence. Kowalski had allegedly landed repeated blows on a female during an argument while he was extremely intoxicated.

Oakland residents Bonnie Lou Reightler, 53, and Anthony Dale Hinebaugh, 50, were handed stet rulings by Judge Burnett on respective charges of second degree assault that each faced. The defendants were accused by sheriff's deputies of working in concert as they both repeatedly slapped a juvenile during a domestic altercation at their home.

Charges of second degree assault and reckless endangerment faced by Patty Lynn Minnick, 23, Oakland, were stetted. She was jailed by Oakland police officers in February for allegedly giving a male acquaintance several prescription pills and a vodka drink in order to "calm him down." She then allegedly departed from the home without monitoring the man's condition, and also reportedly left two small children alone with the unconscious subject.

Douglas Reckart Jr., 48, Indianapolis, was handed a stet ruling by Judge Malloy on a felony malicious destruction of property charge, while a felony theft charge was not prosecuted. He was ordered to pay restitution to the victim, a landowner who had been renting property to Reckart when the defendant allegedly sold veneer logs off the plot without permission. Sheriff's deputies made the arrest in October.

Tonya Renee Matthis, 20, Friendsville, received stet rulings from Judge Stakem on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges. State troopers jailed her after an October traffic stop on Garrett Highway near Keyser's Ridge when a search uncovered a small amount of suspected marijuana and a homemade smoking device bearing a residue.

Bobby Rydell Lloyd II, 22, Friendsville, was handed a stet ruling by Judge Burnett on a charge of carrying a concealed deadly weapon which stemmed from a September traffic stop on I-68 near Keyser's Ridge. State troopers conducting a vehicle search discovered a knife in the driver's door compartment, and determined the weapon was readily accessible.

Jeremy John Augustus Gosnell, 40, Oakland, faced charges of misdemeanor theft, tampering with a vehicle, and vagabond behavior, each of which was stetted. The charges were filed in January by state troopers after an alert citizen reported witnessing Gosnell removing items from unlocked vehicles in the Wal-Mart parking lot.

Carlton Jamall Hamilton, 21, Owings Mills, was handed stet rulings by Judge Stakem in connection with marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession charges. The charges stemmed from his June arrest by state troopers in the parking lot of the Keyser's Ridge McDonald's, when a search revealed two suspected marijuana cigarettes in his pocket.

A second degree assault charge was not prosecuted against Robin Beth Page, 42, Grantsville. State troopers filed the charge in January following an alleged domestic altercation.

FEATURING THE FINEST IN THE COUNTY – An all male review titled "The Harbor Bar Queen of the Lake" was held last weekend, and raised $1,267 to benefit the Dove Center. The contestants, obviously all in drag, competed in two categories: formal and swimsuit, and each had to answer a question from the judges. Contestants raised money through pledges and entrance fees. Competing were Sam Housley, Miss The Boat; David Feaster, Miss Interpreted; Mike Singer, Miss Placed; Jason Buckley, Miss Proportioned; Mike Myers, Miss Guided; Nathan Rodeheaver, Miss Tery; Tim Macauley, Miss Understood; and Beau Gibson, Miss Demeanor. Rodeheaver was awarded a $100 Silver Tree gift certificate for having the most pledges and a $50 gift certificate for being named runner-up. Gibson placed first and was awarded a $75 gift certificate. They were also awarded trophies and Harbor apparel. This event will be held annually because of the overwhelming support and success, said a spokesperson. The contestants showing off their swimwear are pictured above.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The mayor and town council met in regular session recently.

•The mayor and town council are asking for the cooperation of all town residents in ceasing to mow grass clippings into the local streets. Grass clippings are washed into the storm drain system and have the potential to cause severe flooding and property damage in certain areas of the town. "Let's work together to prevent potential damage to our neighbors' and our own properties," said a councilperson.

•The new roof has been installed on the Friendsville municipal (town hall/library) building.

•The strategic planning committee recently met with Karen Reckner, who is the special events coordinator for Garrett County, to discuss upcoming events in the community.

•Because of increased destruction at the community park, the mayor and council are urging anyone with information regarding vandalism to contact the Maryland State Police and/or the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

•The mayor and council remind all residents that the Garrett County Dog Ordinance, which requires restraints, is enforced within the town limits.

The next council meeting is scheduled for Monday, June 7, at 7 p.m.

ATTENTION, ALL WVU PARENTS – Local families of students attending West Virginia University are encouraged to join the Mountaineer Parents Club. The organization's purpose is to involve parents and other family members in programs and activities that result in continuous improvement of the student experience at WVU, a spokesperson explained. Pictured are local club members who recently attended a Mountaineer Parents Club function in Morgantown, W.Va. Shown from left are Ed and Dawn Panther, Susan Hardesty (parents club founder and wife of WVU president, David Hardesty), and Mary and Steve Lantz.

CARDS OF HOPE PARTY SET FOR WEEKEND – Young cancer patients, their families, and friends will be treated to lots of fun activities, food, and surprises during the 13th annual U.S. Cellular Cards of Hope Summer Party, set for this Saturday, June 5, at Valley Worlds of Fun in Fairmont, W.Va. The event is a joint project of West Virginia University's Children's Hospital and the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center. The party will begin at 10 a.m. with dozens of children from West Virginia and surrounding states unleashing their artistic talents to design holiday greeting cards that will be used to raise money to fight childhood cancers. Every year a Cards of Hope Committee selects a new set of 10 winning designs from the summer party. They are produced as a pack of 20 greeting cards, in an assorted or single design pack, and later marketed and sold throughout the tri-state area (Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland) by volunteers and by U.S. Cellular stores. The card sales serve as the primary fundraiser for the Pediatric Cancer Care and Research Fund. The fund is managed by the Pediatric Oncology Department at WVU Children's Hospital. All original designs, including those chosen as part of the 10 designs, will be exhibited throughout the state. The annual auction of all the original designs is being planned for early winter. One of those children participating in the party is Oakland resident Becky Diller, who is pictured above. Her card titled Kitty Christmas, which she is working on in the above photo, was one of the drawings chosen for the 2003 collection. Becky's drawings have been chosen at least five times in previous years. She is the daughter of Marilyn and John Diller. For more information about the cards, persons may call 304-293-3711 or go online at www.cardsofhope.com.

FORMER RAMS PLAY BALL — The ninth annual Southern High School alumni baseball game was held last week, ending with a 7-4 victory by the Red team over the White team. Twenty-four former Rams participated. Max Hill (class of 1986) led the winners at the plate with three hits and two RBI, while Seth Tressler (1997) smacked a home run and a single for two RBI. Also recording two hits apiece for the Red team were Brad Palmer (2002), Keith Parks (1999), and Dave Sweitzer (1981). The White team was paced by Billy Bittinger (1992), who also had three hits. Jay Tressler (2003) provided a double and a single, while Tim Chapman (1987) and Chris Bittinger (1998) each hit two singles. Each team finished with 15 hits. J.R. Bosley (1988) earned the win on the mound over Joey DiSimone (1996). Billy Bittinger was named the MVP for providing both strong pitching and hitting performances.

The deadline for entering a team is Monday, June 14, and the cost to participate is $15 per person. Registration may be made by contacting Wellham at 301-387-3052 or via e-mail at awellham@garrettcollege.edu.

Ram Relay Team Finishes Fourth At State Meet

The Southern High School girls' 800-meter relay team recorded the best Garrett County finish in the Maryland 1A State Track and Field Championships, held last Thursday through Saturday at Morgan State University in Baltimore.

The team, which consisted of Sarah Cosner, Natalie Domenick, Kendra McLaughlin, and Robbin Gregg, ran the event in 1 minute, 49.3 seconds to capture fourth place.

Also placing among the top six for the Rams were Dan Goulart, who was fifth in the boys' shot put with a distance of 46 feet, 6 inches; and Nina Stoner, who finished sixth in the girls' shot put with a throw of 30 feet, 3 inches.

LIONS DONATE TO THE TIM UMBEL FUND – The Friendsville Lions Club recently made a donation to the Tim Umbel Memorial Fund. The fund was established by Northern High School teacher and coach Paul Edwards. Each year a scholarship will be awarded to a senior boy or girl who wishes to play basketball in college. Donations to the fund may be made at any branch of First United Bank & Trust. Pictured at left is Michael Lawson, Lions president, as he presents the donation to MaryAnn and Rick Umbel, Tim's parents.

Hoops Camp Set At Garrett College

The Garrett Basketball Camp is scheduled for later this month. A Monday through Friday, June 14-18 session is slated for fifth through tenth grade boys, and fifth through twelfth girls, and a Monday through Thursday session, June 21-24, is available for boys and girls entering the first through fourth grades this fall.

The camp will provide individual instruction, team play, and games and other activities. Each participant will receive a camp T-shirt.

Wisp Still Perfect In Hot Stove Play; Salisbury Loses

A number of local baseball players are making names for themselves in the Hot Stove Baseball League this summer, as the Wisp squad and the nearby Salisbury (Pa.) Legion are two of the top teams on the 26-team circuit. This week the Wisp downed Hobo's Restaurant and Young's/Cumberland Optimist to remain 5-0, a perfect mark shared only with the Rotary squad. Salisbury (4-1) started its slate off with a loss to Rotary before bouncing back to storm Fort Ashby.

The Wisp took an easy 4-0 victory over Hobo's last Thursday, May 27, behind a sterling one-hit pitching performance by Corey Carr. The ace whiffed 11 batters and issued just one walk along the way.

The battle was a scoreless pitchers' duel until the fourth inning, when Wisp scored its first run. The visitors added three more runs in the sixth inning for the final four-run margin of victory.

Patrick Brady led the Wisp on offense by pelting out a pair of singles and recording one RBI. Jared Lapp ripped a triple to drive home a run as well. Hobo's only hit off Carr was a first-inning single.

Wisp then crushed Young's/Cumberland Optimist yesterday in a 10-0 runaway win. The Garrett County squad reeled off inning-by-inning tallies of one run in the first, four in the second, three in the third, and two in the fourth.

Starting Wisp pitcher Brady, who worked the first three stanzas, and reliever Jared Lapp combined to hold Young's to just three singles.

Carr blasted a two-run homer for the victors, and added two singles to drive home a total of five runs. Tyler Southerly contributed a pair of RBIs on two singles, and Jeff Smith punched out a pair of singles and tallied one RBI. Ed Lytle ripped a double.

The Wisp plays Paw Paw Tuesday at Hamilton Field.

Salisbury, which has several Northern High student-athletes on its roster, dropped its first contest Friday to Rotary, 9-3, in a battle of unbeatens. The Orioles bounced back Tuesday to down Fort Ashby 8-1.

The Rotary jumped out to an early lead by scoring four runs in the top of the first, digging a hole that the Salisbury hosts were never able to climb out of. The O's scored once in the bottom of the first, Rotary scored one run in the second, and Salisbury put two runs across in the third. Rotary put the game away for good with three runs in the fifth and one in the sixth stanza.

Jake Hay doubled for Salisbury (3-1). Brock Glotfelty, who pitched the first five innings, and reliever Brandon Beachy combined for 10 strikeouts.

Glotfelty tallied a pair of hits, and winning pitcher Jarod Mohney recorded three RBIs, as the pair helped pace Salisbury past Fort Ashby's Lions Tuesday in an 8-1 romp.

The Lions roared first with a leadoff run in the first inning, but the O's struck back by scoring twice in each of the first two stanzas to go up 4-2 heading into the third. The hosts added four more runs in the fourth inning.

The game was shortened to four innings because of the league's 2-hour, 15-minute time limit. The game was delayed on two occasions by lightning.

Salisbury scored eight runs on five hits. Glotfelty had two singles. Mohney had a single and three RBIs and Ryan Finzel a single and two RBIs.

Salisbury goes up against Corbin Electric Tuesday at Holler Field.

Garrett Women's Volleyball League Seeking Players

A Tuesday evening women's summer volleyball league is forming for play from June 15 to Aug. 3 at Garrett College. The league will meet from 6:30 to 9 p.m. in the college gym, where the first 30 minutes of the evening will be set aside for a clinic to learn and practice a new volleyball skill.

League organizers are seeking teams or individuals who are interested in being placed on team, and participants are required to have a minimum of some high school volleyball experience. The matches will put four-player teams on the court, and each team can have a roster of up to six players. Depending on the number of participants, the league may be split into high school and open divisions.

"This is an excellent opportunity for players to gain more experience," said GC volleyball coach Ann Wellham, who is coordinating the league. "The combination clinic/league format will give each player the opportunity to play and improve skills during the

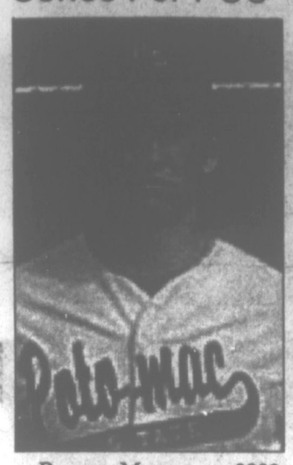
Meyers Pitches In NJCAA World Series For PSC



Bryson Meyers, a 2002 graduate of Southern High School, took part in the NJCAA Division I World Series this week in Grand Junction, Colo., as a member of the Potomac State College (Keyser, W.Va.) baseball squad. The sophomore pitcher worked 1/3 inning of relief duty on the mound for the Catamounts during Saturday's opening round contest against Middle Georgia, and recorded a flyout against the only batter he faced.

Potomac State lost both of its World Series contests, falling 4-2 to Middle Georgia before dropping a 10-1 contest to Seminole State (Fla.) on Sunday. The Region XX champion Catamounts earned their berth in the 10-team World Series field by taking the Eastern Division championship earlier last month with a 10-5 victory over Surry Community College (N.C.).

PSC finished the season with an overall 31-22 record, and was rated one of the top 10 teams in the nation. The Catamounts won the Division II national championship in 1995, and have won 30 or more games each season for the past five straight years. They jumped to Division I play in 2000.

Meyers, a left-handed pitcher, earned numerous team, league, and area honors as a longtime starter for the Southern Rams baseball squad.

Highland Fest's Golf Tourney Slated Sunday

A new addition to this weekend's McHenry Highland Festival is the St. Andrews-at-Wisp Golf Tournament, which takes place Sunday, June 6, at 9 a.m.

The tournament is at "one of the 100-must-play courses in the Mid-Atlantic," aecording to Washington Golf Monthly. Prizes will be awarded, including a chance to win a Starcraft boat provided by Deep Creek Marina as the hole-in- one prize.

First prize is a 7-inch Essex candle globe by the hand-blown glassware company Simon Pearce. There will be four such prizes, one for each member of the teams with the lowest gross and net scores. Those with second and third best team net scores will also receive prizes.

The tournament will also feature a putting contest, a beat-the-pro contest, and other skill prizes for the longest drive and the closest-to-the-pin.

"With your help," said John McGowan, "we will make this first St. Andrews-at-Wisp Golf Tournament a great success, and round out the weekend's exciting events at the McHenry Highland Festival."

Registration has been extended, and the public is invited to sign up. For more information or to sign up, persons may call Bill Cox or Brian Heslop at 301-387-4911, ext. 2119.

More information about other McHenry Highland Festival activities is available at highlandfest.info.

First United To Sponsor Charity Golf Tournament

First United Bank & Trust will be sponsoring the 16th annual Charity Golf Tournament and Banquet at the Oakland Golf Club on Friday, July 9. This is the sixth year that First United has organized this event.

The tournament has become a tradition over the past 15 years and has raised over $194,000 for Garrett County charities. "Participants are able to enjoy a challenging round of golf, and at the same time, help raise much needed funds for worthy community projects," stated a tourney spokesperson.

The recipient of the tournament proceeds this year will be United Way of Garrett County. Established in January 2000, United Way of Garrett County provides funds to local charities. United Way of Garrett County is a nonprofit organization that relies solely on contributions for its funding. All funds are used exclusively for programming within Garrett County.

Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, executive committee chair of the United Way of Garrett County, stated, "United Way of Garrett County is very appreciative for being chosen by the bank again this year to be the benefactor of the annual charity golf tournament. The proceeds that are raised play a big part in meeting the organization's campaign goals, and the best part is that the funds directly benefit the Garrett County efforts."

Golfers will be competing for team prizes redeemable at the Oakland Golf Club Pro Shop. First place low net and low gross teams will each receive $1,000 gift certificates. The second place low net and low gross teams will each receive $650 gift certificates, the third place low net team will receive a $400 gift certificate, the fourth place low net team will receive a $200 gift certificate, and the fifth place low net team will receive a $100 gift certificate.

First United also invites all professionals, businesses, and individuals who wish to support the charity event without participating in the tournament to register as an associate sponsor. Associate sponsors receive two tickets to the banquet and awards ceremony, which will be held immediately following the tournament. They also receive recognition on prominently displayed signs on the day of the event and through a "thank-you" ad following the tournament.

Anyone interested in becoming a sponsor should call 1-800-470-4356, ext. 2420.

CAUGHT AFTER A BATTLE — Friendsville resident George Fickes was fishing for perch at the Yough Dam last month when he felt the line jerk. "I had no idea what it was, but I knew it was big," he said. He fought with the fish for about 30 minutes before it tired and was netted by his friend, Dave Opel. What he found was not a perch, but a northern pike, which weighed in at 24 pounds and measured 42 inches. Fickes noted that the fish was caught with an 8-pound test line, which is very light tackle. He used a number 4 hook and tempted the fish with a night crawler.

FISHING RODEO SLATED AT NEW GERMANY STATE PARK – Friends of New Germany, the official volunteer organization of New Germany State Park, is currently planning the 2004 New Germany State Park Fishing Rodeo. The rodeo has been scheduled for Wednesday, June 16, at the New Germany State Park Lake. The annual competition is open to all youth ages 15 and under. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. at the Lakehouse. A one-dollar donation will be requested, but is not required for participation. The competition will end at 11 a.m., followed by a free lunch for all participants. Trophies and savings bonds will be awarded to the anglers in each age group who catch the three largest fish. All participants of the Rodeo will be awarded a coupon that can be redeemed at the New Germany State Park concession stand at any time this summer. Friends of New Germany is seeking business or individual donations to help defray the costs of this community event. For more information about the Fishing Rodeo or about the Friends of New Germany, persons may call the Park Office at 301-746-8359 or 301-895-3675. Pictured above is 3-year-old Cayleb Broadwater at last year's rodeo. At right is Cassie Pierce, age 9.

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending May 30 are:

Rainbow trout, 1 lb. 8 ozs., 17 in., caught by Cindy Crites, Cumberland.

Black crappie, 13-1/2 in., caught by Jason Loutsenhizer, Murrysville, Pa.

Yellow perch, 12 ozs., 12-1/4 in., caught by James Gallagher, N. Huntingdon, Pa.

Bluegill, 10 in., caught by Mark Davidson, Somerset, Pa.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers are invited to register their catch at Deep Creek Outfitters at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND AND "OLLIE" TAKES OVER!

By Dan Muss

When my wife and I started sailing Flying Scots at Deep Creek Lake in the summer of 1983, the Race Committee was Joe and Gerry Becker, and they ran all the races, all the time. Their race philosophy was summed up in the name of their beautiful, wooden Chris Craft: "Infallible." They loved to set marks in places where they knew the unstable wind conditions would drive the sailors crazy.

When they retired from being the Race Committee the Deep Creek Yacht Racing Association (DCYRA) went to a new system. The job of Race Commander was assigned to experienced sailors who served for one weekend each season. The race commanders drove the committee boat, set the marks and determined the race course. Matt Matthews took over the job of manning the anchor lines, timing the race starts, and raising the signal flags on a permanent basis. Matt did this job with skill, good humor, and diligence for many years; last summer Matt retired from this job with the grateful appreciation of our sailing community.

So the DCYRA went back to the drawing board for this year's race season. At the suggestion of Ray Gauthier, we purchased an electro-mechanical system whose trade name is "Ollie" (I do not know how they arrived at his name, but that's what we call it!) The "Ollie" times the start by giving the committee a series of beeps to let the operator know what's coming and then sounding a very loud horn. The person in charge of the race is now called the Principle Race Officer (PRO) and the assigned boat captain now drives the boat. This new system was inaugurated this past Memorial Day weekend with Ted Rissell as PRO and it worked well. Ted set good courses for all the races under trying wind conditions.

We opened the sailing season on Saturday with a "tune-up" race called the Steiding Cup. This race is open to any sailboat and there is only one winner. The second race on Saturday is the first race of the four-race Becker Cup Regatta. Races two and three were sailed on Sunday and race four on Monday, Memorial Day. There were a total of 44 boats out this past weekend, the most I can remember. Sailboat racing is alive and well at Deep Creek.

Saturday was a lovely day with a good breeze, but fluky as all get out. We led the Masters fleet until the final windward leg. We were about three boat-lengths ahead of Frank Meehan and sitting on his air. He tacked away and I tacked to cover, but we ran into a hole and he took us at the finish.

Sunday was rainy and cloudy with just barely enough wind to race with. We had a terrible start, and sailed into a great hole while the championship fleet came up and buried us further. We finished dead last but, believe it or not, had a good time trying to catch up.

On Monday I redeemed myself with a good start. The Masters fleet stayed pretty much in a tight race, but we were leading by a few boat-lengths approaching the final leeward mark. Fearless crew, Marilyn Filemyr, was taking down the spinnaker while middle crew, Sue Case, was taking off the spinnaker pole when, for some reason, the pole jammed. Sue climbed up on deck to free it, but, while she was there, I could not jibe to round the mark. Sue finally got the pole off, we jibed, came close-hauled, but in the melee the starboard jib sheet came out of its ratchet block. Fearless was able to pull it in from in front of the block, but we lost some ground. Again, that fox Meehan passed us on the final beat to win. But it was exciting!

Flying Scots Challenger Division: In first place we had Ryan Schubert with his dad Gary and Lucy Kammer crewing. Kirk Gregory with his dad Dick crewing got second. In third place was Spencer Deakin with his wife Marie in the crew position.

Flying Scots Masters Division: Frank Meehan, with his wife Geri crewing, took first; Barbara Elster and crew, Patty Copeland, were second.

Euthanizes Bear

weeks, this bear broke into and entered the interior of an occupied home on two separate occasions, even though the homeowner and DNR eliminated attractants."

The 12-year-old sow also had been known to raid trash cans and bird feeders in the same area. DNR had been monitoring the bear since 1995, when it had placed a radio collar in the animal as part of ongoing black bear scientific research efforts.

"This bear's history demonstrates the challenge of managing Maryland's growing bear population, given that bears are opportunistic feeders and extremely intelligent," stated Lynch.

Maryland's black bear population is estimated to be approximately 400 bears, and in recent years, the number of bear/human conflicts has increased. The number of bears hit by automobiles has increased steadily over the past few years.

DNR receives on average 150 nuisance complaints annually. In 2003, DNR's black bear response team responded to over 80 after-hours calls.

"When DNR receives a call or encounters a nuisance or 'problem bear,' we follow the tenets of our Nuisance Response Plan," Lynch said. "Developed in 1996 and updated in 2003, this plan calls for DNR to assess each individual situation and take appropriate action, which can include providing technical guidance to the affected landowner; trapping and aversively conditioning problem bears; and euthanizing chronic nuisance bears

"Feeding black bears is illegal in Maryland. Deliberate or accidental feeding of black bears can lead to a situation where bears learn to be comfortable near homes and lose their natural fear of people, creating a dangerous situation for both bears and people," the DNR spokesperson concluded.

For the complete information on bears in Maryland, and how DNR manages the black bear population, persons may consult the DNR website at www.dnr.maryland.gov/dnrnews/infocus/blackbears.

WHITTEMORES ON MARCH, ON RUN AT WORLDS — Friendsville residents Jess and Chara Whittemore represented the United States in last month's World Wildwater Championships on Germany's Loisach River, the "most difficult wildwater river in the world," according to Jess. Over 20 other nations fielded competitors, some of whom are fulltime professional kayak racers sponsored by their respective governments. The Whittemores each competed in the Sprint races, 1½- to 2½-minute bursts of unbridled energy over an approximate 600-yard course, and the Classic races, 15- to 20-minutes of steep falls, abrupt drops, and huge obstacles over an approximate 4½-mile course. "The Loisach is very different than our rivers here in the Eastern U.S.," Jess Whittemore said. "Its volume is 1/5 of the Yough with the same drop, and continuous whitewater and many huge boulders make for a big test of a racer's reaction time. We both felt very satisfied with our performances, given that we're both in our 40s and were going up against professional racers in their early 20s." The Whittemores are shown above marching in the weeklong event's opening ceremonies in the ancient Bavarian city of Garmisch-Partenkirchen, with Jess at the far left and Chara to his immediate left. Chara is pictured below rounding a boulder during her Sprint competition.

ing to the Garrett College Pipes and Drums for the purchase of new kilts. The band is changing its uniform to the Colquhoun (Calhoun) tartan in honor of band member Fred Thayer, who was the founder of the band 25 years ago, along with Chip Evans.

The band helped found the festival 17 years ago and continues as host band. Thayer will be recognized as Festival Clan Chieftain for 2004 and will deliver the opening remarks during the massed band ceremony at 11:30 a.m. at the festival on Saturday.

Friday's gala will offer a meal with entertainment by Lynne Barnes, Celtic harpist. Stations will be set up with Scottish, Irish, and American foods. The evening also includes a special whisky tasting, silent auction, and other activities.

Purchase of the gala ticket includes a ticket to the concert immediately following, as well as a ticket to Saturday's Highland Festival. This is a fundraiser designed to benefit both future festival activities and the Garrett College Pipes and Drums.

"The board of directors, with cooperation from the business community, has worked very hard to bring these events to the public. It would be gratifying to see the events packed to capacity," said festival coordinator Jerry McGee.

Last year's concert was sold out, and next year's is already in the planning stages, he noted.

On Saturday, the festival runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. It will feature five bagpipe bands, three-time U.S.-Scottish fiddler champion Bonnie Rideout, Celtic bands Wolf Creek Session and Coyote Run, sheepdog and falcon demonstrations, Scottish dancers, Highland athletic games, clan displays, livestock exhibits, children's activities, crafts, commercial and food vendors, and more.

The festivities continue that evening with a Ceilidh (a Scottish party) at Deep Creek Brewing Company. Wolf Creek Session (formerly Sang Run) will play from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The brewing company's new brewer, Jason Weissberg, will have a special Scottish brew, "Glen Garrett," on tap at both the festival and the Ceilidh, as well as home brewed root beer and specially designed souvenir mugs. Scottish/American food will also be available. The brewing company is located at 75 Visitors Center Drive, McHenry.

Sunday offers the traditional Kirkin' of the Tartans at St. John's Episcopal Church in Deer Park at 9 a.m., as well as the St. Andrew's at the Wisp Golf Tournament.

This year's festival ticket includes a chance to win a large screen projection television, thanks to Mountain Properties. Tickets for the Saturday event, which will be held rain or shine, are $10. Parking is free.

Businesses such as those already mentioned, along with Humberson Homes for the donation of billboard space, banners, and business cards, help ensure the success of the festival, said McGee.

For a complete list of sponsors and more information about the Celtic Kick-off Gala, McHenry Highland Festival, and other events, persons may visit online highlandfest.info.

Approve Budget

grants, and $86,000 from the demise of the Teacher Salary Challenge program.

Despite cutbacks, however, the county was able to hire seven additional employees, give a two percent cost of living raise for current personnel, and provide dependents of Ruth Enlow Library employees with health insurance.

Additionally, $16,000 has been designated for municipal parks, $4,000 for the Garrett County Historical Society, and $10,000 for the Garrett County Arts Council.

"I think overall it's a good budget," said Commissioner Fred Holliday. He thanked the staff members for their efforts to keep within the budget.

At 44.6 percent, the largest portion of the county's expenditures will again go toward education. The Garrett County Board of Education was allocated nearly $19.8 million; Garrett College, about $4.3 million; and Ruth Enlow Library, about $832,000.

Public works continues to be the second largest segment of the county's operating and capital budget. The Roads Department will receive about $13.5 million for salaries, road maintenance, abrasives, fuel, utilities, capital outlay, snow removal, and much more.

The department is projecting 110 miles of road repairs in FY '05, with an emphasis on bituminous overlay, tar and chip, maintenance, and conversion of existing dirt roads to triple surface tar and chip. Project works will include two major bridges: Oakland-Rosedale and Savage River.

The airport has also been allocated $172,00 for operating expenses, small equipment, and capital outlay.

Under "Economic Development," $1,470,904 has been allocated. The bulk of that, nearly $896,000, will go to Garrett County Department of Economic Development for salaries, benefits, and operating expenses, as well as industrial parks operations, adventure sports, the Oakland broadband match, and the business revolving loan fund.

Total fiscal year expenditure for "economic opportunity" is also projected at $635,393 for Garrett County Community Action programs, Area Agency on Aging operating expenses, the crisis shelter program, Tri-County Council projects, and other programs.

Also under economic development, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will receive $550,000. An additional $25,000 has been designated for special promotions.

General government departments comprise about 9 percent of the total budget and includes salaries, fringe benefits, operating costs, equipment, and other expenses. The departments' FY '05 allocation of nearly $5 million is $360,880, or 7 percent, less than last year's.

Public safety was allocated nearly $5.2 million for the sheriff's office and jail, animal control, Emergency Management, and volunteer rescue squads and fire departments. One additional deputy has been approved, and plans will continue for a new detention center, which is slated to begin in FY '07, noted Pagenhardt.

Local fire departments will receive $695,192 and rescue squads, $241,204.

Under "Public Service," the Cooperative Extension Office was allocated $97,780 and the Garrett Soil Conservation District received $100,032 for operating expenses.

The debt service for FY '05 includes payments of $551,507. The total debt service payments for this period will be 0.01 percent of the total operating and capital budget, noted Pagenhardt. The only debt that the county has is for the construction of the Garrett County Health Center, Yough Glades Elementary School, and the roads department's Grantsville facility, he said.

Copies of the budget may be obtained at the commissioners' office at the courthouse. The FY '05 budget will also be available in the near future online at garrettcounty.org.

If we missed anyone we apologize, as you can see our lists are very long. We are grateful for all who contributed great and small. And to the Plannng, Decorating, Food and Clean up Committees and the many chaperones we thank all of you, for without your never ending dedication this night would not have been possible. A special thank you to the students who made the wise decision to spend the evening in a safe environment. Best of Luck to the class of 2004!

Parents Reminded To Register First-Time Students

The Garrett County Board of Education reminds parents that their children who will be entering school for the first time should be registered soon.

Those who did not register a kindergartner or new first grade student during the recent pre-registration program may do so by contacting the principal of the local school to arrange an appointment. This should be done as soon as possible.

Parents must take the child's birth certificate, immunization records, and proof of residency with them at the time of registration. The schools also request the child's Social Security number for record identification.

Any child who will be 5 years of age on or before Oct. 31, 2004, must be enrolled in kindergarten or apply for a one-year maturity waiver. Any family who is planning to use home instruction (home schooling) instead of enrolling the student in school must submit forms at least 15 days in advance of the start of school. Information may be obtained through the Pupil Services Office at the Board of Education building, 40 S. Second St., Oakland, or by calling 301-334-8939 or 301-359-9209.

Families who are planning to move during the summer should check with the local school or Pupil Services Office to see whether or not the children will be attending the same school this fall.

If the new residence places the student in a new school district, it would be better to make the transfer during the summer rather than after school begins, according to a school spokesperson. Anytime a child moves to a new school, the child must be enrolled in that school and the school must be provided with a new documentation of residency. If a child moves to a new residence within the same school district, the school still must be provided with a new documentation of residency for the new address.

Read. Then Recycle.

Westernport Man Faces Felony Bad Check Charges

An Allegany County man was arrested by the Garrett Bureau of Investigation last Thursday, May 27, in connection with a suspected check forgery.

Keith Jarret Nightingale, Westernport, faces charges of felony theft and forgery of a private document. He is accused of intercepting a Maryland state unemployment check, forging the intended recipient's name, and cashing the check for more than $500 at the WEPCO Credit Union's Bloomington branch.

Nightingale was released on his personal recognizance.

LEADERSHIP ACADEMY

The Leadership Academy offers these suggestions to live by: May 31-June 4, "Take responsibility for your actions" and June 7-11, "You are who you hang with."

CHILD FIND ANNOUNCEMENT

State and federal laws require free and appropriate educational programs for all disabled children. If you know of any individuals with a disability, ages birth through 21 years of age who are not receiving an appropriate educational program, please contact Jennifer Kotulak, supervisor of special education, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South 2nd Street, Oakland, MD 21550, 301-334-7655.

GRADUATION INFORMATION

The commencement exercises for the class of 2004 is set for Sunday, June 6, at 4 p.m. at the football field. In case of rain, the ceremony will take place in the gymnasium, where a graduation ticket is required. Each senior is given four graduation tickets. Additional seating is available in the cafeteria to view the ceremony on monitors. Listen to WKHJ by 1 p.m. for a rain announcement if needed. Gates open at 2:30 p.m. Handicapped parking is available; please call the school office at 301-334-9447 to make arrangements ahead of time. VHS tapes of graduation are also available for $12.50. Reservation forms for the graduation video are given to each senior prior to graduation and are also included in the graduation program at the commencement exercises.

LET YEARBOOK STAFF CLEAN YOUR CAR THIS WEEKEND

The yearbook staff will hold a car wash on Saturday, June 5, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parking lot of the F&M Bank at the lake. Come out and support the yearbook staff.

RAM LICENSE PLATE FRAMES FOR SALE

Show your support for the Rams by purchasing a license plate frame for sale now in the school store. Frames are $5 each.

CAT'S MEOW COLLECTIBLES OF SHS FOR SALE

The senior class is selling Cat's Meow Collectibles of Southern High School. The wooden reproductions of the school can be purchased in the school store for $19.95. The collectible would make a wonderful graduation gift as well as a terrific Southern High School alumni treasure.

CAMP COUNSELORS NEEDED

Seniors, especially those interested in teaching, who are looking for summer employment may want to check out the Elks' Camp Barrett in Anne Arundel County. The camp is looking for counselors to employ for eight weeks in the summer. They have boys' camps in the beginning of summer, then two weeks of Special Olympics and special needs students, then girls' camps at the end of summer. The cabins and other facilities are exceptional. If you know of anyone who may be interested, contact Robin Spiker at the high school.

MARYLAND CHILD CARE PROVIDER SCHOLARSHIP

Application deadline is June 15. Maryland residents attending a 2- or 4-year college or university and enrolled in a child development program or an early childhood education program are eligible to apply for this scholarship. Award amounts range from $500 to $2,000 per year, depending on whether a student is enrolled part-time or full-time or enrolled in a 2- or a 4-year school. More information and a downloadable application are available at www.mhec.state.md.us. MHEC site instructions: Go to "student financial aid," go to "state financial aid and assistance programs and applications," scroll down to "Merit and Career Based Scholarships."

MARYLAND NURSING SCHOLARSHIP AND LIVING EXPENSES GRANT

Application deadline is June 30. (Must have filed a FAFSA by March 1). Maryland residents enrolled in a nursing program at a 2- or 4-year college or university are eligible to apply for this scholarship. Other requirements include: 3.0 GPA in high school or college. Amounts vary up to $3,000 and are to be used for tuition and mandatory fees. Further information and a downloadable application are available at www.mhec.state.md.us.

SHS STUDENTS "GOT MILK" – During December 2003 and January 2004 Southern High School's cafeteria and the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association ran a vending milk promotion. Students who found "got milk?" stickers on their bottled milk received a lighted "got milk?" pen. These students were also entered in a weekly drawing for a $10 Barnes and Noble gift certificate. The weekly winners were then entered into a regional grand prize drawing for a $100 Sports Authority Gift Card. Sophomore Justin Fitzwater was chosen among all student entrants across the Mid-Atlantic region. Cafeteria manager Brenda Yommer (left) congratulates Fitzwater (center) with Principal Tom Woods (left).

FSU Slates Math Camp, SAT Math Training Program

Frostburg State University has slated a math camp later this month for students who are in fourth through seventh grades this fall. The university is also offering a 10-session SAT math training program beginning in July to help high school students prepare for that test.

Sessions I and II of the math camp, designed for fourth and fifth graders, are set for 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Thursday, June 21-24. Students will explore "Arithmetrix," a number of "tricks" that can help them solve arithmetic problems quickly. They will also explore basic algebra, geometry, and probability, with an emphasis on fun problems.

Sessions III and IV, for sixth and seventh graders, are slated for 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, June 28 - July 1. Students will explore George Polya's four-step problem-solving logic sequence of understand a problem, devising a plan, carrying out the plan, and looking back. They will explore different strategies such as guess and check, graphs and tables, working backwards, and setting up equations.

The SAT Math Training program is scheduled to meet from 5 to 8 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, July 12 through Aug. 11. Instruction will include a one-hour lecture, 90-minutes of online practice, and a 30-minute question and answer period.

The instructor for the math camp and SAT training program will be FSU math professor Dr. Laxman Hegde. All sessions will take place on campus in the FSU math lab, which is located in Room 211 of Dunkle Hall.

Early registration is encouraged, as class sizes are limited to 25 students. Registration forms and cost information can be obtained by calling Hegde at 301-687-4384 (day) or 301-729-5179 (evening). Persons may also e-mail Hegde at lhegde2@frostburg.edu.

Online registration is also available through the FSU web site at www.frostburg.edu, with a link to "Upcoming Events" that contains the heading "FSU Math Camp Registration." A discount is available to those who register online.

Mental Health Group To Meet

A meeting of the Garrett County Depression and Related Affective Disorders Association will take place in Oakland on Monday, June 14, from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m.

The mutual-help support group provides assistance to persons with depression or bipolar disorder and their families.

COCA-COLA 600 REVIEW

Johnson smokes 'em

Hendrick driver a repeat winner in 600-mile race

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

Jimmie Johnson gave his car owner Rick Hendrick the perfect ending for a weeklong celebration of Hendrick's 20th anniversary in NASCAR.

Johnson, driving Hendrick's No. 48 Chevrolet, started on the pole for the Coca-Cola 600 at Lowe's Motor Speedway and was rarely challenged as he routed the field, leading 334 of 400 laps to get his eighth career Cup victory and his second straight in the sport's longest event.

His win came just a day after Hendrick's Busch Series driver Kyle Busch routed the field in the Carquest 300 at Lowe's.

"The last few days have been unbelievable," Hendrick said. "This is home. We work a mile from here. All of our guys are here with their families. This speedway is really, really special. We wanted to win it, and Jimmie did a heck of a job."

Michael Waltrip finished second in the 600, ahead of Matt Kenseth, who took the spot with a last-lap pass of Jamie McMurray.

McMurray was fourth, ahead of Elliott Sadler and Dale Earnhardt Jr.

Johnson set a blistering pace from start to finish. He and Sadler, who was second in laps led with 41, had put all but 14 drivers a lap or more down by Lap 100.

At the midpoint there were just 11; by Lap 300 the number had dropped to eight.

The race's only real drama occurred when a late-race caution flag for a spin by Ryan Newman set up a 27-lap dash to the finish. McMurray gambled by staying on the track while the rest of the leaders made pit stops for fresh tires.

"I though it was a great idea," McMurray said. "It was our only shot to win the race."

Waltrip and Jeremy Mayfield took only right-side tires and as a result took second and third for the restart, with Kasey Kahne and Johnson completing the top five.

The lapped car of Robby Gordon momentarily held up Waltrip and Mayfield, allowing McMurray to build a 15-car-length lead.

Johnson used a bold, three-wide pass off Turn 4 to take fourth place from Kahne, then took third from Mayfield a lap later.

A lap later he blew by Waltrip and put the crosshairs on McMurray, who tried every trick he knew but finally lost the top spot with 17 laps to go.

"I knew I had some urgency," Johnson said. "I knew I needed to go."

Johnson motored away to a 20 car-length lead only to have it erased when Newman blew an engine with seven laps to go, bringing out the red flag and setting up a three-lap sprint to the finish.

JASON IVESTER / Cox News Service

Jimmie Johnson celebrates after claiming victory in the Coca-Cola 600 Sunday at Lowe's Motor Speedway.

But as he had done all night, Johnson sped away unchallenged to the checkered flag.

He said his win was a total team effort.

"It's everything," he said. "Our engine department has been working very hard. Nobody was beating us down the straightaway, and through the corners the car handled really well."

He said that makes his job a relative breeze.

"I'm just the lucky guy that gets to get in there and wheel this thing," he said. "It's fun to drive, especially when you can be that aggressive and sideways and still run fast laps."

RACE STATISTICS

COCA-COLA 600 NOTEBOOK

Rain hinders Gordon's double-duty efforts

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

Robby Gordon's bid to run the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600 was washed out.

Gordon was able to run only 29 laps at Indy because of rain, then flew to Lowe's to run his Nextel Cup car. Jaques Lazier replaced Gordon in the No. 70 Indy car after a rain delay but parked it on Lap 89 because of mechanical problems and finished 29th.

"I am obviously very disappointed that I didn't get to finish the Indianapolis 500," Gordon said. "We worked hard all month to have a good race car and felt good about our chances."

GORDON

Gordon struggled in the 600 and was two laps behind the leaders midway through the race. He wound up 20th, three laps down.

Happy birthday

The big 49 on the side of Ken Schrader's Dodge had added significance on Sunday. The oldest full-time driver on the circuit had a birthday — his 49th — and celebrated with a 10-foot-tall cake and ice cream supplied by his sponsor, Schwan's.

And how does Schrader feel about being the same age as his car number?

"Makes me glad I'm not driving the 99," he said. Schrader finished 31st.

Rookie wreck

The first 160 laps of Sunday's race were run without a caution period, allowing race leaders Jimmie Johnson and Elliott Sadler to lap three-fourths of the field.

The first yellow flag flew on Lap 161 when rookie Johnny Sauter crashed his No. 30 Chevrolet into the Turn 2 wall.

"I just lost it, I guess," said Sauter, who finished 40th. "I don't know what happened."

He said his car was capable of a good finish.

"We were running really good lap times, top-10 lap times," he said. "We were going to have a good day."

No repeat for Martin

Mark Martin, the 2002 winner of the 600, had a strong run foiled by ignition troubles. He was running third on Lap 201 when his No. 6 Ford lost power.

His crew repaired the car, but he lost 13 laps in the process. He finished 36th.

Junior's gloves are off

Dale Earnhardt Jr. drove barehanded throughout the Coke 600, but NASCAR officials say that's OK. The fireproof gloves that most drivers wear are only suggested in the NASCAR rule book.

TALK THE TALK

"Jets"

When air is sent at high velocity through the carburetor, jets direct the fuel into the airstream. Jets are made slightly larger to make a richer mixture or slightly smaller to make a more lean mixture, depending on track and weather conditions.

Race in New York a formidable challenge

Lowe's Motor Speedway president H.A. "Humpy" Wheeler said there's a chance rivals Speedway Motorsports, which he's a part of, and International Speedway Corp., which is controlled by the France family that runs NASCAR, could one day work together to build a race track on Staten Island. That would give NASCAR the New York venue it so desperately wants.

The site is an abandoned industrial site. "It would be a reclamation project," Wheeler said. "The difficulty is in getting people in and out, and there's not a lot of areas for campers."

He said a New York track is a formidable task no matter who takes it on.

"That's going to be a huge effort, and it's going to cost a lot of money," he said.

Wheeler also said he wasn't surprised there were some empty seats for the 600. He blames tough economic times hurting NASCAR's core audience.

"It's still a working man's sport and always will be," he said.

"The whole thread that runs through this is the flat economy in this area. The traditional race fan that comes to races in the Southeast has been in the cotton mill, making trucks or running backhoes.

"I spent an hour in the grandstands last Saturday night. I didn't see many yuppies there."

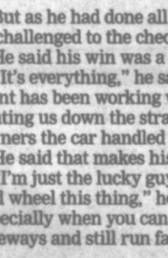
BUSCH REPORT

Kyle Busch handed win in Carquest 300

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Concord, N.C.

With Nextel Cup veterans following in his tire tracks throughout Saturday's Carquest 300 at Lowe's Motor Speedway, young Kyle Busch performed like an old pro and scored his second victory in the past three Busch Series races.



K. BUSCH

The 19-year-old younger brother of Nextel Cup driver Kurt Busch dominated most of the race, leading a race-high 93 laps. But for a time it looked as if Cup veteran Joe Nemechek had the race in hand.

He sped past Busch on Lap 159 of 200 and seemed to be on his way to Victory Lane when he lost control of his No. 87 Chevy as he exited Turn 4 on Lap 182 and slid through the grass, separating the frontstretch from pit road.

Busch, who had been running second, regained the lead and was unchallenged for the remainder of the race, which ended under caution after Tony Raines spun with a lap and a half to go.

"Joe Nemechek is an awesome competitor, and he was really, really fast," Busch said. "I'm sorry he spun out . . . but it's not all the time that the fastest car wins the race."

Busch, who earned the first victory of his 20-race Busch Series career on May 14 at Richmond, also regained the series points lead. He has a 38-point advantage over previous leader Martin Truex Jr., who finished 14th and dropped to second in the standings.

It was the fourth straight Busch Series race and seventh in the past 13 that ended with a change in the points lead.

Busch said his toughest foe is Truex, who drives the No. 8 Chevrolet owned by Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Teresa Earnhardt and has four wins this season.

Jamie McMurray finished second ahead of Kevin Harvick, Jason Leffler and Tony Stewart.

Nemechek recovered from his spin, worked his way back to third and was challenging Jamie McMurray for second when he ran out of gasoline and wound up 21st.

Evernham wants to compete in Busch, trucks

Ray Evernham, who owns the Nextel Cup cars driven by Kasey Kahne and Jeremy Mayfield (and occasionally Bill Elliott), said he'd also like to field entries in the Busch and Craftsman Truck series.

Evernham said that competing in other divisions would help recruit and develop young drivers and crew members. Several other Cup team owners already have teams running in all three divisions, including Rick Hendrick, Jack Roush, Richard Childress and Bill Davis.

"I'd love to," Evernham said. "We're really looking hard at them if we can get the right opportunity to do that."

He said finding sponsors for new teams is the biggest hurdle at this point.

"It still comes down to funding," he said.

Bonser Receives Scholarships To Davis And Elkins

Laura Bonser, who will graduate this weekend from Southern High School, has been awarded scholarships in the areas of art, soccer, and academics to attend Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, W.Va., in the fall.

While at Southern High, she was been active as the editor of the yearbook, president of the National Art Honor Society, member of the National Honor Society, and captain of the varsity soccer team. She has also received a number of awards in the areas of art, academics, and soccer during her high school career.

She plans to study fine arts and play on the women's team while attending Davis and Elkins College.

Understanding Alzheimer's Class Slated At Garrett

A course titled "Understanding Alzheimer's Disease" is set for two consecutive Saturdays, June 19 and 26, from 9 a.m. to noon at the Grantsville Outreach Center. The class is being offered by the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College in cooperation with the Alzheimer's Association.

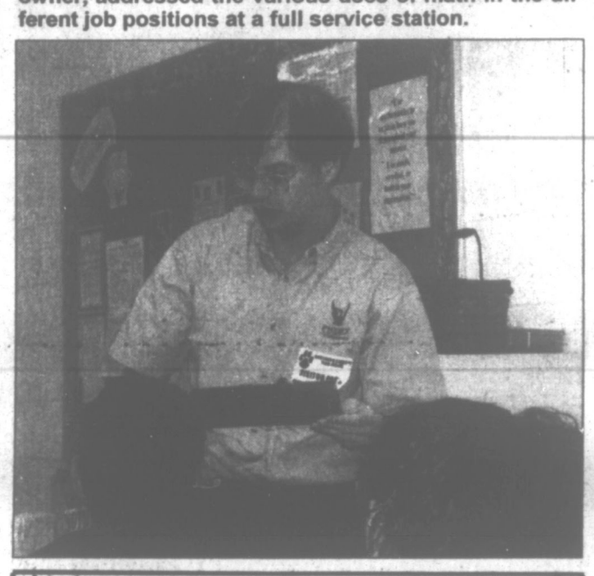
Suitable for caregivers, family members, and even early stage Alzheimer's patients, according to a spokesperson, the first Saturday course will provide accurate, essential information about memory loss — symptoms and stages, obtaining a diagnosis, current research trends, and where to turn for help. Students will also learn about retrogenesis, a technique of "walking backward through time," in order to see through a loved one's eyes and observe and adapt to the changes brought on by dementia.

The second session will address legal and financial issues with guest speaker attorney Allen Robinson. Preparing and organizing for doctor's visits through the use of care, medication and appointment logs will also be discussed. Participants will also learn how to improve communication with the doctor to ensure the best health care possible.

Mona Butula, OTR/L, education coordinator of the Alzheimer's Association, will be instructing the class. Butula is an occupational therapist with 25 years' experience in long-term care, adult rehab, and outpatient and home health care.

For more information or to register for the class, persons may contact Terry Beachy at 301-895-3368 or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

MATH CAREER DAY HELD AT NHS – Northern High School's mathematics department recognized April as Math Month by having a Math Career Day. Members from the business community presented talks to all of the math classes and several of the CTE classes. John Brobst from Beitzel Corporation, who is pictured above, spoke about the many types of job opportunities that Beitzel offers and the role that math plays in getting a job and advancing. Professor Greg Latta spoke about how mathematics has changed the world. Eric Lisantti from Phenix Technologies, pictured below, spoke about the different types of work Phenix does in electronics. Terri Gracie and her daughter Heather, who represented Farmers and Merchants Bank, spoke about the needs of the banking community for a worker that is "sound in math." The use of mathematics in the logging and forestry industry was addressed by Jessica Wilhelm from Timbercat Logging and Anita Simmons from MeadWestvaco. Finally, Jimmy Crowe, an independent business owner, addressed the various uses of math in the different job positions at a full service station.



4-H Leadership Conference Set In College Park

The 2004 Maryland 4-H Learning and Leadership Conference is slated for Thursday through Saturday, June 24-26, at the University of Maryland, College Park. A 4-H Volunteer Leaders Forum for teens and adults will take place on the final day of the conference.

The conference, which is open to all 14- to 18-year-olds, is not limited to active 4-H members. The event's seminars and workshops are designed to help youth get involved in service learning opportunities by enhancing their leadership and communications skills.

Registration can be made by calling Garrett County Extension educator Ann Sherrard at 301-334-6960 no later than the close of business on Monday, June 7.

More information on the conference can be obtained from the Clover Conference link on the state 4-H web site at www.maryland4h.org.

After-School Program Staffers Attend Training

Three staffers with the Partners After School Program at Grantsville Elementary School recently attended a workshop titled "Unequal Partners: Addressing Power and Consent in Adult-Teen Relationships." Grantsville Elementary program coordinator Karen Wood and program aides Denise Fazenbaker and Jeanette Bland traveled to Hagerstown for the session.

Sponsored by Governor's Office for Children, Youth, and Families, the workshop was designed to identify various perspectives regarding adult-teen relationships. The participants examined current research on these relationships, reviewed several lesson activities designed to encourage young people to evaluate the health of these and other relationships, and identified strategies for one-to-one interactions that help young people make healthy decisions about adult-teen and other relationships.

The Partners After School Program at Grantsville serves students in the third through eighth grades, meeting Mondays through Thursdays year-round at the Grantsville Senior Center. The program is operated by Garrett County Community Action Committee, and is licensed by the Maryland Department of Human Resources Child Care Administration.

For further information on the Partners After School Program at Grantsville, persons may call Wood at 301-387-9157.

''70s' actor was in right place, right time

Q: Please tell me everything you can about Topher Grace of "That '70s Show." I don't think he has gotten the recognition he deserves. –Amy Lynn Palmino, Wayne, N.J.

A: Topher (from Christopher) Grace, was born in New York but grew up in Connecticut. He was attending the same New Hampshire prep school as the children of "That '70s Show" executive producers Bonnie and Terry Turner when the Turners saw him in a student musical and decided to cast him as Eric Forman, despite his complete lack of professional experience.

Grace next made a striking feature film debut as a preppy drug user in Steven Soderbergh's Oscar-winning 2000 "Traffic," and later did an uncredited cameo as himself in the same director's "Ocean's 11."

His next two movies, "Mona Lisa Smile" and "Win a Date With Tad Hamilton!" were box-office disappointments. Grace recently finished filming "P.S.," a romantic comedy due in theaters in October, in which he plays the twentysomething reincarnation of an older woman's (Laura Linney) high-school sweetheart.

As of this writing, Grace is working on "Synergy," a dark 2005 comedy-drama in which he plays the much-younger boss of a middle-age ad executive (Dennis Quaid), whose daughter (Scarlett Johansson) is having an affair with Grace's character.

For now, Grace is happy to continue working on the sitcom that made him a star. "That '70s Show" returns for a new season on Fox in the fall.

Q: What ever happened to the TV-movie adaptation of John Grisham's "Skipping Christmas" I read about some time ago? –Victor Radwick, Sacramento, Calif.

A: It's coming to the big screen, not television, in time for

Topher Grace

Thanksgiving with Tim Allen, Jamie Lee Curtis and Dan Aykroyd, among others, in the cast. The title has been changed, however, reportedly out of concern that this movie would be confused with the Ben Affleck holiday comedy "Surviving Christmas," due to open just a few days earlier.

As of this writing, "Skipping Christmas" bears the new title "Christmas With the Kranks."

Q: The credits for the 1991 Goldie Hawn movie "Deceived" includes the role of "Evelyn's Mother," played by Laura Hawn. Is she related to Goldie? –Shari R., Golden, Colo.

A: Yes. Goldie Hawn is the daughter of musician Edward Hawn and his wife, Laura, who worked as a dance instructor and ran a wholesale jewelry business.

In addition to "Deceived," Laura Hawn appeared with her daughter in 1984's "Swing Shift." In 1992, Goldie took a two-year hiatus from acting when her mother's health started to fail. Laura Hawn died in 1994.

Tour To Feature Wooddells' Garden

One of the four gardens being featured in the Secret Country Gardens tour, slated for Saturday, June 26, will be "Grandmother's Garden" at the home of Hopwood and Karen Wooddell in historic Mountain Lake Park.

Having refurbished one of the Victorian homes in the historic town, the Wooddells' goal, they said, has been to recreate a complementary Victorian garden.

Over the last 20 years, their Grandmother's Garden has developed into its present state by overcoming the clay soil and rocks prevalent in Garrett County, as well as the challenge of a sloping landscape, tour organizers said.

Highlights of this garden are the numerous old-fashioned flowers, such as delphiniums, hollyhocks, and sweet pea, as well as fairies hidden among the flowers. Visitors will view a hardscape in the form of a "folly" (a decorative garden embellishment) in which to relax after a game of crochet, and an old-fashioned garden swing providing a spot to read. A path, a gazebo, a bridge, and a trail will lead visitors through an arbor to a hedgerow and a meadow.

On the 100th anniversary of their Ruhl Cottage, the Wooddells planted a Wye oak seedling to "add a bit of history," they said.

"Orange poppies and primroses remind these gardeners of childhood gardens, while numerous pansies are planted for their charming faces," the tour spokesperson said. "Many plants have been given to the Wooddells by friends, who remain a part of their lives each year when their garden springs to life."

This garden and three others will be available to visit during this fifth annual garden tour sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc.

Tickets, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $7 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy or Green Acres Garden Center, both in Oakland; or Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry. On the day of the event, tickets may be purchased at the Gazebo in Oakland.

The tour will be conducted from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Proceeds from this event will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities, as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information, persons may contact Barbara Chesley at 301-334-4519 or Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249.

Oakland Police Charge Man With Driving Violations

A Mtn. Lake Park man was arrested on numerous charges after his Ford Taurus was stopped for displaying expired West Virginia registration plate, according to Oakland City Police.

Charles Lee Wolfe was charged with driving an uninsured vehicle, driving with a suspended driver's license, operating an unregistered motor vehicle, and displaying registration plates belonging to another vehicle.

It was revealed that the registration plate belonged to a Plymouth Neon, the vehicle did not have insurance, and Wolfe's license has been suspended.

Bloodmobile To Be Here Three Times In June

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will make three visits to Garrett County in June, with the first slated for this Friday, June 4, in Oakland.

Donors will be welcomed at the St. Peter's Catholic Church fellowship hall on Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The second visit of the month will be next Monday, June 7, at the Grantsville fire hall. Hours for that visit are 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The bloodmobile will be at the Friendsville fire hall on Monday, June 28, from noon to 6 p.m.

Most persons who are at least 17 years of age, weigh at least 105 pounds, and are in generally good health are eligible to donate a unit of blood every 56 days. Those with questions about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC at 301-334-3810.

NHS MOCK TRIAL TEAM MEETS TOP JUDGE – Northern High School Mock Trial Team members Tara Devine and Blakely Glotfelty are shown flanking the Honorable Robert M. Bell, the highest ranking appellate judge in the state. The NHS students, along with team coach Tom Ables, traveled to Baltimore recently to participate a conference marking the 50th anniversary of the Brown v. Board of Education school desegration ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court. Bell spoke to the gathering on the importance of providing opportunities for young people to learn about the law and the legal system in a "real-world" context. The event was sponsored by the Citizenship Law Related Education Program of Maryland.

This Micronutrient Vital for Good Health

Magnesium is an important micronutrient found in many foods that have not been processed. This important nutrient is necessary for the metabolism of sugar throughout the body. Low levels seem to be prevalent in persons with type 2 diabetes. Although short term studies have suggested that supplementation with magnesium provides a beneficial effect on insulin action and sugar breakdown, more studies are needed. These observations, however, have led some doctors to suggest that a consistently low magnesium level may be a risk factor in the development of type 2 diabetes. In two new studies, at risk individuals who consumed the highest amounts of magnesium were the least likely to develop diabetes over time.

Magnesium has other medicinal uses. Magnesium and its salts are commonly used as a laxative when taken orally or as an enema. This mineral reduces the symptoms of acid reflux and is a common ingredient in antacid tablets. Also, intravenous or intramuscular shots of magnesium is the agent of choice for managing certain complications associated with pregnancy and childbirth.

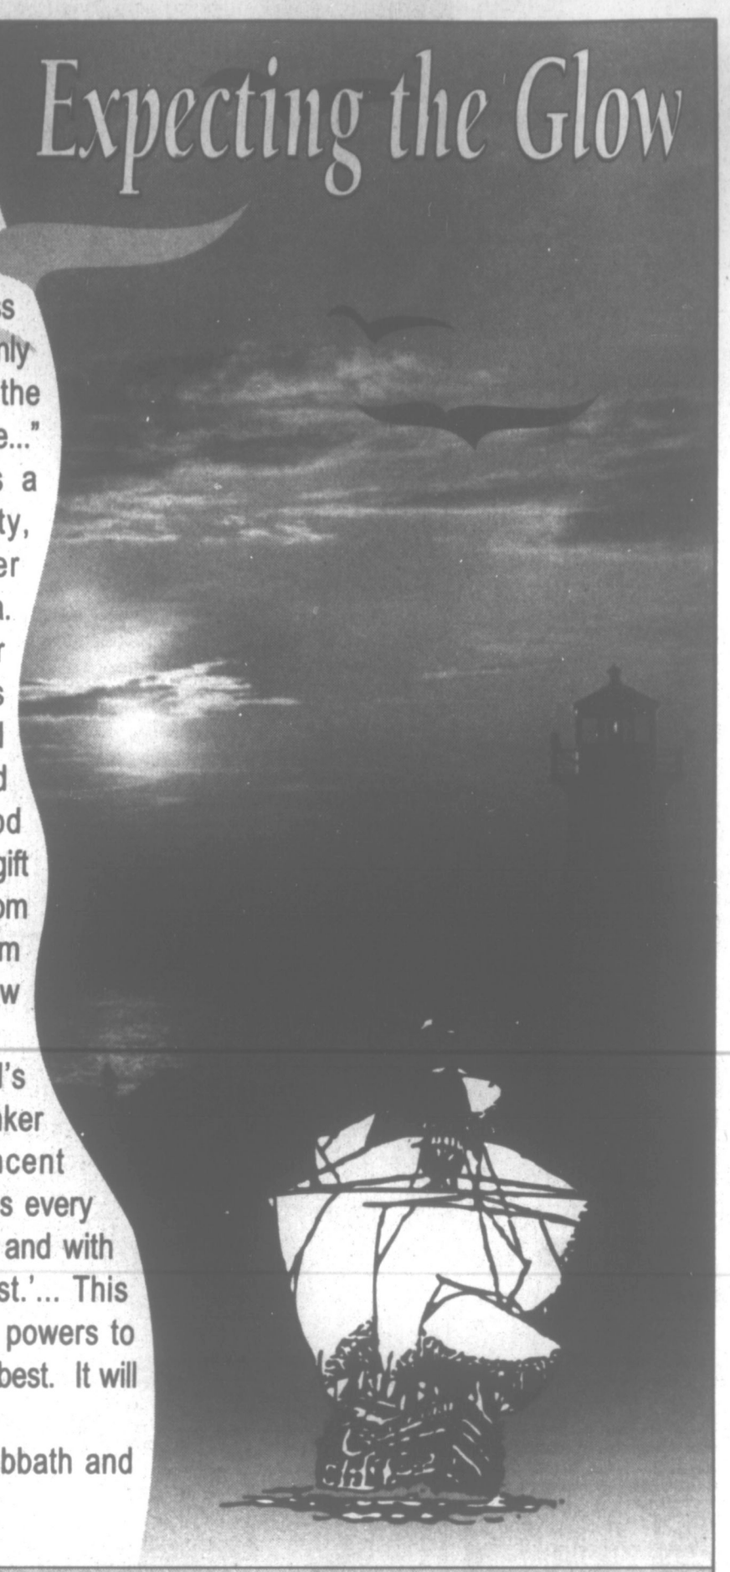
Expecting the Glow



"Are our instruments functioning correctly? I thought we would be closer to shore by now, so that darkness would not overtake us. Certainly we shall see the glow from the lighthouse. I know it's out there..."

The lighthouse, always a symbol of hope and stability, waits to guide the voyager traveling an unpredictable sea. Only our Creator knows our fate and only He can bring us the hope and the joy we need to traverse the future. We read in James 1:17... "Every good endowment and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights with whom there is no variation or shadow due to change."

Do you have faith in God's protection? The positive thinker and minister, Norman Vincent Peale, said, "At least ten times every day affirm, 'I expect the best and with God's help will attain the best.'... This practice will bring all of your powers to focus on the attainment of the best. It will bring the best to you."

Visit God's House this Sabbath and expect to find the glow within.

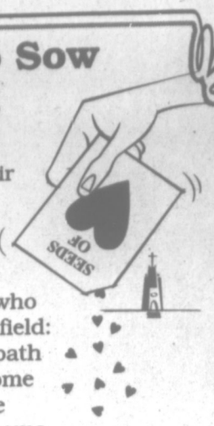
Learning to Sow Good Seeds



Just as farmers' will sow seeds in order to raise their crops, those who follow God's ways are sowing seeds of our Lord's love. In the Bible, we are told the Parable of the Sower, who scattered his seeds in the field: some seeds fell along the path and the birds ate them; some fell on rocky ground where there was little soil; and, some fell among the thorn bushes, which grew up and choked the plants. But still, some seeds fell upon good soil, and these plants sprouted and bore much grain. Our Lord explains this Parable by saying that some people hear the message and disregard it, while other's receive the message, but when trouble and persecution comes they simply give up. Still, there are others who hear the message, but the worries and concerns about this life choke out the good news. And then, there are those who hear the message, accept it, and bear much fruit. The way we live our lives should be an example for those around us, and we should try to reflect the love and compassion of our Heavenly Father. Nurturing and improving our relationship with God, and living our lives in a way that is pleasing to Him, will help us to sow seeds that bear good fruit.

You did not choose me; I chose you and appointed you to go and bear much fruit, the kind of fruit that endures.

Treating Arthritis in Older Dogs

Q. I read your article about aging dogs. We have a 14-year-old Lhasa Apso named Corky whose back legs give out frequently. He probably has arthritis. He seems to be better if we walk him. Is there anything we can do for him? It's sad to see him get old. — Edna C., Green Lane, Pa.

A. Corky is just one of many dogs whose owners wrote to ask me about treating their arthritis. I'm glad they care so much about their pets and want to ease the pain of this degenerative condition.

Several therapies are available for senior dogs, including medication and supplements. The first drug commonly recommended is plain old aspirin, which treats the pain directly, of course. However, aspirin can cause a lot of side effects, like nausea or vomiting, diarrhea, cramps or constipation. Because of this, a drug was developed specifically for dogs called Rimadyl (carprofen). It has fewer side effects and quickly reduces pain and inflammation.

Using NSAIDs (non-steroidal, anti-inflammatory drugs) like these for a long time is not advisable, however. So many pet owners and veterinarians are exploring the effectiveness of joint-building supplements like glucosamine, chondroitin sulfate and even yucca. Adding supplements like omega-3 fatty acids and vitamins A, C, and E to promote joint health is also a consideration. These dietary extras are typically used alongside treatment with NSAIDs.

Before taking the above measures, I recommend taking Corky to the vet for a full physical. His veterinarian will be able to prescribe the correct dosage of NSAIDs, and you can talk to him about dietary supplements. Many vets' offices and pet stores offer vitamin and omega-3 supplements, and fellow pet owners can help you decide on the best product for your dog.

Old Books

Q. I have a collection of older books and would like to have them appraised to see if they have any value. — Rosemary, Homestead, Fla.

A. I get this question in various forms at least several times each week. You should begin your research by investing in at least two or three of the better reference books.

I especially recommend Huxford's Old Book Value Guide (Collector Books, $19.95). Now in its 13th edition, it lists more than 25,000 books and their current values. I also like the Official Guide to Collecting Books by Marie Tedford and Pat Goudey (House of Collectibles, $18). It lists thousands of books by author and even has a chapter featuring professional advice about how to market older books.

For the advanced collector, there is Collected Books by Allen and Patricia Ahearne: It is published by Putnam and priced at $75, but well worth it.

Keep in mind that most used books are worth less than a dollar each, but there's always the chance that a true treasure may be lurking in a closet or storage area.

Q. I have three old harmonicas that are probably from the 1920s. I would like to find out if they have any value. — Steve, Tulsa, Okla.

A. One of the better resources is the Harmonica Collectors International Club, P.O. Box 6081, Chesterfield, MO 63006.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• West Virginia holds the dubious distinction of being the first state to impose a sales tax. This was back in 1921.

• Despite the fact that the works of William Shakespeare have been popular in America since it was first settled in the 1600s, the first mention that history makes of one of his plays being performed in the Colonies doesn't occur until 1730, when an amateur company performed "Romeo and Juliet" in New York City. That may seem odd, but most historians attribute the delay to the fact that Puritans believed acting to be a sin.

• Before World War I, the entire United States Air Force consisted of 50 men.

• People have heard tales of the results of the 18th Amendment (Prohibition) — speakeasies, bathtub gin and so on. Most people don't realize, though, that not all of the states ratified the Amendment — Connecticut and Rhode Island were holdouts. Not that it did them much good; once it was ratified and became part of the Constitution, all the states were bound by it.

• There is a thriving film industry in Bombay, India, and some rather unusual side industries have sprung up as a result. A man named Atal Bakht has found a profitable way to make a living off the industry — he's an agent for dead people. He buys corpses from poor families who cannot afford funerals, then has the bodies embalmed. He then rents the bodies out to film studios to use as extras in crowd scenes. Bakht says of his grisly profession, "The dead give me a good living. They always look good, they never complain, and there are no pay checks at the end of the month."

B. Thayer Named To President's List; Gets BFA Degree

Garrett County resident Brianna Thayer has been named to the Columbus College of Art and Design (CCAD) president's list for the spring 2004 term. The recognition is given to students who earn a grade-point average of 3.4 or better while carrying a minimum of 15 credit hours.

A 2000 graduate of Southern High School, Thayer recently graduated from CCAD with a bachelor of fine arts degree in illustration. She will continue her education, pursuing a master of fine arts degree in illustration at Savannah College of Art and Design in Savannah, Ga.

She is the daughter of Colleen Mouyard, Mtn. Lake Park, and Jeremy Thayer, Oakland.

Keeys Completes AA Degree At GC

Courtney Keeys recently completed her associate of arts degree in early childhood education and graduated from Garrett College on May 22.

Keeys has been a teacher with the Garrett County Community Action Committee Early Head Start Program in Oakland since 2001.

Early Head Start is a child and family development program serving families with children 6 weeks to 36 months of age and pregnant women.

Post 71 Slates Flag Dedication Event In Oakland

A flag dedication ceremony has been slated by American Legion Proctor Kildow Post 71 to mark local observances of Flag Day on Monday, June 14. The event, slated to get under way at 7 p.m. at Veterans Park at the corner of South Third and Oak streets, Oakland, will feature the dedication of five flags. Each flag represents each branch of the nation's military service, i.e., Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard.

The flag dedication ceremony will be conducted by Post 71 American Committee chairman Jim Seeders. Among the participants in the ceremony will be the color guard units from Vietnam Veterans of America Chapter 172 and VFW Post 10077.

Immediately following the dedication event there will be a flag retirement ceremony at Post 71, which will be conducted by members of VFW Post 10077.

Dove Center Accepts Used Cell Phones

The Dove Center is working in conjunction with a private sector firm from south Florida which concentrates on fundraising through the collection of used cellular phones.

Once Shelter Alliance receives the phones, they are ranked according to condition and type of phone and then are disassembled and sold for parts. Shelter Alliance not only pays for shipping, they dispose of all phones and batteries that are not salvageable in a safe, responsible, environmentally friendly manner.

All phones and batteries are accepted regardless of age or condition, but those that are no more than 4 years old raise the most money.

Because cell phones are programmed for 9-1-1 emergency use, they are donated to the Dove Center to be given to victims of domestic violence. Many cannot be used because the previous owner's account information is still intact. So, before donating a cell phone, persons are asked to discontinue service and wait about one week before donating it.

Proceeds raised by this effort will be used for general operating and client needs.

Donations may be made at the main office located at 12978 Garrett Highway, #201, Oakland, or by calling 301-334-6255.

"This is a terrific opportunity for schools, churches, youth organizations, businesses, and other groups to give to the community by supporting the Dove Center in its tireless efforts to empower victims of domestic violence and sexual assault to develop a sense of self worth and take control of their lives, as well as to foster public awareness of these issues," said a spokesperson for the Dove Center.

Chamber Dinner To Feature Heise Award, Remedy

This year's annual dinner of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday, June 10, beginning at 6 p.m., and will feature the presentation of the Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award and a local band known as "The Remedy."

"What a great evening we have planned," said chamber president Charlie Ross. Dinner begins at 7 p.m. after a social hour, and the half-hour program starts at 8.

The Heise Award is named for Helmuth Heise in recognition of the risks he and his family took to make Garrett County the resort destination it is today. Past honorees are Jonathan "Smiley" Kessler, Bill Sisler, Olen Beitzel, Johnny Marple, and Jim Flanigan, Sr.

Standards for this prestigious award are: origination and development of business from inception, willingness to take risks with possibility of losing all, involvement in the community, possession of high ethical standards, and demonstrated leadership (through one or more of the following) – by overcoming a formidable problem that threatened the business's existence; showing business acumen through embarking on a creative, insightful or overlooked opportunity that will make an important contribution to Garrett County's business environment; or through substantive community impact.

Special guests for the evening are state Senator John J. Hafer and House Minority Leader George C. Edwards. Also presented on the program will be the Favorite Sons and Daughters Awards.

"A special treat for the occasion," announced Charlie Ross, "will be music by The Remedy. It is a local band that got its name because its members get together and play for the pure therapy that making music gives them. And, the band president, Dr. Jim Jones, says that when they play, it chases the blues away for the listeners."

Occasionally joined by chamber chairman Bob Browning on bass, the band officially consists of 10 members.

In addition to Jones, they are county administrator Monty Pagenhardt, Dr. Fred Hazelwood, Dr. Chuck Walch, Greg Was, county health officer Rodney Glotfelty, Gino Mauricci, Mark Ashby, Kim Weimer, and Jana Brown.

Together now for about a year and a half, Monty and Jim describe their music as an eclectic mix of rock, blues, jazz, soul, and a little country and western. The band will play for enjoyment and dancing after the program.

For more information and tickets, persons may contact the chamber at 301-387-4386.

SET TO PERFORM AT CHAMBER DINNER – Local band "The Remedy" will perform at next week's annual Chamber of Commerce dinner. The Heise Entrepreneurial Spirit Award will also be presented. Pictured above are the band members. In the front, from the left, are Kim Weimer and Jana Brown. In the middle are Rodney Glotfelty, Mark Ashby, and Gino Mauricci. In the back are Chuck Walch, Monty Pagenhardt, Jim Jones, and Fred Hazelwood. See story.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

SCIENCE FICTION

by Thomas P. Sheahen

Q – The new movie* The Day After Tomorrow *tells about the terrible effects of climate change. Can that really happen?

A – Always remember that movies, TV, novels, and so forth are intended to be entertainment. The entire entertainment industry is totally exempt from any concern with facts at all.

Very few people are still alive who tuned their radios to the original broadcast of War of the Worlds on October 31, 1938. That science-fiction entertainment by Orson Welles was presented as a radio report of unfolding news by on-the-scene reporters as they watched Martians invade the earth. Despite announcements during the commercial breaks that it was all make-believe, still it totally terrified an awful lot of listeners nationwide. When that radio show is rebroadcast nowadays, it doesn't have the same spellbinding effect any more.

The way to write really good science fiction is to dream up one crazy idea totally out of the blue, and then weave a series of details around it that make it seem almost plausible. The reader or viewer finds it very easy to play along with the plot by temporarily setting aside his/her everyday good sense. We call it "suspending disbelief," and that's the part of the bargain that the audience has to provide in order to be entertained.

The entire Harry Potter series follows this principle; so do all the books written by the noted science fiction writer Michael Crichton. There is always one thing (usually on an early page) that is scientifically impossible, but you're supposed to gloss over that and willingly be led along by the plausible details, in order to enjoy the entertainment. In the case of the Orson Welles broadcast of 1938, the synthetic details were so plausible that some people got swept up into the plot and forgot that it was fiction in the first place.

Another book of very recent vintage that people have taken way too seriously is The Da Vinci Code, where the author has dreamed up a basic idea and then festooned it with all sorts of reasonable-sounding details to produce very gripping fiction. But if you forget that it's fiction in the first place, you'll eventually be just as embarrassed as those radio listeners of 1938 who panicked because of War of the Worlds.

Promo ads for the movie The Day After Tomorrow state that it was produced by the same folks who made Independence Day (about invading space aliens). Nobody got too scared by Independence Day; it was just plain fun. Jurassic Park was in that same category; the underlying premise of cloning ancient dinosaurs was just the right mixture of fiction and plausibility. Special effects always make such movies more exciting.

In The Day After Tomorrow, the tapestry of details contains numerous current buzzwords that make it all seem very plausible. There is such a thing as thermohaline circulation, which is a heat-transport phenomenon in the Atlantic Ocean that is responsible for the Gulf Stream. The atmosphere does include layers called the troposphere and the stratosphere. The idea that the atmosphere completely inverts, so that the stratosphere and the troposphere trade places, is a key premise of the story. The fact that such a switch is scientifically impossible is to be ignored – you agree to accept the premise, in order to be entertained.

The Day After Tomorrow derives from a book called The Coming Global Superstorm, which its publisher managed to have placed on the "non-fiction" shelves. Competent scientists denounced the book for its ridiculous assertions. One review in year 2000 (by Prof. Patrick Michaels of the Univ. of Virginia, a leading authority on climate) summed it up this way:

"I have yet to hear one advocate of global warming hysteria – not the Veep [Al Gore at the time], not NBC, not the National Council of Churches, not anyone consuming the $2.1 billion of our tax money that goes to 'global change' research – caution the public about what a bunch of junk science, junk history, and junk stupidity this book is. That speaks volumes about The Coming Global Superstorm and the culture that buys it."

It really is a shame when politicians get taken in by plausible-sounding nonsense, because that can wind up costing us all real money. But there is a further negative consequence that could take place: Gregg Easterbrook, who writes for The National Review Online and knows some science, reviews The Day After Tomorrow and goes through the science errors point by point, debunking the nonsense. I won't spoil the movie for you by reciting those items. But Easterbrook makes one very serious point when he writes:

"By trivializing the greenhouse effect into a subject as ludicrous as the premise of a scientifically illiterate disaster movie, The Day After Tomorrow may serve mainly to convince audiences the prospect of global warming is just another Hollywood gimmick."

However, for those of us who keep things in proper perspective, an entertaining science fiction movie can be very enjoyable. Just don't let a movie ever get in the way of your real life.

CAR CLUB DONATES TO HOSPICE – The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club recently made a donation to Hospice of Garrett County. Pictured is club president Ralph Miller presenting the check to Hospice director Brenda Butscher. The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club selects several organizations each year to receive donations from money earned at club events. The majority of the funds are raised at the annual Autumn Glory Car Show. Nearly 100 vehicles were on display at the 2003 show, according to a club spokesperson. The club was founded in 1997 and includes members from Garrett County and Preston and Tucker counties in West Virginia. Anyone interested in the antique and classic vehicles is invited to join the club. Ownership of a vehicle is not required to be a member. Meetings are held during the summer on the second Thursday of each month at the Farmers' Wildlife Club in Horse Shoe Run, W.Va. For more information, persons may call Gene or Francie Evans at 304-735-5526 or Ron Heginbotham at 301-334-2838.

Mouyard Accepted Into Who's Who

Eileen Mouyard has been accepted for inclusion in Who's Who Among American High School Students. Her biography will appear in the organization's 2003-2004 publication.

According to Who's Who, only 5 percent of students from the nation's 24,000 high schools are selected for this honor.

Eileen will graduate from Southern High School this Sunday, June 6, and will be attending the College of Notre Dame of Maryland this fall, where she will major in interior design.

She is the daughter of Colleen Mouyard, Mtn. Lake Park.

Student Named To Nat'l Honor Roll

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) has announced that Ryan William Seaman, McHenry, has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner.

The student attends Northern Middle School. His name will be published in the USAA Official Yearbook, which is produced annually.

Ryan is the son of Glenn and Kathleen Seaman, and the grandson of Kathy Peterson and David and Paula Seaman, all of McHenry, and the late William Peterson.

Named To USAA Nat'l Honor Roll

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) has announced that Taylor Nicklin, Accident, has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner.

The student attends Northern Middle School. Her name will be published in the USAA Official Yearbook, which is produced annually.

Taylor is the daughter of Shawn and Debbie Nicklin, Accident, and the granddaughter of Charles and Donna Garman, Federalsburg.

Benefit Dinner Scheduled At Swanton Center

The Swanton Community Center will serve a barbecued chicken dinner on Saturday, June 12, with serving to begin at noon. The cost of the meal is $6 for adults and $3 for children.

All proceeds of the dinner will be used to help defray medical expenses of Brian Howell of Swanton who was critically injured in an automobile accident.

In conjunction with the dinner, there will be a community yard sale at the center, beginning at 8 a.m. All are invited to bring their own tables and participate.

SHS STUDENTS PLACE NATIONALLY IN CURRENT EVENTS CONTEST – Two different teams of students at Southern High School recently placed among the top 20 in a national current events contest. Emily's Federalists achieved 1st place in the state of Maryland and 13th nationally. Sam's Seminary Scholars finished 2nd in Maryland and 18th nationally, and Andrew's Anabaptists were 3rd in Maryland. All three teams were sponsored by Dave Bender and the Cumberland Times-News. NewsBowl is a state and national current events knowledge competition open to grades 3 through high school. The contest was administered by computer and tested student knowledge of current events from January and February. Teams competed in seven different grade level divisions. There were 86 teams that competed at the national level. The Cumberland Times-News donated daily newspapers for students to use as they studied current events. "The contest is a great teaching tool for me," said Bender, "It motivates the kids and myself to make sure we pay attention to what is happening in the news and discuss how these events affect all of us. One of the most important skills we must teach our youth is the habit of paying attention to, understanding, and discussing the events that affect all of our lives. The first line for the defense of liberty is vigilance." Pictured above left are the members of Emily's Federalists. In the front, from the left, are Angela Sheffield, Shar Hollingsworth, Emily Bowman, Allison Richter, Stephanie Brenneman, Erin Rhodes, and Grace Lauver. In the back are Hannah Stahl, Andrew Goad, Daniel Skipper, Natasha Tasker, Chad Bean, and Sarah Anderson. Absent were Meagan Swartzentruber and Jadyn Swerbinsky. Sam's Seminary Scholars are pictured below. In the front are Mike Black, Ivan Stutzman, Leah Warnick, Jed Crawford, Evan Lantz, and Hannah Logsdon. In the middle are Brett Dugan, Elizabeth Thayer, Chelsea Wassell, Sarah Cosner, Brendan Stephens, Eric Blamble, James Naylor, and Sam Lauver. In the back are Kalie Hostutler, Katie Conroy, Courtney DiSimone, Kenzie Craig, Katie Nichols, Rachel McCaskey, and Corey Lewis. Andrew's Anabaptists are pictured above right. In the front are David Cummings, Amy Upole, Ashley Hardesty, Bryan Sisler, Nicole Sharpless, and J.J. Knox. In the middle are Adam Gallagher, Mike Kulak, Andrew VanBogelen, James Reckert, Justin Fitzwater, Chad DeWitt, Michael Shaffer, Sarah Lewis, and Josh Noland. In the back are Nikki Hardesty, Heather Streets, Eric Chapman, Bethany Beeghly, Ashley Baker, and Bridget Stemple.

ATTENTION RESIDENTS OF
ZONING PERMITS REQUIRED

In order to build a new structure or change the previous structure of any building(s), placement of accessory structures, home businesses or major home repairs on your property within the limits of Mtn. Lake Park, you MUST FIRST obtain a Zoning Application from the Town Office and follow the proper procedures set forth.

Zoning Application required for all accessory structures. Accessory structures include, but are not limited to, the following: swimming pools, garages, utility sheds, storage buildings, barns, signs, playhouses, greenhouses, outside furnaces, pavilions, gazebos, hot tubs, patios, carports, decks, porches, fences, sidewalks, driveways, and walls.

Office hours are Monday through Friday 8:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

Violation of the Mountain Lake Park Zoning Ordinance is a Municipal Infraction. This ordinance authorizes a fine for each offense of not less than $100 nor more than $1000 for any violation.

Vaccines and Autism: A Link Is Doubtful

Ten medical researchers who published a controversial 1998 study linking autism to administration of the measles/mumps/rubella (MMR) vaccine in young children recently published a retraction in a prominent medical journal. Their statements indicate that there was insufficient evidence of a direct relationship between childhood vaccines and the development of autism. Parental concern over the original inconclusive results, however, has been credited with a drop in vaccination rates worldwide, despite additional medical studies that discredited the 1998 findings. The original research involved only 12 children and their medical histories approximately 8 years after various vaccinations had occurred.

Routine vaccinations are proven to be a highly reliable method of protecting the population from specific diseases. Most vaccines have very few side effects. Vaccines like the MMR represent active immunization, in that they contain small amounts of the offending germs which have been modified to safely stimulate the body to mount a defense to the infection naturally. Autism is a mental disorder in which children are not able to develop normal social, behavioral, or language skills.

Preston-Garrett "Wool Pool" Set In Terra Alta

The Preston-Garrett County Wool Pool is slated for 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, June 12, in Terra Alta, W.Va. The event will take place at the Pioneer Press recycling building, located off Rt. 7 behind the Dairy Queen.

"Wool is currently bringing twice the price it did at the time of last year's wool pull," said a spokesperson for the Preston County Extension Service. Participants are asked to note that no black fleece will be accepted at the event.

For further information, persons may contact the Preston County Extension Service at 304-329-1391 or the Garrett County Extension Service at 301-334-6069.

Planting Takes Root As Warming Trend Continues

Air temperatures in Maryland last week averaged in the low 70s with high temps being reported in the high 80s. There were 4.8 days suitable for field work for the week ending May 30. The weather allowed farmers to get in the fields and continue planting. About 95 percent of corn was planted by week's end and about 90 percent of corn was beginning to emerge. Some crops were beginning to show signs of stress, but the scattered rains and warm weather allowed for general suitable growing conditions.

The warm weather allowed 68 percent of barley to turn color compared to 22 percent the previous week. Harvesting of green peas and strawberries was well above the 5-year average. Tomatoes, soybeans, and watermelon were also being planted last week at a progressive rate. Topsoil moisture was 3 percent short, 83 percent adequate, and 14 percent surplus.

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS VISIT HIGH TUNNELS

On Monday evening, May 31, the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club members and adults went to the Willie and Arlene Lantz property on Rt. 560 in Garrett County to see the high tunnel vegetable and goat enterprise. Levi Lantz explained the operation of his 4-H vegetable raising/sales project and then demonstrated how to prune tomato plants for maximum production. Aaron Lantz showed the group his goats and explained the differences in meat and dairy herds/animals.

Those who made the trip were Sara Lewis, Caitlin Norwish, Katelyn Harsh, Debbie Collins, Jonathan Blamble, Tracy Teets, Nathan Cussins, and Nathaniel Lawler. Adults who went were Jackie Blamble, Sue Corbin, Sherri Lawler, Mary Norwish, Elaine Roth, and Linda Lewis.

PERSONAL MENTION

Devaux Armentrout of Charleston was an afternoon visitor last Wednesday in Eglon with Jessie Winters.

Erma Gnegy of Amboy was injured in a Wednesday evening fall at her home and is recuperating from the injuries received. Visiting the Gnegys this weekend were Paul's nieces, Mary and Larry Fioramonto of Akron, Ohio, Nancy and Gene Nolte of Georgia, and Margaret Spalding, Rehobeth Beach, Del; his sister, Grace White, Oakland; and Jesse and Helen Gnegy, Gormania.

Sheridan "Toot" Layman of Aurora was one of the WWII veterans who visited in Washington, D.C., this week and was present for the official services opening the new WWII memorial to the public. His son, Charles Layman, Tallahassee, Fla., and his grandson Sheridan, also Florida, came to Aurora and took Mr. Layman on his visit to Washington, while Sheridan's wife stayed with her husband's grandmother, Nina Layman.

Chuck and Emily Young of Martinsburg were weekend guests in Eglon with their parents, Tom and Linda Lewis, and attended May 28 PHS graduation for her sister, Sara Lewis. The Lewis family, along with Richard, Mary, and Caitlin Norwish and Claude and Jean Winters, all Eglon, attended a reunion of the family of the late Charles and Cora Winters held Sunday in Parkersburg.

Ellis and Marie Teets returned Friday evening to their home at Horse Shoe Run. They had visited in Evergreen, Colo., with their daughter and family, "Bitsy" and Don Shepherd and children; visited granddaughter Marilyn Reish at North Manchester, Ind:

Leroy and Doris Harsh, Bridgewater, Va., and Robert and Carolyn Harsh, Eglon, made a holiday visit to Ohio to the home of their sister and brother-in-law, Joy and Merrill Flory.

Troy and Ruby Judy, and Marilyn, Jesse, and Katelyn Schalker, all Eglon, were in Baltimore this past weekend for the graduation of the former's grandson, Bryan Judy, from a training school for the blind.

Aaron Layman of Boston, N.Y., visited this weekend with his mother and stepfather, Lois and Don Beckman, at Horse Shoe Run, and he and his brother Jim of Corinth also visited on Monday with their Grandfather and Grandmother Layman and their uncle and cousin who were visiting at Aurora.

Grant Hospice Donates Videos

Grant Memorial Hospice recently donated several videos to the public libraries of Grant, Hardy, and Pendleton counties. The videos cover the topics of death of a newborn, miscarriage, stillbirth, and unexpected death through suicide, and "gently discuss these issues for both the person or persons grieving and for those who are there to provide love and support," a spokesperson explained.

The video Footprints on the Heart offers ways to cope with feelings in the days and weeks of grieving that follow after a miscarriage, stillbirth, or newborn death. At a Loss for Words teaches spouses, family members, friends, neighbors, and early caregivers how to help and what to say and do.

Journey Through the Shadows offers ways to help survive grief after a loved one has committed suicide, and shows that mourners are not alone and that they can make it through the life-changing experience. Light Amongst the Shadows discusses why suicide is difficult to talk about and teaches how to help, and what to say and do, when a suicide occurs.

"We hope these videos will give encouragement to those who are grieving, and help friends and family better understand their loved one's emotions," stated the hospice spokesperson. For further information, persons may contact the libraries, or Grant Memorial Hospice at 304-257-2093.

Heartland Of Preston County Sets Standard

HCR-Manor Care has announced that Heartland of Preston County has exceeded the company's average in customer satisfaction rate for 14 years in a row. HCR-Manor Care retains an independent research firm to survey their families on their satisfaction level in categories such as care, service, food, and staff attitude. Heartland of Preston County has consistently ranked in the top 2% of the company.

"I'm very proud of our team. We are committed to making a positive difference in people's lives and it's a real boost to us when our families confirm this. No other job is more important, more challenging, or more rewarding," said Melissa Groves, administrator of Heartland.

Some of the programs that Groves contributes to their success include their Guardian Angel program, in which employees take new residents "under their wing" to make sure their needs are met in a timely manner; Circle of Care training, the company's seven module customer service training program in which every new employee participates; and its Heart's Desire, a program designed to grant resident's wishes.

"Heartland of Preston County consistently shines in this intensive survey process. They are committed to customer service and care," stated Pam Grant, regional director of operations for HCR-Manor Care.

HCR-Manor Care operates nearly 300 skilled nursing centers nationwide.

Real Estate Facts by...

Fred Washburn

HISTORY IN DEED!

Whether buying or selling real estate, you will eventually come face to face with the one document which transfers title from seller to buyer – the "deed." The actual transfer of ownership officially takes place when the deed has been "signed, sealed, and delivered" to the purchaser.

Historically, under English common law, the transfer of real estate took place in a ceremony called "livery of seizin." The owner met the purchaser on the land, and handed over a twig or clod of dirt. Although a written statement of sale followed, it was the ceremony that signified a sale had taken place.

Today it is the written document, the deed, which marks the conclusion of the sale. The seller is the "grantor" in the sale – granting all rights and privileges of ownership to the purchaser. The buyer is the "grantee."

To be valid, a deed must be in writing, and name both the grantor(s) and grantee(s). It is signed only by the grantor(s), however. Furthermore, the grantor must have the legal capacity to convey ownership. Having legal capacity means that the grantor(s) is of legal age to make a conveyance, and is of "sound mind." Since both minors and insane persons can avoid their contracts, no one should propose a transaction that includes them.

All deeds should be drafted by an attorney. A good deed also contains a "legal description" of the property being conveyed. The property must be described so as to leave no doubt about exactly what real estate is being transferred. It must also contain certain legal conveyance language.

Finally, a deed must be signed, sealed and delivered. The transaction is not consummated until the signed, sealed deed is actually delivered to the buyer.

This important document should be recorded, then kept in a safe place. It is the buyer's sole proof of ownership. A real estate agent can answer other questions about the conveyance of real property.

If you'd like to buy or sell a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today.

The second chicken barbecue of the summer season is scheduled for Saturday, June 12, at the Bittinger fire hall. Put this date on your calendar now so you won't forget to get a delicious dinner, but also to support our local fire department.

Here is another fish story about the "One That Got Away." Last week as Ruth DiPaolo was fishing along Bear Creek she spotted a more favorable spot over a steep bank. Of course, she couldn't resist, so over the bank she went head over heels and landed in the creek and came out soaked from head to toe. In spite of being as wet as a drowned rat, she decided to try for that last fish and did catch it. But after getting it up on the bank, before she could unhook it, some way the fish escaped and flipped down the bank and back into the creek.

You don't need to wonder where I got my overzealous spirit and my inclination to take somewhat unwise risks. About the same as my mother in the river, I spotted a clump of lovely wild blue iris along the road and, unfortunately for me, a large deep ditch was between me and my prize. I was successful and got enough flowers to add to a nice graduation present for my Claire's nature doll, done in Northern's colors, blue and gold.

Claire will be graduating this Sunday from Northern High School, along with Robbie Glotfelty, Torrey Poholsky and Brent Housley. It seems like only yesterday they were darling little babies, but no, it was 17 years ago.

However, back to my flower misadventure. I was able to get far into the ditch to reach the flower, but I could not get back on my feet until a kind passing-by motorist stopped by to lend a helping hand.

Another Memorial Day is gone without a barn party at our farm, but cousin Courtney stepped into the part and hosted the downstate regular guests and family and friends from Garrett County. We were happy to see Aunt Dorothy Quaintance and her granddaughter Kate come down from New York. A sunny day turned into a pretty cool (cold, in my opinion) evening. The next day six ridge bikers held a mini bike rally between the farm and Courtney's house, on the back roads including the long and steep downhill run of Bowman's Hill, which is about 12 miles. A handful of campers bedded down in tents on the hilltop site of Courtney's house on Monday night. According to brother Barry, they did not mind a little rain shower, but when the lightning started flashing they called it quits and moved into the house.

I lost all my attention to activities around Bittinger recently, except that I know Sally Poholsky did her annual garage sale.

I believe the baseball seasons of Northern High and Garrett College ended with a loss in their playoffs. So the Poholsky, Southerly, Bass, and Vagnetti families are getting a welcome relief from juggling baseball schedules with other activities. But Emma Bass and my Meredith are still busy with softball games.

Emma and Meredith joined Grace Herpel for a Memorial Day movie. Those little girls (if you call 13 years old little) have very busy social lives. Almost as big as their grandmother, Ruth DiPaolo's, social life. She kept out of trouble as much as possible and away from the river the early part of last weekend socializing with her friend, Betty Sacra of Winchester, Va. Saturday they visited the gravesites of Betty's parents, Joe and Ethel May, around Mann's Choice, Pa., and visited an uncle who is a resident in a nursing home in Duncansville. Monday found them at The Harbor at the Lake listening to the Jim Jones Band (known formerly as The Remedy) perform. Her son Rodney is a member of the band.

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION

Garrett County
Application for State Discharge Permit 03-DP-2176, NPDES Permit MD0060941:

Garrett County Sanitary District Inc., 2008 Maryland Highway, Mtn. Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for renewal of the permit to discharge an average of 40,000 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Kitzmiller Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP) located at 202 East Main Street, Kitzmiller, Maryland 21538, to North Branch Potomac River, which is designated Use I-P waters protected for water contact recreation, aquatic life and public water supply.

Tentative Determination:

Reissue the discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for existing Outfall 001: BODs, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; dissolved oxygen, 5.0 mg/l minimum at any time; fecal coliform, 200 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly log mean value; and pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5. Dechlorination is required to reduce the total residual chlorine to a non-detectable level when chlorine or chlorine compound are used in any of the treatment processes. This permit may be reopened to incorporate nitrogen and phosphorus load allocations contained in the Upper Potomac River Tributary Strategy for this facility. Regular effluent monitoring and reporting will be required. The effluent limits reflect water quality based requirements necessary for compliance with the state water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by June 23, 2004. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., STE 455, Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by June 23, 2004, will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submitted to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before July 6, 2004. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-537-3671 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Luckman at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Luckman at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

NOTICE OF REQUEST FOR QUALIFICATIONS FOR COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING AND LANDSCAPE DESIGN SERVICES
CITY OF TERRA ALTA CITY PARK

Terra Alta Betterment Inc. is seeking proposals for comprehensive landscape design, planning, and engineering services for planning and redesign of the City Park in Terra Alta, West Virginia. Work will be performed in 2004 and 2005. Terra Alta Betterment Inc. is a non-profit organization that will manage the work.

These services include, but are not limited to: design, specifications and engineering plans for the improvements of the property and associated site work, including: planning, site survey, civil engineering and landscaping. Other services may include: (1) preparation of bidding and contract documents; (2) participation in the evaluation of bids received; and (3) monitoring and inspection of construction activities to ensure compliance with plans and specifications.

The proposed project will be primarily funded through the Department of Housing and Urban Development and may include other Federal and State funding sources. Consequently, all work will be performed in accordance with the regulations issued by HUD and any other applicable federal regulations and the State of West Virginia. The selected firm will be required to comply with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Executive Order 11246, Conflict of Interest Statement and Access to Records provisions. Procurement of said services shall be in accordance with OMB circular A-110.

All parties interested in being considered for this project must submit a proposal detailing qualifications, technical expertise, management and staffing capabilities, and related prior experience.

Proposals must contain:

(1) Letter of interest;

(2) Statement of qualifications including overall capabilities to perform this work, experience and qualifications of all personnel who will be involved with project; workforce availability to assign to the project and present workload;

(3) Names, addresses, and telephone numbers of at least four (4) references, with two (2) from recent projects;

(4) At least two examples of similar work;

(5) Describe any pending legal issues facing the firm;

(6) Evidence that the firm has an adequate cost accounting system in place to comply with federal requirements.

Interested firms or individuals must be licensed to practice landscape architecture and/or engineering in the State of West Virginia.

The object of the competitive process is to objectively select the firm that will provide the highest quality of service and most timely service; accordingly, technical qualifications, experience and staff support will be primary considerations. Selected respondents judged most qualified may be asked to attend an interview. The evaluation criteria will be available upon request.

Terra Alta Betterment Inc. will afford full opportunity to disadvantaged business enterprises to submit a submission of interest in responses to this solicitation and will not discriminate against any interested firm or individual on the grounds of race, creed, color, sex, age, handicap, or national origin in the contract award.

Please submit an original and five (5) copies of all requested information to Terra Alta Betterment Inc., 701-A East State Ave., Terra Alta, WV 26764, no later than 4:00 p.m. on June 30, 2004.

NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

Notice is hereby given that Mettiki Coal, LLC, 293 Table Rock Road, Oakland, MD 21550, Telephone No. 301-334-3952, intends to conduct blasting activities on Surface Mining Permit No. SM 97-428 located in Election District No. 8 of Garrett County, 9¼ miles South of Oakland, Maryland, in accordance with all applicable State and federal laws.

Blasting activities will commence and continue in accordance with the following schedule of dates and time periods:

April 10, 2004, until March 30, 2005, from 8:00 a.m. until 12:00 Noon and from 1:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Public access to the blasting area will be controlled prior to blasting by barricading all accesses to the permit area. At least 3 minutes prior to blasting a pre-blast warning signal of three short horn blasts of five seconds duration at 5-second intervals will be sounded. After the blast, one 20 second horn blast shall indicate an All Clear signal.

Blasting activities will not be conducted at times other than those announced except in the event of an emergency situation where rain, lighting, other atmospheric conditions, or operator or public safety dictate an unscheduled detonation.

Any resident or owner of a dwelling within one-half mile of the permit area may request to have a structural blasting survey of their dwelling conducted by contacting the above permittee or the Maryland Bureau of Mines, in writing, at 160 South Water Street, Frostburg, Maryland 21532.

REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS
GARRETT COUNTY LAND PRESERVATION, PARKS AND RECREATION PLAN

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will accept sealed proposals from qualified firms to revise and expand the existing Garrett County Land Preservation, Parks and Recreation Plan. The proposed Land Preservation, Parks and Recreation Plan will accomplish two (2) goals. First, the proposed plan will develop a strategy that will ensure a good return on public investments in land preservation and recreation programs. Second, the proposed plan will provide the Board of County Commissioners with a sound policy for allocating limited funds to local communities for recreational needs and to County programs for land preservation efforts.

Proposal documents may be obtained in person from the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, 313 East Alder Street, Room 105, Oakland, Maryland 21550. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Sealed proposals must be submitted to the Procurement Office of the Garrett County Department of Financial Services, 313 East Alder Street, Room 105, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Thursday, July 8, 2004, at 2:00 p.m. (local time). An original and four (4) copies of the proposal should be submitted enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Request for Proposals–Garrett County Land Preservation, Parks and Recreation Plan" on the outside of the envelope. Any proposals received after the time due will not be considered and shall be retained as documentation for the proposal file.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals, to cancel this request, and to waive technicalities in any part thereof deemed to be in the best interest of Garrett County.

Valuable, Improved Real Estate, located in Garrett County, Maryland, improved by premises known as 309 Seneca Avenue, Mountain Lake Park, MD 21550.

By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from Brian Eric Callis and Toni L. Callis to Sam Marzouk, Trustee dated 4-09-02, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 890, folio 596, and at the request of the party secured thereby, default having occurred in the terms and conditions thereof, the undersigned, as Substitute Trustees for the Trustees named in said Deed of Trust, will sell at public auction in front of the Garrett County Circuit Court, 203 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland on Thursday, June 17, 2004 at 2:00 p.m., all the property in said Deed of Trust described as follows:

ALL THAT PARCEL OF LAND SITUATE IN THE TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, ELECTION DISTRICT NO. 16, GARRETT COIUNTY, MARYLAND, BEING DESCRIBED AS FOLLOWS:

LOTS NOS. 5, 6, 7,'8, 9, 10, 11, AND 12, BLOCK NO. 37, AS SHOWN ON THE PLAT OF ALDERSON'S ADDITION TO SAID TOWN OF LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, RECORDED IN LIBER E.Z.T. NO. 1, FOLIO 3, AMONG THE PLAT RECORDS OF GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND.

SUBJECT TO any unpaid water and sewer charges, buildings or housing violations, easements, agreements, restrictions, terms, rights of way, covenants, conditions, if any, affecting subject property, whether or not of record.

The property is improved by a dwelling.

Terms of Sale

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition.

A deposit of Eleven Thousand Dollars ($11,000.00) will be required at the time of sale, such deposit to be by Bank Cashier's check, or in such other form as the Trustees may determine, in their sole discretion. The balance in cash, with interest at Twelve per centum (12.00%) per annum from the date of sale to the date of settlement payable within ten (10) days after final ratification of sale. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER.

The purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the property and shall assume the risk of loss or damage to the property as of the date of the foreclosure sale. In the event of delay of Court Ratification of the sale for any reason, there shall be no abatement of interest payable by the purchaser.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, except water and sewer charges, will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter be assumed by the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, state and county transfer taxes, title insurance and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Conveyance of the property shall be by Substitute Trustees' Deed, without covenant or warranty, express or implied, unless otherwise required by statute, court rule or the Deed of Trust. In the event the Substitute Trustees are unable for any reason to convey title, the purchaser's sole remedy at law or in equity shall be to request and receive a return of the deposit. Upon return of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made within ten (10) days after the final ratification of sale or deposit shall be forfeited to the Trustees for application against all expenses, attorney's fees and the full commission on the sale price of the above scheduled foreclosure sale. In the event of default, all expenses of this sale (including attorney's fees and the full commission on the gross sale price of this sale) shall be charged against and paid out of the forfeited deposit. The Substitute Trustees may then readvertise and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaultant purchaser; or, without reselling the property, the Substitute Trustees may avail themselves of any legal or equitable remedies against the defaulting purchaser.

Lake Park, Maryland 21550, applied for renewal of the permit to discharge an average of 8,500 gallons per day of treated domestic wastewater from the Gorman Wastewater Treatment Plant (WWTP) located at 338 Steyer Mine Road, Gorman, Maryland 21550, to North Branch Potomac River which is designated Use I-P waters protected for water contact recreation, aquatic life and public water supply.

Tentative Determination:

Reissue the discharge permit with the following effluent limitations for existing Outfall 001: BOD5, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; total suspended solids, 30 mg/l maximum monthly arithmetic mean, 45 mg/l maximum weekly arithmetic mean; dissolved oxygen, 5.0 mg/l minimum at any time; fecal coliform, 200 MPN/100 ml maximum monthly log mean value; and pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5. Dechlorination is required to reduce the total residual chlorine to a non-detectable level if chlorine or chlorine compound are used in any of the treatment process. This permit may be reopened to incorporate nitrogen phosphorus load allocations contained in the Upper Potomac River Tributary Strategy for this facility. Regular effluent monitoring and reporting will be required.

The effluent limits reflect water quality based requirements necessary for compliance with the state water quality standards.

A public hearing on the tentative determination will be scheduled if a written request is received by June 23, 2004. The request should be sent to the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, 1800 Washington Blvd., STE 455, Baltimore, Maryland 21230-1708, Attn.: Stephen Luckman, and must include the name, address, and telephone number (home and work) of the person making the request, the name of any other party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility and permit number. Failure to request a hearing by June 23, 2004, will constitute a waiver of the right to a public hearing on the tentative determination. Written comments concerning the tentative determination will be considered in the preparation of a final determination if submiited to the Department, to the attention of Mr. Luckman at the above address, on or before July 6, 2004. Any hearing-impaired person who requests a hearing may also request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Mr. Luckman at 410-537-3671 or 1-800-633-6101 by written request to the above address at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date.

Information supporting the tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, may be reviewed by contacting Mr. Luckman at the above telephone number to make an appointment or by written request to Mr. Luckman at the above address. Copies of documents may be obtained at a cost of $0.32 per page.

RECEIVING AN HONORARY DIPLOMA at Northern High School's graduation ceremony was Roy W. Bittinger, who was forced to leave Grantsville High School before graduation in order to fight in World War II. This recognition was especially poignant considering the commencement ceremony occurred on the exact day of the 60th anniversary of the invasion of Normandy, more commonly known as D-Day. Above, Bittinger receives his diploma from Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent, as Northern High's Principal Gary Reichenbecher applauds his honor. The weather cooperated, allowing 116 at Northern and 162 at Southern to receive their diplomas outside this past Sunday in front of stands of proud family members, friends, county officials, and educators. Girl Dies After Being Found On Bottom Of Pool

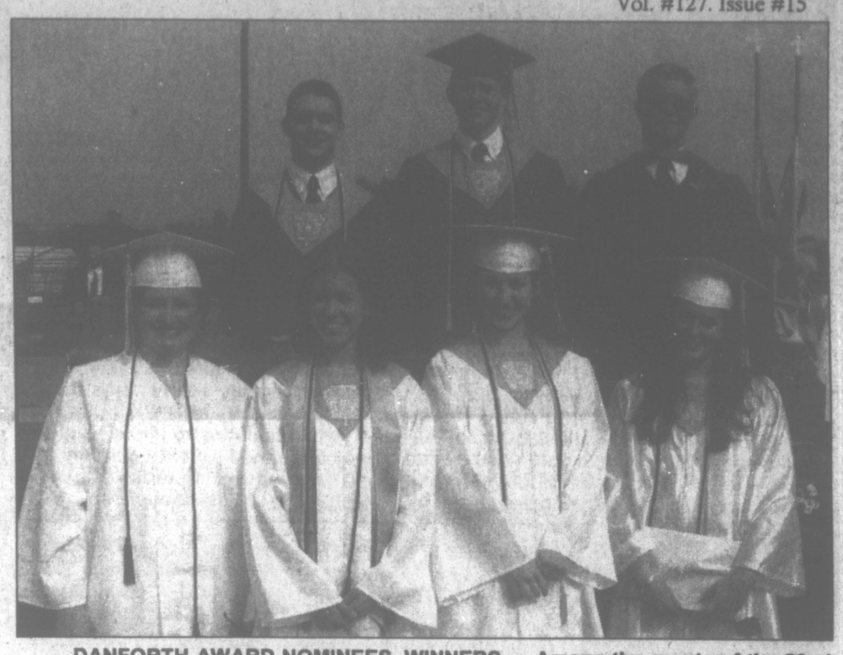
An 11-year-old Prince George's County resident, who was at the Wisp last Thursday on a school trip, died as the result of an accident in the pool at approximately 4:15 p.m., according to investigators with the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Tawakalitu Badejo was among approximately 50 other students in the pool at the time of the incident. According to GBI, she was in the deep end of the pool and two lifeguards were on duty at the time.

CPR was initiated and she was transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She was later flown to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., where she was pronounced dead on Friday.



DANFORTH AWARD NOMINEES, WINNERS — Among the events of the 52nd annual commencement for Southern Garrett County High School, held Sunday on the school's athletic field, was the presentation of the Danforth Award by the Southern High School Alumni Association. The purpose of the award, which includes a certificate, plaque, and a copy of the book I Dare You, written by its founder, William H. Danforth, is to recognize young adults who possess personal integrity, have attained high academic achievement, live balanced lives, and hold the potential for leadership. The Alumni Association added a $1,000 scholarship for each winner. Selected by the SHS faculty and members of the Alumni Association to receive the award this year were Natalie Domenick and Adam Sincell. All six nominees, selected from their class of 162, are pictured above with school principal Tom Woods. From left, front, are Erin Oxford, Natalie Domenick, Laura Bonser, and Holly Sauder. In the back are Adam Sincell, Michael Nelson, and principal Woods. Making the presentation on behalf of the Alumni Association was William Grant, chairman and CEO of First United Bank & Trust. Protective Gear Noted For Saving Motorcyclist's Life

An Ohio motorcyclist who was thrown from his bike as he swerved to avoid a deer on Interstate 68 Saturday survived the potentially fatal crash because of proper safety gear, according to Maryland State Police troopers who also noted the actions of other motorists and emergency personnel in rendering first aid.

At approximately 8:20 a.m., James R. Lesser, 49, Uniontown, had just passed Shade Hollow Road on the westbound Interstate when a deer crossed the roadway in his path. Lesser attempted evasive maneuvers, but lost control of his 2002 BMW motorcycle and struck a guard rail. He was thrown from the bike and hit his head on the guardrail.

Police said that because Lesser was wearing an approved safety helmet that provided full head protection, and leather outer garments, his injuries were minimized.

The quick and effective rendering of proper first aid by motorists who stopped to assist Lesser prevented him from going into shock, and

DCL Study Task Force Schedules Monday Session

The next meeting of the Deep Creek Lake Study Task Force, the citizens' group charged by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to investigate development trends in the lake area and provide recommendations on guiding such growth, has slated a 7 p.m. meeting for Monday, June 14, at Perkins Restaurant in McHenry. The session will be open for the public to observe.

The agenda features a presentation by Clive Graham, senior planner for Environmental Resources Management (ERM), the private contracting firm retained by the commissioners to carry out the DCL Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Study. Graham will discuss ERM's summarization of issues raised by citizens at an April public meeting held at Garrett College; a draft evaluation of the current plans, programs, and procedures that the county already has in place regarding the lake area; and case studies of five communities in other parts of the nation

GBI Check Theft Probe Concludes With Two Arrests

Two persons were jailed last week on multiple charges stemming from a probe of check forgeries, according to the Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Laura Ellen Cummings, 25, McHenry, and Steven Dale Wolff, 34, Freedom, Pa., were arrested on two counts each of felony theft, misdemeanor theft, forgery, and conspiring to commit felony theft and forgery. The investigation began on May 28, when GBI detectives were contacted by the McHenry office of F&M Bank regarding a bad check that had been cashed by Wolff in the amount of $9,500.

Investigators subsequently determined that Cummings and Wolff had allegedly conspired to steal two checks from a fellow college classmate's checkbook, and forged the owner's signature to cash the checks at two different banking facilities. The second check was cashed for $3,500 at an unidentified location.

Cummings remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Detention Center

Governor Signs Bill Boosting Wind Power Prospects

Maryland governor Robert Ehrlich signed legislation recently that gave a slight boost to the state's fledgling wind energy industry by encouraging greater use of "clean" energy sources such as wind, solar, and geothermal power.

The Renewable Energy Portfolio and Credit Trading legislation seeks to promote the use of renewable energy sources by requiring utilities to gradually ramp up the amount of energy they supply from such sources over the 10 years following its implementation. Maryland utilities will eventually have to obtain 7½ percent of their electricity needs from renewable sources within a decade.

The legislation is modeled on Renewables Portfolio Standards (RPS), which in varied forms have been adopted by 14 other states. RPSs require each company that generates electricity in the U.S., or in a given state, to obtain part of the electricity it supplies from renewable energy sources such as wind. To meet this requirement, the company could either generate electricity from renewables itself or buy credits or electricity from a renewable generator such as a wind farm. Proponents claim this "credit trading" system has been effective in requiring utilities to reduce pollutant emissions.

At this point there are several windpower projects proposed for western Maryland, with the only one proposed for Garrett County being Clipper Windpower's 67-turbine facility along Backbone Mountain. While

Officials Discuss GC Courthouse Security Issues

Garrett County government is taking measures to strengthen security at the county courthouse. Sheriff Dick Sanders and Major Gary Berkebile reviewed a recent study conducted by federal marshals and discussed safety measures with the Garrett County commissioners this week.

The study stressed the need for more security at the courthouse. "One must consider the implications . . . if measures aren't taken," concluded the document.

Plans were already under way, however, to install cameras and keyless locks in the facility. The installation was made possible through a Department of Homeland Security grant, which was awarded through the Garrett County Department of Emergency Management,

Under 2004 Homeland Security guidelines, Garrett County could also receive $65,000 for law enforcement purposes, said Berkebile.

According to the major, Garrett would get the least amount of funding of all the counties in the state. Somerset is eligible for about $88,000, and Caroline about $97,000. The other counties would get more than $100,000. Berkebile said he was told the funding was based on such issues as population and threat assessment.

Rural Legacy Funds Awarded For Bear Creek

Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. announced yesterday that the Board of Public Works approved a total of $1,277,770 in Rural Legacy Program funds to acquire conservation easements on 582 acres in Garrett, Frederick, and Washington counties.

These easements preserve farmlands, forests, wildlife habitats, wetlands, views of historic sites, Civil War sites, and watershed lands.

"The Rural Legacy Program is an extremely versatile means for protecting our heritage," said the governor. "Easements arranged through this program conserve our natural resources but also preserve places where our history was so heartrendingly made, such as the battlefields of Antietam."

The Rural Legacy Program approvals will fund four projects. For Garrett County, the board allocated $300,000 to acquire [illegible] ments on 253 acres i[n] Bear Creek Rural L[e]gacy Area. These easement[s] protect working farms, [s]timber, a scenic v[iew] the Cove overlo[ok] habitats, wetlan[ds] terways in t[he] drainage ba[sin]

GC Officials Allocate POS Funds; County Needs $25,000 For Rec Plan

Nine local organizations and municipalities vied for a very limited amount of Program Open Space (POS) funding for Fiscal Year 2005. Garrett County's allotment this time, however was only $86,716, compared to about $110,000 for FY '04 and $97,000 for FY '03.

Planning and Zoning director John Nelson presented the funding requests to the commissioners on Tuesday for projects totaling nearly $265,000.

The local allotment this year was reduced even further because the county will use $25,000 of the funding to prepare the 2005 Garrett County Recreation Plan. The state mandates that the document be updated periodically.

The POS program is funded by the s[tate] and is allotted to co[unties] each year, with th[e] [illegible]onies appropriate [illegible]their fiscal author[ity] [illegible]s are to be us[ed] [illegible]vate existing [illegible]ties or to buy [illegible]pen space use. [illegible]ne small amount [illegible]," said Commis[illegible]nie Gregg on Tues[illegible]we will need some [illegible]e to review the requests." The officials made their [illegible]cision yesterday, award[illegible]ng at least some money to all but two applicants.

The Deep Creek Lions Club received $5,000 to finish grading, seeding, and mulching its soccer field in McHenry. The group had requested $65,000. It received $40,000 in FY '04, $5,000 in '03, and $30,000 in '02 for the field project.

For its town park, Grantsville had requested $9,660.03 to replace softball and Little League fences and to purchase three park benches and a field drag. The town was allotted only $8,535 of the request because the field drag did not qualify, as POS funding cannot be used for equipment.

The town received $14,785 to refurbish the tennis courts at the park last year.

The Casselman Valley Soccer Association received $5,000. The group had requested $24,500 to install electrical service, two wells, and a septic system at the the Mid-Maryland Frederick Rural Legacy Area. The easements protect farmland, forests, Civil War sites, and a greenbelt around the historic town of Burkittsville.

The board also approved $300,000 for Washington County to acquire easements on 124 acres in the Mid-Maryland Washington Rural Legacy Area. The easements protect farmland, forests, the South Mountain Civil War Battlefield, a view of the Antietam Battlefield, and the "rural character" of the town of Sharpsburg by establishing a green-

SIX GENERATIONS — YES, THAT'S SIX — of a local family recently gathered at the home of Ruby Flanagan, Jennings. While a five-generation gathering is rare, a six-generation get-together is almost unheard of. It is, by all accounts, the first "six-gen" to be published in The Republican newspaper. Pictured above, seated, is Bessie Wilt, great-great-great-grandmother, 97. Behind her, from left to right, are Ruby Flanagan, great-great-grandmother, 77; Wanda Michael, great-grandmother, 56; Sandy Puffinberg, grandmother, 36; and Brittney, 17, and Mitchell Wilburn, 8 months. Man Dies From Injuries In Two-Vehicle Mishap

An Oakland man was pronounced dead at the scene of a two-vehicle accident Friday around 5 p.m. at the intersection of Garrett Highway and Sand Flat Road, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

For undetermined reasons, Lloyd Marlin Jones, 91, pulled his 1992 Ford Taurus into the lane of travel of a 2002 Dodge truck driven by William Rizer, 68, Medina, Ohio.

Rizer and his wife Diana, 56, were both transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated for injuries.

The accident is currently under investigation by the Sheriff's Office.

Deep Creek firefighters and Maryland State Police also responded to the scene.

See complete obituary on page A-6.

McHENRY MAKES EMERGENCY LANDING IN McHENRY — An odd coincidence, but thankfully no injuries, came out of this emergency landing yesterday in the McHenry area. New Jersey resident Dennis McHenry safely put this small plane down in a field after it experienced mechanical failure shortly after 2:30 p.m. McHenry, who was flying southwest from his Cherry Hill residence to make a visit to his hometown of Ravenswood, W.Va., walked away unharmed from the landing site near the intersection of Rock Lodge and Mosser roads, according to the Maryland State Police McHenry barrack. Workshop Set For Those Who Work With Teens

Debbie Roffman, nationally known speaker, consultant, and author, will present a workshop on Friday, June 18, for service providers who work with teenagers. The workshop will be held at the Community Services Building next to Garrett Memorial Hospital from 10 a.m. until noon.

The workshop, which is free, is titled "What's Happening Out There? Our Children and their Sexual Lives." Continuing education credits can be earned by those attending.

"Some of the goals of the workshop are to identify societal forces that impact a teen's attitudes and behaviors, and to identify an adult's role in relation to a teen's fundamental needs," said workshop coordinator Kendra Todd of the Garrett County Health Department. "As an output of the Garrett County Teen Pregnancy Prevention Coalition, this workshop is being offered for such service providers as school nurses and counselors; health teachers; community providers from the health department, Social Services, and Dove Center; and others to provide some support and guidance in working with teens about very sensitive issues."

Roffman is a certified family life educator, as well as a certified sex educator. She is the author of two books, Sex and Sensibility: The Parent's Guide to Talking Sense about Sex and But How Did I Get in There in the First Place? The Thinking Parent's Guide to Talking to Young Children about Sex.

She has also written articles on the topic that have appeared in such publications as Parents magazine, Time magazine, USA Today, and the Washington Post, and has made television appearances on Nightline, The Early Show, and HBO.

To register to attend the free workshop, interested persons should call the health department at 301-334-7730 by June 15. Funding for the workshop is provided by a grant from the Governor's Council on Adolescent Pregnancy, the Partnership for Children and Families Inc./LMB, and the Garrett County Health Department Improved Pregnancy Outcome Program.

May's Statistics Released By GC Sheriff's Office

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office recently released its statistics for May 2004. A total of 1,661 control numbers were assigned for a variety of different functions requiring officer action throughout the month.

The statistics are: 19 arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol; 50 motor vehicle accidents requiring a deputy's response; 37 traffic complaints, 23 thefts, 16 controlled dangerous substance complaints resulting in 14 adult arrests; 12 domestic violence complaints; 4 domestic violence assaults; 24 destruction of property complaints; 34 disturbance complaints; 113 [illegible]citations issued and [illegible]rnings; 220 patrol [illegible]s at businesses and residences; 33 alarms; 3 missing persons; 87 adult arrests; and 286 court papers served by deputies.

Sheriff Dick Sanders reported a 46% increase in the number of reported motor vehicle accidents over the last month. He said he urges all citizens to use caution when driving on the highways. A large percentage of the reported accidents are the result of minor distractions that could be averted, he added. He urges motorists to remain alert and attentive to other motorists during the summer months.

The Sheriff's Office may be contacted at 301-334-1911, and any questions may be directed to gcso@garrettcounty.org. The web site is www2.gcnet.net/sheriff.

Classes Set For Property Owners Along DC Lake

A free class detailing the special permitting procedures required of any property owner considering making alterations to the publicly owned buffer strip surrounding Deep Creek Lake is set for 7 p.m. Saturday, June 19, at the DCL State Park Discovery Center. The Maryland Department of Natural Resources will repeat the class in July and August.

Staff from the DCL Natural Resource Management Area will be on hand to discuss the guidelines for special permits governing structures, paths, play areas, electrical improvements, vegetation removal, and shoreline erosion control.

The class will be repeated on the Saturdays of July 24 and Aug. 14. Information about lake permits is also available on the Internet at www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake.

For additional assistance, persons may call the DCL management office at 301-387-4111.

Accident Man Charged After Domestic Call

An Accident man was arrested last Thursday, June 3, after a reported domestic altercation at a Spear Road residence. Maryland State Police troopers assigned to the McHenry barrack filed an additional charge of drug possession during the course of the probe.

Samuel Ray Vansickle, 40, was apprehended at the scene after the incident, which took place shortly after 3 p.m., and charged with second-degree assault. During a routine search, troopers discovered a bag of suspected marijuana in Vansickle's pants pocket and filed a charge of possession of marijuana.

Vansickle was later released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance.

A REGAL PROCESSION of bagpipes, drums, clan representatives, military units, and Celtic breeds of dogs kicked off the 17th annual McHenry Highland Festival last Saturday. Pictured in the foreground is pipe major Curt Mitchell of the St. Andrews Pipes and Drums from Parkersburg, W.Va. Other groups attending were the Allegheny and District Pipes and Drums, Balmoral Highlanders Pipe Band, and the host band, Garrett College Pipes and Drums. Despite a cool, drizzling rain, more than 1,200 people attended the Celtic event. Attendees spent the day shopping, eating, drinking, watching sheep dog and falconry demonstrations, playing Highland games, learning about the Celts, and listening to a wide variety of music. "This is my 16th or 17th time at the festival," said U.S. Scottish fiddler Bonnie Rideout, one of the most popular performers at the event. Even though she has attended hundreds of Highland festivals, Rideout said she keeps returning to McHenry because this is her favorite festival and she loves the area. "Many festivals have gotten too huge. They're more like circuses," the fiddler said. "The McHenry one is how a Highland Festival should be." She joked that even the weather was appropriate for the event. Photo by Renée Shreve.

Meyersdale Man Jailed For DUI, Gun Violation

A Pennsylvania man was arrested last Wednesday, June 2, and charged with driving while under the influence (DUI) and a gun violation by Maryland State Police troopers operating out of the LaVale barrack.

Shortly after 9 p.m. David Duppstadt, 40, Meyersdale, was stopped for speeding on Route 40 east of Avilton Lonaconing Road. A search conducted after his arrest for DUI uncovered a loaded .22 caliber pistol located in the driver's door panel of his 2003 Ford pickup truck.

Duppstadt was released from the Garrett County Detention Center the following day, after he posted a $1,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

Man Flees Scene, Faces Drunk Driving Charges

A Rockville man faces drunk driving charges after police located him in the Swallow Falls Road area, where his vehicle ran through a resident's yard and struck a tree, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Igor B. Rogozin, 41, was charged with driving under the influence (DUI) and leaving the scene of a property damage accident Saturday.

No injuries were reported.

In other police news, deputies noticed a vehicle stopped for an extended period of time at a flashing yellow caution light Sunday.

Robin Leonard Moyer Jr., 31, Oakland, was arrested and charged with DUI and driving while impaired (DWI).

Also arrested for drunk driving this past weekend was John William Hinebaugh, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, who was discovered slumped over his steering wheel in the area of Decatur Street and the Parkwoods Apartments in Mtn. Lake Park.

He was charged with DUI and DWI, and was later released.

Lawn Mower Race To Be Part Of Truck Show

"Ready, Set, Mow" will be the call at the Western Maryland Truck Show this summer as participants rev their engines for a lawn mower race, "America's Cutting Edge Motorsport," a spokesperson said. An informational meeting about lawn mower racing will be held Friday, June 18, at 7 p.m. at the Allegany County Fairgrounds in the show ring.

The meeting is free and open to the public and will be conducted by officials of the Mid-Atlantic Lawn Mower Racing Association (MALMRA) to announce plans for the Aug. 28 "Maryland Mountain Sod Wars" at the truck show. The "sod wars" is one of the several sanctioned races presented by the association, which is one of the 20 local chapters of the U.S. Lawn Mower Racing Association (USLMRA).

"We are getting ready to rock and mow," said Jim McFarland, president of the Western Maryland Truck Show. "We saw lawn mower racing on ESPN2 and the Discovery Channel, and decided to bring it here. We welcome everyone to come out and learn about the sport of lawn mower racing. This is our sixth annual truck show, and although attendance at the event has been fantastic, we are trying to expand the events to attract more people. We also believe there is an interest of others in getting involved in lawn mower racing. Come on out. The mow the merrier."

The USLMRA was formed on April Fool's Day 1992 as a promotion of Stabil Fuel Stabilizer. The races involve riding mowers racing in six road track classes, including stock, prepared, and factory experimental. All of the cutting blades are removed for safety.

"There is no purse money, as racers compete for trophies, glory, and bragging rights, as well as a national points championship," McFarland noted. "A sense of humor is not required, but strongly encouraged."

Keep Your Child Lead Safe
These steps will protect your child from lead poisoning:

- Get your child tested for lead poisoning at ages 1 and 2.
- Wash your hands and your child's hands with soap and water before all meals.
- Wash your child's pacifier and toys often.
- If you live in a home built before 1960—move your child's crib or bed away from window sills and clean painted surfaces like window sills two times a week with hot water and a good household cleaner.
- If you live in a home before 1960, call the Lead Hotline at 410.631.3859 before you remodel your home.
- Give your child foods high in calcium, iron, and vitamin C. These foods may help protect your child from lead poisoning: baked potatoes, broccoli, cereals with iron, cheese, kale, lean ground beef, milk, orange juice. and tomatoes.
- Serve healthy foods and snacks on a daily basis.

For more information, call the Lead Hotline at 1-800-370-5323 or the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770 or 301-895-3111

Garrett College Roasts Departing Dean Mitchell With "Lillian's Fair"

By Jack DuBose

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs and student services at Garrett College, got a big surprise recently. Her colleagues gave her a surprise retirement party they called "Lillian's Fair." Scripted and organized by Professors Terry Kasecamp and Ann Wellham, among others, the event was a variety show that poked fun at Mitchell and the college she has served so well for so long.

Upon entering Garrett's auditorium, Mitchell was greeted with a loud yell of "Surprise!" Her daughter, Suzanne Wilburn, welcomed Mitchell, then the faculty and staff serenaded her with "Lillian's Isle," singing lyrics penned by professor Greg Jenkins to the tune of "Gilligan's Island." Professor Jerry McGee played piano for that number and others in the show.

Dr. Steve Herman, master of ceremonies, went on to show how much Mitchell will be missed and remembered by singing Nat King Cole's "Unforgettable" to her. Professor Ben Sincell, who provided sound and lighting for this event, helped blend Herman's and Cole's performances.

The Information Technology folks including Dan Fabbri, Garland Kearney, and Kevin Bass presented Mitchell with an ancient computer and a sledgehammer to "fix" it. Kearney, Clyde Hetrick, and Jim Matthews along with others helped keep computers and audiovisual equipment running smoothly for the production.

Graphic designer Denise Friend shot many photos to document "Lillian's Fair." She also took the classic "Rosie the Riveter" and "Uncle Sam" images, and superimposed Mitchell's face on them for posters and keepsake badges for participants. Friend also designed the program for the occasion. The production even made it to video for Mitchell to enjoy again.

An ongoing skit throughout "Lillian's Fair" parodied Mitchell's involvement with outcomes assessment at the college. Dr. Virginia Broaddus portrayed Mitchell in the skit, and practically brought down the house with her version of "I've Got the Music in Me." That skit also featured Dana Shimrock as "Ms. Outcomes Assessment 2004," and the Garrett College faculty as themselves.

In another segment titled "Just Do It," Mitchell (Broaddus), aided by Ann Wellham, Dennis Gibson, Seth Hansen, and Lee Bradley, attempted to play volleyball, baseball, and basketball to better understand the athletic department.

The Student Services staff adapted the old citizen's band radio hit song "Convoy." Darlene "Global Gertie" Preston, Pat "Funny Money Lady" Bennett, and Cliff "The Warden" Everett gave standout performances as they and the other staff recounted the highlights of Mitchell's career.

Dean of Administration Mike Kilgus and the "Business Office Bunch" showed some choreography of their own with a reworking of Bachman Turner Overdrive's "Takin' Care of Business."

Dr. Michael Swiderski played a thoughtful guitar instrumental he called "Lil's Lament" that touched on a conversation he and Mitchell had at this year's commencement.

Susan Stem sang the traditional Irish blessing "May the Road Rise Up to Meet You" as a sendoff for Mitchell, and Dean of Continuing Education Lowell Bender reflected on Mitchell's legacy to Garrett College.

Following a video that showed what really happens at GC's library during new hours on Sunday evenings, Broaddus came back (as herself this time) and sang a touching twist to the Scarecrow's song from The Wizard of Oz. She and husband Eric Whytsell wrote new lyrics for "If I Only Had Lil's Brain," and they fueled Broaddus's excellent performance.

Gail and Steve Herman danced up a storm with "The Outcomes Lindy," and when Gail had to leave (part of the act), Mitchell got to take to the dancefloor herself.

The faculty then did its best to massacre the art of Appalachian clogging (a new passion of Mitchell's) and brought out Carl Heselbach as "The Lord of the Dance" to hoots of laughter and wild applause.

A slideshow of Mitchell's life set to the song "You Gotta Be" ended Part One of "Lillian's Fair." Part Two, a luncheon in Mitchell's honor followed in the Lakers' Café.

The Garrett College faculty and staff formally recognized Mitchell's retirement at a dinner at the Savage River Lodge earlier this week.

DANCING HER WAY INTO RETIREMENT, departing Garrett College dean Dr. Lillian Mitchell takes a turn on the stage of the college auditorium with President Dr. Steve Herman during a farewell tribute organized by faculty and staff. "Lillian's Fair" was a time for reminiscing, well-wishing, and lots of laughs. Following the salute, the assembly adjourned to the Lakers' Café for a farewell luncheon, and Mitchell is shown below with a "Rosie the Riveter – We Can Do It!" cake with her own face superimposed on the inspirational figure. See story.

We want to thank our families, friends, and neighbors for the surprise 50th anniversary party May 23rd at the Farmers Wildlife Park, Horse Shoe Run, WV.

Special thanks to Karen Evans , Andrea Evans, Bob & Wanda Evans and Carolyn Helmick, for the delicious food & decorations. Our thanks to Betsy Edwards for the beautiful cake and the pen set.

Our special double thanks to our sons Kenny & Perry Evans in keeping the "Big" secret.

May God richly bless each of you for the lovely gifts & cards.

Thank You
Ken & Pam Evans

Elks Lodge Slates Flag Day Event

The Oakland Elks Lodge will hold a Flag Day Ceremony on Monday, June 14, at 3:30 p.m.

The public is invited. A social hour with refreshments will follow the ceremony.

Accident Man Jailed On Drug, Assault Charges

An Accident area man was arrested on drug and assault charges last Thursday, June 3, following a reported domestic altercation that was investigated by Maryland State Police troopers.

Samuel Ray Vansickle, 40, was jailed at approximately 6 p.m. in the wake of a domestic violence incident alleged to have taken place at a Spear Road residence. After he was charged with second degree assault, a search uncovered a small bag of suspected marijuana that Vansickle was carrying in his pants pocket.

Vansickle was released from the Garrett County Detention Center on his own recognizance following a hearing before a District Court commissioner.

Woman Found After Wandering Away From Home

An 82-year-old Kitzmiller resident was found wandering along Short Run Road Friday prior to the arrival of police and was returned home safely, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Deputies, the Sheriff's Office K-9 unit, Garrett Bureau of Investigation, Maryland State Police, Trooper 5, and DNR personnel aided in the search for Elizabeth Dupre.

After several hours, the woman was located in the Oakland area. A motorist had apparently picked her up.

In other police news, Rebecca Ann Williams, 47, Oakland, was charged with drunk driving after her vehicle was stopped on Liberty Street for crossing the center line on several different occasions.

She refused to perform field sobriety tests, and was subsequently arrested and charged with driving while impaired (DWI), driving under the influence (DUI), and failure to drive right of center. A search of her vehicle revealed a small bag of suspected marijuana.

Williams was also charged with possession of CDS and possession of paraphernalia.

She was later released on her own recognizance.

In a separate incident, Garland Jackie Friend Jr., 46, Oakland, was arrested on drug charges stemming from a traffic stop early Saturday morning.

A search of the vehicle revealed a marijuana smoking pipe. Friend was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Chicken Coop Fire Damages Nearby Garage

A garage near Friendsville sustained an estimated $1,000 damage Sunday while a nearby chicken coop was being intentionally burned.

Volunteers from the Friendsville Fire Department were summoned to the residence of Judy Bittinger, 829 Old Morgantown Road East, just north of Friendsville, at 11:53 a.m.

According to a report from the office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal, a friend of the owner was razing the chicken coop by burning it; however, the heat from the blaze caused some of the vinyl siding on the garage to melt.

The fire was out upon the arrival of the estimated dozen firefighters, and there were no injuries reported.

Oakland, Deer Park, Terra Alta, and Gorman volunteer fire fighters were called at 7:58 p.m. last Friday when a structure fire was reported along Memorial Drive between Harvey Winters Drive and Broadford Road.

A minor fire in a garage attached to the residence was quickly brought under control by the first Oakland VFD unit that arrived, and damage was minimal. All other units were canceled prior to arrival on the scene.

No other details were reported.

Garrett Releases Second Summer Session Slate

The second summer session at Garrett College is set to begin Monday, June 14, and students can register for summer courses at the Student Assistance Center weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., with extended hours until 5:30 p.m. on June 14 and June 15. The session will end August 2.

Tuition for the summer session will be $76 per credit hour for Garrett county residents, $172 per credit hour for residents of other Maryland counties, and $215 per credit hour for residents of other states.

As in past years, both day and evening classes have been scheduled, along with several distance learning courses that will be available on the Internet.

Schedules of summer classes are available at the college and all branches of Ruth Enlow Library. Anyone desiring information may call 301-387-3044.

Garrett College offering Medical Coding courses at the Grantsville Outreach Center starting in July 2004

Courses in medical coding, a process developed as a universal language for the medical profession, will be offered by Garrett College through the Continuing Education and Training division at the Grantsville Outreach Center beginning in July of 2004. The courses include:

- Medical Terminology - Learn to communicate, write, and interpret medical terms effectively. Includes organization of terms on the basis of roots, prefixes, suffixes and derivates. Study of body systems is included. The class will be held: July 13 – Aug. 12, Tuesdays, Thursdays and 1 Saturday 6:00 to 9:15 pm, except 7/31 is 9:00 – 3:00 pm.
- Introduction to Anatomy & Physiology – An overview of human anatomy and physiology, including an introduction to structure and function of the human body by systems and on the cellular level. The class will be held: Aug. 17 – Sept. 9, Tuesdays, Thursdays, & 1 Saturday 6:00 to 9:15 pm, except 8/28 is 8:30 – 3:30 pm.
- Medical Coding Specialist - This course provides a basic introduction to ICD and CPT-4 coding. Topics include current procedural terminology (CPT) overview, review of conventions used in ICD, and fundamental coding guidelines. You will become familiar with coding principles and practices. The class will be held: Sept. 14 – Oct. 28, Tuesdays, Thursdays and 1 Saturday 6:00 to 9:15 pm, except 9/25 is 8:30 – 3:30 pm.
- Medical Coding Specialist, Advanced - This course is designed to enhance Level I coding skills and work effectively in a medical office as a coder. Learn more about CPT, ICD, and HCPC codes. This course will allow you to prepare to take the national exam. The class will be held: Oct. 23 – Dec. 9, Tuesdays, Thursdays and 1 Saturday per month 6:00 to 9:15 pm, except 10/30 and 11/20 is 8:30 to 3:30 pm and 12/4 is 9:00 – 3:00 pm.

If you would like additional information about these courses or to register, please contact Terry Beachy, Grantsville Outreach Center Coordinator at 301-895-3368 or tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu

Defining Greatness...

Political analysts and historians will debate from now on about whether or not Ronald Reagan was a great president. Like every president before him, Reagan had his share of successes and failures during his time in the White House, but it seems that most Americans believe the former will outweigh the latter, which will place him among at least the upper third of our presidents in terms of greatness. He may well make the top 10.

There is little doubt, however, even in the minds of his political opponents, that Ronald Reagan was a great human being. He was a man of enormous character. He was an extreme optimist who, thanks in part to his training as an actor, was able to permeate his listening public with that sense of optimism. But his thoughts, his feelings, his patriotism were no act. They were genuine.

We often hear about the great value of having a sense of humor for the maintenance of one's mental and spiritual health, and that was among Reagan's greatest assets. On so many occasions, a veil of tension was shattered to bits by his quick wit. People felt at ease around him, and human beings are capable of so much more when they feel at ease. This particular characteristic no doubt played a significant role in the historic tearing down of the Berlin Wall, as USSR leader Mijail Gorbachov became a friend of Reagan, even after Reagan labeled the Soviet Union as "an evil empire." "A true leader, a man of his word, and an optimist..." is how Gorbachov described Reagan in an editorial written by him just this week titled "A President Who Listened."

Reagan was a military veteran, a model husband, and a good father, and he knew how to keep things in proper perspective. While he always went to the mat in political battles with his Democratic opponents, he never made it a personal thing. He would butt heads with Tip O'Neill, one of the most liberal House Speakers in the history of the U.S., but in private life, O'Neill was one of Reagan's favorite and most regular golfing buddies.

Perhaps his greatest quality was, simply, that he was such a nice guy. A woman who worked in the White House during the Reagan administration commented that the president treated janitors with exactly the same level of respect and courtesy with which he treated heads of state.

Despite the failures of his administration (and, yes, one can read about those, ad nauseam), we must conclude that the world was absolutely made a better place because of President Reagan's leadership, and by the example he set for how to be a great man.

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: The following three letters of appreciation were received from young siblings whose home was destroyed by fire this past winter. The children attend Broad Ford Elementary School.

Dear Community,

Thank you for everything you've done for us. I'm glad you gave us clothes and other things, like toys. Thank you for giving us supplies that we needed, like blankets. Thank you for giving us furniture and a TV. Thank you for all of this since our house burned down.

Love,
Cody Hoye
Third Grade

Dear Everyone,

Thank you for helping my family when the fire happened. Oak-Mar and Comfort Inn, thank you for letting us use you apartment. I really do appreciate it; believe me, I do. Burlington, thank you for everything you did for us. You did a lot. Red Cross, you did a whole bunch. You are really nice to help us. I really appreciate that all of you people helped us.

Sincerely,
Chloey Hoye
Third Grade

Dear students and faculty of Broad Ford School,

I would like to thank you for bringing in clothes, shoes, money, and other great stuff that you did for us. We are thankful for what you did for us when our house burned down. Third grade, thank you for the $117 gift certificate to Wal-Mart. We got new clothes, some food, and lots more. But most of all, we would like to say thank you for everything the whole school did for us. Thank you so much.

Thankfully,
Destiny Hoye,
Fourth Grade

To the Editor:

On June 6, our last child graduated from Northern High School. Our other son graduated in 2000. We would like to take this opportunity to express our gratitude to the many people with whom our sons came in contact during their educational years. We, as parents, know the job wasn't always easy. To those of you who taught, disciplined, drove, coached, fed, counseled, and picked up after them, we thank you. To the secretaries, we thank you for taking care of things behind the scenes.

We realize the importance of quality education, and we were fortunate to send our sons to Accident Elementary, Northern Middle, and Northern High schools. Derek plans to attend college in the fall and major in elementary education (probably due to the fact he had such good role models), and PJ is presently deployed overseas, defending America!

Again, our sincerest appreciation to all of you. We will certainly miss "school." Best of luck, and God bless the class of 2004!

With gratitude,
Phil and Debbie

To the Editor:

As summer approaches, it is time to be thinking of the 48th annual Garrett County Fair. We are really excited to be able to showcase the best of what Garrett County has to offer. We will treat you to a diverse line up of activities, exhibits, and entertainment, offering something for everyone.

As fair time approaches we want to remind each of you of some very important changes:

• All indoor exhibits will be entered on Saturday, Aug. 7, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

• Judging will take place on Sunday, Aug. 8, beginning at 1 p.m. This change will allow the exhibit barns to be open daily, Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

• The stock tractor pull has been moved to Saturday, Aug. 7, to allow the addition of more events throughout the week.

Be sure to clip and review the master schedule of events in The Republican's "Summer Sensations," to be published June 24.

Pay-one-price tickets are again $7, which includes gate admission, parking, entertainment, all events at the racetrack, and rides in the carnival.

Advance weekly passes are available for purchase for $24, which are good for gate admission, parking, entertainment, and all events at the racetrack. Tickets can be purchased at the following locations: Gregg's Pharmacy, Friendsville Pharmacy, Beachy's Pharmacy, Arrowhead Market, Foodland Fresh, and the Garrett County Extension Service office.

Looking forward to seeing you all at the 48th annual Garrett County Fair!

For additional information, you may call Roger at 301-387-5408 or Debbie at 301-334-3917 during the evening hours.

Sincerely,
Roger P. Glotfelty Jr.
Garrett County Fair
President

To the Editor:

I read the story of the "Nuisance Bear." How ridiculous. The people from the DNR played around since 1995?! (DNR had been monitoring the bear since 1995.) Were they waiting for the bear to take somebody apart?

Down here in West Virginia we have a better solution. It's called a 30 caliber bullet. No muss, no fuss. And everybody gets some good bear meat to take home.

Thank God I left Maryland for West Virginia.

To the Editor:

For 21 years I have lived in Garrett County. For 16 years I have been raising my children as Garrett County children who live on the northern end of the county. For 21 years, when any team or any Garrett County child achieved success, I cheered them on. I have worked very hard for 16 years in my home to repeatedly stress to my children that we would always support Southern as friends and neighbors. There are too many in our state that do not even know our county exists, I tell them, and we stick together. We are Garrett County.

As a non-local-by-birth, I have never truly been able to grasp this northern-southern divide that I hear so much about. Sadly, this came to an end last week with the Mt. Top Soccer registration form that I naively sent in promptly. I have registered my children for 10 years with Mt. Top Soccer. It has been a wonderful experience for all, until now. Now I feel the gulf of the northern vs. southern. I feel the pain of the hurt. I feel the divide. I guess I am now truly a local–a northern local.

And what has caused this sudden change of heart? The Mt. Top Soccer Association is stating that for my child to play soccer this fall, she must play not just the games at the southern end, but she also must be driven to practices after school at Southern as a member of a southern-only team. As I work in Oakland, and my husband works out of state, this necessitates unnecessary hardship. Previously, practices were held after school in the area that my child lived. All I had to contend with was the "pick-up" at the end of my work day when I came home. Now, Mt. Top Soccer is insisting for my child to play, I leave work in Oakland, drive to Accident, and return to Oakland for practice and then return to Accident again. Being a two-worker family that has more than one child, this is simply not feasible. Due to the current fuel prices and the added mileage, it is unnecessarily expensive.

I was first told of this change, AFTER I had sent the registration form in to Mt. Top Soccer, by my son Again, I, in my naivete, laughed at him and told him he must have heard wrong, that there was a mistake. I defended the Mt. Top Soccer program I had been privileged to be associated with for 10 years and told him they would NEVER expect this of us; that they were an organization that always encouraged and promoted soccer within the county. I had such faith in the common sense of Mt. Top Soccer that I could not believe my own son.

I then looked at the two remaining forms in my registration packet. There was NO mention of this sudden change of philosophy in the newsletter that was sent. When the rumor persisted that there was something "hidden" in the registration form I had sent, I called someone who still had one. Sure enough, a small mention of this is made on the registration form in just a few simple words of all teams being Oakland based. The registration form looked exactly to me as the same form I had completed in good faith for 10 years, so when paying my bills, I sent it off with my check

I am formally and publicly asking for the Mt. Top Soccer organization to reverse this decision. I am asking that if this decision is not reversed, that they return my $25 registration fee, as I can not comply with their new geographical requirement. I am asking all of this before the June 12th deadline, even though refunds are against their policies. I was not aware of their policy change. I re-registered in good and loyal faith. They have breached this faith.

As there was NO mention of this in their annual newsletter, and no postcards sent to prior participants outside the 21550 zip code, I do not know why this was done. There have always been strong northern and southern business sponsorships. The folks who work for these businesses live on BOTH sides of the county. Businesses are proud to support the community children, as this is another way of sponsoring their employees' children. This is no longer the case. Businesses, before you make your sponsorship decision, please be aware you are sponsoring only those in the 21550 zip code. I am sure as they did not make this clear to the registrants, they will not make their new position clear to their sponsors. I am also asking that the over-asked business sponsors be aware they may now be needed to sponsor the same activity separately on the northern end.

I am also suggesting to the Garrett County commissioners the obvious need of some type of public recreational board that can oversee the use of the various facilities in the county. I know this is not a soccer-only issue. This would take some decision-making power out of the hands of the few who use good organizations for their own purposes in the future.

It is personal, as it is MY child who cannot play co-ed soccer this fall due to the impossible logistics being imposed on my family by the new Mt. Top Soccer philosophy. If Mt. Top Soccer so badly wants county-balanced teams, then require that half of all 21550 zip code registrants be sent to a different zip code for team practices. Then we can all share in the extra futility, extra expense, extra inconvenience, and extra cost of this new philosophy equally by double tracking up and down the highway. But we would achieve your county-balanced team goal.

You want fair? Then give all Garrett County kids the opportunity to play and learn a sport in their own neighborhoods. We can travel for the games. We can all go back to the good old days when the northern and southern parents would chat on the sidelines, setting the positive adult example of how we are united as a county. What better model for children on both ends?

As always, it is the kids who will lose out on both sides of the county – northern by being denied the privilege for geographic reasons, southern by losing teams and competition in their league, and Garrett County for having what was a unifying organization now creating another wedge.

As for the northern-southern divide? I guess you can never explain it until it slaps your child. It's a personal thing, not a geographic thing.

Sadly,
Amy Hartung-Jones

To the Editor:

Enough is enough.

I am sick of hearing about "the prison abuse scandal!" Last week Crede Calhoun writes "women and boys raped ,70-year-old women ridden like donkeys, genitals shocked, and other horror stories too disturbing to account."

Well, I've seen the unblurred photos, and some of those prisoners looked pretty happy tied with underwear on their heads. If it took the removal of those genitals to produce information that saved innocent Iraqi and Colalition lives from an impending attack, I would provide the snippers if needed. Women ridden like donkeys?? Ha??

The writer claims "these prison torture acts have fueled the anger of millions and increased our chances of a terrorist attack." I believe I understand your thought process and, with all due respect, what cave have you been living in? Someone, quick, wake up Crede from his coma.

Remember Sept.11, or the 1995 Saudi bombings with five U.S. soldiers dead, or the first Trade Center attack, the 1996 Khobar Towers attack, 1998 bombings of our U.S. embassies in Africa, the USS Cole attack? Remember the name Michael Stetham, an American soldier beaten to death on a hijacked airliner, or Leon Klinghoffer, the wheelchair-bound American murdered while on a cruise ship, his body dumped over the side, or Colonel Higgins, beaten, tortured, and hanged? These are real "horror stories" that occurred way before the war in Iraq.

GRADUATION

Last Friday evening my son, Nick, graduated from high school. The youngest of my three children, he was attired in academic black. His partner in the procession, the member of his class whom he knew the longest – they met in our church's nursery 17 years ago, wore orange. The school colors made a pleasing contrast.

Beneath their academic caps my son and his nursery-mate beamed. I, as I imagine many another parent, had glistening eyes. Few experiences combine such disparate emotions (sadness, joy, and relief among them) as seeing one's own child graduate from high school, especially when that child is the youngest in the family.

This graduation was like all other graduations, though they had made changes enough since my second daughter graduated three years ago. The entire proceedings had been rotated 90 degrees in order to permit family and friends to sit in the bleachers on both sides of the football field. The faculty sat behind the students rather than facing them.

The speeches, however, had not changed. Filled with pretensions, platitudes, and challenges they fell flat. The worst speech, given by the school board president, was made memorable only because he stated the same two points made in so many commencement addresses (i.e. 1. No one wants to hear me talk. 2. No one will remember what I say.) before launching into a harangue which no one wanted to hear and no one remembers.

The salutatorian expressed a message in polysyllables which might not have been permitted if he had given it monosyllables. That just goes to show, as long as no one can understand what is said, you can say anything you like in this country.

Did I say that the band was working on the Guinness World Book of Records for the most times "Pomp and Circumstance" was played in a row? Lucky for me, I like that tune, and I also like repetition.

The mother of my children is the high school librarian, so she has been among the official participants as a faculty member for all three of their graduations. She has taken advantage of that circumstance to give each of the kids a hug after she, or now he, received the diploma. Because of the changed seating of the faculty this year, Nick had managed to run 20 yards for a first down before she could tackle him.

There was enough thunder and lightning hanging about to make everyone wonder if somebody had done something really bad. As it turned out, only anxiety-producing drops of rain fell until the ceremonies were complete.

I felt sorry for the local Lions Club, which had refreshments waiting up on the yard in front of the school. Faculty members did the 220-yard dash for their cars. Seniors were hugging each other while their parents took pictures. The precipitation began to feel like rain. As the windshield wipers swung back and forth I thought wistfully about the cake and punch I had missed.

Graduation is unlike most events in that it is only the graduation which matters. The band has to play, and speeches have to be given, but they can really neither add nor detract from the handing out of, as it was in this case, 241 diplomas. This is one of those occasions when the 80 percent of success (i.e. showing up) is 100 percent of the event.

At a sporting event we want to know how the players played and who won. At a concert we are interested in what musical pieces are offered and how they are performed. When you have seen one graduation, however, you have seen them all, unless of course you are the graduate or the proud (relieved) parent of a graduate, or a friend or family member.

Graduation is a rite of passage, the first really important occasion to have your ticket punched. Rain or shine, the band mellifluous or out of tune, speakers tedious or scintillating, all that matters is seeing young people we love being handed a well-padded piece of paper.

It is perhaps too simple to say that they step onto that platform children and walk down the steps men and women, but it is also too true not to say it.

Last Friday evening, with showers threatening at every minute and the air laden with the scent of honeysuckle, my beloved son, whom I once could hoist and swing with ease stood on the podium six feet two inches tall. His name was called out as he received his high school diploma. Had he, at that moment, sprouted the wings of an eagle and soared above us it could not have been more wonderful.

LOCAL AIRMAN DESIGNS MINTED COIN – An Air Force award has been given to Airman First Class Logan Lewis (right) for designing a new commemorative coin, pictured above. The coin is for the 305th Maintenance Squadron (MXS), Air Mobility Command, McGuire Air Force Base, N.J. Coins are a newly formed tradition in the U.S. Air Force, used to signify tradition, unity, and pride. The MXS symbol appears on the front of the coin which reads: 305th Maintenance Squadron, World Class Maintainers, "because that is exactly what they are," Lewis said. The other side shows the state of New Jersey, with the star indicating the location of McGuire. The three aircraft are, from the top, the KC-10 Extender, the C-17 Globemaster, and the C-141 Starlifter, all jets at the base. "Listed around the outer edge are the eight flights that make the MXS. Global Reach means just that," Lewis said. "The ability to reach any part of the globe at any time and perform their duty is what makes the 305th a vital asset to the Air Mobility Command." The coins were minted at Songs Coins in South Korea. Lewis is on active duty at McGuire and is a member of the MXS Munitions Flight Squadron as an explosives technician. A 2002 graduate of Southern High School, the airman is currently enrolled at Emery Riddle University, majoring in professional aeronautics. He resides at the base with his wife Sarah. He is the son of Allen and Tammy Lewis, Oakland.

Oakland Rotary Receives 2003-04 Presidential Award

The Oakland Rotary Club was recently awarded the 2003-2004 Presidential Citation by District 7350 governor Doug Riley at the annual district conference held at the Wisp Hotel in McHenry.

The Oakland Rotary was one of several clubs honored with the citation for completing projects in four designated opportunities for service during the past year.

The Presidential Citation was awarded to Rotary clubs around the world that responded to Rotary International president Jonathan B. Majiyagbe's challenge to "Lend a Hand" by using the four "Avenues of Service" to develop or sustain service activities in their clubs, vocations, communities, and around the world.

The president also encouraged Rotarians to lend a hand to each other and to those touched by Rotary's many programs and development and fellowship activities.

"I am especially pleased to present the citation to the Oakland Club since it is my home club," said Riley.

The Oakland Rotary Club meets on Thursdays at noon in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services building. Persons interested in joining may call club secretary Joan Johnson at 301-533-1031.

County's "Most Beautiful Person" Being Sought

The 18th annual Maryland You Are Beautiful Program was recently kicked off. The program, in conjunction with the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development and the Governor's Office, is now accepting nominations for "Maryland's Most Beautiful People" Volunteer Awards.

"Unique to Maryland and the nation, the Maryland You Are Beautiful Program generates enormous state pride by recognizing thousands of unsung heroes who make Maryland a better place to live, work, and visit," said Gov. Robert Ehrlich. "This is truly an example of how one person's dedication of time and energy really makes a difference to a particular cause or community."

As in previous years, this year's theme is "The Power of One," which celebrates the impact that one volunteer or group can have on their community. The deadline for nominations is Aug. 13.

All nominees will be honored at local award ceremonies. A committee of Garrett County residents will review the local nominations and select the county's "Most Beautiful Person." Sometime in early October, the finalist will be announced by the Garrett County commissioners.

One nominee from each county and Baltimore City will be chosen to represent the many nominees from their area at a statewide awards ceremony in Annapolis hosted by Ehrlich, Lt. Gov. Michael Steele, and other dignitaries in November.

A nominee might be a tour guide at a museum or historic landmark, the person who organizes a local fair or parade, or someone who generously gives his or her time to community support services. Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person last year was Rev. Charles Teets.

Candidates will be screened based on the following:

- Significant volunteer efforts or "neighborly goodwill" that may have previously gone unnoticed.
- The number of years of service.
- Significance to the community.
- Impact within Garrett County.

Nomination forms are available from Carol Riley, local MMBP coordinator, at the commissioners' office, online at garrettcounty.org, and in The Republican.

For more information about the awards, persons may call Riley at 301-334-8970 or visit the MYAB web site at dnr.state.md.us/myab.

Letters

He also writes "our soldiers' failure to live by the Geneva Convention will surely subject American POWs to the same brutal indignities our troops have subjected on Iraqi prisoners." What the hell was their reason for the murder and beheading of Daniel Pearl way before the Iraq war? Nick Berg, an American civilian murder, at the hands of al-Qaida in Iraq? Those are examples of ultimate "brutal indignities and horror stories."

The blame-America crowd and Bush haters have demonized our military and this president since the day he took office. I pose this question to them. Had the previous administration, Clinton/Gore, fulfilled their promise to the American people to bring to justice those responsible for the '95 Saudi Arabia attack, or the 1996 Khobar Towers attack when Clinton said "those responsible would be hunted down and punished?" The 1998 Africa attacks, 2000 USS Cole attack when Clinton again promised those responsible would be hunted down? Why were they looking in Waco, Texas, at the Branch Davidians or at the Randy Weaver ranch in Idaho or in Florida at the alien Gonzales closet? Did Clinton/Reno think Bin laden was hiding in any of those locations?

I believe had Clinton/Gore/Reno not been asleep at the wheel and fulfilled just one of these promises, maybe 3,000 people who died September 11 would be alive today. President Bush has made a commitment, and with the support of our brave men and women in the military they will defend our nation and have taken the fight to those who had declared war on my and your country long ago.

To the Editor:

As summertime is upon us, many of our thoughts turn to picnics, relaxing, and family vacations. For some people in our community thoughts turn to leaving an abusive relationship. The Dove Center offers services to assist these individuals/families. Our community shows support for the Dove Center by the donations we receive, especially during the holiday season. The holiday season seems to pull at our heartstrings and we become more generous and more willing to lend a hand. However, during the rest of the year, we become so engrossed in our daily activities, we seem to become oblivious to our fellow man's plight.

How can we become more involved? Simply come out and participate in our walk and rock-a-thon. The Dove Center is sponsoring its third annual "Stop the Violence" Walk and Rock-a-Thon on July 24 (rain or shine). It will be held at the Loch Lynn pavilion (beside the old Loch Lynn Elementary School). Registration will begin at 9 a.m. and the walk will begin promptly at 10 a.m. Those wishing to participate may compete individually or as a team (up to six members). For those who feel they cannot walk the route, we will supply a rocking chair and they can rock their way to the finish line.

Anyone wishing to participate in our walk and rock is encouraged to stop by the Dove Center offices to pick up sponsor sheets, or call, and we will be glad to mail them to you. All money needs to be turned in the day of the event. After the walk, you can come back to the pavilion, relax, and enjoy a free picnic lunch. Prizes will be awarded to the team, individual, youngest, and most mature (aka eldest) who raise the most money. Door prizes will be given away. Some of the prizes offered are: gift certificates to various restaurants, Pittsburgh Zoo and Aquarium tickets, Western Maryland Scenic Railroad tickets, Laurel Caverns Kavernputt tickets, a stay at the Elliot House, and a get away package for two to the Will O' the Wisp.

This is a great opportunity for everyone to get involved in helping the Dove Center continue to provide services in our community. We encourage everyone to also get their children involved. Teens may accumulate service-learning hours by helping with the walk and rock.

As sad as it is, most of us, including our children, know people who have been affected by domestic violence or sexual assault – whether it be the family next door, your child's playmate, your co-worker, or family members, etc. We can all get involved and make a difference by walking, rocking, or sponsoring someone. For more information, please contact the Dove Center at 301-334-9000 or 301-334-6255. All proceeds benefit the Dove Center. Hope to see you there!

Sincerely,
Victoria Thomas

REINVENTING THE COLONIAL DAYS – Yough Glades Elementary School fifth graders recently participated in a Colonial Day at the school. Some of the activities included making a big kettle of chicken stew over an open fire, making rolls and butter, tin punching, nature walk, candle dipping, quilt designing, and wool spinning. "Everyone who participated had a great time," said a school spokesperson. "We would like to thank everyone who made our day a success, especially Sheila Elliott for bringing her spinning wheel." Pictured above are some of the students making small quilts. In the front, from the left, are Katelyn Gnegy, Brittany Ashby, Karen Bonser, and Dale Marple. In the back are Anthony Clary and Nathan Tichinell. Below are some students observing the candle-making process. From the left are Barry Upole, Nathan Tichinell, Jarad Arnold, Dale Marple (partially hidden), Ashley Crosby, and Karen Bonser. Helping were Mrs. Robin Beckman, on the far left, and Renee Pritts, partially hidden on the far right.

(Paid Obituary)

LLOYD M. JONES

Lloyd Marlin "Casey" Jones, 92, of Oakland, died June 4, 2004, in an auto accident. See front page for complete story.

Born Oct. 28, 1911, in Richwood, W.Va., he was the son of the late William Marlin and Mintie Rader Jones. He was also preceded in death by his wife, Ella Summers Jones.

He graduated from Glenville (W.Va.) State College where he became business manager in 1934 after teaching for a year at Richwood High School. He was a field director with the American Red Cross and served in the United States Navy in the Philippines during World War II. After the war he continued as business manager at Glenville State until 1966, when he became assistant to the vice president for administration and finance at West Virginia University.

He retired from that position in 1973, and in 1985 he and Ella moved to Oakland. They had long owned a cottage at nearby Deep Creek Lake and enjoyed many happy times there with friends and family. Casey was widely loved and admired.

His friends and family will miss his deliveries of home-baked cookies, being serenaded on their birthdays, and receiving newspaper clippings of interest, as well as his warmth and friendliness. He was an avid reader and daily visitor to the library, a train buff, a regular at the Senior Center, a volunteer at the Nearly New thrift shop, and an active member of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Proctor Kildow Post 0071 of the American Legion, and Post 10077 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by one sister, Nora Pauline Brown; one son, William G. Jones and his wife Christine; one daughter, Sarah Elizabeth Stuart and her husband Bruce; grandchildren, Jennifer Ingram Mitchell and her husband Dave, Jason William Ingram, Brian Summers Jones, and Eric Hartman Jones; and great-grandchildren, Matthew David Mitchell and Luke Summers Mitchell, all of whom loved him dearly and mourn his departure.

A memorial service will be held at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, 126 East Liberty St., Oakland, on Saturday, June 12, at 2 p.m., with the Rev. Dr. Chip Lee officiating.

The family suggests that memorials for Casey take the form of contributions to St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

DONALD P. CARUTHERS

Donald Paul Caruthers, 62, Springs, Pa., died Thursday, June 3, 2004, at his residence.

Born Nov. 3, 1941, in Lancaster, Pa., he was a son of the late Elvin P. and Edith Mae (Beitzel) Caruthers.

He was retired from Penn Alps Restaurant, Grantsville. He was a U.S. Army veteran and was a member of Maranatha Assembly of God, Grantsville.

Surviving are his wife, Thelma Jean (Bittinger) Caruthers; three sons, Derrick Paul Caruthers, Dover, Del., Robert James Caruthers, Kansas City, Mo., and Jason Steven Caruthers, at home; one daughter, Jeannette Suzanne Caruthers, Springs; two brothers, Jack M. Caruthers, Grantsville, and David K. Caruthers, Oakland; and two sisters, Sharon Lohr, Swanton, and Catherine Williams, Accident.

A memorial service was conducted on Monday, June 7, at Maranatha Assembly of God, with the Rev. William Ferguson officiating.

Adrain Eugene Stemple II, 24, and Shannon Marie Frazee, 20, both of Haughton, La.

John Joseph Schroth Jr. 32, and Crystal Gail Kish, 25, both of Swanton.

Timothy Wade Ashby, 34, and Stacy Janel Skipper, 26, both of Oakland.

James Michael Hook, 22, and Kristy Lynn Rodeheaver, 20, both of Friendsville.

David Michael Huffman, 25, and Maureen Ann Henne, 29, both of Arlington, Va.

Curtis Russell O'Neal, 24, and Melissa Janell Williams, 26, both of Swanton.

Jeremy Kriston Harris, 24, Frostburg, and Sarah Marie Panicho, 20, Swanton.

Scott Matthew Bartram, 43, and Carol Jean Weise, 40, both of Yorktown, Pa.

James Douglas Jance, 44, and Debra Lee Williams, 49, both of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Amanda Kirby To Wed Darren Wilburn

Amanda Beth Kirby, daughter of Brian and Elizabeth Kirby of Glen Burnie, and Darren James Wilburn, son of James and Wilma Wilburn of Grantsville, will exchange marriage vows on Saturday, July 17. The wedding will take place at 5:30 p.m. at Glen Lutheran Church in Glen Burnie.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Old Mill High School and Washington College, with a bachelor of arts in history. She is currently employed as a social studies teacher at Old Mill High School in Anne Arundel County.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Northern High School and Frostburg State University, with a bachelor of science in biology and earth science and a master's of education in administration and supervision. He is currently employed as a science teacher at Northern Middle School.

A reception will take place at the BWI Holiday Inn.

LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS

•Starting Tuesday, June 15, the clerk treasurer's office hours will change to Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. until further notice.

•A public hearing will be held on June 11 at 6 p.m. at the town hall. The purpose of the hearing is to hear any public comments regarding proposed Budget Ordinance 2004-03 (budget for fiscal year 2004-05).

•A public hearing will be held on June 11 at 6:15 p.m. at the town hall. The purpose of the hearing is to hear any public comments regarding proposed Sewer Rate Ordinance 2004-04.

•A Strategic Planning Task Force meeting is set for June 28 at 6:30 p.m. at the Community Center.

•A meeting of the mayor and council will be held on June 11 at 6:30 p.m.

The next regular meeting of the mayor and council is scheduled for Tuesday, July 6, at 7 p.m.

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held on Thursday, June 3, at the Accident Town hall.

•Clay Riley from Thrasher Engineering was present to review the sewer project. The town can proceed with the loan closing and go to bid as soon as the Easement Agreements are signed and recorded by the town's attorney. There are only a few left to be signed.

•The council agreed to support a Resolution in Support of Tobacco Free Community Parks, sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department. Signs will be placed at Town Park East stating it is a tobacco-free park.

AURORA/EGLON

FIKE REUNION

The family of the late Aemelius Fike invites friends to join them on Sunday, June 13, at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. The covered dish luncheon will be shared at 1 p.m.

VBS JUNE 21-25

"Jesus Helps You Power Up" is the theme for VBS to be held June 21 to 25 at Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run, at 6 p.m. each evening. The fun time closes at 8.30 p.m. and all children between the ages of 3 and 18 are invited to attend. This annual VBS is supported also by Maple Spring Church of the Brethren. Those who attend those churches and any other children are invited.

Mineral Co. Man Promoted To Head Luke Mill

West Virginia resident Richard J. Watro of Short Gap, Mineral County, has been promoted to vice president of Luke operations for MeadWestvaco. In this position, Watro will be responsible for the entire Luke mill operation.

A native of Rochester, N.Y., Watro began his career with Westvaco in 1978 as a project engineer in the Luke mill's Technical Services Department. He transferred to the pulp mill in 1979 and held various supervisory positions before being named pulp mill superintendent in 1998. In 2001, Watro was promoted to superintendent of pulp, power, and recovery, and in 2002, he was promoted to production manager at the Luke mill.

Watro holds a bachelor of science degree in paper science and engineering from the State University of New York (SUNY) College of Environmental Science and Forestry.

In his new position, Watro replaces Roger Dandridge, who was recently named vice president of operations for the Mead-Westvaco Papers Group.

WILHELM RELATIVES TO REUNITE

A reunion for the extended family and friends of Frank and Blanche Wilhelm will be held at the Shaw Pavilion in the Terra Alta Park on Sunday, June 13, at 1:30 p.m. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a lunch to share.

DUMIRE REUNION

The Dumire family reunion will be June 27 at Mt. Grove Community Park. The picnic dinner is set for 12:30 p.m.

KINGWOOD DMV OFFICE CLOSED

Driver services such as driver's license issuance, renewals, and testing are no longer available at Kingwood, since the June 1 closing of the office there. The DMV has gone to regionalization of its offices and, although it is specified as being "only 25-30 miles from everyone," offices are now located in Morgantown, Clarksburg, and Elkins. The Morgantown office is at 1525 Deckers Creek Blvd., and testing is offered at that site from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, each week.

SPAID GRADUATES A-B

Amanda Spaid of Eglon graduated from Alderson-Broaddus College on Saturday, May 15, with a bachelor of science degree in nursing. She had a minor in health care administration. Spaid participated in Alpha Beta Nu (ABN) while a student. She was on the President's List, was honored by the Outstanding Senior Woman Award, and graduated cum laude, with honors. Amanda plans to work at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown on its trauma floor. She is the daughter of Robert and Peggy Spaid, Eglon.

PERSONAL MENTION

Visiting this weekend from Knoxville, Tenn., with their parents were Scott and Sharon Teets, Hancell and Mildred Teets, Sharon's parents, live at Amboy, and Scott's parents, Ellis and Marie Teets, at Horse Shoe Run.

The Abernathy-Shaffer children, Carl and Jan Shaffer, Carolyn and Darrell Rhodes of Ohio, and Erma Heise of Arthurdale, spent the Memorial Day weekend at the Blackwater Lodge and were visited there by Lawrence and Ethel Cosner and several of their friends, John and Shirley Parsons, and Ruth Parks and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Merl See of Hyndman, Pa., were Sunday afternoon guests of Jessie Myers in Aurora.

John, Teresa, and Cody Downs of Ohio, have been visiting her parents in Aurora, Keith and Dee Douglas.

A Monday fire at the home of Rose Ina and Stanley Harsh, Eglon, reportedly destroyed the kitchen, but the remainder of the house was spared except for water and smoke damage.

The Farm Women's Circle of Horse Shoe Run and their families went to Virginia and Washington, D.C., for a weekend sightseeing trip. The Mt. Vernon experience was as it would have been many years ago – without electricity. They visited the Jefferson Memrial, Korean and Vietnam memorials, and the new WWII memorial.

RECEIVES D.D.S.

Dr. Cindy D. Parks., daughter of James and Cherlyn Parks of Eglon, graduated May 16 from the West Virginia University School of Dentistry. Dr. Parks was a 1993 Preston High School graduate.

She attended Davis and Elkins College, where she received an A.S. degree in nursing. For four years she was employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a registered nurse. She then went back to D and E and graduated in 1998 with a B. A. in business administration and health care administration. From 2000 until 2004 she attended the West Virginia University School of Dentistry and now holds a D.D.S. (doctor of dental surgery) degree.

In July Dr. Parks will attend Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio, to complete a pediatric dentistry residency.

Dr. Parks is a member of the American Dental Association, American Academy of General Dentistry, American Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, and American Society of Dentistry for Children. She is also the granddaughter of Ruth Parks of Eglon and the late G.A. Parks, and of John Crawford of Thomas and the late Elsie Crawford.

FORMANS REUNITE

The family of the late Arthur and Myrtle Forman of Amboy met May 29 at the old homestead for their annual reunion. Most of the family members were in attendance for the all-day gathering.

CAR CLUB DONATES TO MT. GROVE VFD – The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club recently donated $500 to the Mount Grove Volunteer Fire Department. Pictured is club president Ralph Miller presenting the check to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kight, who accepted it on behalf of the department. The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club selects several organizations each year to receive donations from money earned at club events. The majority of the funds are raised at the annual Autumn Glory Car Show. Nearly 100 vehicles were on display at the 2003 show, according to a club spokesperson. The club was founded in 1997 and includes members from Garrett County and Preston and Tucker counties in West Virginia. Anyone interested in antique and classic vehicles is invited to join the club. Ownership of a vehicle is not required to be a member. Meetings are held during the summer on the second Thursday of each month at the Farmers' Wildlife Club in Horse Shoe Run, W.Va. For more information, persons may call Gene or Francie Evans at 304-735-5526 or Ron Heginbotham at 301-334-2838.

SEVERE REUNION

July 18 is the date of the Severe family reunion, which will begin with a covered dish dinner at 1:30 p.m. in the Terra Alta Park.

NOTE TO POSTAL PATRONS

Gary Sigley, Eglon postmaster, has announced that there is a change in dispatch time there. The current time of 3:45 mailing for 4 p.m. dispatch is missing connections in Cumberland, and local post offices have had to move the time forward. Daily dispatch, Monday through Friday, will be at 3:15 p.m. to be dropped either inside or outside at the local collection drops. This went into effect June 7, and this affects the Eglon residents who send their mail at the post office.

PC Caregiver Support Group Meeting Slated

The Preston County Caregiver Support Group will meet Monday, June 21, at Heartland of Preston County, Kingwood, from 7 until 8 p.m.

Facilitated by Dr. John Keefe, Melissa Groves, and Janie Lou White, the group meets the third Monday of each month at Heartland. Free supervision is available for participants' family members in need during the meetings.

For more information, persons may call 304-329-3195.

New Beach Set To Open At JRL

The new Shaw Beach at Jennings Randolph Lake will officially open with a public ribbon-cutting ceremony set for 11 a.m. Monday, June 14. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which manages the Elk Garden-based facility, will host a dignitaries' list that includes W.Va. Congressman Alan Mollohan.

The 200-foot long beach, named after the former town of Shaw, has a restroom and changing room, playground, picnic tables, and a 40-car parking lot. It is located near the West Virginia Overlook, and is accessible via the lake's main access road off W.Va. Route 46.

The new beach is part of the approved JRL master plan, a document designed to help the Corps preserve, conserve, restore, maintain, manage, and develop the facility's waters, lands, and associated resources.

STANLEY W. DeWITT SR.

Stanley W. DeWitt Sr., 85, Oakland, died Saturday, June 5, 2004, at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Born Aug. 12, 1918, in Benbush, W.Va., he was a son of the late John W. and E. Viola (Ashby) DeWitt. He was also preceded in death by one son, C. Edward DeWitt; two sisters, Peggy L. McCartney and E. Loretta Sines; and one brother, Harold DeWitt.

He was a member of the Crellin United Brethren in Christ Church. He was a retired coal miner and heavy equipment operator and worked on the construction of Interstate 68, VEPCO Power Station, and the Jennings Randolph Lake. He was a member of the Teamsters Union and the Oakland Chapter AARP. During World War II, he served in the U.S. Army for a short time. He was a former president of the Crellin Improvement Association.

He is survived by his wife of 63 years, Betty L. (Rodeheaver) DeWitt; two daughters, Nancy C. Savage, Oakland, and Judy A. Gillespie, Bakerstown; five sons, Terry L. DeWitt, Oakland, Stanley W. DeWitt Jr., Deer Park, Darrell DeWitt, Dallastown, and D. Richard "Rick" DeWitt and Michael A. DeWitt, both of Oakland; three sisters, Marie E. Skipper, Oakland, Wanda C. Steiding, Hagerstown, and Betty L. Martin, Oakland; two brothers, Clifford C. DeWitt and J. Robert DeWitt, both of Oakland; 13 grandchildren; and 19 great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral home, Oakland.

A service was conducted at the Crellin United Brethren in Christ Church on Tuesday, June 8, with the Rev. Edsel Calhoun and the Rev. Bruce Craig officiating.

Interment was in the Garrett County Memorial Gardens, Oakland.

Military honors were accorded at the cemetery by members of the various veterans' organizations in southern Garrett County.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Alzheimer's Association of Frederick County, 1730 North Market St., Frederick, MD 21701; the American Diabetes Association; or to the Crellin United Brethren in Christ Church.

4-H Club News

Reporter: Sarah Rexrode

The Country Kids 4-H Club held its monthly meeting on May 18 at the Deer Park Community Building. The meeting was called to order by Vice President Derek DeWitt. Bret DeWitt led the pledges. Briana Wagner reported on the cemetery clean-up.

The club camping trip will be held June 13, 14, and 15 at Swallow Falls State Park. Everyone should arrive on Sunday after 1 p.m. A cookout will be held at 5 p.m., with the June meeting to follow at 6 p.m. Everyone is reminded to bring a snack.

Members were reminded of weigh-in on June 18 and 19, and the District Show on June 19.

The club decided to sell Joe Corbi pizzas and cookie dough for the fundraiser. All orders and money are due Sunday, June 13, at the meeting.

The club decided to travel to Sandcastle Water Park for its annual trip.

Named To Loyola Coll. Dean's List

Garrett County resident Marianne Unger has been named to the dean's list for the spring 2004 semester at Loyola College of Maryland in Baltimore. Dean's list recognition is given to students who earn a grade point average of 3.5 or higher while carrying a minimum of 15 credit hours.

Unger, who earned a 3.9 GPA grade point average, also received a Certificate of Merit award from the college's Department of Modern Language and Literacy for excellence in the study of Spanish; an award for service as an athletic/peer tutor; and a commendation from the Baltimore City Health Department Commissioner for her volunteer work with the American Cancer Society and as co-founder and president of the Tobacco Intervention Club.

Unger is pursuing a bachelor of science degree in chemistry with a minor in biology. She is captain of the Step Team, serves as an academic mentor, and as a member of the Evergreen staff she helps freshmen students make the transition to college studies. She also is a member of the Chemistry Club, the Black Student Association, the African Student Union, and the Spectrum and the Diversity reading group.

The 2002 Southern High School graduate is the daughter of Ronald and Barbara Unger, Mtn. Lake Park.

The Arts

PRACTICE, PRACTICE, PRACTICE is what several local young musicians are doing these days as they ready for Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's annual piano recital, slated this year for Sunday, June 27, at the Will O' the Wisp Sitzmark Room. Elizabeth Callis, pictured above as she works on her music, will be among those performing at the event. Others to be included this year are Aaron Callis, Clair Collins, Mike Kozier, Amy Edwards, Robert McEwen, Emily Moorehead, Caitlin Simpson, Kati Slagle, Courtney Strubin, Rachel Skipper, Royce Warnick, and Amanda Yoder. These youngsters study with different teachers in Garrett County and West Virginia. According to Mary Callis, education chairperson for GLAF, this year's recital is to be casual and intimate. "The Will O' the Wisp offers a relaxing atmosphere for the children to showcase their talent," Callis said. For more information about the recital or other GLAF arts education, persons may contact Callis at 301-334-3229.

Vogues To Perform In Terra Alta

Vocal Group Hall of Fame members the Vogues, who went on to chart a number of national hits after forming over 30 years ago in western Pennsylvania, will perform at 7 p.m. Friday, July 2, at the East Preston school gymnasium in Terra Alta, W.Va.

The Vogues have been recognized in a number of polls as one of the best vocal groups in the music industry, according to a spokesperson. The group broke onto the national scene with one of its early hit recordings, "You're The One," which was followed by a series of million-selling records and albums including "Turn Around, Look At Me" and "My Special Angel." The Vogues also had a hit with "Five O'Clock World," which, 30 years after its initial release, was selected as the theme song for the Drew Carey Show.

This performance is sponsored by the Terra Alta Economic Development Corp., which is "committed to bringing quality, professional entertainment to the community," a spokesperson said.

Seating for the Vogues concert is limited, and tickets are $17 in advance, and $20 at the door. Advance tickets are available at the Terra Alta and Oakland locations of the Terra Alta Bank and Gregg's Pharmacy, Alpine Lake, and at the BB&T branch in Kingwood. Ticket orders may also be placed by calling 304-789-2672 or 304-789-2200. Further information is available at the web site www.tawv.info.

FLUTE CLASS MAKES MUSIC AT DRE – The third grade music class at Dennett Road Elementary School entertained their peers last week as they performed Learning Here At Dennett Road on the morning news. The piece of flute music was composed by Dan Taylor, music teacher at the school, and the kids both played and sang it as the rest of the students watched and listened on their individual classroom TVs. Taylor is shown with his back to the camera.

Pianist Gila Goldstein Will Be Next Performer At Penn Alps

Pianist Gila Goldstein returns to the Penn Alps Great Hall in Grantsville at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday, June 12, to perform works by Johann Sebastian Bach, Paul Ben-Heim, and Johannes Brahms. She previously appeared in the 2002 Music at Penn Alps International Piano Festival, a concert series created to benefit the Alta Schrock Memorial Fund.

A native of Israel who now resides in New York City, Goldstein has appeared at Merkin Concert Hall, the 10th London International Jewish Music Festival, the Gardner Museum, the Israeli Embassy, the Musée de Louvre, and the Tel-Aviv Museum. She has been heard on Israeli Radio as well as National Public Radio, WQXR, KUSF, and other radio stations in North America and Europe. Her first CD, Piano Music of Paul Ben-Haim, marks a significant addition to the few commercial recordings of Israeli piano music and to the discography of 20th century piano literature.

Goldstein has been a faculty member of the Choir Academy of Harlem since 1997. She has performed with the Boys Choir of Harlem in more than 15 states and the 1999 Israel Festival. A board member of the American Liszt Society, she is also the founder and president of its New York chapter. She holds a master's degree from the Manhattan School of Music and earned her bachelor's degree from the Rubin Academy of Music at the Tel-Aviv University.

Music at Penn Alps is sponsored by season and corporate sponsors and by the support of individuals. Will O' the Wisp is sponsoring this evening's concert. Season sponsors are Sincell Publishing Co. Inc. and the Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop.

For information on Music at Penn Alps, reservations, ticket prices, and locations for advance ticket sales, persons may contact Penn Alps Restaurant and Craft Shop at 301-895-5985. Tickets will be available at the door. There are no reserved seats. Ticket holders should arrive no later than 7:20 p.m. to guarantee seating. Penn Alps is located east of Grantsville along Old Route 40 between exits 19 and 22 of Interstate 68.

More information is available at the Web site, www.musicatpennalps.org.

Local Musician Performing This Week In Maine

Local musician Jerry McGee traveled to Portland, Maine, this week for a musical performance. He was invited to return to St. Luke's Episcopal Cathedral, where he will present the first Bishop Wolf Memorial Organ Recital on Friday, June 11. He will then play for the Sunday service.

McGee was the organist and choral director at the cathedral for nearly 10 years in the 1980s, and worked closely with the former bishop of Maine, the Rev. Frederick B. Wolf, retired.

He will be playing on the cathedral's historic 1928 E.M. Skinner pipe organ, recently restored at a cost of $800,000. The large stone building, erected in 1868, has just been renovated and acoustically improved, McGee said.

While there, McGee, who is the pipe major of the Garrett College Pipes and Drums, will be piping the Scotia Prince ship in and out of port each evening. The ship ferries passengers between Portland and Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

Locally, McGee is the administrator of the music department at Garrett College, conductor of the Garrett Community Concert Band, and organist at St. John's and St. Matthew's Episcopal churches, in addition to his work with the pipes and drums. He also coordinated the McHenry Highland Festival, held Saturday.

K-9 TEAM VISITS SENIORS – A team from the Hagerstown City Police K-9 Unit recently visited the Grantsville Senior Center. The police department uses canine teams to control crowds, search buildings that have been broken into, track robbery suspects and escapees, participate in drug raids, and respond to various other calls. Canine teams consist of a patrol officer and one dog (usually a German shepherd). The dogs cross train in patrol duties and drug detection. The teams undergo 20 weeks of initial training, followed by 90 hours of in-service training and recertification each year, according to the Hagerstown City Police. The bloodhound and his trainer were part of a presentation given by the Maryland State Police.

cated. Persons would be screened before being allowed into this portion of the facility.

Berkebile noted that articles such as ladies' handbags could be passed through the X-ray and would not have to be physically searched. The wand would be passed over a person to check for handguns or other weapons.

Various Homeland Security grants have been awarded to areas across the nation for domestic preparedness. Garrett County has received several. The county officials noted that the likelihood of terrorists attacking the courthouse was slim, but the security equipment was still necessary and would be useful.

Sanders said there have been incidences pertaining to cases in circuit, master's, and even orphans' courts. Commissioner Ernie Gregg noted that the sheriff has said several times that family court cases often involve more violence than even circuit court ones.

With the purchase of the security equipment, however, two security officers would have to be hired to man the checking station during courthouse hours. Doors leading to the outside in the rotunda area would be emergency exits only, with alarms sounding if someone tried to leave by those routes.

Between $60,000 and $65,000 will be needed annually for the two officers' salaries, noted county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

Berkebile said retired police officers would be good choices for the security positions. They would already have police academy training, be experienced, and would probably enjoy working regular hours after years of shift work, said Berkebile. The major suggested that the positions be contractual, however, rather than county employees. The county would not have to provide the officers with benefits, as they would already have them from their previous jobs.

Another alternative would be to create a special police commission. Under the commission, the security officers would only have authority on the courthouse grounds.

Berkebile stressed that any officers hired would have to be fully trained. If someone did have a handgun in the courthouse, the officers would have to know how to handle the situation and have the authority to deal with it.

The guards, therefore, would have to have hand gun permits and police academy training. Those who had already attended an academy would only need 18 hours of follow-up training each year, he said.

The security station could be moved to various other portions of the courthouse as needed, anywhere a "funnel" could be created to control the flow of people into that area, Berkebile added.

The officials discussed moving ahead with the grant application process as quickly as possible.

"We don't want to delay this too long," said Commissioner Fred Holliday. "It's a given that we have to look at the security of the courthouse."

Beacon Outreach Board Members Attend Conference

Harrison Stewart, Bill Detrick, and Carolyn Detrick, members of the Garrett County Lighthouse Beacon Outreach board, attended one day of the recent "On Our Own of Maryland" summer conference, held in Hagerstown. Also in attendance was Trish Yoder, director of Garrett County Core Services.

Those attending reported that the event was "a great learning experience", and that information gained will help members operate the new consumer walk-in center more efficiently. The conference covered topics such as how to operate such a center, how to deal with the stigma associated with mental illnesses, and how the state mental health care budget is handled.

The local group attended an awards dinner at the conference which honored a number of people, many past consumers.

For more information about the Beacon Outreach, persons may call 301-533-0998 or 301-334-8685.

"Sooner or later we have to do this," said the major about increasing security at the courthouse.

Under the guidelines, $30,000 must be spent on equipment for "intrusion control." The sheriff and Berkebile suggested purchasing an X-ray unit and magnetometer wand. The equipment could be set up in the entrance way to the courthouse rotunda, where the judicial section is lo-

Liller Earns Hoops Scholarship From Mount St. Mary's

Garrett County resident Ashley Liller has been awarded a basketball scholarship by Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg. A standout guard for the 2003-04 Region XX champion Garrett Lakers, and the 2002 High School Area Player of the Year for the Southern High School Rams, Liller received a three-year full scholarship from the Division I school.

"This came along just at the perfect time," Liller said after she accepted the Mount St. Mary's offer. "The coaches are great and I really liked the players. The school has a great tradition and academic reputation, it has a beautiful campus, and I love the atmosphere. This is a great opportunity."

The feeling is mutual, according to Moutaineer head coach Vanessa Blair. "Ashley is a shooting guard who possesses excellent shooting ability and three-point range, and she can shoot off the dribble," Blair commented. "She has a year of JUCO experience that will be much needed for our young team."

Liller's speed and smarts were credited with helping pace Garrett's speedy fast-break offense and pressing defense that amassed an overall 25-6 record, the best in the program's history. The 5-8 guard earned second team Maryland JUCO All-Star honors and was named the Most Valuable Player in the Region XX Tournament. She was also named Garrett's Female Student/Athlete of the Year, and the college's Transfer Student of the Year.

"Playing at Garrett was a great experience, and playing in the National Tournament is something I'll never forget," she stated. "It really helped me improve my game, and I learned to work with a lot of little things that helped me with my quickness. I'm definitely a lot stronger than when I was in high school, and I'm hoping I can go right in and play at Mount St. Mary's."

Garrett coach Steve Willison, who departed from the program shortly after the national tourney because of family considerations, has high hopes for Liller's success at Emmitsburg, both on the court and in the classroom.

"Ashley is a quality young lady who is an excellent student along with being a great player," Willison said. "There's no doubt in my mind that she will do a good job."

Recently retired SHS coach Don Stemple concurred with that assessment of his four-year starter. "Ashley was a very unselfish player for us," the long-time Ram coach remarked. "She was always encouraging her teammates, and was the kind of player who made those around her better. She has the complete package, and created all kinds of problems for opponents because of her versatility."

Liller has an opportunity to make an immediate impact for the Mountaineers, who have lost three seniors to graduation as the team comes off an uncharacteristically poor 9-19 season.

"I hope to show that people from this area can make a difference at the Division I level," said Liller.

She is the daughter of Kevin and Sue Liller of Oakland.

LILLER EARNS SCHOLARSHIP — Ashley Liller, who dominated local girls' basketball at the high school level for years, and did the same for one season at Garrett College, has been awarded a scholarship by Mount St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg. The multi-talented athletic and academic standout was being recruited by several colleges after helping lead GC's Lakers to Maryland JUCO and Region XX titles and a berth in the NJCAA Division II National Tournament in Kansas. The Mountaineers compete in the Northeast Conference of the NCAA's Division I.

New Co. Soccer League Forming

An organizational meeting will be held for a new soccer association/league being formed on Monday, June 21, 8 p.m., at the Garrett College Continuing Education Building, Room 314.

The association being formed will be open to any Garrett County or surrounding area child willing and able to play. The league will utilize existing fields available in the McHenry, Friendsville, and Grantsville areas. Play will be in age groups U6, U8, U10, U12, and U14.

All parents and volunteers are encouraged to attend. For further information, persons may contact Jason Rush at 301-616-8523, Brett Herring at 301-387-4950, Shawn Nicklin at 301-746-7138, or Jerry Herpel at 301-746-6129, or e-mail docjer@deepcreek-pharmacy.com .

Oakland Takes Two Of Three In Pen Mar Opener

The Pen Mar Baseball League season opened this week, and the Oakland Oaks got off to a good start by beating host Parkersburg in two of three contests during a Monday tripleheader. Full individual statistical details were not made available.

Parkersburg took the first game, 7-5, scoring its seven runs on seven hits. The hosts put three runs across the plate in the second inning, but Oakland responded with three runs of its own in the top of the third to knot the score at 3-all. Parkersburg then scored four times in the third to go up by a large 7-3 margin, and a two-run Oakland sixth fell short of catching the victors. The Oak's Matt Miller, who pitched the complete game, was saddled with the loss. Scott Shepherd claimed the win for Parkersburg.

Oakland rebounded to take the second game 3-1, behind a three-hit pitching performance by Bryson Meyers. Parkersburg's Josh Barry matched Meyers by tossing a three-hitter of his own in the losing effort.

The Oaks scored twice in the top of the first to give their hurler all the runs he needed, despite Parkersburg's one-run tally in the bottom half of the stanza. Oakland put an insurance run on the scoreboard in the final inning.

Oaks' pitcher Josh Bosley did even better in his win in the final contest of the tripleheader, as he gave up just one hit in recording a complete-game 7-0 shutout. Oakland scored twice in the first inning, once in each of the succeeding two stanzas, and pounded out three runs in the fourth. The Oaks recorded six hits off losing pitcher Eric Baileys.

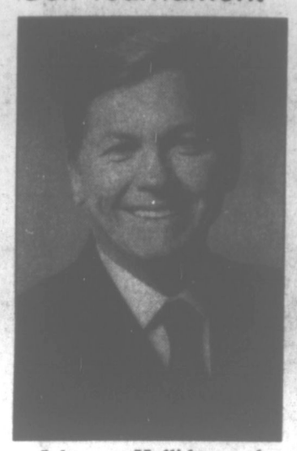
Holliday To Help With Megan Price Golf Tournament



Johnny Holliday, the voice of the University of Maryland's Terrapins and a noted Washington, D.C., broadcaster, will be the special guest as the fifth annual Meghan E. Price Golf Tournament. The tournament is scheduled for Friday, June 18, at the Oakland Golf Club, Oakland, and is an activity of the Meghan E. Price Memorial Trust, which raises scholarship funds for students of Southern Garrett High School and the University of Maryland, College Park. Uno Restaurant at Deep Creek Lake is sponsoring the tournament.

Meghan Price and her grandfather, Carl T. Johnson, were killed in an automobile accident on Dec. 29, 1998. Meghan, a graduate of Southern High School, was a senior student scholar and leader enrolled in the honors program at the University of Maryland. She was president of the Student Government Association and had received several awards for both her academic and leadership accomplishments. She had planned a career in public service upon graduation.

She had worked as a server for Uno's during her summer breaks from college for four years.

"Meghan was a person of vision," explained her father, Sonny Price. "It was with that in mind, we decided to set up the Meghan Price Memorial Trust." The monies raised at the tournament will be split among several local interests which Meghan held dear, including donations for Southern and Northern high school bands, Our Town Theatre and scholarships for students attending the University of Maryland and Southern High School.

"Johnny Holliday is such a great guy," added Price. "He's been helping us with the Meghan E. Price Golf Tournament for the last four years. He's the kind of person who is always there with a helping hand. We are thrilled that he's taking time out of his busy schedule to come to Garrett County and support our efforts."

Known for his charitable work, Holliday's basketball and softball teams have raised in excess of $1.5 million for charity. He's active in a variety of community activities, among them the Special Olympics, Catholic Charities and Operation Smile.

Inducted into the Radio/Television Broadcasters Hall of Fame in October 2003, Holliday has broadcast more than 1,050 Terp football and basketball games, including bowl games and two final four appearances as well as a National championship game in the NCAA basketball tournament. His sports reports are heard mornings coast to coast on the ABC Radio Network.

Holliday's list of credit include ABC's coverage of every winter and summer Olympic Game since 1984, coverage of the Masters, championship boxing, the USFL with Hall of Famer Paul Hornung, and television coverage of the Liberty and Aloha Bowls. He also co-hosts the Ralph Friedgen and Gary Williams Coaches' shows on both radio and television. He penned his autobiography, From Rock to Jock with co-writer Stephen Moore and plans to donate autographed copies as prizes at the tournament.

The tournament is a shamble format with prizes for longest drive and closest to the pin.

Accident Garage is sponsoring Par 3 hole-in-one prizes, including the grand prize of a 2004 Chrysler automobile.

Persons interested in more information or in playing in the tournament may call Pat Warren, Oakland Golf Club pro, at 301-334-3883, or Sonny Price at 301-387-5158.

Tournament information is also available at Arrowhead Market and Garrett 8 Cinemas.

REALTORS DONATE TO RODEO — The Garrett County Board of Realtors made a financial contribution that helped make Saturday's youth fishing rodeo at Herrington Manor State Park a success. A number of individual real estate agents and local businesses also made donations. Debra Beitzel, Community Services chairperson for the GC Board of Realtors, is shown presenting the organization's check to Mike Cooper of the Department of Natural Resources.

Weeklong Youth Wrestling Clinic Slated At NHS

The Northern Garrett Wrestling Clinic is set for Monday through Friday, June 14-18, at Northern High School. The sessions, slated to run from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily, are designed to impart wrestling techniques to third- through twelfth-grade participants of all experience and skill levels.

The guest coach on hand for the clinic will be Troy Letters of Lehigh University, the 2004 NCAA champion wrestler in the 165-pound division. Other clinic coaches are from Rob Waller's All-American Wrestling Camp.

Participants should bring a packed lunch and a drink each day, and a refrigerator will be available. Each participant will receive a T-shirt on the final day of clinic.

For cost and other information, persons may contact NHS varsity wrestling coach Scott Stough at 301-746-8668 (school) or 301-746-5080 (home).

Fishing Contest Winners Named

The winners of the Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, for the week ending June 6 are:

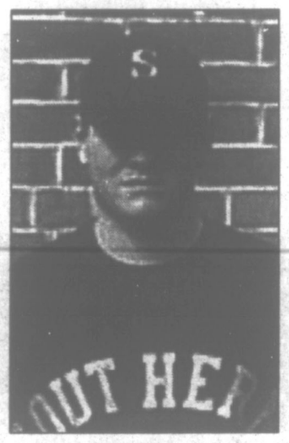
Yellow perch, 8 ozs., 10-1/2 in., caught by Rebecca Duch, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bluegill, 15 ozs., 10 in., caught by Kevin Vose, Wexford, Pa.

Northern pike, 13 lbs. 12 ozs., caught by Bernard Tripp, Pillsboro, Ind.

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, anglers are invited to register their catch at Deep Creek Outfitters at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry. The fishing contest runs from the first weekend in May through the first weekend in October.

Reams Headed For All-Star Game At Camden Yards



Southern High School varsity baseball catcher Billy Reams is on the roster of players slated to take part in the annual Brooks Robinson All-Star Game at Camden Yards this Sunday, June 13. The contest will follow the afternoon major league outing pitting the homefield Baltimore Orioles against the visiting San Francisco Giants.

The spring 2004 Southern graduate earned the nod by turning in an outstanding showing during the recent four-team Maryland State Baseball Classic tourney in Waldorf, according to SHS baseball coach Jim Bosley. Reams's performance included a two-run home run wallop that sailed far beyond the fence in straightaway centerfield, and a two-run single.

Reams paced the Rams this season with a .509 batting average — the fourth-highest ever during the quarter-century of Coach Bosley's tenure — and additional 2004 SHS highs of nine doubles, five home runs, 31 RBI, and 29 runs scored.

He is the fourth Southern player selected for the Camden Yards event, joining 1988 graduate J.R. Bosley, 1995 grad Jeremy Fitzwater, and 2002 grad Bryson Meyers.

Reams is the son of Lenora and Brad Reams of the Swallow Falls area.

Wisp Rolls To Sixth Straight; Orioles Nipped

The Wisp ran its Hot Stove Baseball League winning streak to six yesterday with a 10-0 demolition of Paw Paw, after the Salisbury Orioles were nipped the previous afternoon in a 6-4 loss to Corbin Electric.

Wisp started off slow in its victory, scoring one run in each of the second and third stanzas before gaining momentum with a four-run fourth. The local squad added another four runs in the sixth and final inning.

The Wisp rapped out 12 hits, with Patrick Brady ripping two doubles, Corey Carr swatting a double and a single, and Jeff Smith pelting out a pair of singles.

Starting pitcher Matt Sisler, who whiffed six batters in his three innings of work, picked up the win. He drew able relief support from teammates Brady and Carr. The trio of Wisp hurlers relinquished just five singles overall to Paw Paw.

The Wisp (6-0) hopes to continue cashing in on a perfect season during a road contest with KMK Insurance tomorrow.

Corbin Electric's win over Salisbury was sparked by Corbin pitchers Steve Funkhouser and Issac Corbin, who combined to hold the Orioles to just one hit overall.

Salisbury got off to a rocky start in the first inning when Corbin's executed a triple play in the top half of the stanza, then the Corbin squad went on to score three unanswered runs in the bottom half of the stanza.

Salisbury grabbed the lead by scoring twice in each of the fourth and fifth innings to go up 4-3. The O's lead was short-lived, however, as Corbin pushed three runs across the plate in the bottom half of the fifth to go up 6-4, where the score remained for the rest of the contest.

Corbin Electric (5-1) had 10 hits overall during the 6½-inning contest.

Salisbury (4-2) hosts Ali Ghan tomorrow afternoon.

THE GAME OF SCOTLAND, and Garrett County this past Sunday, was golf as the first St. Andrew's at Wisp Golf Tournament was played in rather Scottish-like weather. The event, a new addition to the annual Highland Festival weekend lineup, drew a number of duffers to McHenry, and shown from the left are Jeff Shiflett and Tony Wookibint, who teamed to take first place low gross, and fellow competitors Pete Versteegen, Stephanie McBride, Dan Daniels, and Ken Carbone. Versteegen and Carbone paired up to garner first place low net, and McBride and Daniels took third place low net. Not pictured are Jim Torrington and Tom Myers, who recorded a second-place low net finish. Some of the prizes donated by Simon Pearce glass company are on the picnic bench in front of the group.

IT'S BEEN A BUG'S LIFE In some pockets of Garrett County over recent days, as shown by the blue-eyed cicada perched on a peach tree in an orchard near New Germany State Park last week. Those buggy eyes mean life is especially good for trout anglers who have taken advantage of the emergence of the 17-year cicadas to get in some once-in-a-lifetime fishing. "Trout fishing is excellent in Garrett County, with cicada patterns working wonders on the North Branch Potomac and Savage rivers," reported Alan Klotz, a fishery biologist with the Western Region of the Department of Natural Resources Fish and Wildlife Service. Fellow DNR fishery biologists Ken Pavol and Don Cosdon, along with Cosdon's wife Suzie, teamed up to float the North Branch during a cicada hatch and landed a huge number of trout, including a quick succession of the three fat-bellied rainbows shown below. The Cosdons also worked the lower Savage with a homemade foam and rubber-legged cicada that "looked more like a bass fly than anything else;" however, a number of brown trout were suitably fooled into attacking it with abandon. Cicada photo courtesy of Elk Ridge Nature Works; trout photo by Don Cosden.

a step in the right direction from his industry's viewpoint, a Clipper spokesperson said the move does not provide full impetus to move that project along.

Clipper, and the wind industry as a whole, is waiting on the renewal of the federal wind energy Production Tax Credit (PTC), which has been in limbo since expiring on Dec. 31, 2003. The PTC is attached to the federal Corporate Tax bill, which passed the U.S. Senate last month and is currently under consideration by the U.S. House of Representatives.

Proponents are seeking a three-year extension of the PTC, which also includes a 30 percent investment credit for small wind turbines.

On Deep Creek Lake

SATURDAY, COLD AND WET. SUNDAY, NOT BAD
by Dan Muss

It's not unheard of in Garrett County for an early June morning to dawn with temperatures in the low 50s with drizzling rain; but it's still not pleasant. That's just the way it was last Saturday morning... and there was no wind. I went down to the club in jeans, heavy wool sweater, and wool socks with a full wet suit on over everything else. I was still cold! The Masters Division (made up of us older and wiser racing sailors who only race one race a day) decided quickly to stay on shore by the fire.

But by race time at noon, there was a little breeze and a few intrepid sailors were out there. The race committee got off two races, but, by the end of the second race, the wind was dying.

A note to race committees and race patrols: I heard that several racing sailboats were becalmed out near Poland Run. These poor souls had to paddle all the way back to the Turkey Neck club. On these really light air days, check to see if some boats need a tow back to their mooring. It's really tough to have to paddle so far when you've just finished sailing two races.

On Sunday the weatherman predicted cool and cloudy in the morning, clearing by noon. But it was not raining and there was a nice NW breeze blowing. Cloudy and cool though means very few motorboats and that is good.

Principle race officer Mo Willey and boat captain, John Frank set a good six-legged course with the windward mark up the lake toward the Glendale Bridge, a jibe mark off Blakeslee Point, and the leeward mark off Zepp's Point on Turkey Neck. Just before the start of the Master's Fleet, the wind veered north, favoring a starboard tack start at the committee boat. We got off to a near perfect start, but we just did not seem to move well. Halfway to the first windward mark we were solidly in last place.

Fearless crew Marilyn Filemyr was off being a grandmother, and Gail Given joined Sue Case and me for her first real experience flying a spinnaker. But even in last place we did manage to jibe the spinnaker around the second mark. Suddenly we saw Elster coming downwind behind us! (I found out later that she had had a "senior moment" and rounded the jibe mark and started back upwind.)

By the penultimate leg we were sailing downwind, in last place again, when, just as the boats ahead were nearing the leeward mark, the wind died. For some reason or other, Ted Rissell in Nemesis had sailed well below the mark so that, as he reached the two-boat-length point of the mark, his transom line encompassed us so he had to give us room as the wind came up behind us. We were able to get our spinnaker down, then slipped around the mark, now in first place, and held on to win.

CRELLIN STUDENTS AND PARENTS "GO WEST," in a manner of speaking. Crellin Elementary School's "Circles" group, a grant-funded student-parent program, recently embarked on its own Lewis and Clark Expedition. Local historian Paul Shogren shared a number of facts about the Corps of Discovery, and helped families build models of balsa wood keelboats and Mandan Indian earth lodges, and their own shelters on the playground to depict conditions faced by the Corps upon reaching the Pacific. Other activities were facilitated by New Germany State Park naturalist Eric Savage, who taught students how to use tracks to identify animals; Garrett College Vista volunteer Kellee Gomola, who led an expedition into nearby wetlands to observe animals in their habitat; and Herrington Manor State Park staffers Mike Cooper and Chad Messerly, who taught the group about our county's indigenous animals, and how to navigate with a compass. That newfound orienteering skill was soon put to use as children and families located cups, plates, and trash bags for use in an outdoor cookout. Pictures of each activity were given to the families to include in their own Corps of Discovery journals, just as Lewis and Clark kept journals illustrated with sketches of flora and fauna. The program was organized by Susan Friend, Karen Gilpin, Carrie Newcomb, Linda Stephens, and Principal Dana McCauley. Pictured navigating on Herrington Manor Lake are Jonathon and Brianna Craig, with their dad Bruce Craig at the oars.

"A COMMUNITY REMEMBERS" – Approximately 300 veterans and guests attended a WW II Memorial dedication ceremony at Oakland's Proctor Kildow Post 0071 on May 29. A sign greeting them read, "Welcome WWII Veterans: A Community Remembers." The participants watched a live broadcast of the memorial dedication ceremony taking place in Washington, D.C. Planning for the local event, however, began several months ago. "Having 188 WW II veterans as members of this post, and knowing that many of them would not be able to attend the affair in D.C., I knew that we must have an affair to be remembered," said 1st vice commander Marvin Guthrie. Letters requesting donations to help with the event were mailed. "The response was overwhelming," said Guthrie. "Money came in from virtually all to whom letters were sent. Others donated without solicitation." A large-screen TV was donated for the occasion by the local Sears, so that the guests could watch the Washington ceremonies. A dinner was prepared and served by the Post's Ladies Auxiliary. Others donated their time and talents to sing or to write poems for the occasion. The veterans were given certificates of appreciation, a pocket knife inscribed with "World War II," and a cap signifying that the wearer was a WW II veteran. Pictured above is the post color guard posting the colors at the beginning of the event. A memorial service concluded the occasion, with "Taps" played by Brett Lambert. In conjunction with the event, the Garrett County commissioners proclaimed May 29 as World War II Veterans Recognition Day in Garrett County. Pictured below, left to right, in the front row are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday. In the back row are VFW Post members Paul Graham, Claude Beckman, and Randall Kahl, and Post 0071 members Tom Bittinger, Jack Rishell, Moses Miller, and Guthrie. Photos courtesy of Marvin Guthrie.

GC FOUNDATION RECEIVES DONATION – The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently donated to the Garrett College Foundation Scholarship at the 2nd Annual "Taste of Spring" Wine & Beer Tasting held at the Deep Creek Brewpub. Foundation member Donna Sites accepted the donation from JWCC scholarship chair Heather Savage. Women over the age of 18 are encouraged to visit the new Junior Woman's Civic Club web site at www.deepcreektimes.com/jwcc for more club information.

soccer fields in Grantsville. It received $10,000 in FY '04, $37,768 in '03, $7,645 in '01, and $50,100 in '00 to construct the regulation-size fields along Fosters Inn Road.

At $73,000, Loch Lynn had requested the most POS money to construct a walking trail, build a Versa-Lok retaining wall along the parking area, and pave the concession stand and parking areas at the ball field. The town, however, received $10,079 for the project.

Last year Loch Lynn received $10,000 to purchase playground equipment for the Loch Lynn Community Center.

Three other towns received their full requests. Mountain Lake Park got $10,000 to provide handicap parking with a walkway to the playground and picnic area at Allegheny Park.

Friendsville was allocated $20,000 to upgrade the electrical system at the community park, and Accident got $3,102 to replace, assemble, and install a new swing set at Town Park East. Planner Bill DeVore, Planning and Zoning, noted that the current swing set is about 45 years old.

The North Glade 4-H Club and the town of Oakland did not receive any funding for FY '05.

The club had requested $7,700 for a new roof, restroom, and kitchen. The county officials noted, however, that the project was not eligible for POS funding as it was not an open-space project.

Oakland had requested $50,000 to purchase the Acorn Building along Liberty Street to use as a recreation center. Commissioner Dave Beard noted that the request was made before the National Guard armory was vacated, and that the town was now interested in acquiring that facility.

"The armory is definitely a better choice for a center," said municipal assistance coordinator Mike Mullan.

The list of approved projects will be submitted to the Maryland Department of Natural Resource's Program Open Space division to be reviewed by the Board of Public Works. The funding requires a 10 percent local match.

Despite the small allocation this year, Nelson said it does not appear that the state intends to phase out Project Open Space. He indicated the program was still quite well received throughout the state.

Youth Invited To Play Hard, Live Clean Blast

The "Play Hard, Live Clean" Beach Blast is slated for June 24 at Deep Creek State Park and is free to all Garrett County youth between the ages of 11 and 20. The play hard, live clean slogan is the theme of a "four seasons" campaign of the Garrett County Health Department to promote positive lifestyles among youth all year long.

The event will be held from 1 to 5 p.m. To take part in the day of activities, youths must return a pre-registration form to the Garrett County Health Department by June 17. The form can be located on page D-5 of today's issue of The Republican, or can be downloaded from the health department's web site at www.garretthealth.org.

Parents are also invited to attend the day's activities and are encouraged to pre-register by June 17.

Among the activities to be offered are kayaking and mountain bike demonstrations by Whitewater Rafting of Albright, W.Va., pontoon boat lake tours by Nature Lake Tours, and music by DJ Jonny Rock and local band White Noise. A performance by Sterlen Barr, rap singer and educator, will also be featured.

Developmental asset activities, beach games, and door prize giveaways will be scheduled throughout the day, organizers said. Swimming at the Deep Creek State Park beach is encouraged, as well as fishing (persons should bring their own equipment and, if age 16 or older, a fishing license). Picnic-style food will be provided.

"Many sponsors are pulling together to make this event happen," said Brenda Frazee, event organizer and prevention specialist at the health department. "Staff from the DNR State Forest and Park Service have been very generous and cooperative, as well as activity providers like Jonny Rock, Whitewater Rafting, and Nature Lake Tours."

Free water bottles will be given to those individuals who present a previously distributed "Play Hard, Live Clean" pledge card, sticker, or key chain when checking in.

"We are really excited to offer this next event in the series of 'Play Hard, Live Clean' events. The goal of each of the events and the campaign as a whole is to promote the idea among our county youth that playing hard doesn't have to be associated with risky behavior," said Nancy Brady, prevention supervisor at the health department.

The "Play Hard, Live Clean" campaign began as an initiative of the Combating Underage Drinking (CUD) Committee. Sponsors have included the Garrett County Health Department, the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention, the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc./ LMB, the Wisp Resort, and the Maryland Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration.

For more information, persons may contact Nancy Brady, Brenda Frazee, or Kendra Todd at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730.

HARRY POTTER AND THE PRISONER OF AZKABAN

Rated PG - Running Time: 2:22 - Released 6/4/04

Is it already time for another Harry Potter movie? Seems like it was just yesterday that I was complaining about the length and complexity of the last episode of J.K. Rowling's epic, records-shattering series of juvenile wizardry. Well, the truth is, the time gap between the second and third movie has been even longer than it was between the first two, and in that span of time a few notable changes have been made. First, as most people know, the legendary stage and screen actor Richard Harris, who capped his illustrious career by playing Headmaster Albus Dumbledore in the first two HP films, passed away shortly after filming part two. For the third installment, he has been replaced by Michael Gambon, who provides an equally suitable—albeit quite distinct—interpretation of the character. The other major change, and it is major, is the director. While Chris Columbus, who directed both Sorcerer's Stone (2001) and Chamber Of Secrets ('02) to great success, stayed on as one of this film's eight co-producers, he has handed over the directing mantle to Mexican-born Alfonso Cuarón, whom some may remember for his Oscar-nominated 2001 film Y Tu Mamá También, or his 1998 interpretation of Dickens's Great Expectations, starring Ethan Hawke and Gwyneth Paltrow.

There will be no doubt to anyone who saw either of the first two Harry Potter films that there is someone new behind the camera here. Cuarón has imbued this film with his own style and dramatically changed the look and feel of the Potter universe, putting more emphasis on mood and tone than on the slavish source-faithfulness that marked Columbus's two episodes, with some important consequences. For one thing, while the book, Harry Potter And The Prisoner Of Azkaban, is longer and more intricate than its two predecessors, the movie is actually shorter than either of the previous films, which I see as a marked improvement. However, in order to achieve this relative brevity, much editing of the original story had to be done. Potter purists will notice—no doubt with considerable annoyance—that much of the narrative details have been excised by screenwriter Steven Kloves, in favor of a faster pace and more action. While practically every image, creature, and conversation in the first two books was faithfully recreated on the screen in Columbus's first two films, Prisoner is leaner, meaner, and darker, proffering a sparse, fast-paced product at the expense of character development and what some may call narrative "accuracy." Whether this is a good thing is, again, dependent on the viewer questioned.

Of course, another quite noticeable difference is that the three leading players—Daniel Radcliffe (who plays Harry), Rupert Grint (Ron), and Emma Watson (Hermione)—are all blossoming into adolescence, ranging in age from 13 to 15 (I think their characters are all supposed to be about 13 in this episode). Their acting continues to improve; while they all appeared energetic but inexperienced in Stone, they have certainly grown into the roles and imbued them with an increasingly textured depth to match their burgeoning physical maturation. They're not going to be nominated for any Oscars yet, but they're certainly more convincing now than way back at the turn of the millennium.

The story of this film is quite complicated and, as I have mentioned, has been radically simplified for the film. After enduring some strange and unsettling experiences on the way to his third year at Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry, Harry is warned about the recent escape of a dangerous killer from Azkaban, the previously inescapable prison for those in the wizarding community who have committed crimes against their ruling body, the Ministry of Magic. The escapee, a Charles Manson-ish wizard named Sirius Black (Gary Oldman), was convicted of killing none other than Harry's famous parents, and is expected, in light of his disappearance, to be coming for Harry. And soon after Harry rejoins his pals Ron and Hermione, they are treated with this year's unsettling news item: evidence has been uncovered that implies Black is hiding somewhere at Hogwarts.

So as Harry, Ron, and Hermione (I think I'll start referring to them collectively as HRH) begin classes, looking anxiously over their shoulders at regular intervals, they meet the other members of the ever-growing cast of characters, which are all played by the same actors as before, including their perennial nemesis, Draco Malfoy (Tom Felton); their gamekeeper pal Rubeus Hagrid (Robbie Coltrane), who has been promoted to professor of the institute's Magical Creatures class; returning professors Minerva McGonagall (Maggie Smith) and the surly Severus Snape (Alan Rickman); and new professors Sybil Trelawney (Emma Thompson), who teaches Divination, and Remus J. Lupin (David Thewlis), engaged this year to teach Defense Against The Dark Arts (a position which seems only to be offered as a one-year contract).

The issues surrounding this story are complex and myriad, but suffice it to say that HRH are presented with another intriguing mystery to solve, involving everything from time travel to magic maps to lycanthropy among the faculty, and encounter a new bevy of strange beasts and entities, such as dementors, boggarts, grims, and hippogryphs. These things are all enchantingly realized on the screen by Cuarón and company, and some are so scary as to be questionable viewing for smaller children, but once again the special effects artists deserve much credit for the film's effectiveness. There is more at play here than simply computer graphics, however; Cuarón's direction is more real, more mature than the previous films, and his brooding tone is complemented by the more subdued performances of the cast. Special note must go to Emma Thompson, whose rendering of Professor Trelawney is hilariously over the top, and the thick glasses and fuzzy hairdo further emphasize her eccentricity.

For my money, the more efficient editing is a step in the right direction for this series, and even if a few details were changed or left out of the story, such is the fate of most movie adaptations. Rowling's story is still enchanting, and this episode has all the wonder of the previous two without the drawback of an unnecessarily protracted running time. ★★★★

Medicare Drug Discount Card Info Available

In light of the Medicare changes that went into effect on June 1, the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is offering information regarding the drug discount card to all Medicare beneficiaries.

As of June 1, all beneficiaries became eligible to obtain a Medicare approved discount drug card. This card enables those persons to purchase many (but not all) of their prescription medicines at a discount. Discounts vary between cards and within a card based on the drug, according to an agency spokesperson.

Medicare has contracted with private companies to participate in the Medicare Approved Discount Drug Program. These organizations have negotiated discounts on a wide variety of drugs. Each Medicare approved card must cover the same classes of drugs, but, within the drug classes, the drugs may vary, both by level of discount negotiated or inclusion as an eligible discounted drug. Each of these companies has negotiated with different pharmacies to be part of their network, the agency spokesperson explained.

Each eligible Medicare beneficiary needs to determine which of the approved cards is right for him or her. Beneficiaries need to check that their medications are eligible for a discount with the card they are considering, and that the pharmacy they typically use is part of the card's network.

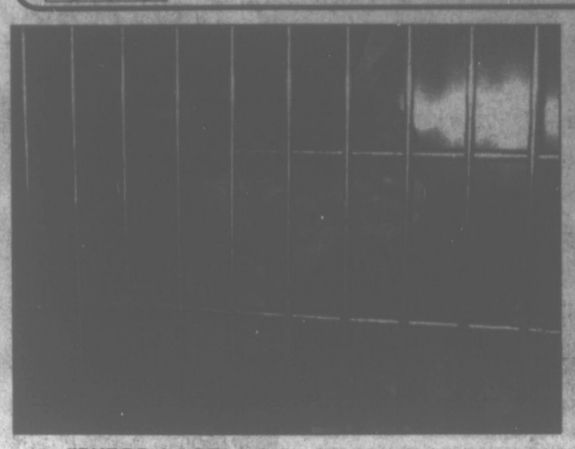
Each beneficiary may have one approved card per year. Open enrollment for 2005 will occur in mid-November through mid-December 2004.

There are a number of different approved Medicare discount cards available to Maryland Medicare beneficiaries. The cost may vary from zero to $30 per year.

The Medicare Approved Discount Card Program ends December 31, 2005.

For more information or to schedule an appointment for an informational consultation, persons may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431, ext. 140, or toll-free at 1-888-877-8403.

Adorable Adoptables



"PURRS A LOT" is how this friendly, longhaired female cat is described. Also looking for a home is this 9-year-old spayed female tortoise shell, who was given up by her owner. Below is a medium sized black Lab mix, who was picked up as a stray. "We don't know much about her except that she wags her tail when you walk up to her," said a Humane Society spokesperson. The young elkhound/shar pei mix dog from last week's adoptables is still looking for a home. "Please note," said the spokesperson, "the number and kinds of animals available at the shelter can change daily; sometimes there are a lot to chose from and other days there are not. If you are interested in a animal please call or come by as soon as possible. This is especially important when the shelter is full (as it is now); that way if an animal is adopted, there is more room for the new animals that come in." For more information persons may call 301-334-3553. Animals are also available on Petfinder.com.

SISLER RECEIVES HISTORY AWARD – Southern High School freshmen Patrick Sisler was chosen as the recipient of the 2003-04 Woodmen of the World United States History Award for his performance in his honors history class. Pictured above, from the left, are Doug Oxford, United States history teacher; Linda Sanders, representing Woodmen of the World; Sisler; and Principal Tom Woods.

FLYING THE GARRETT COUNTY SKIES – Southern High junior Carol James recently experienced the wonder of flight first hand with Principal Tom Woods as her pilot in his Piper Cherokee 140. James won the flight in the "Come Fly Away with Me" contest held earlier in the school year to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Wright Brothers' first flight in Kitty Hawk. "Since it was the first time I had ever been in a plane, I thought it would be scary. But it was a lot of fun. The experience was interesting because I saw different parts of Garrett County," said James. "I'm glad Mr. Woods made the contest because it gave me an opportunity I'll probably never get again."

Nature Connection

THAT CATERPILLAR eating your plants may actually be a beautiful butterfly in disguise. This American lady butterfly will temporarily make its larval host plant a bit unsightly, but both butterfly and wildflower will be beautiful to behold later this summer. Photo courtesy of Elk Ridge NatureWorks.

by Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

Pearly everlasting is one of the earliest plants to appear in your garden, the soft gray-green leaves breaking the soil surface and outshining all the others. Though they don't flower until late summer, butterflies fly around them as if anticipating future gifts. But one day in mid-May your pretty plants don't look so nice. The leaves are curled back and held in place by webbing. You take a closer look and realize that the plant vandals are some type of caterpillar. How dare they ruin your nice wildflowers! They're not only living in them, they're also eating them. You wonder how you can get rid of these pests without using chemicals that might harm the environment. Then suddenly you remember the whole point of your wildflower garden. You planted it as a haven for wildlife – birds, bees, butterflies, and other insects. Maybe before you get rid of these "pests," you should figure out what they are. With field guide in hand you examine the caterpillar on your pearly everlasting for identifying characteristics. Sure enough, it's none other than the larva of the American lady butterfly, Vanessa virginiensis.

When you check the photo of the adult American lady, it all makes sense. Those butterflies you saw earlier this spring weren't looking for nectar as they flew around your pearly everlasting. They were looking for wildflowers on which to lay their eggs, special plants that would provide nourishing food for their developing larvae. The flowers you planted the previous year were like a welcome sign for them. Using chemical cues, they'd found the appropriate native plants that would provide food and shelter for their offspring. What an incredible feat, considering these wildflowers had never grown in your garden before.

Our native plants and insects have co-evolved over millions of years. Though many wildflowers provide nectar for a variety of butterflies and other insects, certain species have developed special relationships. For example, food for monarch caterpillars comes only from milkweeds, Asclepias sp. Larvae of the Baltimore checkerspot butterfly (the Maryland state insect) primarily use turtlehead, Chelone glabra, as their host plant. American lady caterpillars find nourishment from not only pearly everlasting, but also pussytoes, Antennaria sp., and sweet everlasting, Gnaphalium sp. Luckily, feeding caterpillars don't typically kill their larval host plants. These native plants will spring back from the damage to provide beautiful blooms for nectar and pollen feeding insects, as well as the human eye.

There is an ecological nightmare on the horizon, however. Exotic invasive plant species are twisting the intricate workings of nature. Garlic mustard, an herb introduced from Europe in the late 1800s for seasoning, has invaded our fields and forests. This member of the mustard family has become so prevalent that at times it seems to be the only plant flowering in spring. A butterfly called the West Virginia white lays its eggs primarily on toothworts, Dentaria sp., which are also members of the mustard family. Apparently the West Virginia white is unable to differentiate garlic mustard from the native mustards that nourish its young. If it lays its eggs on the exotic garlic mustard, toxins in the plant will kill its larvae when they begin to feed.

Just a few of the other alien plants threatening our regional biodiversity include daylily, purple loosestrife, Japanese knotweed, lesser celandine, bamboo, exotic bush honeysuckles, Japanese barberry, autumn olive, winged burning bush, Japanese spiraea, butterfly bush, Bradford pear, and princess tree. SPONSORS MAKE IT POSSIBLE — Area businesses are always important to celebrations such as Grantsville Days, which has been scheduled for June 25-27. Parade chairman Duane Stein noted that one change has been made to this year's schedule. In order to allow enough time before dark, the Friday night parade will begin at 6:45 rather than 7:15. Sponsors pictured above, front row, left to right, are Kayla and Karie Kamp, who represent Hill Top Fruit Market. In the back row, same order, are Bill Clark of First People's Community Federal Credit Union and Greg Diehl of Diehl's Ford. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

RYAN'S GLADE 4-H CLUB VISITS THE NATION'S CAPITOL – Members of the Ryan's Glade 4-H Club recently traveled to Washington, D.C., for their club trip, staying overnight at the National 4-H Center. They visited many historical sites, including the Washington Monument, White House, Vietnam War Memorial Wall, and the Capitol Building. They also toured the Smithsonian and the National Zoo. Pictured, left to right, are the members who participated in the trip. In the front are Greg Tichnell, Andrew Lucas, Levi and Aaron Lantz, Zachary Pritts, Faith Tichnell, Dale Marple, and Katelyn Gnegy. In the back are Jessica and Andrea Steyer, Gary Pritts, Eric and Nathan Tichnell, Brandon Manko, Nolan Marple, J.B. Gnegy, and Tara Marple.

Washington County received an additional $77,770 to acquire a conservation easement on 34 acres of the Bonnet property in the mid-Maryland Washington Rural Legacy Area. This easement preserves land near Sharpsburg and the Antietam Battlefield, protects forested and agricultural land, and preserves stream buffers on a tributary of the Potomac River, noted the governor's press office.

DNR's Rural Legacy Program is designed to preserve large blocks of contiguous open space that are among Maryland's most valuable because of their multiple agricultural, forest, natural, and cultural resources. To protect these resources, the Rural Legacy Program acts through local governments and private land-trust sponsors to purchase conservation easements from willing property owners.

The board also approved $596,202 in federal transportation and recreation funds to complete the Western Maryland Rail Trail in Washington County. This third and final phase includes constructing two miles of trail and a parking area. The entire project converts the old Western Maryland Railroad track, which runs parallel to the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, into a 22-mile asphalt-paved trail for hikers and bikers.

SWANTON

This Saturday, June 12, there will be a barbecued chicken dinner and yard sale at the Swanton Community Center. The dinner is to benefit Brian Howell, who was critically injured in an automobile accident. It will begin at noon. The cost is $6 for adults and $3 for children.

The yard sale will begin at 8 a.m. Anyone may bring his/her own table to set up. Everyone is welcome.

The North Glade Homemakers will sponsor a Watkins Product sale on June 15 at 6:30 p.m. to benefit the North Glade 4-H. It will be held at their building on the corner of Route 495 and North Glade Road. This is to help put a new roof on their building. Everyone is welcome to attend or may place orders by calling Mary at 301-387-5671 or 301-387-5650.

Annual Conference will be June 10-13. Ray and Carol Sweitzer will be attending from Otterbein U.M. Church, along with Pastor Vickie Minnich. They will be taking buckets of flood-relief supplies to help with flood clean-up.

Otterbein U.M. Church's vacation Bible School will be June 28 through July 2 from 9 a.m. to noon each day. All children are welcome.

Camp Agape will be August 2-6. Registration forms will be available soon.

There will be no choir practice on Wednesday until further notice. However, there is a Bible study and prayer meeting each Wednesday at 7 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

Sunday evening a huge bear visited at the property of Melvin Beckman in North Glade. The bear walked right along the potato patch to the creek, stopping for a drink, and on to the other side where he stood up at a pine tree, reaching up as high as the branches had been cut off. He was over 6 feet tall and probably weighed about 350 pounds.

TOWNS MAKE STRIDE IN TOBACCO CONTROL – With support from the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition, two Garrett County municipalities recently declared all or a portion of their town parks to be tobacco free. The mayor and town council of Friendsville (pictured above) enacted a policy to make the Friendsville Community Park tobacco free, while the mayor and town council of Accident enacted a similar tobacco-free policy at Accident Town Park B (where Little League games are held). "Both towns adopted these policies because the parks are the location for a wide variety of activities for the town's youth," said Kendra Todd, health educator at the Garrett County Health Department. "Studies have shown that exposure to secondhand smoke can have a negative effect on an individual's health." Todd noted the negative impact that occurs when children are exposed to adults in positions of authority (coaches, program leaders, umpires, etc.) who use tobacco products. Each town was awarded a mini-grant from the health department to purchase signs designating the tobacco-free areas. Pictured above, seated, are Friendsville Town Council members Frances Friend (left) and Jane Fox. Standing, from left, are Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, health department prevention specialist Brenda Frazee, and council members Bob Sines, Tom Fike, Harold Griffith, and Herschel Allen. Pictured below are Accident mayor Richard Carlson and health department outreach worker Sharon Custer.

A son, Dustin James, was born May 4 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Matthew J. and Cheryl Moon Werdebaugh, Oakland.

A son, Michael Robert, was born May 15 at LaPlata (Md.) General Hospital to MSgt. Michael and Nancy Wright Ahern, Bryan's Road. Paternal grandparents are Carrie Benson and Charles Ahern, both of Oakland.

A daughter, Zoey Annaliece Hardesty, was born May 30 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to Bushrod Hardesty Jr. and Tiffany Hoye, Oakland.

Singles' Social Group Forming

A singles' social not-for-profit group for the Garrett and Allegany counties area is being formed, and is looking for input and ideas.

The club will hold its first meeting at the end of June.

"If you are single and want to make new friends and have fun, let's get together to plan activities," said a club spokesperson.

Persons interested in joining may call Jim at 301-895-4234 or e-mail him at JAM62@verizon.net, or call Barbara at 301-387-9399 or e-mail her at reeba27@yahoo.com

Residents Urged To Recycle Old Telephone Books

New telephone books are being delivered, and the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling is urging residents to recycle their outdated books.

Telephone books can be recycled for free at the landfill and the six refuse sites throughout Garrett County. Persons should remove and dispose of the front and back covers of the books and recycle them in the newspaper collection containers.

Oakland residents with curbside recycling pick-up may recycle telephone books by placing them in the same clear or light blue bags with the newspapers. The front and back covers must be removed. Oakland curbside recycling is done the first and third Fridays of each month. Persons with questions may call Sunrise Sanitation at 301-334-6212.

"Although the directories only weigh in at 12.8 ounces without the covers, the weight adds up quickly," said a spokesperson. "Recycling the directories is a great way to divert material from the waste stream, thus reducing hauling and disposal costs. The directories are recycled into new telephone book stock, newsprint, and insulation."

Residents are reminded that all recycling at the landfill and the collection sites is free – no sticker is required. Pages R1 and R2 in the back of the new directory provide detailed recycling information.

Local Weather Cooperates For May Bird Count

Good weather prevailed for the 39 participants of the 2004 May Bird Count in Garrett County, with 151 species recorded for the 24-hour count period, one fewer than in 2003. A total of 6,824 individual birds were counted, up slightly from last year's 6,312. Twenty-one regular observers spent a total of 138.75 hours watching birds on foot, from car, or tractor, while traveling a total of 552.5 miles. Eighteen feeder watchers spent 29.75 hours recording birds at their feeders. An additional 4.75 hours were spent after dark, traveling 55.1 miles in search of owls.

The 39 local count participants were: Ken Bauer, David and Judy Bertsch, Ron Boyer, Josephine Cox, Randee Craig, Carolina, Kevin, and Rhiannon Dodge, Courtney Englar, Dylan and Zack Fowler, Barbara and George Gaffney, Donna and Ed Gates, Frances Hoecker, Aaron Holochwost, Sheila Hughes, Glen Johnston, Jean McConnell, Liz McDowell, Chad and Jennifer Messerly, Cheryl and Hannah Newcomb, Jeff and Tina Opel, Bill and Fran Pope, Connie Skipper, Sallie Thayer, David Walbeck, Brad Yoder, Gary Yoder, Barbara and Sam Yoder, and Irene and Samuel Yoder.

In addition to counting birds, participants also observed signs of breeding behavior to assist the third year of the Maryland Atlas Project (MAP), a five-year project of the Maryland Ornithological Society, which hopes to map the status of all breeding birds in the state. A number of very special birds with the potential to breed in the county were reported this year including: pied-billed grebe, black vulture, upland sandpiper, Wilson's snipe, northern sawwhet owl, yellow-bellied sapsucker, sedge wren, Nashville warbler, prothonotary warbler, Henslow's sparrow, and pine siskin.

The top 10 birds (by numbers counted) were: red-winged blackbird, 448; American robin, 392; American goldfinch, 378; blue jay, 262; American crow, 222; common yellowthroat, 221; barn swallow, 205; song sparrow, 195; chipping sparrow, 187; and Canada goose, 169.

The red-winged blackbird also held first place in 2003. The American robin moved up to number two this year, bumping the barn swallow down to number seven. Canada goose dropped from eighth last year to number 10 this year. All of the birds in the top 10 list breed in Garrett County.

Results of the count will be published by the Maryland Ornithological Society in its journal Maryland Birdlife. Maryland's May Count was the inspiration for the North American Migration Count, as well as International Migratory Bird Day, both of which are now observed annually and globally on the second Saturday of May. Next year's May Count date is Saturday, May 14.

NEW OFFICERS INSTALLED BY JWCC – The Junior Woman's Civic Club recently installed new officers for the 2004-05 club year. The June meeting was held at Pine Lodge Steakhouse, where outgoing JWCC president Marta Schroyer was roasted. The Junior Woman's Civic Club has welcomed women of the community since 1955 to join in social fellowship and community service. Persons interested in attending a meeting may contact membership chair Pam Holloway at 301-387-7334 or e-mail for meeting information at jwcc@iceweb.net. Interested women over the age of 18 are also encouraged to visit the new Junior Woman's Civic Club web site at www.deepcreektimes.com/jwcc for more club information. Schroyer was also honored for having perfect attendance. Other outgoing officers recognized were Kathleen Seaman, vice president; Pam Holloway, recording secretary and president; Sherry Gosnell, corresponding secretary; and Angela Flanagan, treasurer. Incoming officers are pictured above. From the left are Kathleen Seaman, president; Pam Holloway, vice president; and Marian VonHagel, corresponding secretary. Not pictured are Angela Flanagan, treasurer; and Kathy Meagher, recording secretary.

Hiking The Appalachian Trail

WHEW! Making yet another rigorous but successful climb to the peak of yet another mountain on the Appalachian Trail is Julie Geisler of McHenry, who is the writer of this article.

Editor's note: The following is another in a series of articles by McHenry resident Julia Geisler as she and her friend walk the entire length of the Appalachian Trail.

BAKED TO A CRISP AND EXHAUSTED

I inhale deeply and steadily through the nose, filling the lungs to the very bottom. I take the first step out of a great many as I begin to climb the 1,800-foot mountain in Catawba, Virginia.

I have never sweat so much or put so much energy into any one goal in my life. Backpacking is not easy, climbing mountains is not easy. The 700 miles I have walked have not been a stroll in the park.

The day is hot, 2 p.m. and 85 degrees, just after a thunderstorm – and the moisture of the forest is evaporating in one big steamy cloud right before my eyes. I live in a constant state of being moist. In just one day the weather can go from pouring rain, then stop so you think the heavens are through soaking the earth, and then rain again, and again, and again.

The buzz of a mosquito and the soft chirps of the first of the cicada remind me that winter has passed into spring, replacing the cold snow with the hot sun, and with the warmth comes green life and bugs. I throw a bandana over my head to block the annoying buzz of the mosquito and continue to put one foot in front of the other on an incline that makes the calves burn, only moments later to be pelted with spider webs strung across the trail from tree to tree. I begin "the scissor walk," a walk that involves slicing the air in front of me in a scissoring motion with my trekking poles to clear away the sticky webs.

The sweat is now beading and then running down my body, and the bandana transforms from a bug net for the head to a body mop for the sweat. I wipe my brow and look to the side at the mountains, estimating that I have come about 1,000 feet up my own mountain. I cannot yet see the blue sky peaking out at the top, indicating that the summit is still a ways to go. My aching body returns to its slumped, bent-over position, head down, feet moving over rocks and sticks. The steep incline of the slope makes it hard to bear the 25 pounds of my pack that is pulling against gravity as I climb. Every step is a strain on the Achilles tendons and neck muscles. I am tiring, but, as on a bicycle, if I stop to rest, then my momentum is lost and it is harder to resume walking, so I trudge onwards.

The cloud of moisture I was shrouded in at the base of the mountain now lies below me; wet sweaty plants are now replaced with dry pines. The hot sun can now easily penetrate the canopy, and I can feel my skin begin to sizzle.

Just as I begin to believe that my energy has been exhausted and I must stop and rest, a cool breeze blows over my clammy skin, shade is given for an instant, and the legs spur on. You may wonder where I find the willpower to keep climbing to the top of this mountain. I am now soaked in sweat, baked to a crisp, and exhausted, but one thing urges me forward more than anything else. This driving force is not the view that awaits my summit, as there is not always a view. It is a bummer, but sometimes the top is wooded. My stomach lets out a massive growl, a rumble louder than the distant thunder of yet another approaching, rain drenching storm. I am driven upwards on this mountain by the force of hunger, and the fact that Michael waits at the top with our lunch beside him – a wonderfully delicious zip-lock bag full of good old raisins, peanuts, and chocolate. The thought of food urges me on until I can finally see the blue bit of sky and I have come upon the summit.

Yes, the muscles have grown stronger, and the spirit has learned new teachings as I have walked; however, as the miles that we have covered increase, so has the appetite by ten-fold. Ten pounds of G.O.R.P. (good old raisins and peanuts) that we received in our mail drop lasted a mere week. The stomach drives the body. The thought of eating an entire large bag of popcorn by myself at the movies in the next town, or the two dozen homemade chocolate chip cookies waiting at the post office, is what makes multiple climbs akin to the one accomplished today possible. Now as I write you this article, sprawled out on the ground at the top of this mountain with no view, my stomach lets out another roar. I am suddenly reminded of the bag of G.O.R.P. that Michael is devouring without me.

Goad Named "Outstanding" Chem Student

Andrew Goad of Southern High School was recently named an "outstanding" chemistry student for 2003-04 by the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society. The honor was presented during the organization's annual buffet dinner and awards ceremony in Cumberland.

Goad's chemistry teacher, Sarah Steyer, was also recognized during the event.

Each year the society honors high school students who have made "significant" academic accomplishments in chemistry during the school term. The event extends to all private and public secondary institutions in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties; Mineral, Hampshire, Grant, Jefferson, Berkeley, and Morgan counties in West Virginia; and Bedford County, Pa.

Each high school in the geographical areas is eligible to nominate a student whom the teachers consider the most outstanding.

Several other students were also presented awards for participation in the local examination for the Chemistry Olympiad and the national Chemistry Olympiad competitions.

The winners of an essay contest sponsored by the Western Maryland Section and a poster contest sponsored by the American Chemical Society were recognized as well.

POA DONATES TO WILDLIFE ENFORCEMENT FUND – The Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association recently contributed $3,000 to the Wildlife Conservation Enforcement Fund. The donation will provide cell phones and accessories, and help pay monthly cell phone bills, for Natural Resources Police officers who patrol the lake. Pictured from the left are POA president Fred Thayer as he presents the donation check to Wildlife Enforcement Fund president John Williams and NRP Cpl. David Marple. Tax deductible donations to the fund can be directed to a project of the donor's choosing, and in the past have purchased such items as patrol vehicle roof racks for transporting kayaks, shotgun security racks, and deer and turkey remote-control decoys. Donations may be sent to WCEF, P.O. Box 302, Oakland, MD 21550. Further information on the WCEF can be obtained from the group's web site at www.mdwildlifeprotection.org, or by calling WCEF president and retired NRP officer John Williams at 301-334-0690. NRP Police may be contacted 24 hours a day at 301-387-1101, 301-777-7771, or 1-800-628-9944.

Eastern Star Meeting Held

She then greeted Richard Csamer, Grand Sentinel of the Grand Chapter of Maryland; Deputy Grand Lecturers Wilda Hile, Charee Reckner, Dottie Csamer, Lois Robertson, Juanita Bosley (Grand Representative to Georgia), Dottie Csamer (Grand Representative to Quebec), and visitors of the Cumberland Chapter, Dora Bishop and Juanita Leese.

Officers, members, and all Masonic brothers were also greeted.

Initiation was held for Doug Gaither, Donna Lee, Daniel Hope, and Arthur Coddington Jr. The altar was draped in memory of Lewis Jones.

June and July birthdays were celebrated, and all received a gift from the Worthy Matron.

A program titled "Smiling" was presented in honor of Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer assigned to Oakland.

The Worthy Matron closed with a reading of "Salutation to Old Glory." Refreshments were served by Rosemary Harvey, Johnna Jones, and Nancy Glotfelty.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, June 15, at 8 p.m. Honored at that meeting will be Cheryl Johnson, Worthy Grand Matron, Robert Scheller, Worthy Grand Patron, and other distinguished guests. All members are invited and encouraged to attend.

Named To Spring ACM Dean's List

Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, released its dean's list for the 2004 spring semester recently, and seven Garrett County students were identified among the 381 recipients of the designation. To be eligible for the college's dean's list, a student must have earned a 3.8 grade point average or higher on a 4.0 scale while carrying five or more semester hours of course work.

The ACM dean's list includes Tammy L. Broadwater, Alan D. Campbell, Lindsay A. Schrock, and Crystal G. Yoder, all of Grantsville; Lori A. White of Mtn. Lake Park; and Aimee N. Parrack and Erika M. Steyer, both of Oakland.

Living History Program Attracts Larger Crowd

The "Living History" program sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, staged May 22 and 23 at the Bittinger 4-H Camp, doubled in size from last fall's program, according to Charlie Ross, chamber president and CEO.

"Nearly 60 folks showed up for the two-day event," he said. It was the 250th commemoration of Colonel George Washington's second expedition on the Nemacolin Trail (later named Braddock's Trail/Road) and his encampment in Garrett County as he marched into the French and Indian War.

"We doubled the ranks of re-enactors, too," Ross added, "with Ghost in the Head (a Huron Native American), and Tenderfoot (a Shawnee) joining our frontier mapmaker, Robert Adamovich, and frontier couple, Jeanne and David Zaladonis.

"This program, built on last year's successful commemoration, will be repeated annually along with a fall event," Ross said.

The third Living History program, slated for 2005, will commemorate the 250th anniversary of the ill-fated Braddock's March, celebrated in conjunction with events around the tri-state area, Ross said.

The program began Saturday morning with an actual encampment, trading post of artifacts, a one-hour movie, and authentic colonial cooking. The trading post was manned by a Maryland provincial soldier of the French and Indian War, a member of Dagworthy's Company of the Maryland Forces; a trader (also scout and spy) on the frontier known to be familiar with the countryside; and a fur trader for the Ohio Company located at Wills Creek.

At noon, spectators joined re-enactors for hard tack and elk stew with onions and whole wheat dumplings, cooked over an open fire.

After lunch, a fur trader used photographs and maps to show the Nemacolin, Washington, Braddock, and Colonial trails as they exist today. This was followed by a presentation by Adamovich, historian, historical columnist, and lecturer, who portrayed a maker of maps of the colonial frontier and, presenting himself in period-correct attire, discussed historical events in the time of the French and Indian War. His Saturday presentation reviewed the events of 1753. The fur trader then led the spectators to the actual Braddock Trail in Savage River State Forest.

On Sunday the trading post reopened. Ghost in the Head and his ally Tenderfoot showed up at the post, along with the Zaladonis frontier couple. Jeanne played the country dulcimer, and the fur trader briefed everyone on Braddock's Trail, after which Adamovich recounted the events of George Washington's 1754 expedition.

The visiting Indians gave an insightful presentation on their dress, makeup, political leanings, and the origins of their Indian names, Ross said.

The program ended with a reminder about the November encampment later this year and the 1755 Braddock's March next year.

Dover, Del.

Out of the smoke and carnage that punctuated Sunday's MBNA 400, Mark Martin emerged with his first victory in two years after going 72 races without one.

Martin, in the No. 6 Ford, beat Tony Stewart, driving the No. 20 Chevrolet, and Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s No. 8 Chevrolet at Dover International Speedway.

"Man, I forgot what it feels like [to win]," Martin, 45, said after his 34th career win. "Everything went our way today. That's a fairy tale story. It was just a gift."

The race itself was hardly a fairy tale, however.

It took nearly five hours to complete the race. Nearly half of it was run under red [39 minutes of stoppage] or yellow flags. A wreck on Lap 347 collected 19 cars.

And just 19 laps from his first Nextel Cup win, Kasey Kahne's No. 9 Dodge ran into oil that Casey Mears' blown engine had just deposited on the concrete track, sending Kahne to a race-ending collision with the wall and three other cars.

Martin avoided the oil and led the final 18 laps on older tires than the runners-up.

Martin was running second to Kahne, both staying on the track when other contenders pitted after the big wreck, when the leader got caught up in Mears' oil before NASCAR threw the 11th caution of the race [they consumed a total of 90 laps, nearly a fourth of the event].

"When the oil was in the corner, I was running low and I didn't get it in it," Martin said. "Kasey's misfortune was our fortune. [Crew chief] Pat [Tryson] just made the right call [to stay out on the next-to-last caution]. If I had gone in for tires, I'd bet you I'd have hit the oil, too. It was meant for us to win today."

It was a tough day in the NASCAR timing and scoring booth. Some competitors ripped NASCAR's inability to quickly sort out the two big issues of the long day.

First: how to properly penalize Ryan Newman when he spun out as the only car on the lead lap, then ran the stop paddle at the end of pit road. (It finally held him for a lap). Second: for not flagging the race before Kahne drove into the oil.

Newman indirectly figured in the 19-car pileup. He smacked the wall on Lap 321, just before he ran the pit-road stop sign and NASCAR needed 24 caution laps to figure things out and reset the field. But it may have set up the big wreck by placing a number of lapped cars ahead of the faster leaders. The wreck occurred two laps after racing finally resumed.

Matt Kenseth, driver of the No. 17 Ford, was livid after his car was eliminated from competition in Kahne's wreck.

"If I was a fan, I'd be mad," Kenseth said. "First, NASCAR spends 40 laps under caution screwing around for who knows what. Then a car blew up half a lap before we got there and they never threw the caution. They just let it go green until we all rode in there and wrecked. On top of that, I sat on the frontstretch for two laps and waited for an ambulance. I'm glad I'm OK because I haven't seen an ambulance yet."

"I think that was the biggest joke of a race as I've ever been involved in," said Jamie McMurray, whose No. 42 Dodge was wiped out in the big one. "It was kind of ridiculous, all the cautions and the oil on the race track. It kind of looked like an ARCA race."

MBNA 400 NOTEBOOK

Kahne sees victory slip out of reach

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Dover, Del.

Right about now, Kasey Kahne is probably wondering what it'll take to finally win a Nextel Cup race.

In a three-week stretch this spring, the rookie driver of the No. 9 Dodge finished second, second and third. He was second again at Texas.

Sunday, he was within 19 miles of his first career victory at Dover International Speedway when he drove right into oil dropped by Casey Mears' blown engine.

KAHNE

Suddenly, the sure victory went slippin' slidin' away.

"I went down into Turn 1 and there was no grip when I got there," Kahne said. "There was oil all over the race track. After I hit the wall, I opened my eyes back up and cars were coming at me, spinning sideways, crashing. I spun and I just had the view of everybody coming at me."

Kahne had taken the lead on Lap 346 of the 400-lap race and appeared to be in control. Then disaster struck and he walked away with a 21st-place finish.

"We had a great car," Kahne said. "It's disappointing. We went from just about winning our first race to nothing."

Team owner Ray Evernham said "there were people screaming about it on the radio" when Mears was losing oil on the track. But NASCAR's caution came too late for Kahne.

'Exciting' day for Earnhardt Jr.

Not every competitor was angry with NASCAR's apparent indecision in the timing and scoring booth. Dale Earnhardt Jr., who spent most of the race a lap down, rallied for third to boost his points lead to 98 over Jimmie Johnson.

"It's unfortunate that we had so many cautions and stuff, but that's what this sport's about," Earnhardt Jr. said. "It's drama, it's exciting. It's exciting in the seat when you're out there dodging guys spinning around and crashing, sparks flying, dust everywhere. It's wild. I had a great seat. It's unfortunate that some people don't have that same opinion."

Things looking up for Mayfield

Jeremy Mayfield was pleased with winning his eighth career pole and a top-10 finish at Dover.

"It's going to be a huge momentum boost for us," Mayfield said.

The No. 19 team has been quietly digging out of a hole.

After finishing second at Atlanta in March, Mayfield was seventh in points. Then four finishes of 21st or worse over the next six races sunk him to 16th. After Dover, Mayfield is 15th in the standings.

A guide to NASCAR terms

"Stop and go"

A penalty, usually assessed for speeding on pit road or for unsafe driving. The car must be brought onto pit road at the appropriate speed and stopped for one full second in the team's pit stall before returning to the track.

Dover bridge offers unique perspective

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Dover, Del.

The best seats in the house at Dover International Speedway are 29 feet above the track, surrounded by carpeting, air conditioning and nine TVs. There are only 50 of them and they are not for sale.

The DuPont Monster Bridge debuted this weekend, the theater-style seats were filled with company bigwigs and a couple of randomly selected fans who were treated to Sunday's race.

Dover has always had a bridge for competitors and media to cross the track because of the absence of a tunnel. The new Monster Bridge is built for entertaining. It has a full-service bar and embroidered seats with holders for cups and race scanners. The 110-foot bridge is located on the back straightaway heading into Turn 3.

"We knew these seats would become one of those things that somebody wouldn't mind outbidding somebody else for, so we won't sell them," track Vice President Jerome Miraglia said. "We're going to keep them for contests and sweepstakes winners."

NASCAR President Mike Helton watched part of Friday's Nextel Cup practice from the bridge and was impressed.

"It's really unique," Helton said. "For Dover, it kind of works. Whether or not it works somewhere else is yet to be seen. It's different."

Caution lights now in NASCAR's control

NASCAR has taken control of the switches for caution lights away from the flagstand. The switches will be located in the control tower during races for the three major divisions.

The decision comes after a mistake in the Craftsman Truck Series race at Lowe's Motor Speedway last month. The caution lights came on momentarily and leader Carl Edwards slowed. The lights, allegedly turned on by the backup flagman, were quickly turned off and there was no caution. Edwards ended up losing the race, and NASCAR later admitted it was wrong. Officials on the flagstand can still wave the caution flag.

"I think we've admitted mistakes in the past," Helton said. "And I think we've tried to correct them when they're correctable. In the case of the truck race in Charlotte, it wasn't correctable, there was nothing we could do and alter the outcome because we had no idea what the last four laps would have been like had we put out the caution correctly.

"It was obvious to us that the mistake was on our side and we wanted Carl and [team owner] Jack [Roush] and the world to understand that, look, Carl didn't make the mistake, we did. And we're sorry for what happened."

BUSCH REPORT

Biffle wins Busch race

Cox News Service

Greg Biffle fought off a dominant David Green to win the rain-delayed MBNA 200 Busch Series race at Dover on Monday.

BIFFLE

The win is Biffle's third of the year. Martin Truex Jr. finished second after leading 75 laps, the most laps led. Green, who led 44 laps, finished third. Bobby Hamilton Jr. finished fourth. Kyle Busch retained the Busch points lead with a fifth-place run.

The MBNA 200 was stopped after 28 of 200 laps Saturday.

RECEIVING A FACE LIFT – The Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center located at 111 Alderson Street in Loch Lynn received a face lift courtesy of the Boy Scouts. The workday was coordinated by Brendan Stephens as part of his Eagle Scout service project. Funds to complete the project came from a "Rock for Life" concert that he organized last fall, and a generous donation of shrubbery and flowers from Green Acres Garden Center. Some of the improvements included installation of a new storm door, a new sign, painting the front porch, planting shrubbery, and general landscaping work. "I cannot believe the difference it has made with the appearance of the center," said Nellie Ashby, director of the center. "I chose to do this for my Eagle Scout project because I wanted to benefit a cause that I believe in," said Stephens. The Mountaintop Crisis Pregnancy Center has two other centers located in Keyser and Kingwood. The Crisis Pregnancy Center's mission is to support young women and families who choose life. Pictured is Don Taylor installing the storm door, Sam Lauver planting shrubs, and Linda Stephens, Evan Savopolous, and Brendan Stephens painting. Other volunteers included Ward Ashby, Phil Lauver, Kimi Stephens, Doug Stephens, and Bob Stephens. For more information about his project, persons may contact Stephens at 301-334-8647 or XHybridMomentsx@hotmail.com

Public Hearing Slated For State Plan On Aging

The Maryland Department of Aging has scheduled a public hearing for western Maryland (Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, and Carroll, counties) to solicit input for the State Plan on Aging for fiscal years 2005 to 2008. The event will be held on Wednesday, June 23, at 1 p.m. in the Frostburg Senior Center, 27 South Water Street, Frostburg.

The Garrett County Community Action Committee's Area Agency on Aging has arranged limited transportation from Oakland and Grantsville for older adults or caregivers who wish to attend the hearing.

Persons may contact the agency at 301-334-9431 or 888-877-8403, ext. 140, by June 18 to reserve a seat. Pick-up will be at 10:30 a.m. in Oakland and at 11:15 in Grantsville.

Lunch will be available for purchase or for a suggested donation of $2 for persons 60 years of age or older. Following the hearing, refreshments will be served.

Interested individuals are welcome to testify in person or to submit comments. "If you have comments about the services that you currently receive or if you would like to suggest services that are not available, but are needed, please let us hear from you," said an agency spokesperson.

Written comments may be mailed to the attention of Violet M. Sloat at the Maryland Department of Aging, 301, West Preston Street, Room 1007, Baltimore, MD 21201. Comments may also be e-mailed to vms@mail.ooa.state.md.us.

Earns Degree In Nursing At WVU

West Virginia University School of Nursing has announced that Kathryn Helbig of Oakland recently graduated with a bachelor of science degree in nursing.

A 1999 graduate of Southern High School, Helbig is the daughter of Eugene and Cathy Helbig. She plans to work as a registered nurse at the George Washington University Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Mutual Self-Help Homeowner Prog. Workshop Slated

In celebration of National Homeownership Month, the Garrett County Community Action Committee (GCCAC) will hold a Mutual Self-Help Homeownership Program workshop on Thursday, June 17, from 6 until 8 p.m. The event will take place in the second-floor Conference Room of the Overlook Judy Center, 41 High View Drive, Oakland.

This informational workshop will focus on the newly built multiple-story homes at the Overlook. Families participating in the program help each other in the construction of their homes.

"A family earning less than $20,000 a year can build, hands on, a beautiful bi-level home worth more than $100,000 near Southern High School with a total house payment, including taxes and insurance, of less than $400," said Deb Swiger, GCCAC homeownership and rehabilitation coordinator.

Maximum annual household income to participate in the Mutual Self-Help Homeownership Program is $30,700 for a household of one; $35,050 for two; $39,450 for three; $43,850 for four; $47,350 for 5; $50,850 for six; $54,350 for seven; and $57,850 for a household of eight.

Loring Young, GCCAC vice president of development, noted that three of the homes at the Overlook were constructed by Southern High School students through the Youth-Build Program. These student-built homes were purchased immediately upon completion, according to GCCAC. A fourth home is scheduled for completion this year.

More information about both of these self-help efforts may be obtained at the workshop or by calling GCCAC at 301-334-9431.

Frasier recited from Tennyson's 'Ulysses'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Kelsey Grammer

Q: In the "Frasier" series finale, Kelsey Grammer quoted lines from a poem by Lord Alfred Tennyson. Could you please provide the title? –Marti in Atlanta.

A: Grammer (as Frasier) recited from the last nine lines of "Ulysses," ending with this passage: "Though much is taken, much abides; and though we are not now that strength which in old days moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are – our equal temper of heroic hearts, made weak by time and fate, but strong in will to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield."

Q: Will "Wild Card" return to Lifetime for a second season? It would be helpful if you ran a list of all canceled shows as well as return dates for those only temporarily off the air. –Valerie Burtson via e-mail.

A: First, Joely Fisher's "Wild Card" is expected back later this summer (date TBA) with some cast changes: Loretta Devine, who won a release from "Boston Public" while Fox held that show in limbo, has joined the cast as Pearl McGuire, Zoe and Dan's (Fisher, Chris Potter) new boss. Rae Dawn Chong (Sophie) and Bronson Picket (Marcos) will not be returning.

Your other request sounds perfectly reasonable, but actually, it's almost impossible. Network programmers want to keep their options wide open during the course of a season, so they rarely confirm which shows are actually dead in the water. "Boston Public," "Miss Match," "Hack" – these shows and more were confirmed as canceled only when the networks announced their new season lineups in May.

Q: Is the young actor who plays Adam on "Joan of Arcadia" the same person who plays the son of Dr. Delgado on Lifetime's "Strong Medicine"? –Judi H., Shippensburg, Pa.

A: Yes, Chris Marquette, 19, has been promoted to a series regular in his role as Adam Rove on "Joan." He also has appeared as Marc Delgado on "Strong Medicine."

Q: On the old Ernie Kovacs TV show, Kovacs created a character who was a Hungarian chef. Can you tell me what his name was? –D.B., Waukesha, Wis.

A: The chef's name was Miklos Molnar, who shared the stage with such other wacky Kovacs characters as German disk jockey Wolfgang von Sauerbraten, tipsy magician Motzah Hepplewhite and poet-lush Percy Dovetonsils.

Q: What is the address for TV Land? –R.G. Wilson, Riviera Beach, Fla.

A: TV Land, 1515 Broadway, New York, NY 10036.

TRIVIA

David Niven ("Around the World in 80 Days") worked as a weapons instructor for Cuban revolutionaries after his discharge from the military.

Sammy Davis Jr. ("Apollo at 70: A Hot Night in Harlem") was first billed at age 3 as Silent Sam, the Dancing Midget.

IN FOCUS

Bitty Schram stars as Sharona, assistant and nursemaid to Tony Shalhoub's Monk, a neurotic but brilliant sleuth in USA Network's "Monk," returning Friday, June 18.

The third season of the critically acclaimed series has Monk traveling to Manhattan to chase a lead that could solve his wife's murder.

In another upcoming episode, Monk infiltrates the Mafia in a bid to get himself reinstated with the San Francisco Police Department.

SATURDAY

Robin Williams and Monica Potter star as medical students in the 1998 true story of "Patch Adams," airing Saturday on ABC.

Area Residents Earn Scholarships

Several area residents were awarded scholarships by Frostburg State University recently. They are Brandon James Hoover, Jeremy C. Rice, Elisa Beck, Ashley Hershman, Diana Mayfield, Jacqueline McKenzie, Brandon Butler, and John Gregory.

Hoover, of Grantsville, received a Maryland Sheriff's Institute Scholarship and an Anna E. and William B. Wallace Award Scholarship. The Northern High School graduate plans to major in political science and sociology at FSU.

He is a member of the freshman honor society Phi Eta Sigma, the political science honor society Pi Sigma Alpha, the sociology honor society Alpha Kappa Delta, and the National Honor Society.

Hoover, who serves as president of the university's College Republicans organization, is also a student member of the Code of Conduct Panel, and a member of the Politics, Law and Society Club. He is a member of Maranatha Assembly of God.

Brandon is the son of Oliver Hoover and Marla Reams.

Rice, of Frostburg, received a Dr. Harold Cordts Scholarship and Aaron Zumpano Scholarship. Also an NHS graduate, Rice intends to major in health and physical education. He is on the FSU dean's list.

Rice is the son of Jeff and Patty Rice.

Beck, of Oakland, received a Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Farano Business Scholarship. A graduate of Southern High School, Beck plans to major in accounting at FSU. She has been on the dean's list every semester, and is a member of the Phi Eta Sigma national freshman honor society, and serves as treasurer of the FSU Accounting Association.

Beck is also a recipient of an Academic Excellence Scholarship, an Academic Excellence/Talent in the Arts Scholarship, the John R. and Phyllis MacVeigh Scholarship, and the Karen and Joseph Wooddell Scholarship.

She is a member of the Pleasant View Baptist Church and the FSU Baptist Student Union. She is the daughter of Mike and Karen Beck.

Hershman, of Mtn. Lake Park, received a Hedrick Business Excellence Scholarship and a Barry J. Barton Vietnam Veteran/Agent Orange Scholarship. The Southern High graduate plans to major in accounting and minor in business administration. She is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman honor society, and has been on the dean's list.

Hershman attends the Corinth United Methodist Church and volunteers for Log-A-Load for Kids. She is the daughter of Craig and Debra Hershman.

Mayfield, a Terra Alta, W.Va., resident who graduated from Southern High School, received a Dr. Norman W. Nightingale Education Endowed Fund Scholarship, and plans to major in elementary/early childhood education. She is on the dean's list.

Diana is the daughter of Butch and Debbie Mayfield.

Fellow SHS graduate McKenzie, of Frostburg, received a Roscoe Bartlett Scholarship, and intends to major in biology. She is a member of the FSU Honors Program, and Tri-Beta, the biology honors society. She plays intramural soccer and has participated in Adopt-A-Highway and the Relay for Life.

Jacqueline is the daughter of Naomi and Rick Liller, and Rick and Wendy McKenzie.

Butler, who resides in Grantsville, received a C. Walter Howe Memorial Scholarship. The Northern High School graduate plans to major in political science and minor in sociology at FSU.

Butler is a staff writer for The Bottom Line, and serves as an off-campus senator and secretary for FSU's Student Government Association. He recently presented a paper titled "The U.S. Supreme Court and Gay Rights: From Bowers to Lawrence" at the West Virginia political science conference. He is a member of the FSU President's Student Advisory Committee and is a Judicial Board member. He is a member of the College Republicans, the Politics, Law and Society Club, and the Maryland Student Legislature. He is also a member of the Pi Sigma Alpha national honor society, the sociology national honor society and Phi Eta Sigma national freshman honor society. He is in the FSU Honors Program, and has been named to the National Dean's List.

Brandon is the son of Randy and Kim Butler.

Gregory, of Grantsville, received a Walter Brock Endowed Scholarship.

A graduate of Oak Dale Christian School, Gregory plans to study environmental analysis and planning, and biology at FSU. He is a member of the geography and mathematics national honor societies, and is on the National Dean's List. He was also a member of the team that placed third in the 2004 Orienteering Collegiate Championship.

Gregory belongs to Intervarsity Christian Fellowship and the Church of the Redeemer in Grantsville. He is the son of Michael and Sandra Gregory.

The FSU scholarship program is administered by the university's Financial Aid Office, and funding is provided through the FSU Foundation.

Do you sometimes feel like you are older than you are? You shouldn't be surprised. We go to work...come home and work...go to bed...then back to work again. Maybe you don't remember the last time you actually "played". Recreation is important whether we are children or adults. Some studies on human behavior reveal that even children do not play as much as in the past. The word "recreation" speaks for itself. We need to create ourselves again each day for optimum performance.

The playwright, Norman Cousins, gave this advice..."Realize that each human being has a built-in capacity for recuperation and repair. Nurture the regenerative and restorative forces within you."

We need to rest the mind, body and spirit from the weight of daily responsibility. An essential element for renewal is daily trust in God's will and weekly worship. In Matthew 11:28, our Lord says..."Come to me, all you who are weak and heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Won't you re-create yourself this Sabbath as you worship at your local church or synagogue?

Patch the Wall

For many years, the church that we attend had a small leak in the slate roof; and this would allow water to run down inside one of the walls and cause plaster in one particular area to discolor and break away. And although there were numerous attempts to repair the leak and plaster over the damaged area, the leak would reappear and the discoloration and damaged plaster would return within a few months after each failed attempt. Every time I went to church and saw the damaged wall, I wondered, do we discolor and destroy our soul like this wall when we sin? When we show repentance, and ask God's forgiveness for our sinfulness, we make amends with our Creator and our soul is repaired again. However, usually within a short period of time, the discoloration and breaking down of our soul begins, because although we may repent, we do not always make a strong enough effort to further refrain from our transgressions. Our pastor, being a tenacious man, finally saw to it that the roof was repaired properly, and the wall has remained clean now for nearly a year. Similarly, we should be just as tenacious about refraining from sin that is harmful to our soul.

He restores my soul. He leads me in paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Primrose Oil Reduces Arthritis Pain

Evening primrose oil is an herbal supplement with a variety of uses. It has been shown to be as effective as some prescription drugs in relieving breast pain in women. When taken by mouth in combination with fish oils and calcium, evening primrose oil seems to decrease bone turnover and increase the density of the spinal and femoral bones in elderly people with osteoporosis. After six months of steady oral use, some research has shown that evening primrose oil can significantly reduce the symptoms and pain associated with rheumatoid arthritis.

Obtained from the seed of the plant, evening primrose oil's main active ingredients consists of an anti-inflamatory compound called gammalinolenic acid and vitamin E. Although there is some evidence that this oil may lower levels of fats or cholesterol in the blood, thin the blood, or prevent pregnancy-related complications, more studies are needed.

Cat on the Run

Q. Whenever I come home from work, I have to be careful opening the front door because my cat, Jeffrey, tries to run past me outside. I don't want him outdoors at all. A busy street runs in front of my apartment, and there are stray dogs in the neighborhood. He could bring back fleas and ticks, too. How can I stop him from trying to run outside? — John H., Dallas

A. Some cats are bound and determined to get outside, especially if they've spent time there before. A few years ago, I took in a cat that had been abandoned by its owner in the apartment complex where I lived. The cat was a sweetheart, but he had been outdoors so much that staying inside was almost torture for him. After a few weeks of tug of war, we finally compromised: He went outside only if I supervised him, with a collar and I.D. tag. I made sure he had all his shots and was treated regularly for fleas and ticks. The downside was more frequent cleaning to pick up dirt tracked in and to prevent fleas from taking hold in the apartment.

If letting Jeffrey outside isn't feasible (in many cities there are few safe areas for cats to roam), make the experience of darting through the door a mildly unpleasant one. Hiss at him as he tries to get by you. If that doesn't slow him down, carry a spray bottle filled with water home from the office, and give him a little squirt when he makes his break for freedom. This should be enough to make him pause before trying to get outside in the future. If not, hold your umbrella or briefcase in front of your ankles as you sidle in through the barely opened door, and hope for the best.

Strange BUT TRUE

• Warning to golfers: If you're prone to rage on the golf course, be careful. In Gloversville, N.Y., 16-year-old Jeremy T. Brenno made a bad shot at the Kingsboro Golf Club. He was so upset by his poor performance that he smashed his No. 3 club across a bench. Unfortunately, the broken shaft of the club twisted back and pierced his pulmonary vein. He bled to death before appropriate medical attention could arrive.

Costume Jewelry

Q. I have a small collection of rhinestone costume jewelry. I have often wondered what some of the pieces might be worth. My brother claims that since the pieces are not made of gold or precious stones they are probably worthless. What do you think? — Karen, Tucson, Ariz.

A. Costume jewelry that glitters may not be gold or diamonds, but some of it could still be worth a king's ransom. The glitz and glamour of rhinestone jewelry has attracted the attention of collectors worldwide. Most costume jewelry was affordable and readily accessible, but that didn't prevent craftsmen from designing pieces that were both elegant and sophisticated.

Before we explore values in the marketplace, a brief history lesson is in order. Rhinestone glass had its beginning in the 13th and 14th centuries in Bohemia, a part of the Czech Republic. Lead compounds were used to produce clarity and brilliance of the glass.

During the early 1900s, rhinestone jewelry became extremely popular in America, peaking during the 1930s and '40s. Collectors are especially attracted to pieces made by top designers such as Coco Chanel, Hattie Carnegie and Adele Simpson.

There are two guidebooks I especially like. Rhinestone Jewelry: A Price and Identification Guide by Leigh Leshner (Krause Publications, $24.99) features more than 500 full-color photographs and is written by a dealer who has monitored the marketplace for more than a decade. In addition to identifying costume jewelry, the author includes helpful tips about the cleaning and care of rhinestones and how to start a collection.

The sixth edition of Old Jewelry — 1840-1950: Identification and Price Guide by C. Jeanenne Bell (Krause Publications, $27.99) is more comprehensive. It explains how to determine the age of jewelry and where to find the various maker's marks so that you can date signed pieces.

Community Action Holds Banquet For Volunteers

Garrett County Community Action Committee recently held its 11th annual volunteer banquet at the Pleasant Valley Community Building with 158 persons attending. The banquet was dedicated to the memory of Ethel Cassell, who had been employed as a senior aide for 13 years prior to her death on May 31, 2003. Duane Yoder, president, asked the group to take a minute to remember Ethel. "Ethel was a unique individual and always took people's needs to heart," said Yoder.

Guest speaker for the event was Julianna Albowicz, assistant to Senator Mikulski. Albowicz has been a resident of Washington County for the past 33 years and was hired by the senator in December 2003. Prior to that she owned and operated her own business in Clear Spring.

Ben Bernard, C & E Services AmeriCorps coordinator, had recently met Albowicz at an AmeriCorps "think tank." He said he was so impressed with her enthusiasm for volunteerism that he felt her presence would be an inspiration to the volunteers.

Albowicz said Sen. Mikulski works at the grass roots level to support volunteerism. She was successful in having funding restored for the Western Maryland A Star! AmeriCorps program at Frostburg University. Albowicz was presented a fresh flower arrangement donated by Advantage Florist.

Yoder gave the welcome and introduced the guests, who included Albowicz, Del. George Edwards; Tim Magrath, representative of Sen. Sarbanes; Lt. Randy Resh; Commissioners Fred Holliday and Dave Beard; Mayor Asa McCain; CAC board member; and William "Bill" Roszell, Community Action Volunteer of the Year.

Mary Beckman, director, of child care, gave the invocation before the dinner. Yoder and John Hill, transportation director recognized Roszell as the Volunteer of the Year with a token of appreciation for his dedication to the Wheels to Work Program.

Yoder presented certificates of recognition to the members of the CAC board of directors, while Lynda Weeks, Area Agency on Aging office manager, presented certificates of recognition to AAA Tax Volunteers.

Sandy Park, food resources coordinator, recognized her volunteers who assist with the food programs.

Linda Green, director of C & E services, recognized the Partners After School @ Grantsville and Loch Lynn advisory committee members.

Karen Wood, coordinator, recognized FSU's Allen Hall Stars for their dedication to the Partners After School Program @ Grantsville by tutoring and mentoring students. Beckman recognized those volunteers who assist with all aspects of her program.

Each program recognized a volunteer who went "above and beyond the call of duty." The exceptional volunteer for Area Agency on Aging was Misty Parks. Misty has volunteered with the preparation of the meals that are delivered to homebound elderly and assists with meal preparation and cleanup. A spokesperson stated, "Misty is a delight to be around. She has a pleasant personality and treats the participants with respect and dignity." Misty has volunteered an average of 1,125 hours annually to the agency.

Betty Lou Otto was recognized as the exceptional volunteer for the Garrett County Food Resources Program. Betty not only volunteers for the agency but is very active in her church. A spokesperson stated, "Betty's bubbly, friendly, outgoing personality has been a tremendous asset to the brown bag program." She assists 60 households each month with the group that she coordinates.

Wanda Broadwater was recognized as the exceptional volunteer for the Partners After School Program @ Grantsville. Wanda spent over 100 hours in producing and choreographing the Christmas musical "Christmas in the Country." Wanda volunteers as a chaperone on field trips and assists with various other activities held at the program. A spokesperson for the program stated, "Wanda is a treasured asset and is appreciated by the program."

Loraine Savage was recognized as the exceptional volunteer for the Partners After School Program @ Loch Lynn. A spokesman for the program stated, "Loraine is a person that the students can look up to for advice and moral support and is always willing to assist when and where she is needed."

Sharon Jenkins and Pebbles Perez were recognized as the exceptional volunteers for the Head Start Program. A spokesman for the program stated, "Ms. Jenkins has been invaluable to us in the past two years. She has volunteered over 200 hours this year alone. She truly stands for what a great volunteer should be."

Perez was recognized for her many volunteer efforts. A spokesman for the program stated, "Having Pebbles in the class room is like having an extra teacher. She is actively involved with many aspects of the program, including assisting with the fundraising committee and serving as treasurer of the parent group." She became interested in child care while attending high school, where she took the 90-hour child care course.

Deane Foy was recognized by the housing department as its exceptional volunteer. Foy is actively involved in the First Time Home Buyers Program. A spokesman for the program stated, "Deane is very dedicated not only to the program but also those families that are enrolled in the program that will enable them to own their own home for the first time. It is people like her along with First United Bank & Trust that makes this program so successful."

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF 2004

SOUTHERN GARRETT HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 2004

JUST AS THEY LEARNED IN KINDERGARTEN, these Northern High School graduates formed a line as they walked along the track for the last time as students. Many are all smiles as they made this walk after 13 years of work in the classroom. Some look forward to more time in a classroom and many will head to the workforce or into the military.

NORTHERN GARRETT HIGH SCHOOL CLASS OF 2004

Grads Total 278 In Sunday Ceremonies

The rain held off and the skies brightened a bit on Sunday for the commencement exercises at Northern and Southern high schools, where a total of 278 graduates received diplomas.

Welcoming remarks were made at Northern High by Principal Gary Reichenbecher, and at Southern High by Erin Oxford, senior class president. The passing of the "mantle of responsibility" from the senior class president to the junior class president was performed at each school. Various guests, including Garrett County Board of Education members and Garrett County commissioners, were also in attendance.

Pianist Michelle Harman and vocalist Holly Hare performed the music at Northern's ceremony. The Broadford Quartet of Carl Fike, Jeff Fike, Dave Martin, and Tim Miller in addition to the Southern High School band led the music at Southern's ceremony.

At Southern High, Adam Sincell and Natalie Domenick were awarded the Danforth Award, and at Northern Roy Bittinger, a World War II veteran, received an honorary degree.

Each Northern graduate who received an honors diploma wore a gold cord, and those who were members of the National Honor Society wore white stoles.

An asterisk before the names of the Southern High graduates indicates the top 5% of the class. Members of the National Honor Society wore a blue stole, honor students wore purple honor cords, and merit students wore green honor cords.

Scholarship awards were recognized, the seniors were introduced, and diplomas were presented – 116 at Northern and 162 at Southern. The following is the list of graduates from both high schools.

Annie Winter, Yesha Patel Take Top Honors At NHS

VALEDICTORIAN

SALUTATORIAN

In the class of 2004 at Northern High School, two students received special recognition for having the top two highest grade point averages in the class at this past weekend's ceremony. Annie Winter was named valedictorian and Yesha Patel was honored as salutatorian.

Annie Margaretta Winter is the daughter of Christopher and Else Winter, Accident, and the unofficial goddaughter of Dave and Sharon Rounds, Grantsville.

Born in Kingston, N.Y., she moved to the area in 1994 with her six older brothers and younger sister. Throughout her high school career, she has actively participated in many activities. She served as the student member on the county Board of Education as well as a student representative on the Advisory Committee on Education.

She has served as president of the Best Buddies program. She was editor of the school newspaper during her sophomore year, and this year has participated in the production of the school yearbook. She has chaired and volunteered for the bloodmobile for four years.

She has served as the public relations coordinator for Student Council for the past three years and was a class representative her freshman year. Also, she has served as class treasurer since her freshman year.

Annie will spend the next year abroad in Dorsten, Germany, through the Rotary International Youth Exchange Program. In the fall of 2005, she will begin attending the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. She plans to enroll in the pre-med program while studying German language and literature.

She said she hopes to take advantage of the University's study abroad program in her later years. After receiving her four-year degree and before pursuing her Ph.D., she said she would like to go abroad yet once more, this time through the Peace Corps. After receiving her Ph.D., she plans to either continue her education or work in a different country.

Yesha Patel is the daughter of Hemant and Kalpana Patel.

She was born in India and resided there for six years until moving to the United States. Grantsville became her home when she entered the sixth grade.

Her goal has always been to become a lawyer, and she said she has acquired many skills in order to fulfill her goal by participating in ex-

Domenick, Pagenhardt Head Southern's Graduation List

NATALIE DOMENICK
VALEDICTORIAN

SALUTATORIAN

The two students in the graduating class of 2004 at Southern High School with the highest and second highest grade point averages were honored with special recognition at the recent graduation ceremonies. Natalie Domenick was honored as valedictorian, and Justine Pagenhardt, salutatorian.

Natalie Domenick is the daughter of Dr. Mark and Teresa Domenick, Mtn. Lake Park. During her career at Southern, she has been active in numerous academic and athletic activities and received many awards and honors while providing hours of service to the community.

Academically, she was chosen as a recipient of the Danforth Award, the Excellence in Journalism Award, the Joan Lambert German Award, the Principal's Leadership Award, and Oakland Rotary Club Student of the Year recognition. She was also a finalist for the Maryland Distinguished Scholar, and received the AP Physics Hall of Fame honor, the President's Award for Educational Excellence, and the Governor's Merit Certificate. She was also named the National Merit Commended Scholar.

Other academic achievements were the Woodmen of the World American History Award, the Chemistry Student of the Year, 1200 Club membership, and the Discover Card Tribute Award.

Outside the classroom, she was a captain of the track team and the cross country teams and was an all-state runner in both. She was named the Autumn Glory Princess and is an alumna of the National Youth Leadership Forum. Natalie has also had several poems published in the local publication Ginseng.

In addition to those accomplishments, she was the president of the National Honor Society, Student Council representative, editor of The Acorn, and member of the Peer Counseling group, the Holy Fire Drama Team, and ROCK youth group at Loch Lynn Church of God.

Also in the community, Natalie participated in a 30-hour famine and the Touched by Love project, and volunteers with her church's vacation Bible school, is a tour guide for Mtn. Lake Park, and helps tutor.

She will attend Grove City College on the Trustee Academic Scholarship, and is undecided on her major.

Justine Pagenhardt is the daughter of Monty and Nancy Pagenhardt, Oakland. During her high school years, she has been honored on the court and in the classroom with various honors and awards.

Academically, Justine received the Robert C. Byrd Scholarship, the Best Buy Children's Foundation Scholarship, the President's Award for Educational Excellence, the Merit Scholastic Award, the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Scholarship, and the Army Reserve National Scholar/Athlete Award.

She was also named to the distinguished honor roll and received the Minds in Motion Award and honorable mention in the Maryland Distinguished Scholar Program. In addition, she was named Math Student of the Month for Pre-Calculus, Computer Education Student of the Month for computer Applications, Science Student of the Month for Chemistry II, 1200 SAT Club Member, and Chemistry Student of the Year.

For her athletics, Justine was named the Most Valuable Player in girls' varsity basketball his year. She was also named the Cumberland Times-News Student Athlete of the Month and named to the first team WMIL and second team all area basketball.

Justine was also a participant on the track and field team and the tennis team. She was also a member of the yearbook staff and the National Honors Society.

She served her community through the Rotary Christmas project and as a volunteer for Habitat for Humanity. She also ran in the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club Autumn Glory 5K, and was a volunteer for the Oakland Service Club basketball league. She is a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

Justine will attend Marietta College on the Trustees' Scholarship. She will major in biology and play on the varsity women's' basketball team.

IT WAS A SEA OF HATS in the middle of the Southern High School athletic field Sunday afternoon, where 162 members of the SHS Class of 2004 were the guests of honor. The graduates, along with many relatives and friends, heard speeches by principal Tom Woods, class president Erin Oxford, salutatorian Justine Pagenhardt, and valedictorian Natalie Domenick. The Danforth "I Dare You" Award was presented by William Grant, representing the SHS Alumni Association, to Ms. Domenick and Adam Sincell. Music was provided by the Southern High School band and a trio of SHS teachers: Lowell Leitzel, Debra Friend, and Kim Sweitzer. The national anthem was sung by the Broadford Quartet, which consists of Carl and Jeff Fike, Dave Martin, and Tim Miller. Platform dignitaries included Delegate George Edwards, Garrett County Commissioners David Beard, Ernie Gregg, and Fred Holliday, plus a number of county education administrative staff members. It was the school's 52nd annual commencement

SHS Seniors Awarded For Accomplishments

The SHS seniors who plan to continue their educational careers this fall were awarded a total of $660,847 in scholarships.

Not pictured are the recipients of the Minds in Motion awards, A-B honor roll, distinguished honor roll, attendance awards, and service learning awards.

Photos are by John McEwen. He was assisted by SHS juniors Gregory Beckman, Becky Shipe, Jadyn Swerbinsky, Shar Hollingsworth, and Erin Rhodes.

SHS Valedictorian Address

"You, the graduates of Southern High School, have earned success. You have earned the right to dream." – Natalie Domenick, SHS Valedictorian.

Hello and Good evening. I know that this is a bit unusual, but I wanted to make my valedictory unique so I decided to have a raffle. That is why you drew a ticket earlier. So all graduates would you please open your tickets as I read the winning number. The winning number is...385712095. If you have that ticket would you simply raise your hand?

Yes, that is right; you are all raising your hands because you all hold the winning number, not because I wanted to play a cruel joke, but because you all truly do hold a winning ticket today and it's not by chance. When you all cross that stage and receive your diplomas, you will all hold equally a winning ticket to success.

Time has proven that a diploma from Southern High School is a one-way ticket to success, but there's a catch: YOU have to cash in your ticket. To not do so would be like winning the lottery and getting so excited that you frame your ticket and hang it on your front door. That would be utterly ridiculous. Instead, you immediately take your ticket and run and claim what you have earned. You, the graduates of Southern High School, have earned success. You have earned the right to dream.

Some of us will cash in our tickets to become lawyers, some doctors, some shoestore owners, and some mailmen. Someday you may see your classmate giving the weather on TV, or they may build your house, or put braces on your child, or fix your first minivan. Some of us, though, are contemplating just putting away our ticket to success in a safe place, never really cashing it in. There was once a little eagle that did that.

Once there was an Indian brave who found an eagle's egg and put it into the nest of a prairie chicken. The eaglet hatched with the brood of chicks and grew up with them. All his life the eagle thought he was a prairie chicken, so he did what the prairie chickens did. He scratched in the dirt for seeds and insects to eat. He clucked and cackled. And he flew in a brief thrashing of wings and flurry of feathers no more than a few feet off the ground. After all, that's how prairie chickens were supposed to fly.

One day, he saw a magnificent bird far above him in the cloudless sky. Hanging with graceful majesty on the powerful wind currents, it soared with scarcely a beat of its strong golden wings.

"What a beautiful bird" the eagle exclaimed to a prairie chicken who was his neighbor. "What is it?"

"That's an eagle – the chief of the birds," the neighbor clucked. "But don't give it a second thought. You could never be like him."

So the eagle never gave it another thought. And he lived and died thinking he was a prairie chicken.

You, the graduates of Southern High School, were not created to scratch in the dirt; you were created to soar. The knowledge you've acquired from completing high school will take you far, but the places you'll go when you couple that knowledge with the wisdom you've gained from the mistakes you've made, the peers you've watched, and the mentors you've met, while shutting out the voice of doubt, are absolutely limitless. Against all odds, you will soar.

Sixty years ago today, June 6, 1944, General Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered the invasion of the beaches of Normandy called D-Day. Now, I want to send out the orders for the class of 2004 to invade their future with the same inspiring words General Eisenhower used 60 years ago.

"Your task will not be an easy one, but I have full confidence in your courage, devotion to duty, and skill in battle. We will accept nothing less than full victory. Good luck, and let us beseech the blessings of Almighty God upon this great and noble undertaking." Will you pray with me?

[Prayer]

Congratulations and God Bless. Thank You.

SHS Salutatorian Address

"We should always hold on to the people we once were, before we got caught up in the adventures of adulthood. – Justine Pagenhardt, SHS Salutatorian.

Class of 2004, I feel honored to be here today to present a final farewell to this amazingly diverse group. Today marks the conclusion of our chaotic young lives. After today, we will pass through these doors, never to return as students of Southern Garrett High School ever again. In some ways, this may feel like a giant weight has been lifted. We have all worked diligently in our own individual ways to end up here at this remarkable moment. Though we may not have gotten to know every face, each and every one of us has shared a unique experience. Whether we want to admit it or not, life at Southern has affected each of us in a profound way. There is a great deal of memories which will remain within these walls forever. Together we have experienced state championships, wild athletic events, and school dances while building friendships that will never be forgotten. Even though these memories are far from perfect, they have sculpted who we are. We must never fail to be proud of who we have become because of this place. Whether you have loved high school, or loved to hate high school, it will forever remain a part of our adolescence.

When we are old and gray, we should be able to look back on moments like this and be grateful that we had this experience. We should always hold on to the people we once were, before we got caught up in the adventures of adulthood. We have often taken for granted our everyday lives which have revolved around this school for the last four years. We have always had this school to fall back on, when we had nowhere else to turn. Though we may not even see it now, there are many things to miss. Favorite teachers, field trips, first loves, free periods, pep assemblies, cafeteria food, and agenda books. But most importantly we will miss the relationships that have prevailed through it all. Through all the confusing times and the exhilarating ups and downs, we have always had each other.

At this point in our lives, we have so much more to think about. Our minds are focusing primarily on the obligations of the future. Now, more than ever, we must take a sincere look back, and realize how blessed we are to have what we have. We should be thankful for who we are, and thankful for who our friends and family are. A person is not a person without her friends or family. I want to especially thank my Dad who is my best friend, my Mom who is always there for me, and my two sisters. Additionally, I want to thank my grandmother, and all of my aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends. I also want to take a moment to recognize all the teachers and administrators of the Garrett County Board of Education, but most importantly I want to express my appreciation for three special people who have shaped my life immensely. Mrs. Lambert, Mr. Mayfield, and Coach Stemple, thank you for all that you have done for me and the entire Southern family. Your dedication goes on unmatched, and you will all be greatly missed next year.

My fellow classmates, we owe ourselves the congratulations for succeeding in high school. Our eyes are now set on the future, but never forget our days at Southern. Class of 2004, Congratulations and Good Luck!

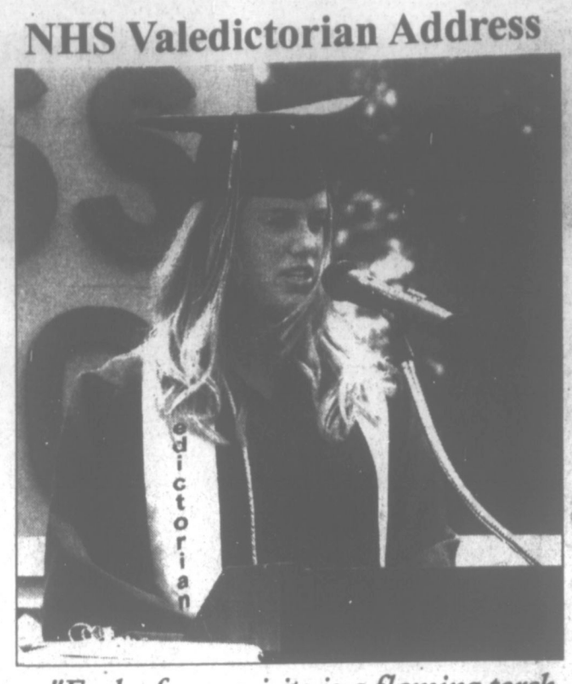
Yesha was the president of National Honor Society, vice president of her class, and parliamentarian of Student Council. She also participated in Mock Trial, volleyball, and Model United Nations.

She said her greatest accomplishments are science fair related and receiving the honor of becoming the salutatorian of the class of 2004.

Yesha plans to attend the University of Maryland this upcoming fall, where she will study political science to pursue the further education of law school. She plans to work for a large law firm and eventually have her own some day.

NHS Valedictorian Address



"Each of our spirits is a flaming torch, illuminating the darkness for all who allow themselves to see." – Annie Winter, NHS Valedictorian.

There's a man. He's facing a certain death at the hands of Mother Nature atop the highest natural peak in the world. His Sherpa guide and he are stranded on the path by the fierce and fiery winds that threaten to take their equipment, their food, and quite possibly their lives. The man has battled pneumonia, frostbite, dehydration, malnutrition, sleep-deprivation, fatigue, and failure. He has fallen through snow and ice, tumbled down cavernous crevasses, and scaled the most extreme heights. This man – his stiff, cold body resolute against the biting frosts – now stands above the world and for a brief moment surveys the land, endless miles in each direction, before beginning his descent.

How then is a man capable of such extraordinary feats? Sir Edmund Hillary said, "It is not the mountain we conquer, it is ourselves. If you can overcome your fear, you are frequently able to extend yourself far beyond what you normally regard as your ability." In the lives that stretch outward before us, we cannot allow ourselves to become incapacitated by trepidation, doubt, or fear of the unknown. We must never assume that because it has not been done, it cannot be done. In actuality, each one of us possesses the strength, courage, and versatility to go bravely where no foot has dared to tread, if only we can find it. And, sometimes, these obstacles are less prominent than that of Mt. Everest: they are hidden, unseen by the naked eye. And it is our duty to find them, to seek them out wherever they might be and combat them and ourselves until we have overcome.

But we do not go into battle unarmed! Each of our spirits is a flaming torch, illuminating the darkness for all who allow themselves to see. We were each blessed with the capacity to shed light on the world around us, to guide our own way while providing radiance and warmth for others along our path. Undoubtedly, each of us will face great sadness and suffering in our lives. However, I strongly urge you not to let your flame die out, or be extinguished by the sometimes-terrific forces that threaten them. The world itself is so vast and so great, but the world that we live in is only as large as we make it.

And when you ask yourself why, why would I want to challenge myself so, let the answer be because the challenge exists and because I can.

NHS Salutatorian Address

"Our future is right around that corner. Good luck to all and choose the road less traveled." – Yesha Patel, NHS Salutatorian.

I want to start off today with a question to all of you – What is the sole purpose of our existence? Each person develops his own purpose for life. The destiny of our lives is within our grasp. All of us are eager to start the next step in our journeys but before we do that, ask the question – Why? We have all passed the four years of high school that have provided hours of homework – whether we completed it or not is a different story – but in reality, what was the purpose of this education? For each of us, the answer is different. Some of us needed it to further the education while others will dive into the workforce. One thing is common for all of us. Although we may not have the same purpose for this given education, we have all made it this far and completed the four years of hard work.

Here we are today as the class of 2004; we have made it this far. Grandparents, parents, relatives, and friends are all here to celebrate an ending and a new beginning to the future that awaits each and every one of us. But why you? You as a grandparent are proud of the achievements that have furthered the legacy of your family. You as a parent are overjoyed knowing that you have raised a respectable child. You as a relative are satisfied with that fact that you have someone in the family that has succeeded. You as a friend have helped one or more of these students, and because of you, his/her life is different. I would like to welcome and thank you all because without you, we would not be here today.

I have saved the best for last, the teachers. There are not enough words in the English dictionary to describe what you have done for us. You inspired us; you guided us. You helped us. Thank you. Class of 2004, congratulations for making it this far. Our future is right around that corner. Good luck to all and choose the road less traveled.

SHS President's Address

"The past is extremely important to remember because if it weren't for the events we've had to endure, then we wouldn't be the people that we are today." – Erin Oxford, SHS Class President.

Welcome family, friends, guests, and Class of 2004. Last year, when it was announced over the PA system that my friends had selected me to lead them through their senior year, I was excited. "Yes!" I thought, "This means that I get to speak at graduation." Although I was thrilled then, today I am not as enthusiastic. I wanted to tell you all famous quotes that I think will steer you in the right direction, but I don't know people like Aristotle or Benjamin Franklin and neither do you, so how do they know about our lives or fate? Instead of a speech filled with long, boring poems and stories I had found in books, I've decided to share memories of mine.

My grandfather, Doug Oxford Sr., is the best grandfather a girl could ever ask for. He is caring and loving, and he has a great sense of spirituality. My grandpa is always at family gatherings, and every time my birthday rolls around, it is he who says while passing me my card, "Erin, how does it feel to be 18? You know, it was only yesterday that I went to your pre-k graduation." Every year I know he is going to tell me this, and every year it doesn't affect me until this one.

Yes Grandpa, it was just yesterday that we, the students in Mrs. B and Mrs. Meyer's class at the Loch Lynn Pre-School, were graduating. I remember that a few of my classmates, Grant McDonald, Kim Durben, Nicole Reeves, Samantha Cavalier, Eileen Mouyard, Ashlee Friend, and I sang "The Baby Bumble Bee Song" and "I'm Proud to be an American" with all our hearts after days of practice. We also were told to wear paper-made caps, and I was upset because I didn't want to mess up my hair that my mommy had gotten up early to style. At that graduation, we knew nothing about the future and destiny of our classmates.

Today's commencement is different in so many ways that only a few can be pointed out. First of all, "The Baby Bumble Bee Song" is being replaced with the alma mater, and even though we will not be singing "I'm Proud to be an American" today, we all know the meaning behind the song. Our caps made of paper and yarn are replaced with those our parents bought through Jostens, and there are more of us graduating.

Back then, we didn't know that our lives would change when three of our classmates wouldn't be receiving a diploma due to mishaps in cars. In first grade, my good friend and a friend to others at Dennett Road Elementary School, Melanie Lowdermilk, died in a car accident one icy morning on her way to school. The summer between 8th and 9th grade, Brandy Talbot, a friend to many of you, died one evening in a vehicle. Last year, we lost one, not from the world but from the Class of 2004, when he was involved in an accident that leaves him still hurt today. In honor of Brian Howell, who we know is a friend to many of us, we have left his place between Karl Hillen and Dewaine Jones open. There on his chair lies one yellow rose for friendship.

On graduation day in pre-school, I didn't know that my classmates would later be the people they've become. I didn't know that Grant would make all of us proud and choose to fight for our country. I didn't know that Kim would turn out to be a talented artist. I didn't know that shy Ashlee Friend would be voted Class Clown in the senior edition of The Acorn, and I didn't know that Sam Cavalier would turn out to be one of the smartest and successful people I know today.

What is the point of me telling you all this? The past is extremely important to remember because if it weren't for the events we've had to endure, then we wouldn't be the people that we are today. So when you're off being successful individuals, remember Southern Garrett High School. Remember the fine educators we've known such as Mr. Mayfield, Ms. Spiker, Mr. Oxford, Mrs. Sweitzer, Mr. Leitzel, Mrs. Lambert, and all the others. Remember Mr. Woods, who is the most genuinely caring principal we could have, and remember the good times when we were hanging out with friends and doing senior activities. I ask you to remember all of these things Class of 2004, so you don't forget where you've come from. I asking you to be proud to say, "I am an alumnus of the finest high school in the world; I am a Southern Garrett High School graduate!"

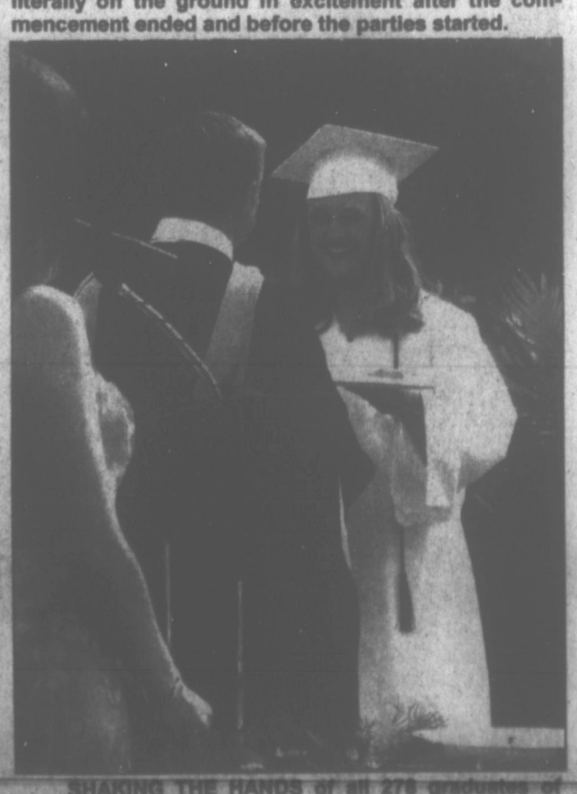
THE SKIES BRIGHTENED A BIT as the ceremony began at Northern High School this past weekend. But semi-dark clouds could not dampen the spirits of the 116 graduates as they completed a major phase of their lives. Vocalist Holly Hare and pianist Michelle Harman performed the musical elements for the day's festivities. Merit Scholastic Awards were presented in addition to the honorary diplomas. Three foreign exchange students received certificates of attendance. The stands and platform were filled with proud family members, friends, school personnel, and county officials.

CONGRATULATORY HUGS were in abundance immediately following Sunday's commencement at Southern High School, as the members of the Class of 2004 were all together for the final time. The Southern athletic field home bleachers were completely full of friends and relatives of the grads, as were most of the extra chairs set up for the ceremony.

OBVIOUSLY DELIGHTED at successfully concluding her years of public education was Southern High graduating senior Christen Coddington, pictured above as she receives her Maryland high school diploma from Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of Garrett County schools.

THE OLD SWITCHAROO was once again done at Northern High School as Kayla Kamp, masquerading as her twin sister Karie, accepted her – actually her sister's – diploma. "They always pull the switch on me," said Gary Reichenbecher, principal. The sisters switched diplomas after returning to their seats.

ONE MORE FOR THE ROAD – Thousands of pictures were snapped by proud family and friends at Sunday's commencement exercises at Northern High School. The graduates will cherish these moments and photos for years to come and remember the good times they had during their education in the Garrett County school system.



AN UPLIFTING EXPERIENCE was had by all who attended Sunday's graduation exercises at both high schools. Terah Sines, a Northern High graduate, was literally off the ground in excitement after the commencement ended and before the parties started.

SHAKING THE HANDS of all 278 graduates of Southern and Northern High Schools and handing each a diploma was Garrett County School Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets. Graciously accepting hers in the above photo is Southern grad Colleen Watson.

Southern, Northern Students Negotiate In FSU Model UN

This year's Frostburg State University Model United Nations Security Council, held this spring, involved students representing 15 different countries in three separate council models. The teenagers caucused, debated, and tried to work through resolutions that would bring stability and a peaceful transition of Iraq into the family of nations. Among the participants were 37 of Garrett County's highest achieving students from Southern and Northern high schools.

Five different high schools sent students to FSU to participate in the model, which was administered by FSU political science students. The participants were divided into teams of two delegates. These teams were then assigned nations to represent in the council session.

In order to develop an in-depth understanding to represent their nations accurately, the groups each researched their nation's geopolitical, social, historical, economic, and physical characteristics. They then attempted to pass resolutions aimed at resolving the issue of the status and future rebuilding of Iraq, as well as stability in the entire Middle East.

The Model Security Council promoted the efforts of the United Nations to resolve the disagreements over post-war Iraq, the war on terrorism, and international peace and security. Once the negotiations began, students experienced first-hand the intricacies and frailties of international coalitions, and the international cooperation required in attempting such an endeavor, a spokesperson reported.

The Southern High School delegations were sponsored by Dave Bender and the Northern High delegations were sponsored by Brian Price and Tom Ables.

LOCAL STUDENTS TAKE PART IN MODEL UN – Students from both Southern and Northern high schools took part in the recent Model United Nations Security Council, sponsored by Frostburg State University. The local students joined with their peers from five high schools and represented 15 different countries in three separate council models. They worked together to reach resolutions involving Iraq and the Middle East. In the photo below, Southern High School seniors Michael Nelson and Sabrina Scheffel make a point of inquiry during the proceedings. See story. Those participating from Garrett County are pictured above. (Northern High students are denoted with an N). In the first row, left to right, are Margaret Mastaj (N), Ashley Rounds (N), Amanda Sisler, Angela Scheffield, Ann Johnson, Nora Nichols, Erin Oxford, and Jackie Brenneman (N). Second row, same order: Lacie Bittinger (N), Jessica Harvey (N), Tara Devine (N), Terah Sines (N), Caitlin Carr (N), James Naylor, Andrew Goad, Vanessa Logan, Angela Nunez (N), Arden Paugh, Emily Sisler (N), Alasha Rush, Shar Hollingsworth, Courtney DiSimone, Fallon Farley, Sabrina Scheffel, Blakely Glotfelty (N), Yesha Patel (N), Erica Maust (N), and Kristen Meyr (N). Third row: Darryl Glotfelty (N), Shaina Custer (N), Siobhan Howe (N), Tammy Hall, Sarah Anderson, Corey Lewis, Ivan Stutzman, Jadyn Swerbinsky, Meagan Swartzentruber, Kenzie Craig, Michael Nelson, Jordan Smith (N), and Elliot Glotfelty (N).

Graduates Summa Cum Laude From Frostburg State U.

Megan Brooke Mahaffey received a bachelor of science degree in elementary education, with a concentration in early childhood education, at the spring 2004 commencement ceremonies at Frostburg State University. She graduated summa cum laude with a 3.97 grade point average, and was on the dean's list each semester while studying at Frostburg.

Mahaffey served as secretary of the Maryland Education Association, and was a member of the National Education Association and the Maryland State Teachers Association (MSEA). She attended statewide conferences in Ocean City and Baltimore, where she took part in workshops dealing with diversity and cognitive coaching techniques. Locally, her activities with MSEA included volunteer service with Big Brothers Big Sisters, and she also participated in Dr. Seuss's Read Across America program and hosted a Scholastic Book Fair for students and the community.

During her last semester at Frostburg, Mahaffey student taught at Cash Valley and Northeast Elementary schools, where she completed her internship in kindergarten and second grade. She was also inducted into Phi Delta Kappa, a national education fraternity.

Mahaffey plans to pursue her master's degree in education, with a concentration in reading, at FSU and work as a graduate assistant in the university's Children's' Literature Centre.

The 2000 Southern High School graduate and is the daughter of Scott and Shelia Mahaffey.

GVFD Ladies Auxiliary Marks 50th Anniversary

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department recently celebrated its 50th anniversary at the Lone Star Restaurant in Markleysburg, Pa.

In attendance were three charter members, three honorary members and eight present members.

Charter members Ruth Newman, Hazel Klotz and Martha Sebold were each presented with a clock commemorating 50 years of service. Charter members unable to attend included Esther Durst, Mildred Loechel and Leota Murray. Other members received marble paperweights.

President Jenny Swauger presented Martha Sebold with a special clock recognizing 50 years of continuous service to the auxiliary. She presently serves as treasurer for the organization.

The auxiliary was organized in March 1954. Initially, the organization began with 28 charter members, and in eight months had grown to 45 members. Within six months, they had purchased 6 dozen chairs and trays to begin serving lunches to the shirt factory workers. In the second year, they purchased dishes, a stove and a refrigerator.

Member Carol Tice said, "The charter members shared memories of the early years. They remembered being young mothers, bringing their young children in tow as they worked together to prepare soup and sandwiches for the factory workers. Many of their husbands, who were firemen, were also active in the fundraising."

Before the fire hall was built, dinners were served from area churches. "A lot of the food was donated and prepared in their homes and brought in wherever they met," Tice explained. "Early fundraisers included making hardtack candy, compiling a cookbook, bingo parties, and participating in the fireman's street carnival."

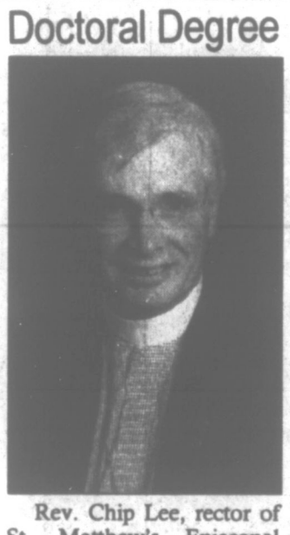
One of the largest banquets the auxiliary served was for the Farm Bureau, which involved approximately 400 people.

According to Cleda Baker, one of the worst dinners was when they had many more people show up than they had reservations for. Members also remember serving a banquet when a tornado came through, and the winter snow storm of 1974 when 500 people were stranded at the fire hall. Members took turns going to the fire hall and preparing food for the travelers, and Baker remembers being at the fire hall for three or four days without going home.

The auxiliary also assisted when the B52 bomber crashed near Grantsville. They provided meals for the rescue workers and families of the men aboard who anxiously waited for news. Member Hazel Klotz noted that they still have contact with one of the families they befriended.

All funds raised by the auxiliary are used to purchase and maintain its kitchen and purchase supplies. The auxiliary also supports the local firemen with an annual monetary gift for the purchase of fire equipment.

Rev. Lee Earns Doctoral Degree



Rev. Chip Lee, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, and vicar of St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, has earned a doctor of ministry degree in congregational development. Lee was awarded the degree at the recent commencement of the Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill., which is one of 10 Episcopal seminaries in the United States.

Lee's thesis was titled "Changing Times — Timing Change; The Rural and Small Town Church — Family Chaplaincy or Missional Community? Developing a Missional Church Ethos in the Family Church Context — A Case for Long-Term Pastorates." The thesis holds that small churches are unique and cannot be compared to large churches when considering popular growth strategies. He wrote and successfully defended his thesis following a four-year course of study in congregational development through Seabury-Western and the Episcopal Diocese of Maryland. In addition to monthly class work at the diocesan conference center in Buckeystown, the program included a summer residency last year at the Evanston seminary.

Lee was awarded a bachelor's degree in communications from Ithaca College, N.Y., in 1971. He received a master of divinity degree in 1989 from the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, the Episcopal seminary located in Berkeley, Calif. Over the next three years he served two small churches in southwestern Wyoming before coming to Garrett County in 1992.

Mtn. Top Truck Driving Institute Slates Session

The second class of the Mountain Top Truck Driving Institute at Garrett College will begin Monday, June 28, according to a college spokesperson. The course will continue for 10 weeks, with classes meeting Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for a total of 320 hours of instruction.

Designed to prepare students for entry level positions in over-the-road or local driving vehicles, the training will focus on basic information about trucks, truck driving, and the trucking industry, as well as the fundamentals of operating trucks and tractor trailers.

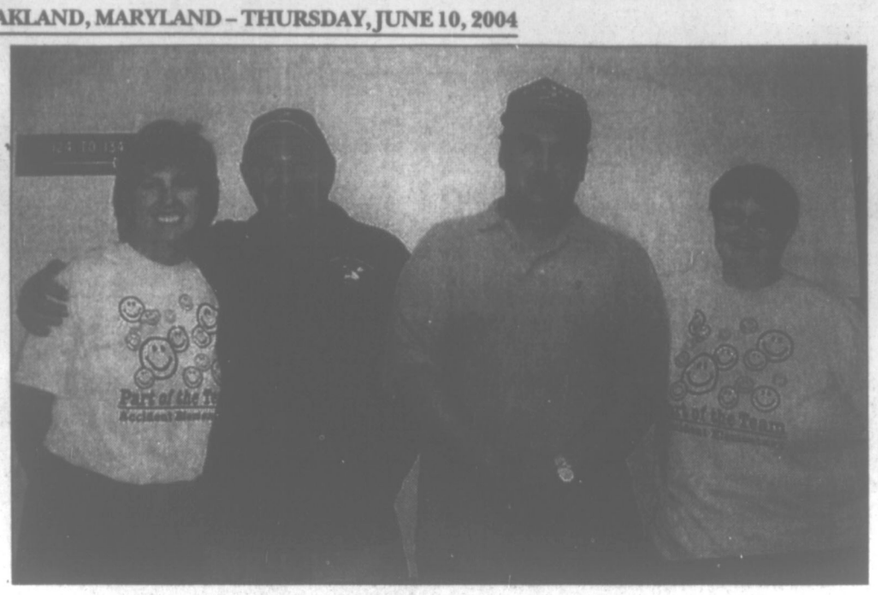
Students seeking to enroll should have already earned a high school diploma or GED; however, persons who are not high school graduates or who are from a foreign country may be accepted if they pass a nationally recognized "ability to benefit" test. All students must hold a current driver's license and a commercial driving license learner's permit, possess an acceptable driving record from the Motor Vehicle Administration, or be at least 21 years of age.

Students are required to attend at least 80 percent of the hours offered in each course, except driving hours, where 90 percent is required. At the end of each course the students' grade point average is calculated, and students are required to achieve at least 70 percent overall grade point average for graduation.

The director of the Mt. Top Truck Driving Institute is Bud Poland, who held the some position with the former Diesel Institute in Grantsville for 20 years. The instructors will also be former faculty members of the Diesel Institute.

Financial aid services and placement services of the college will be available to students enrolled in the institute. Students may register for either the credit option or the non-credit option. Those who register for credit may be eligible to receive Title IV Pell assistance or student loans.

The Mountain Top Truck Driving Institute is located three miles east of Grantsville along Route 40. For further information about tuition and fees, persons may call Poland at 301-387-3088.



CHARACTER EDUCATION CULMINATES AT ACCIDENT – Accident Elementary School's Character Education Team has had a busy year working to create a positive atmosphere at the school for students, staff, and parents, according to a school spokesperson. The school has had several guest speakers who have provided character messages to staff and students. Staff members were provided with motivational supplies to help teach the character traits. The culminating activity provided by the team was a visit by John Unger, Hollsopple, Pa., and Randy Fogle, Garrett, Pa. These are two of the three miners who have returned to the mine to work after being trapped by water for several days in the Que Creek Mine. Unger and Fogle explained how important cooperation and teamwork were for the survival of the whole team. They discussed the importance of self-control and discipline to people in all situations. Responsibility, courage, facing challenges, dependability, fairness, and caring and giving were discussed by the miners who told staff and students to appreciate and be thankful for each and every day. Amy Yoder-Yutzy was instrumental in having the miners come to Accident School. She also provided a basket of "goodies" for each miner. Will O' the Wisp, Uno's and Garrett Eight Cinemas provided gifts for the miners as well. The entire school was also provided with "team" shirts which were bought with money made from a beef raffle. The beef was donated to the Character Team by Elmer Selby, Lakeside Docks. Supplies were also purchased for the School Safety Team, and prizes for good behavior were given to students because of Selby's kind support to the school. Pictured above, from left to right, are Principal Sheila Miller, Fogle, Unger, and Doris Cooper, third grade teacher.

Mt. Zion Slates Strawberry Fest

The annual Strawberry Festival will be held at Mt. Zion Methodist Church, Route 40, on June 19 from 3 to 7 p.m.

USAA Honors Local Student

The United States Achievement Academy (USAA) has announced that Andrew Umbel, Friendsville, has been recognized for academic achievement as a United States National Honor Roll Award winner.

Andrew is a student at Northern Middle School. His name will be published in the USAA Official Yearbook, which is produced nationally.

The student is the son of Roy and Sonya Umbel. His grandparents are Wayne and Genevieve Frazee, Friendsville.

4-H Club News

NORTH STAR
by Kevin Haenftling

The North Star 4-H Club met on May 11 at the Accident fire hall. The roll call question was "Favorite Holiday." Kevin Haenftling and Rachel Schmidt led the pledges.

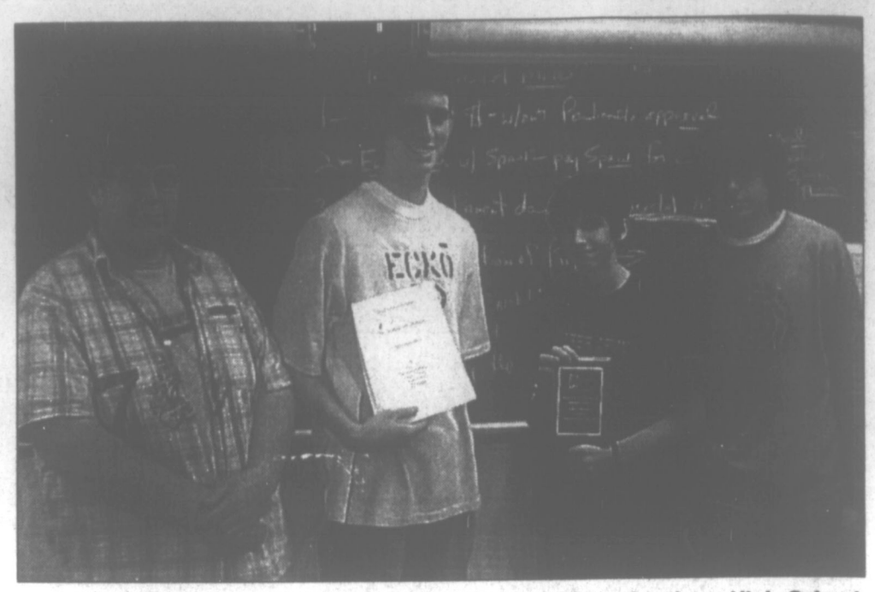
Kara Savage gave a demonstration on her craft project by demonstrating how to latch hook, Kevin gave a demonstration on his scrapbooking project, and Brett Stanton gave a demonstration on his learn-and-earn-for-fun-and-profit project by demonstrating how to make potholders. The group then participated in the scrapbooking class led by Dawn Diven.

After the scrap-booking class, the meeting continued with the members deciding to sell Krispy Kreme donuts and Coca-Cola products to earn money for a trip to the soup kitchen and Carnegie Science Center. They also voted to join the Crop Club for scrap-booking. They will be doing a quarterly event and will get to keep a percentage of the money. The first workshop will be held at the Sept. 14 meeting.

Kevin gave a report on Bowl for Kids' Sake and the benefit auction; Rachel on the sheep shearing workshop; Kara on Join Hands Day and the scrap-booking workshop; and Brett on the trip to Funland.

Everyone received a new 4-H T-shirt. Members were reminded that on May 18 the 4th of July committee would meet at the Accident fire hall. There was to be another Join Hands Event on May 22 at the Accident Town Park East. May 22 was national scrap-booking day at the 4-H Camp. County Council was to meet at the Extension Office on May 26. Dairy leases were due June 1. The Accident town-wide yard sale will be held July 17. The North Start 4-H group will set up a food booth and yard sale items in front of the Accident fire hall.

The next meeting will be a camping trip this Friday, June 11, at Gerald Harman hill off Cove Road beginning at 6:30 p.m.



SHS STUDENTS WIN AT HISTORY DAY CONTEST – Southern High School students Evan Lantz, Drew Betz, Brendan Stephens, and Sam Lauver won the Award for Excellence in Military History in the Senior Division of the Maryland History Day competition recently. The group produced a historical documentary investigating the conduct of the Scottish Revolution. The students were originally inspired to study the topic by the movie Braveheart starring Mel Gibson. Their research helped them to learn a much deeper understanding of the factors that led to the cultural conflict between the Scots and the English and the legacy of that conflict. It also gave them an appreciation for how Hollywood depicts historical events in accurate and sometimes not so accurate renditions. The students also developed the skills of analyzing the value and reliability of primary and secondary sources. Their product won this special prize in competition against 55 other senior division (high school) projects from all over the state of Maryland. Evan, Drew, and Sam were sponsored by their world history teacher at Southern High School, Dave Bender. High school and middle school students from every county in Maryland were eligible to compete. This year's theme was "Exploration, Encounter, and Exchange in History." Pictured above, from the left, are Lauver, Lantz, Stephens, and Betz.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Low Cost Loans Are Available For Grain Producers

Grain producers might do well to look into the availability of special low cost government loans and give some thought to building their own on-farm storage facilities, according to Preston County Farm Service Agency executive director Eric M. McCartney. "Funds are currently available for producers to build or remodel farm storage facilities for a variety of commodities, including wheat, oats, barley, and corn," McCartney said, noting that the June interest rate stands at 4.25 percent.

The seven-year farm storage facility loans are available for the purchase and installation of eligible storage facilities, permanently affixed drying or handling equipment, or remodeling existing facilities. Eligible facilities include new conventional-type cribs or bins, and new and remanufactured oxygen-limiting and other upright silo-type structures.

Landowners, operators, tenants, and sharecroppers are eligible for the loan program as long as they meet program guidelines, according to McCartney. "Chief among the criteria are a satisfactory credit history and the ability to repay the loan. The borrower also has to produce the commodity to be stored and show a need for increased storage capacity," he explained.

All farm storage facility loans are secured by a promissory note and security agreement. For loans exceeding $50,000, or where a borrower's aggregate outstanding loan balance exceeds $50,000, a lien on real estate will be required. The maximum amount that may be borrowed is 85 percent of the net cost of the storage or handling equipment, up to $100,000 for each borrower. A minimum down payment is also required.

Interested grain producers may contact McCartney for more information at the Preston County FSA office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or by calling 304-329-1923.

Small Grains In Good Condition

Air temperatures were in the high 70s or low 80s for most of the week, and many Maryland farmers received between an inch to two inches of precipitation. There were 4.9 days suitable for field work for the week ending June 6.

Planting of soybeans was 64 percent, well ahead of last year and the five-year average. Farmers are almost through with their first cutting of alfalfa and other hay, with 87 percent and 71 percent, respectively.

Barley was in good condition, with 36 percent rated excellent, 41 percent good, 16 percent fair, and 7 percent poor. Nearly all barley fields have turned color, and a few fields are being harvested.

Winter wheat was in good condition, with 22 percent rated excellent, 51 percent good, 20 percent fair, 5 percent poor, and 2 percent very poor. Wheat was 40 percent turned, and harvest should begin in the next two to three weeks.

SIGNUP UNDER WAY FOR GRASSLAND RESERVE PROGRAM

The Kingwood USDA Service Center is now accepting applications for the 2004 Grassland Reserve Program (GRP). GRP is a voluntary program designed to help protect valuable grasslands from conversion to other uses.

GRP offers producers several options for enrollment: permanent easements; 30-year easements; and rental agreements for 10-, 15-, 20-, or 30-year durations.

Restoration agreements are also available. For permanent easements, USDA makes a payment to the producer based on the fair market value of the property, less the grazing value. For rental agreements, USDA pays 75 percent of the grazing value in rental payments for the length of the agreement.

For restoration agreements, USDA pays up to 90 percent of the restoration costs on grasslands and shrublands that have never been cultivated and not more than 75 percent on those lands that have been cultivated.

Applications will be accepted for areas of 20 acres or more of contiguous grassland. For applications for less than 40 acres of contiguous grassland, the State Conservationist of the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) must issue a waiver.

Signup for GRP is on a continuous basis; however, producers wishing to have their applications considered for the 2004 Program Year must file applications with the Kingwood USDA Service Center no later than close of business, Tuesday, June 15.

Additional information on the Grassland Reserve Program is available at http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/grp/index.html. Information may also be obtained from the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) or Preston County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Offices in USDA Service Center located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza or telephone 304-329-1923.

CONSERVATION RESERVE ENHANCEMENT PROGRAM SIGNUP CONTINUES

Eric McCartney, executive director of the Preston County Farm Service Agency, reminds farmers that signup in the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) to protect water quality and wildlife habitat continues.

This is an enhancement of Farm Service Agency's Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) that uses federal and state resources to safeguard environmentally sensitive land through special CRP enrollments.

The West Virginia CREP offers rental payments to farmers who voluntarily convert highly erodible cropland and other environmentally sensitive acreage to vegetative cover, such as riparian buffers, filter strips, and/or wetlands. Additionally, CREP helps reduce runoff from entering the Cheat River.

The goals of the West Virginia CREP are to: enroll up to 9,160 acres of eligible cropland and/or marginal pastureland located within the project area; reduce agricultural runoff, sediment, and nutrients from entering designated watersheds; promote improved water quality and enhance wildlife habitat in recognized drainage areas; and protect soil, water, and wildlife habitat in the project area.

The following conservation practices may be eligible for land enrolled in a West Virginia CREP contract: establishment of permanent introduced grasses and legumes, establishment of permanent native grasses, hardwood tree planting, filter strips, riparian buffers, and wetland restoration.

Eligible producers will be able to enroll in 10- to 15-year contracts. Cropland must have been cropped two out of the past five years and be physically and legally capable of being cropped in a normal manner. Marginal pastureland is also eligible for enrollment provided it is suitable for use as a riparian buffer planted to trees. In addition, producers must generally have owned or operated the land for at least the last 12 months prior to enrollment. Persons who have an existing CRP contract or an approved offer with a contract pending are not eligible for CREP until that contract expires.

West Virginia CREP participants are eligible for five types of payments: signing incentive, practice incentive payment, annual rental payment for the life of the contract, up to 50 percent cost-share assistance for the installation of eligible conservation practices, and one-time state of West Virginia lump-sum incentive payment.

Haying and grazing are not allowed during the contract period unless USDA permits it for emergency purposes under normal CRP rules.

For further information on the West Virginia Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program, persons may contact the Preston County Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923.

4-H Club News

UDDER CLUB

The Udder Club has started meeting again, on the first Tuesday of each month from April to November at the Garrett County Fairgrounds. The Udder Club is a specialty club for 4-H members who carry the dairy project.

The club met Tuesday, June 1, at the Lions Pavilion at the fairgrounds. The group went over the bylaws and elected new officers. They are: Andrea Steyer, president; Kara Savage, vice president; Brett Stanton, secretary; Jessica Steyer, treasurer; Rachel Schmidt, reporter; and Rhonda Kinsinger, photographer. The next meeting will be at the Black and White Show on Tuesday, July 6, at the fairgrounds.

Anyone interested in the dairy project is welcome to join the Udder Club. Club leader is Deane Savage.

Garden Club Sets June Luncheon

Design professional and flower expert Mary Ellen Bay will be the featured guest speaker at the upcoming luncheon meeting of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, set for 10:30 a.m., Tuesday, June 15, at the Will O' the Wisp. Following a short business meeting, Bay will present a program titled "Arrangements from Your Garden."

A Westminster area resident with a bachelor of fine arts degree in design, Bay is a member of the Carroll Garden Club. She is a life judge for flower shows, and has been accredited for over 30 years.

For the past 38 years Bay has operated Summerhouse, her own one-woman design firm. She designs additions to houses and gardens, and, working with a partner, creates flower arrangements for special occasions, especially weddings.

Bay served as director of District V of the Federated Gardens Clubs of Maryland from 2001 to 2003. She has been presenting flower design programs to each of the 24 clubs in the district, with the Mountain Laurel Garden Club presentation completing that list.

To make luncheon reservations, persons may call Karen Ewing at 301-387-6180 or Norma Hesen at 301-387-4384.

Membership in the Mountain Laurel Garden Club is open to all persons interested in horticulture, the environment, and related topics. The club is a member of the National Garden Clubs Inc. and the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland.

Certain Drugs May Trigger an Asthma Attack

Asthma is a respiratory condition where a trigger causes the airways leading to the lungs to become narrower and inflamed. Asthma affects almost 20 million people in the United States but, it is rapidly becoming more common, especially in urban environments. Asthma attacks can vary in frequency and severity, but the incidence of fatal asthma attacks is rising dramatically. Most asthma attacks begin with sudden coughing, wheezing, or tightness in the chest. Anxiety, sweating, and a pounding heart may occur.

Things that trigger an asthma attack often include house dust mites, animal feathers and dander, exercise, certain foods, or exposure to smoke. However, the medical literature is beginning to report that common over-the-counter drugs can cause flare-ups. One study recently published concluded that almost 21% of adult asthmatics had an attack triggered by the use of aspirin. Aspirin sensitivity can be carried over to other commonly used over-the-counter pain relievers including ibuprofen and naproxen. Reactions to acetaminophen were found to be less severe and affected only 7% of the asthmatic population on average. Only 2% of those tested were sensitive to both aspirin and acetaminophen.

Environmental Challenge Fund Grant Awarded To Crellin School

Columbia Gas of Maryland and its parent company, NiSource Inc., recently awarded two Environmental Challenge Fund grants to organizations in western Maryland: Crellin Elementary School and the George's Creek Watershed Association. The checks were presented to the organizations last week at a meeting in Grantsville.

The NiSource Environmental Challenge Fund, a not-for-profit corporation, offers an annual grant competition that supports local natural resource and wildlife enhancement projects and related educational and recreational efforts in communities across NiSource's market area. This geographic area includes 19 states stretching from the Gulf Coast through the Midwest to New England.

At Crellin Elementary School, the grant will be used to reclaim an abandoned coal-mining site with warm season grass wildlife habitat plantings and a wetland improvement project, both of which will be utilized as an outdoor classroom by the school district.

The George's Creek Watershed Association will use its grant to reclaim a former industrial area and turn it into a small community park including wildlife habitat plantings (native plant species for butterfly and hummingbird garden).

In total, all NiSource operating companies are awarding nearly $172,000 of grants to not-for-profit organizations in conjunction with Earth Day 2004, observed in April.

Bertsch Bluets Garden On '04 Tour

The 2004 Secret Country Gardens tour, slated for Saturday, June 26, will include the Bluets Meadow Garden of Judy and David Bertsch. The annual tour is sponsored by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, and is slated this year for Saturday, June 26, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Bertsch property is one of four tour sites.

Overlooking Deep Creek Lake, the Bertsches' garden surrounds their retirement spot, which visitors will see at first sight to be covered in bluets, tiny blue flowers that thrive in Garrett County. For the past five years, the couple have invested much time in planting their garden, with Judy making plant selections and David tilling the ground and removing rocks. Formerly part of a farm, the property is located on a meadow rise with high winds and minimal shade. Enriching the hard-packed clay soil has been a continuous challenge in their gardening efforts, they noted.

Visitors will find a newly planted orchard, sun-loving perennials, and over 60 deciduous and evergreen trees, which have been planted to provide a windbreak.

An abundance of wildlife is entertained by the Bertsches, who said they endeavor to live in harmony with their surrounding landscape. Birdbaths, feeding stations, and nesting boxes are plentiful.

"Everywhere is a favorite spot in the garden," said Judy.

With a privacy fence for climbing roses and clematis, and a variety of vibrant colors and fragrant scents, birds and butterflies visit frequently. The Bertsches find gardening to be both physically and emotionally therapeutic.

Tickets, which will include coupons, maps, and written directions, are $7 and may be purchased in advance at Gregg's Pharmacy or Green Acres Garden Center, both in Oakland; or Nature's Own, Sang Run Road, McHenry. On the day of the event, tickets may be purchased at the Gazebo in Oakland. The tour will be conducted from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Proceeds from this event will be used by the Mountain Laurel Garden Club for the continued beautification of local communities, as well as the encouragement of gardening and conservation through club activities and programs. A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Garrett County Historical Society.

For more information, persons may contact Barbara Chesley at 301-334-4519 or Kathie Smith at 301-334-3249.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Don't forget the Bittinger Fire Department chicken barbecue this Saturday, beginning at 3 p.m. It will be held at the fire hall and everyone is welcome to come and enjoy.

No one ever warned me what a painful thing motherhood can be. I had a clue that childbirth was supposed to pretty painful and it did live up to its reputation, mostly because I couldn't relax and just let the baby come. Even though I was eager to see her and hold her I was in some way even closer to her when I could still experience her with all my senses, not just by feeling her kicking and stretching inside. Yes, she was even more beautiful than I could dream, especially in the first five seconds after birth. She lifted her head and looked straight into my eyes, and it was worth every bit of pain. I am not alone experiencing another-birthday pangs. I guess all the other mothers with children graduating from high school this year are feeling the same as I am.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church in Bittinger has eight graduates this year: Derek Buckel, Andrew Hady, Brent Housley, Torrey Poholsky, Robbie Glotfelty, Eric Garlitz, and the only girl who is my girl, Claire Sussman. These seven graduated from Northern High School on Sunday afternoon, plus David Taylor who graduated from Southern High School. We can be equally proud of Torrey and Robbie, who were recognized in the top five percent of their class. Those members of the Honor Society graduating were Derek Buckel, Robbie Glotfelty, and Torrey Poholsky. As they go on to their college careers it will be hard to face the fact that most of them are going away. I remember when these kids were in Sunday School and Catechism that Claire was the only girl among all these boys.

The day after graduation, Claire and her best friend Angie Kamp headed for Ocean City. Just thinking about the drive down there is scary enough, but the traffic in Ocean City is even worse. I was always more of a land person than a water person, and the ocean scares me. Yes, Claire is a good swimmer; and much better than I ever was. I was terrified when she was only 12 years old because of the reaction of a group of beach boys at the sight of her, and she has come a long way since then. But she still is a sweet, innocent country girl.

Everyone believes Bittinger is a close-knit community, yet we had three graduation parties within three miles. Claire and Robbie Glotfelty, Torrey Poholsky and Brent Housley were all honorees at their parties. It was good to see Margaret Hershberger Wagner attend the graduating ceremony even when she is not yet finished with her treatments at Morgantown. Also Lillian Reckner, grandmother of Michaele Puliti, attended in her wheelchair after recent knee surgery.

I heard that my niece, Blakely Glotfelty, is ready to take on an important position as the new drum major for Northern High School Marching Band. I know Blakely will be up to the challenge, but it will leave a big hole in the trumpet section of the band.

I heard from my friend in Virginia that we are very lucky that we don't have a hoard of cicadas because according to her, they are truly a nightmare. However, we do have a bumper crop of other smaller bugs. I guess it was a mosquito that bit the corner of my eye during the delicious picnic at Rodney and Marci's home on Sunday. George Farmer and wife Chris and Marci's sister Lynn and husband Michael were up to see Robbie graduate. Many others stopped by to help the graduates celebrate. I can't name them all. I don't remember any party to celebrate with my classmates of the class of 1971. Parenthood was more low-key back then.

Really the only graduation I cared about was my final one when I got my master's degree at Frostburg State in 1990. But as far as Northern High School, I was only relieved to escape the disapproval of some teachers and administrators because my four friends and I marched to a different drummer, in spite of the fact that we were honor students and student leaders. There were only a handful of teachers who had my respect and affection. I learned very much from William Carlson, Luther Parrack, and Joanna Miller. I think we all were grounded with plenty of family values, but as my family knows only too well, accidents can happen to even the finest young person.

I didn't feel too much regret in going away from my friends because it was very clear that I would always be close and we would see each other often. It is true that Linda Bowman, Marla Frickey, Penny Friend, and Steve Schlosnagle have stayed close. A few others have occasionally appeared, and it is always nice seeing them. If someone offered me a million dollars if I could produce my high school diploma, I would have to forget about being a millionaire.

There are so many flashes of yellow outside my windows. Joining the flock of goldfinches are now the beautiful yellow butterflies. Now there are golden swallowtails out there in large numbers. They seem to enjoy stealing meals from the hummingbird feeders.

The hay fields around here are full to the bursting point with thick green grass and begging to get cut. A few fields already got that wish, but the hay got wet and more or less is ruined. Sometimes the early bird does not catch the worm. They say we are in for a dry summer, but it has not shown any signs as yet. It seems the last three weeks or so we had a couple of very wet days. In fact, we probably dodged a bullet yesterday as the big Sunday for the class of 2004 was dry enough so they could use the football stadium and allow the celebration picnics to go ahead.

Our machine foreman on the farm, Kevin Bass, has been very busy lately with last-minute, urgent repairs on our aged fleet of hay machines. So now we just have to wait for a decent long-range forecast of good weather.

We will have a chance to celebrate with all our graduates Sunday morning following church service at Emmanuel. What an accomplished, good-looking, hice group of kids we have, and all members in good standing.

Speaking of that kind of good young people, I received a surprise visit from another one who has already flown from the nest for some years, Lea Stanton Pochet, now of California, who made a quick action-packed visit to Bittinger for a party/shower to celebrate the upcoming new baby of Aaron and Patty Stanton. I bet that little Alayna can hardly wait for the new arrival this fall. All the local Beachy clan were there, and also at Torrey's party on Sunday afternoon. Lea also visited with Sam's mother, Lucretia Stanton, after her hospital stay. Lea and Michael then rushed to Pennsylvania to visit his family. They will move back to Canton, Ohio, in August, which is a happy prospect for her mother,' Cindy Stanton. My dearest hope is that Claire and I will be as close as are Ellen Housley and daughter Michelle, Cindy and Lea, and Sharon Buckel and Leslie. Even after flying out of the nest, they return often.

I already know that Rt. 219 in McHenry is out of limits for me during the weekend. Not even the new stop light gives me much confidence because I never fully trust other drivers to really stop at the red light, or if I can count on them really turning when their turn signals are on to indicate that. I always hesitate and annoy the cars behind me, so they blow their horns, which only makes me even more nervous.

It took a few lucky farmers to begin the first crop of hay successfully. Joey Stanton got a good start as well as those in the big field across the road from the late Russell Brenneman farm. Of course, maybe that hay was cut and put in the silo, which doesn't take that much drying.

Today's sudden start of real summer weather stunned me. Eighty-range degrees is not unheard of around Bittinger, but it is somewhat unusual. Most of the time it is followed by a round of serious thunderstorms.

The other day I encountered quite a scene at Buckel's Store, with a smashed car and a state trooper. This is a good time to remind everyone that you have to slow down in downtown Bittinger because the intersection of Legeer Road, Brenneman Road, and Route 495 is a hazard. In fact, as Lloyd and I left our wedding we almost got broadsided. That is one ea way to live up to the sayin "Till death do us part."

QUILT RAFFLE — Tickets are currently being sold for this queen-size quilt, featuring a "Dresden Plate" pattern, by the local chapter of the National Alliance of the Mentally Ill (NAMI). The drawing will be held at the Garrett County Fair on August 14 at 9 p.m. Tickets can be purchased for $1 at the Grantsville office of The Republican, or persons may call Mary Ann Brenneman at 301-895-5366 or Shirley Bender at 301-895-5680. Brenneman is pictured above with the quilt. Photo by Lisa Broadwater.
